FOUGHT FOR LIBERTY

DARING ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP BRITISH STAFF OFFICER.

Colonel Elliot Makes Plucky Stand Against Fifty Bulgarians—Shoots Five of His Captors With Pistol Although Bound—Has Thrilling Escape—Gendarmes Come to His Assistance.

Telegrams received recently from Salonika give a sensational account of an attempt made by brigands to capture a British staff officer while on special duty in Turkey, in Europe, and of the remarkable fight that saved him.

Colonel Elliot was the British staff officer in charge of the work of gendarmerie reorganization in the Drama district of Macedonia.

In the course of a tour in his district Colonel Elliot arrived on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 30, at the Bulgarian village of Gyuredjik, situated about seven hours from Drama, on the road to Nevrokop. It seems clear that a Bulgarian band had planned to carry him off from the house in which he passed the night, and that this project was frustrated only by the vigilance of his escort in guarding the place.

About seven o'clock the following morning Colonel Elliot strolled round the village. He had only gone some forty yards in a side street when he suddenly found himself seized by four men. They were all in khaki uniform, and armed with Mannlicher carbines and bayonets, carrying, besides, bombs in small sacks attached to their belts. They tried to hurry their prisoner away towards the hills, explaining that they intended to do him no harm, but merely to make the Turkish Government pay a ransom for him.

Shoots His Captors.

He resisted with all his might, his jacket being torn to pieces in the struggle; but when they tied a rope round his left arm he relaxed his efforts, fearing that he might be secured in such a way as to leave no hope of escape. He continued, however, to make the pace as slow as possible.

Strange to say, his captors did not search him for arms, being probably in too great a hurry. While the prisoner was being carried off other parties of the same band were posted to fire down the streets by way of intimidating possible pursuers, and these desperadoes afterwards formed themselves into long lines of skirmishers to cover the withdrawal of the party in charge of the prisoner. Two of the gendarmes composing Col. Elliot's escort started pluckily in pursuit, and soldiers from an adjoining blockhouse began to fire across a ravine on the retiring Bulgarians.

Meanwhile Colonel Elliot had been hurried some distance upwards towards the forest, and his party reached an open meadow, where, finding themselves under fire, one of the party lay down and began to return the shots of the two gendarmes, who were only about seventy yards off. Three other Bulgarians could be seen trying to force their prisoner to lie down. At this moment Colonel Elliot succeeded in drawing his Browning pistol, and made very effective use of it, shooting the three men who were struggling with him. As they fell away from him he started a wild run down the slope, dragging with him the cord that was knotted to his left arm. A few steps down he saw the fourth of his captors, whom he supposed to be Daieff, chief of the band, taking aim at the gendarmerie sergeant Ferhad. This man (Daieff) swung round his rifle to bear on Col. Elliot, who immediately shot him.

Gallant Gendarmes.

Still further down the Colonel saw a fifth Bulgarian lying on the ground with a rifle, and shot him through the head. Not till afterwards did it occur to the Colonel that this man might already have been wounded. It was at this point that the Colonel was wounded in the thigh, and understood from the bullets splashing in the mud in front of him that he was being fired upon from behind, but in a few more steps he gained cover and was out of danger. He called off the two gendarmes, who, however, continued to fight, in the hope, as they afterwards said, of capturing some of the wounded Bulgarians. He then proceeded to the house where he had spent the night, and had his wounds dressed.

The two gendarmes returned some time later, the elder Ferhad, a man 60 years of age, having been seriously wounded. The younger, Mehmed, had exhausted his ammunition after an hour's fight, and, moreover, having had the mud splashed in his face by the explosion of a bomb, thought it was time to take his wounded companion out of danger.

The same evening Colonel Elliot returned to Drama, and on Sunday, the 4th of August, he arrived in Salonika, and was received in the Turkish Civil Hospital. His wound is progressing favorably.

The conduct of the two gendarmes was beyond all praise, and the sergeant in charge of the military detachment also behaved creditably, throwing out his men as skirmishers, and helping by their fire to cover the successful advance of the two gendarmes which enabled Colonel Elliot to effect his escape. It is thought the Bulgarian band mustered fifty men.

RUINED FISHERIES.

Sad Plight of Shetlanders—Complaints Against Scotland.

Should the Shetlands be handed back to Norway? This was the question put to the British Premier the other day by Mr. Cathcart Wason, the Liberal M.P. for Orkney and Shetland. Mr. Wason has explained that he does not advocate the giving away of portions of the British Isles to other nations, but he merely phrased his question in that manner so as to attract public attention to the sad economic plight in which the islanders find themselves. It is not generally known that the Orkney and Shetland Islands were formerly the property of Norway, and were never formally given up by that country. James III. of Scotland married Margaret, the daughter of King Christian of Norway, in 1468, and, when the marriage treaty was made it was agreed that her dowry should be 60,000 florins. When the time to pay came King Christian found that his treasury was empty, and he gave the islands in pledge, agreeing to redeem them when he could raise money. The debt has never been paid, and the islands have thus remained a Scottish possession.

Scots as "Foreigners."

The people of the islands are almost pure Norse in blood, and until the end of the eighteenth century they spoke the Norse language. Many Norse words are still retained in their dialect, and they have little in common with the Scots of the mainland, whom they regard as foreigners. Mr. Wason declares that the grievances of the Shetlanders are serious and distressing. "The herring fishery," he said, "the mainstay of the islanders, has already been ruined on one side, and is getting worse on the other side. All the whales are being destroyed, and it is the whales which drive the herrings inshore. Norwegian and Scotch companies have stations on the islands, and carry on the work of Whale-Killing.

These enormous animals, 70 feet or 80 feet in length, and comparatively valueless, are dragged ashore, skinned for the blubber, and then the carcase is left to rot. The mussel-beds are polluted, so that the bait of the fishermen is destroyed, and masses of the putrefying flesh float about the "voes." Dead whales make life almost intolerable. The only solution is for the Secretary for Scotland to suppress the whaling stations. Fishing is being prosecuted now four times as far from land as formerly, and almost wholly by steam-drifters, while the native sailing-boats have seldom reached the shoals." Mr. Wason declares that the Shetlanders have often complained to him of the grievous wrongs they have suffered at the hands of the Scot, and he is determined to have them redressed.

SEDITION IS SPREADING.

East Indian Patriots Attack the Police—English Goods Boycotted.

A conflict has occurred between the Calcutta police and the "National Volunteers." A body of police were searching the office of the Yugantar newspaper for seditious matter, when they were attacked by about thirty volunteers armed with sticks, who were marching in procession to join the boycott demonstration held in College Square. Two police officers were injured. One volunteer, who was captured, was carrying a book of military exercises.

The Nationalist leaders recently organized a monster boycott demonstration but, except for this incident the proceedings were orderly, and failed to cause any general excitement. The police were present in strong force. The "National Volunteers" also paraded, armed with sticks. Among them were a pensioned havildar and several Punjabis and Mahrattas. There was also a mounted section, twenty strong, escorting the national flag.

The mass of the Calcutta population refused to participate in the demonstration, believing that the present scarcity is due to the boycott. With the exception of Surendra Nath Bannerjee, the prominent Hindu, the leaders were absent.

Best Way to Wind Wool.

Wool for knitting or crocheting should never be wound very tightly into a hard ball, as this makes it thin and poor. Some good knitters merely unwind the skein into a soft heap, but this method is only possible where there is no fear of entanglement, as if the heap of wool be disturbed it soon gets into a hopeless tangle. A better plan is to wind the wool over three or four fingers of the left hand held outside the ball. These fingers should be gently withdrawn at frequent intervals to change the position of the ball. Wool thus wound is always soft and full of thread.

Peterborough Armouries Being Erected at a Cost or $125,000—When Completed This Will be a Credit to the City And to the Government

A Satisfactory Record for Eight Months' Building Operations in Peterborough — 221 Permits Issued Since May 1st.

EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

New Schools and Enlargements Form Large Part of Total Buildings—Armouries the Chief Item of Expenditure

Since the bylaw, making it necessary to take out a permit before building operations in the city, went into effect on May 1st, 221 permits have been issued by the City Clerk, and the total of building operations represented by them amounts to within a few dollars of $650,000.00.

It will thus be seen that the building operations of Peterborough during this season have been on an extensive scale, and the volume places this city well up in the list of the big cities of the Dominion.

While the number of buildings erected this year does not equal that of last year, though no official figures for 1906 are available because of the fact that no permits were issued, the value of the buildings erected is much greater.

This is accounted for by the fact that there are a number of large buildings under course of construction this year; buildings which help materially in reaching the total referred to above.

It is an encouraging fact that a large proportion of the money spent this year in building is for the improvement of the educational facilities of the city. A new Collegiate Institute building is being erected, at a cost of $60,000, while enlargements and improvements to the Public and Seaprate Schools, as well as the erection of a new school in the south end of the city bring the total amount of money spent in educational buildings in the city up to a respectable proportion of the expenditure for new buildings. The erection of the Normal School provides an important addition to the facilities for the promotion of education in the city.

About $125,000 will be spent in the erection of new armouries, and this is the largest individual item of expenditure in the city this year.

Some additions are being made to the manufacturing establishments of the city, the most important of which is the new transformer building for the C.G.E. Company, are being made, and the balance is represented by the erection of new residences, of which a great many have been built during this year.

TENNESSEE LADY VISITING HOME FOR FIRST TIME IN 26 YEARS. BROKE HER NECK IN A FALL

The home-coming of Mrs. Shannon, who came to Sunderland a few days ago to visit her parents, after an absence of 26 years, was a sad one. The second day after her arrival she was driving with one of her relatives near Sunderland, when they met an automobile, and, the horse, becoming frightened, ran away, upsetting the buggy, and Mrs. Shannon was thrown out with such force that her neck was broken, the fall resulting fatally.

The deceased lady's home was in Tennessee.

Maori "Tiki" Brings Good Luck To Its Possessor

Mr. Edward Taylor Has a Whale's Tooth Which, It is Said, Will Ensure Good Fortune to One Who Wears It

IT IS PRIZED VERY HIGHLY

A "Tiki" that brings good luck to the wearer, and to any one across whose hand it is drawn by the owner—good luck which means a faithful and loving husband to the members of the female sex, and a beautiful wife to those of the male persuasion—is the valued possession of Mr. Edward Taylor of St. Louis, Mo., who is returning on Monday to his American home, after having spent the greater part of the summer here with friends, though, in Mr. Taylor's estimation, it is a doubtful piece of luck to bring one into the matrimonial state, and he has so far remained free from matrimonial entanglements.

While he is not looking for luck of that nature, he asserts that since his brother sent him the "Tiki" from Australia, and he has been wearing it, he has had good fortune. He gave the newspaperman to whom he showed it, the mystic sign, and things are looking brighter already.

The "Tiki" is made from the back tooth of a whale and is a beautifully carved piece of ivory, the work of the skilled Maori, the natives of New Zealand, whose wood carving is the wonder of all who have seen samples of it in the world's greatest museums. This particular "Tiki" is worth, intrinsically, outside of its value as a luck-bringing medium, about $20, though Mr. Taylor would not part with it for a great deal more than that sum.

Ivory carving is, however, fast becoming a lost art with the Maori, the children not being taught what to the parents was a science. In view of this fact the few "Tiki" now in existence are increasing rapidly in value.

BISHOP OF LONDON THROUGH CITY

Noted Church of England Bishop on Visit to Canada Went Through on C.P.R Train Friday

WINS CANADIAN HEARTS

The Bishop of London, who passed through Peterborough yesterday afternoon on the 4.48 C. P. R. train, and who has been in this country but a few days, has completely won the hearts of Canadian church people. Wherever he appears he is greeted by enormous audiences, and to hear and meet him is to love him. His great and loving work in the slums of London has made him a great man, and no one is as safe in the East End district as the Bishop, who is beloved by all the poor. He is a personal and confidential friend of the King, whom he has greatly interested in his work. There is nothing exclusive about him. His great office, and his influence in high quarters, have still left him a humble servant of God and of the people. "A man among men," might be truly said of him, and as such he interests and wins people for God's cause, who by no won else could be won. Canadian churchmen everywhere are welcoming him heartily, and in their welcome they are joined by all Christian people.

PETERBOROUCH BEATS BRANTFORD IN THE VALUE OF BUILDING PERMITS

Over 200 permits for new buildings, or enlargements to present buildings, representing an expenditure of within a few dollars of $650,000, is the record for the first eight months of this year, so far as the city of Peterborough is concerned.

In comparison with other cities of a corresponding size, this record is exceedingly creditable. Brantford, with a population of about 4,000 greater than Peterborough, boasts in the knowledge of the fact that buildings to the value of $400,000 were or are being erected in that city this year. This comparison is sufficient to indicate that Peterborough's building record is creditable, and that this city is keeping in the front rank in this, as in other lines of progress.

MOTHER SMOTHERED HER CHILD DRIVING FROM THE STATION

A MOST DISTRESSING CASE

A couple of days ago a distressing accident occurred near Gelert, in Haliburton county. A Toronto lady, Mrs. Russell, was coming to visit her mother, Mrs. Fry. The latter lady met her daughter at the Gelert station, and together they drove to the family home in the country near Gelert. The day was chilly, and Mrs. Russell, in order to protect her child, about a year old, wrapped the little one tightly with a shawl, and, after they had driven about a mile, she was horrified to find that the child was dead from suffocation in her arms.

The mother and grandmother were prostrated with grief when it was found that the child was dead under these particularly distressing circumstances.

Character Delineation

To-day the Examiner gives the first delineations of character from handwriting. In response to the announcement made yesterday several persons who were anxious to be given readings, wrote letters to the department, but it has been found impossible to accommodate all to-day. For the benefit of those who did not see the announcement made yesterday, it may be repeated that character and temperament which are indicated by the handwriting will be delineated through this column on Saturdays. Anyone who wishes a reading may send a short letter, addressed to the Scientific Department of the Examiner, and the reading will be published, strict confidence, of course, being observed as to the identity of the writer.

ADELE—Your writing indicates the possession of a highly sensitive, nervous temperament. You are artistically inclined; fond of music and flowers, and in spite of apparently contradictory indications you are practical. A hopeful disposition and the ability to make the most out of unsatisfactory conditions are characteristics of a pleasing individuality.

HAROLD—Of a mechanical disposition, you should at once, if you have not already done so, enter upon some pursuit in which scope for the exercise of apparently more than ordinary ability along mechanical and engineering pursuits will be afforded. You are inclined to form opinions quickly, though it must be said that generally your judgment is correctly formed. You are generous and possess qualities which are likely to make you popular with not only your own sex, but with the opposite as well.

RAISING THE LEVEL OF McDONNELL STREET

A staff of men, under the direction of the Board of Works, is engaged raising the level of McDonel street, between Water and Harvey streets. This portion of the street has been low in the past, and, as a consequence, it has been difficult to keep it in good condition. In the future it is expected that this will be eliminated.

KEMPTVILLE WRECK DELAYED C. P. R. EXPRESS SEVEN HOURS

A wreck which occurred at Kemptville early this morning, delayed the arrival of the early C. P. R. train today until after 12 o'clock. No details of the wreck were available, though it was stated by a passenger on the train that it was not serious, the worst feature being the fact that the track was blocked for several hours.

Bear In Water Was Met By A Kinmount Resident

Exciting Experience While Paddling From Bobcaygeon — William Coons Had No Gun, But the Bear Was a Real One

THOUGHT IT WAS A DEER

Bobcaygeon, Sept. 14. — William Coons of Kinmount had an interesting, not to say exciting, experience the other day. He had been in this town and was paddling back, when off the point of the Big Island he noticed something swimming in the lake that looked like a dog. He did not pay much attention to it at first, but later on he thought it might be a deer. It was a little out of his course, being behind the island somewhat, but he thought he would see what it was, anyway. As he neared the animal it turned for the main shore and did a great sprint in the swimming line, and would have easily outfooted Carew's Alligator. Coming nearer to it, Coons discovered that it was a fine sized bear, and then he would have given 75 cents or half his farm for a gun. William did not know what to do. He could not take him by the head and hold him under the water to drown, the bear was too big and strong and would have upset the canoe with his paws. Anyway, he could not go too close, for the bear growled in a very ugly way, and showed a strong inclination to grab the canoe. In the end, the bear made the shore, and all William could do was to give him a swat with his paddle, as he scrambled to the shore and made off into the woods.

A BIG NEW INDUSTRY MAY COME HERE IN THE NEAR FUTURE

A city alderman was the authority for the statement that two gentlemen were in the city to-day, looking over Peterborough as a possible location for a large manufacturing concern, which would employ a number of hands in proportion to the size of a small city. It was understood from the same gentleman that the concern referred to was a car factory. It is deemed inadvisable to publish all the information given now which is in the Examiner's possession.

DO WOMAN'S CLOTHES FOUND ON WATER'S EDGE AT SPALDING'S BAY GIVE EVIDENCE OF SUICIDE?

IT IS A MYSTERIOUS FIND

Carefully tucked away beneath a lumber pile in the yard of the A. McDonald Lumber Company, on the shore of Spaulding's Bay a woman's complete outer costume with the exception of the bonnet was at noon today discovered by Bob Scully, an 11 year old youth residing on Aylmer street. He called the attention of the startling discovery, which is yet, shrouded in mystery, to some of the employes of Matthews' Packing House. And while the latter were investigating the truth of the boy's report, two youths, Albert Lightheart, of 221 Rink street, and Ross Williamson, of Aylmer street, also went to the scene of the strange find.

The former of the two boys gathered up the bundle and carried it to the home of his grandfather, Mr. Jas. Bourne. The police were then notified of the midday discovery, and an investigation will promptly be made.

An Examiner representative visited the home of young Lightheart and on inquiry from his grandfather the reporter was ushered into the woodshed of the building where the evidence of the finding of the clothes was located.

"It's a strange affair; a very strange affair," remarked the aged grandfather as he conducted the newspaper man to inspect the garments.

A Woman's Costume

In the bundle was the woman's costume reported. It consisted of a pair of patent leather boots somewhat the worse of wear, a light blue petticoat with a safety pin attached to the waist band as it had recently been discarded, an underskirt of a greenish shade, and a dark blue overskirt. It was a somewhat peculiar fact that no waist occupied a position among the garments but its absence was apparently accounted for by the presence of two short coats, one a fawn and the other a beaver. Both of these were in good condition, as was also the skirt.

Beneath Lumber Piles

The clothing was found under the third lumber pile from the bay, in the most western row of lumber on the west side of George street. The police, as well as those residing in the vicinity of the bay, are at a loss to fathom the mystery but it is generally conceded that a suicide in Spaulding's Bay answers the reason for the peculiar find.

CITY FLOWER GARDENS ARE VISITED

Committee of Horticultural Society Inspect Beautiful Lawns

Yesterday was the day set apart by the Horticultural Society for the annual visitation of the various lawns and flower gardens of the city. The Committee of Judges consisted of Messrs. P Campbell, W H Hall, Wm. Jordan, H L Beale, Secretary of the Society, and Col. Rogers. Although the committee has not yet decided upon the winners of the premiums, they were greatly impressed with the improvement made during the past year along horticultural lines. They believe that the flower gardens are much more extensive than ever before—a fact which they greatly appreciate.

A meeting will be held on Monday night when those receiving the premiums will be decided upon.

Character in Medicine

In medicine as in every sphere of human action, it is character that tells. Every prescription that Dr. A. W. Chase gave to his fellowmen is full of character, full of the honest, sterling character, which made the grand old doctor, respected, admired and loved by all who knew him. The integrity of Dr. Chase is shown in every one of his famous family medicines.

HEALTH OFFICER SAYS NOT SCARLET FEVER; OTHERS DIFFER, HOWEVER

Another Tangle Over the Case of Fever Reported—Doctor's Certificate Says She Has it—Dr. Bingham Disagrees

CHAIRMAN TAKES ACTION

Difficulty Over Finding Place To Locate Hospital Tent—Situation at the Hilliard Farm Explained

The reported presence in the city of a case of scarlet fever, as recorded yesterday in the Examiner is causing some discussion among the members of the medical profession. It will be remembered that yesterday the Board of Health decided to instruct the Medical Health Officer to investigate the case and ascertain if the patient was able to be moved without injury. Dr. Bingham, accordingly, it is stated, visited the house in which the girl was, and the conclusion he came to was that she was not suffering from scarlet fever at all, and, under that assumption of course made no preparation for her removal.

This did not satisfy the chairman of the Board of Health, however, and he secured the written opinion of the two doctors who were attending the girl, Dr. Halliday and Dr. Bonnher, and they both subscribed to a certificate stating that the girl was afflicted with the disease referred to.

This was enough to satisfy the chairman, if not the Medical Health Officer, and the former then took the matter into his own hands and proceeded to make the necessary arrangements for the removal of the girl to a place of isolation. A snag was encountered here, again, for it was found that the Hilliard farm was rented house, and that the civic authorities had no rights there. The hospital tent could not be placed on it without the consent of the tenant, and there was some doubt about securing this consent. It was then decided to try and have the tent placed on the grounds surrounding one of the city's hospitals, but in this, the efforts of the chairman were unsuccessful, though he spent half the night interviewing the different persons interested.

Among the places of isolation under consideration was that vacated by the firemen in the new disused firehall, which it was thought could be fitted up as a temporary isolation hospital.

One point, however, has been established. The girl actually has the fever, though fortunately she has a light attack, and no serious results—to her—are anticipated.

IS IT NON-PARTIZAN?

In meditating upon the extent to which Hon. Mr. Whitney has made good his promises to separate the administration of the License Law from political influences, one irresistibly recalls two cognate sentiments from Tom Moore — "the scent of the roses will hang round it still," and "the trail of the serpent is over them all." The reader is as liberty to select which ever, to his mind, best suits the situation. It is quite evident to any one who dispassionately studies the recent history of license administration in this province that political and, what is less desirable, partizan influence, is a prominent, if not controlling element in license administration under the Whitney Government. A concrete case, like that revealed by the Starr license investigation in Toronto, is confirmatory of evidence that has come to light of the manner of administration in other parts of the province. The Starr Commission was hailed as a sign of determination on the part of the Government, to grasp the thistle with a firm hand. But the report of Mr. Starr shows two things, firstly — that the evidence indicates that political influence performed a large part in license administration, in Toronto; not the vulgar influence of the ward heeler, but the influence and prestige of a Minister of the Crown; and, secondly, that the thoroughness of the investigation became relaxed, when Dr. Pyne's connection with the affair was in question. With a charming courtesy, and an apologetic hand, gloved in velvet, Mr. Starr soothes the erring Minister, and throws the mantle of charity over Dr Pyne's offence, but Dr. Beatty Nesbitt is beaten with a merciless bludgeon. Mr. Flavelle swore that Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, in Mr. Whitney's Government, secretly solicited a license for a notorious license law breaker, one Robert Courtney, of Dr. Pyne's constituency, who has recorded against him fourteen convictions. Dr. Beatty Nesbitt's endorsation of a cheque of one Hynes, constituted, according to Mr. Starr, a "straight purchase of Dr. Nesbitt's political influence," and he knew what he was doing. Dr. Nesbitt is out of politics, having been shelved in a registry office, and had a right to do as he did, without subjecting himself to the reproach of abusing his official position. Yet Mr. Starr denounces him for bartering his political influence for money, or money's worth, while Dr. Pyne is, practically, as a matter of fact, "whitewashed." Yet his offence against non-political administration of the license law, was far more serious than Dr. Nesbitt's was. Dr. Nesbitt was out of politics, and had, it is to be assumed, only the political influence of an individual member of the Government party. Dr. Pyne, a Minister of the Crown, had the influence of a Minister, and he clandestinely tried to exercise it, for he interceded for a license — not for a reputable hotel man, but for a notorious breaker of the law, and not to the Board, but to the chairman, Mr. Flavelle, privately. Dr. Pyne must have had reason to know, that if his request were complied with, he was contributing to a violation of the law by procuring a license for a notorious offender. Mr. Flavelle and the Board had a higher sense of duty than Dr. Pyne, and the license was refused, and, as Mr. Starr says in his report, Dr. Pyne "took no further interest in the matter, apparently dismissing it as a "matter of little importance." But it seems undeniable that he did not drop the matter, but, on the contrary, carried it to the councils of the Cabinet, of which he was a member. At any rate, we have the fact, coming on the heels of the refusal of Dr. Pyne's request, that Mr. Hastings, chief license inspector, who had the full confidence of the Board, was dismissed in spite of their protests, and the Board, which did not yield to political pressure, resigned in practical protest against the dismissal of an inspector in whom they had every confidence, as being able to assist the Board in the impartial administration of the law. The Commissioners, though Conservatives, were not partizan enough, and they and the inspectors were replaced and commissioners and inspectors appointed who were "in sympathy" with the Government. The Starr commission report shows to anyone that reads it with unbiased mind, that political influence was and is a conspicuous element in License Law administration by the Whitney Government. The Pyne incident shows this. He could not bend the License Commissioners to his will, but he could bend his colleagues to his desires in the direction of making the license law machinery in Toronto, which was unpartizan, completely partizan. This contention is confirmed by the Toronto News,—itself a Conservative journal, the license commissioner who declined to regard a Cabinet minister's wish as law,—which summarizes the situation admirably in these words:

"Mr. Starr does not give Dr. Pyne full credit for his activity in the interest of the party, and, if he has fairly rated the ministers influence with the Commissioners, he certainly has greatly under-estimated his influence with the Government. The dismissal of Mr. Hastings was an incident, a necessary incident in the Pyne campaign, but it is not the chief fact which should engage public attention. The chief fact is that a License Board who were pledged to give a non-partizan administration of the license system were subjected to partizan pressure, and, when they would not yield, the case was carried to Queen's Park, the inspectors dismissed, and active Conservative workers put into their places in the expectation that their ears would be open to party representations, and through whom, as the result has proved, the license office would become an active centre of party intrigue and party manipulation. No shadow of odium attaches to Mr. McNaught, Dr. Wilson or Mr. Millichamp, but men just as reputable sat on Liberal License Boards, and at least it is true that the exact relations which existed between Liberal politicians and the liquor trade now exist between Conservative politicians, and THE PRETENCE THAT THE WHITNEY GOVERNMENT HAS TAKEN THE LICENSE QUESTION OUT OF POLITICS IS A SHAM AND A HUMBUG."

One may well question whether or not the present administration is non-partizan.

If any further proof were wanted, that license administration under the present Ontario Government, is not freed from political influence, it will be found in one recommendation in the report of Mr. Starr. Without thinking, perhaps, that it is supporting the contention that politics enter actively into present license law administration, the Conservative press is commenting favourably upon his recommendation that the administration of the law should be intrusted to an independent commission. Mr. Starr naturally spared the Government and, especially, one member of it, as much as possible, but he was forced by the evidence of political and partizan influence, to recommend a measure that would remove license law administration from party manipulation, to the extent that Mr. Whitney promised, and has palpably failed, either through inclination, or inability to perform. Those Liberals who helped substitute the Whitney Government for the Ross Administration, in the interests of temperance and license law enforcement, cannot be proud of their share in the achievement.

SMUGGLING IN INDIA.

Ingenious Ruse to Capture a Caravan Making For Chagai Border.

Smuggling on the grand scale still survives in India. A short time back information was received by the Political Agent, Chagai, Baluchistan, through which territory the Nushki-Seistan caravan route runs, and the native officer commanding the detachment of native infantry at Robat, the further British post, that a large caravan of arms from the Persian Gulf was making for Piran Ziarat on the Chagai border. A portion of the levies from Saindak and a portion of the troops from Robat were at once sent to try to intercept the caravan before it could effect its entry into Afghanistan. The caravan, which was guarded by about 80 armed Afghans, managed to elude our troops and forced its passage through the Kacha gorge, which was held by only seven levymen.

A Successful Scheme.

Subsequently information came of a second caravan making for the same gorge. Our infantry took up position at the exit of the gorge, the levymen being posted towards its entrance, with instructions to let the second caravan pass them and then fire into its rear and drive it towards the infantry. The scheme worked admirably. The caravan made its appearance about eight in the morning, and fire was opened thereon as arranged, the fire being returned by the Afghan escort, a portion of which detached itself to protect the extreme end of the caravan, while the rest pushed forward to be met by a heavy magazine fire from the infantry detachment. This proved who scattered, allowing the infantry to advance and take possession of the camels and their loads. Meanwhile the levymen engaged the Afghans' rearguard till nightfall, when the latter fled. The levymen then also possessed themselves of the rest of the loaded camels. Twenty-three camels had been killed, and 31 unwounded ones, along with 794 rifles and upwards of 60,000 rounds of ammunition, were captured. Some score of men of the Kafila are believed to have been killed and wounded. The native infantry detachment was commanded by Jamadar Raj Wali, 127th Baluch Light Infantry, and the levies by Thanadar Sharbat Khan.

MAKE DEFENCE EFFICIENT.

Every Man Responsible Says Governor-General.

"As the maple leaf is the foundation of Canadian and Imperial strength, so I hope that the stone laid by means of this instrument will be the foundation of an institution which will lend itself to promote the efficiency of organizations for the defence of your country." So spoke His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada recently, as he tapped with his trowel, shaped like a maple leaf, on the corner-stone of the new library and museum of the Canadian Military Institute, Toronto, and declared it "well and truly laid."

The ceremony, which was the occasion for the convening of a large number of prominent military men, took place in front of the Military Institute, on University avenue. Earl Grey arrived, accompanied by Col. Hanbury Williams, his military secretary, and Capt. Newton, A. D. C., and escorted by a squadron of Royal Canadian Dragoons, commanded by Lieut. McBrien. As he alighted from his carriage, the trumpets sounded the salute and the guard of honor, drawn from the city regiments and commanded by Capt. W. J. C. Brown, presented arms.

The Institute's Aims.

Lieut.-Col. Hamilton Merritt, president of the institute, opened the proceedings by reading an address to His Excellency. He expressed appreciation of the honor conferred on the members of the institute by the Governor-General, in allowing his name to be engraved on the corner-stone of the new building. The laying of the corner-stone was recognized as "a happy manifestation of the spirit of broad Imperialism," which had been the signal characteristic of His Excellency during his sojourn in Canada.

Col. Merritt informed the Governor-General that the purpose of the institution, was "the promotion of military art, science and literature." That its membership comprised some 500 officers and ex-officers of Canada, and that it possessed one of the best military libraries on the continent. To preserve these valuable books a fireproof library and museum was to be erected. It was felt that when completed it would attract other priceless relics now scattered among the people. The construction of the building was rendered possible by the cooperation of the City of Toronto and some of its leading institutions and citizens.

Every Man Responsible.

The Earl of Grey, after declaring the stone duly laid, thanked the members of the institute for the privilege of performing the ceremony and expressed his pleasure in attending. He was glad to know the high purposes of the institute, and that the new building would be the store house of the records of the doings of Canadian patriots, whose lives would serve as an inspiration to others. The history of Canada was a history of noble sacrifice. His Excellency referred to the unselfish attitude of the United Empire Loyalists, the strugle of early settlers against savages, and the indomitable spirit of the Canadian heroes of the war of 1812. The same spirit existed to-day. His Excellency hoped that the Canadian Military Institute might serve all the purposes for which it was intended, and that every man in Canada might realize that on him rested a share of the responsibility for making his country's defence as sure as possible.

FRUIT WILL BE SCARCE.

Report of Agricultural Department on Crops In Ontario.

Rain was not frequent enough for the best conditions during the summer, says the August crop bulletin of the Department of Agriculture. The report takes up the various crops in detail. Fall wheat turned out much better than was anticipated, while there will be a fair yield of the spring wheat. Barley constitutes the best cereal crop of the year, while oats is the very poorest. The yield will be about three-fourths that of recent years, but the grain will be light in weight and hardly up to the mark in quality. As a result of winter killing of clover the hay crop will be the poorest in many years. The hay is, however, of superior quality. Early beans will be a light crop, but late planted one will give a fair yield. Should good growing weather continue and corn escape early autumn frosts the yield will be a good one. Potatoes are rather small in size; blight has appeared in some sections.

The report contains an estimate of the average yields per acre in Ontario of various grains for 1907, as follows: Fall wheat, 22.1 bushels; spring wheat, 17.1 bushels; barley, 27.9 bushels; oats, 30.4 bushels; peas, 21 bushels; beans, 17.2 bushels; rye, 15.6 bushels; hay and clover, 1.18 tons. In 1906 the crop of Ontario fall wheat was 18,841,744 bushels, or 23.9 an acre; of spring wheat, 3,267,000 bushels, or 18 per acre; of barley, 25,253,011 bushels, or 27.6 an acre; of oats, 28,341,455 bushels, or 39.9 an acre; of hay, 4,684,625 tons, or 1.53 tons an acre; rye, 1,327,583 bushels, or 16.6 an acre.

The present year has not been a fruit season and the yields of all sorts are below the average. Apples and pears will be about a half crop. Plums will be scarce. Peaches will be the poorest of all fruits and grapes the most plentiful.

When Gunpowder Was New.

A curious feature about the evolution in methods of hunting was the hesitation with which gunpowder was taken up by the great nobles. Not only did it take quite a century to familiarise hunters with it, but the evidence that has come down to us shows that the humble classes were the first to use it for shooting game. Maximilian, ardent sportsman that he was, tells us himself that he could shoot farther and with greater accuracy with his crossbow than his keeper could with the fire tube. To prove this he tells us the well known story of a certain chamois standing at 200 fathoms, which, after being pronounced as too far off by his henchman, who was armed with one of the first sporting firearms mentioned in print, comes tumbling down, pierced at the first attempt by the emperor's bolt. From other sources we learn of strict measures being adopted to prevent poachers and "wood loafers" using firearms, and this at a period when princes still used the cumbrous crossbow and spear. It was only in the last quarter of the sixteenth century that firearms had ousted other weapons for certain forms of the chase, the deer battue being among the latter.—Gentleman's Magazine.

The Poisonous Black Sea.

The Black sea, which in some parts has a depth of more than 6,500 feet, is poisoned by sulphureted hydrogen wherever the water is deeper than 1,200 feet. This accounts for the curious fact that there is no organic life below that depth, excepting perhaps some bacteria of very low order, impregnated with sulphur. The causes for this phenomenon are explained by the quick outflow of the fresh water through the Bosporus, while salt water coming from the Mediterranean enters through a deeper current into the depths of the Black sea. The waters on the surface are, therefore, controlled absolutely by horizontal currents of considerable force, and vertical currents which might carry the noxious gases from the bottom to the surface and fresh oxygen from the surface to the bottom are hardly ever noticeable. The water at great depths is so saturated with sulphuric gas by the disintegration of organic matter sinking to the bottom by reason of its weight that no fish or other living being which needs oxygen for its organic system can exist beyond a stated depth.

Station Derelicts.

In every station one may find those who do not take trains or meet them, nor attend those who do. Some come to the waiting room only to wait—respectable derelicts still hoping that something will turn up, and wrecks who have given up hope. It is a warm place in winter, the seats are comfortable, and thoughtless passengers often obligingly leave newspapers behind them. It makes good waiting. There are so few other places to wait—so cruelly few for women adrift, but not yet foundered. Sometimes, to deceive that meddlesome busybody, the station detective, they carry in traveling bags and pretend to be pulled down with their burdens, emptied long since at the pawnshops.—Jesse Lynch Williams in Century.

Why He Let Them Wed.

Dean Pigou had a quaint old verger whose name was Sagar. Imagine him, a venerable figure with gray hair, skullcap, gown and verger's staff. In ignorance they had married a man to his deceased wife's sister. Sagar, whose business it was to settle the matter about the banns, was at once cross examined. "Oh, yes, vicar," said he, "I knowed right well! I knowed parties." "But why did you not tell me? I should have forbidden them." "Well, vicar, it was just this way, do you see. One of the parties was eighty-four and t'other eighty-six. I says to myself: 'Lord, it can't last long. Let 'em wed, and bother the laws!'"—London News.

A Contrast.

Mr. Dapper is one of that class of men who are scrupulously neat in their personal appearance, but who never fail to leave chaos behind them in the wake of their preparations. A neighbor recently called on Mrs. Dapper and remarked:

"One rarely sees a more well kept man than your husband. He always looks as if he had just come out of a bandbox."

"Very true," returned Mrs. Dapper, "but"—with a sigh—"you ought to see the bandbox."

Plain Living.

How totally different is the effect of a plain, rational and nutritious diet upon the man who eats to live. His appetite requires no pampering, and yet he enjoys his food, and at the same time—what a gormand is deprived of—he is thoroughly alive to all the pleasures of life and able for its duties.—Dr. Robert Bell in Health Record.

Kind Lady—And are they good to you in the workhouse? Tramp—Oh, no, ma'am; they're very cruel. They makes us wash ourselves.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Judgment Hangs on Jacob's Standing With The Band

Says He Is a White Man---Gets no Annuity and Can Hold no Land at Chemong---An Interesting Case in County Police Court---Judgment Reserved For Two Weeks

Again the question, "when is an Indian not an Indian?" figured in a liquor case in Peterborough before Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon. Mr. H. W. Darcy of the Burkleigh Falls Hotel was charged with selling liquor to Jack Jacobs, an Indian, on Thursday, August 1, but it was not until twilight was beginning to fall that the evidence was all in and the Magistrate's decision, "judgment reserved," was given. The greater portion of the evidence and subsequent discussion centred on the question as to whether the man received liquor or not, but finally the issue narrowed down as to whether the man, Jacobs, was an Indian within the meaning of the Indian Act, or not. This question was juggled between the counsel until many were tired of waiting and left the courtroom.

From evidence produced, it was shown that Jacobs did not belong to the Chemong band, that he did not receive the annuity from the Government, and that only at certain times did he follow the customary occupations of an Indian.

Before the case began, Mr. Ayerst, of the Government License Department, went into the box and stated that the men sent out by the Government as detectives are instructed not to make any indecent or improper inducements to get liquor. They are charged not to plead for liquor under the guise of sickness or by any other guise, and if the witness knew of such a case the detective would at once be discharged. He did not think that the two men giving evidence worked within their rights.

The Indian Case

Mr. Hanson, for the third time yesterday, entered the witness box and testified that on August 1 John Jacobs, an Indian, was in the bar room about 8.30 o'clock in the evening. The Indian, with two white men, was standing beside the bar, and he saw the bar-tender draw three glasses of ale from a receptacle at the end of the bar, and he saw the redman drink the ale. As soon as the three moved away he went over and got a drink, accompanied by Belleau, out of the same tap, and received a glass of ale. The wine clerk from whom the Indian got the ale was "W. J. Dever," as the latter had written his name on a card for him while on the steamer coming down to Lakefield.

To Mr. Haverson the witness stated that he considered Jacobs an Indian from his general appearance, but knew nothing more about him.

Belleau, the other of the two, when sworn, stated to Mr. Moore that the Indian was about nine feet away from him (which was about six feet further than the distance stated by Hanson) when the former was drinking at the bar. Belleau also considered that Jacobs was an Indian because he looked to be one.

Mr. Wm. MacFarlane, Keene, the Indian agent of the bands at Mud Lake and Hiawatha, was called. He knew the man, Jacobs; he lived on the reserve at Chemong during the past ten years with the band of Indians there. Mr. MacFarlane to the counsel for the defence, stated that he was at the Chemgon reserve about May last, when he was talking to Jacobs, as the latter was the constable there. The witness further stated that Jacobs name was not on the books and that he was not paid by him. He did not know Jacobs' wife but he knew that she received an annuity. The agent did not know Jacobs mother and couldn't tell whether she was a white owman or not. The Chemong Band of Indians belonged to the Mississauga tribe, which was scattered in three places.

Separate From the Band

Dan Whetung, Jr., was called and stated that he knew Jno. Jacobs for some years, but did not know where he was born. Jacobs, he said, had no privilege to live on the reserve and that he could not claim any land there. He does little work on the reserve and is only home a short time during the year. He traps a little in the spring, drives the river and guides some. Jacobs could not buy land on the reserve, he said, because he was not a member of the band.

This concluded the evidence in the case so far as the Crown was concerned and Mr. Haverson in summing up the evidence submitted that Jacobs was not an Indian under the meaning of the Indian Act because he did not belong to a particular band. He pointed out that on a previous occasion in Peterborough a man by the name of Cornelius came up in police court reputed to be an Indian, but it was then shown that Cornelius did not belong to a particular band. On the strength of this the charge against the hotel keeper for selling to Cornelius was dropped. He further went on to demonstrate that it was proven from the evidence of the Indian Agent and Whetung that Jacobs was not given any annuity, that he could not hold land on the reserve, that he did not belong to an Indian band and that therefore he was not an Indian.

Mr. Moore then addressed the Magistrate to attempt to show that Jacobs was reputed to belong to the Chemong band.

After much more parleying, John Jacobs, the most talked of man of the afternoon, was placed in the witness box himself. He stated he was a white man, not an Indian, that his mother was white and that he did not know who his father was.

This concluded the evidence, but the magistrate decided to reserve judgment on the case to look over the act referring to the case.

Eczema is Baby's Enemy

CAUSING KEEN DISTRESS FROM THE DREADFUL ITCHING—SOMETIMES LASTS FOR YEARS—CURE EFFECTED BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The first indication of eczema is a red pimple, or blister-like eruption. The points run together, and make a moistened patch, which "weeps" at first, and then dries into a crust.

The intense itching of eczema of the face and scalp is very hard for the little one to bear, and the result is scratching until free bleeding takes place, and recovery is further retarded. Besides the suffering from the distressing itching, the child is restless and sleepless.

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, covering the body with sores, but fortunately there is positive cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, a preparation which by its marvellous soothing and healing powers, brings quick relief from itching and heals up the sores.

Mr. William Crafts, jr., Burk's Falls, Ont., writes: "Our little boy, aged three years, broke out with eczema all over his face, hands and back, and we had a terrible time trying to relieve his suffering. It was so bad that when he scratched it would almost make the blood flow. The use of Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly brought relief and made a thorough cure, as there has never any return of the disagreeable ailment. We always keep Dr. Chase's medicines in the house and find them very useful."

Mrs. M. McCann, 4 Short street, St. John, N. B., writes: "My little girl, three years old, had her face covered with eczema and it was beginning to spread all over her body. I tried many different ointments, and the doctor could not do her any good. A friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and she was completely cured by one box. I cannot praise Dr. Chase's Ointment enough for the good it has done her."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven especially successful in the cure of baby eczema, as well as the prevention of this torturing disease, when used for chafing and skin diseases, in which eczema finds its beginnings. Sixty cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SWEETHEART HAD NOT THE CASH

This Lover Decided He Was Too Poor to Marry

Great Barrington, Mass., Sept. 14. — That her prospective husband did not earn enough to marry on, is the frank reason given by Miss Josephine Lee for her refusal to wed Joseph Bore, of Pittsfield.

The bans were announced in St Joseph's church, in Pittsfield. Miss Lee wrote a letter to a Pittsfield newspaper stating that there would be no wedding. Miss Lee admits that an engagement had existed between herself and Bore, with whom she had kept company for two years.

She left the matter of the wedding prelimmaries with Mr. Bore. After thinking the matter over she says that she decided that Bore's income was not equal to requirements and she has notified him to that effect. Miss Lee says that Bore is jealous of another man.

NO WEDDING BELLS FOR THE INTELLECTUAL WOMAN

"Why is it that some men harbour conviction that a keen intellect disqualifies a woman for the domestic sphere?" asked a prominent woman educator. "That they do harbour it is proved by the fact that when it is a question of marrying they deliberately pass over the clever women they enjoyed talking with and take some sweet, silly little thing for a wife. Listen to men talking when they get on this subject, and in nine cases out of ten it will be observed that the general drift of their feeling is that the nice, satisfactory wife, the kind who keeps a man's slippers warm and has his dinner ready on time, seldom evolves out of the girl who reads Greek and is up in chemistry and economics. They frequently marry the latter kind, but they expect to sacrifice their dinner and are agreeably surprised later on to find the dinners coming along all right.

"As a matter of fact, though it will take man a long time to learn it, a comprehensive ignorance and the ability to look pretty and embroider sofa pillows do not in themselves guarantee future domestic efficiency. A girl may even know how to cook and yet turn out a lamentably poor housekeeper, while a girl who has never had occasion to handle a saucepan, but whose perceptions are quick and developed by an all round modern education and who knows her chemistry, can, when the need comes, not only master cooking in short order, but be a tactful housemistress as well. As a matter of fact, housekeeping calls for a good brain. There is hardly any faculty of the mind that is not called into action in running the domestic machine.

"One of the best woman doctors in Chicago is an admirable housekeeper. Many woman writers have homes, managed by themselves, that are ideally comfortable. Not many years ago a party of well-known artists and writers, old friends, were stormbound at an Alpine inn. The person in the kitchen was dismayed at the sight of so many people and appeared unequal to the task of getting dinner. Whereupon these artist women turned up their cuffs and in no time at all had a delightful dinner smoking on the table."

TRAP FOOLED THE HEN

As is well known, there are in Peterborough, some of the finest specimens of fancy fowl to be seen in the province. When a man gets thoroughly inoculated with the chicken microbe, he becomes an enthusiast — he thinks of his birds by day, he dreams of them by night, and in his slumbers has visions of red tickets decorating his coops at all the fall and winter fairs. However, let that suffice. One of these fanciers, who lives on Simcoe street, and whose hobby is Black Minoreas—and, by the way, his strain is as good as the best, for appearance, and as producers of eggs they are regular machines — has been troubled very much lately with rats. The rodents were not only numerous, but particularly destructive, and means had to be taken to exterminate a few, whose destruction, it was thought, would frighten the rest away. Accordingly a steel trap was secured, and baited with a choice morsel, while the instrument of extermination was placed in a corner of the outbuildings where the rodents apparently held midnight carnival. On rising in the morning our fancier at once hied to the trap, fully expecting to see one of the pesky creatures caught in the steel jaws, but was horrified to find one of his choicest pullets securely fastened by the head in its jaws. The bird was released at once and was found to be still alive, but somewhat disfigured, but, it is thought, may still figure in an egg-laying contest, if not on the show bench. Though it is customary to "steel test" games, this is one of the few instances in which we have heard of the test being applied to Minoreas.

MANY PEOPLE ATTEND TO-DAY'S MARKET

Prices Were Good and an Abundance of Everything Offered

Another record market this morning pleased everybody and especially the townspeople, as prices were a little easier to-day. Pork sold at 10 and 11 but lamb was an absentee. There was a cornucopia of fruits and vegetables, which found ready buyers. Pears, plums, grapes, apples, etc., formed a pleasing sight as the many waggons laden with the summer's growth, were seen in line. The prices were as follows:

Potatoes, per bag		to	1 00
Onions, per peck	25
Beets, per peck	15
Cabbage, per head	5
Parsnips, per peck	15
Butter, per lb	25	to	27
Eggs, per doz		to	18
Chickens, each	50	to	75
Hay, per ton		to	15 00
Pork, per lb	10	to	11
Veal	7	to	9

There were many other articles offered, and, in fact, to-day's was a splendid market and a testimonial of the riches of Canada's earth.

THE STOLEN HORSE

An old Proverb With a New Application

The weeds are full of "so-called" remedies for Baldness.

You may call anything in creation a remedy, but to use them is like locking the stable after the horse is stolen.

Baldness and Dandruff are caused by a germ—if you don't kill the germ the germ will kill the hair.

Scientists have laboured with the problem of a preventive for Baldness for many years.

Newbro's Herpicide is the product of a modern idea, and will cure dandruff and prevent Baldness because germs cannot exist when you apply Herpicide.

Herpicide is a valuable hair dressing and scalp disinfectant, as well as a cure for dandruff.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, Special Agents.

FOR SELLING LIQUOR AFTER HOURS

Fine of $50 and Costs is Imposed on Proprietor of Burleigh Falls Hotel

DETECTIVES ON THE TRIAL

When County Court was resumed yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, the charge against Mr. H. W. Darcy of the Burleigh Falls Hotel, for selling after hours on August 1, was taken up before County Police Magistrate Edmison. Mr. Jas. A. Haverson of Toronto appeared for the defendant, while Mr. W. H. Moore acted in the capacity of prosecuting attorney. The principal witnesses for the Crown were the same men, Hanson and Belleau, Government detectives, of Toronto, who had given testimony against Mr. Lawless in the morning, and from their testimony it was shown that they had purchased a bottle of Seagram whisky at 10.30 o'clock on the night of Thursday, August 1, from Mr. Darcy's brother. This evidence remained unshaken during the cross-examination, a conviction registered, and a fine of $50 and costs imposed on the hotelman.

The case began about 2.30 o'clock. Mr. Hanson was placed in the box. He knew Mr. Darcy, the proprietor, and was there on August 1, remaining at the Park Hotel until August 3. On the first day of the month he was in the bar several times, and after 10 o'clock in the evening he purchased a sealed bottle of whisky.

The bottle was produced in court, showing marks on the paper label written while he crossed over to the sleeping cottage later.

The whisky, the witness testified, was purchased at 10.30 from the brother of the proprietor in the office, and he paid $1.25 for it. The cork was about to be drawn to make the test as to whether whisky was the juice therein, but Mr. Haverson agreed to accept the label as being sufficient evidence, and this action was postponed.

To Mr. Haverson, the witness stated that he assumed the name of McDonald while he stayed at the hotel. He used his own Christian name on the register—"Chris." or "C," he was not certain which.

"How many drinks did you have during the day?"

"I don't know, I didn't keep track; but possibly a dozen."

"How many can you hold up to the neck?" asked the counsel.

"I don't know; I couldn't tell my capacity," said the witness.

The witness said that he wasn't drunk, and that he bough the bottle to produce as evidence. He didn't ask the proprietor for it, as he, (the proprietor) was excited over a noise caused by some river drivers.

"You, a guest of the hotel," asked the counsel, "a wolf in sheep's clothing, bought the liquor to take over to your sleeping room!" The witness asserted that he bought the liquor to produce as evidence.

Mr. Belleau, the other detective, was then placed in the box, and to Mr. Moore he stated he drank some liquor during the day, but none after ten o'clock. Regarding the bottle purchased he corroborated Hansen's evidence.

In cross examination the witness stated to Mr. Haverson that he went under the nom de plume of either Foster or Smith at Burleigh Falls, and thought he used the Christian name of Frank. When asked why he had used an assumed name, he stated that he did not wish to be known or his game would be blocked.

The witness further stated that he saw others served that evening after ten o'clock in the office.

Mr. Elias Williams, inspector for East Peterborough, was called, but Mr. Haverson admitted, without hearing evidence, that the hotel was run by Mr. Darcey.

This concluded the evidence, and Mr. Haverson in summing up, stated that the offence, if committed, was of very little importance, and he thought that the means taken to secure a conviction were unjustified.

The Magistrate said that he could do nothing but make a conviction under the circumstances, but considered that the means taken to secure the unlawful sale, taken by the detectives were not all that could be desired. They should have gone to the proprietor himself, he considered, to make the purchase, and not have accepted it from his brother. The Magistrate nevertheless fined Mr. Darcey the minimum fine, $50.00 and costs.

Mr. Moore, on behalf of the Crown, stated that it was only the desire of the Government to attempt to prevent the illegal sale of liquor, and said that they had decided to drop the similar charge of the following day. The Magistrate considered the mistake was too often made of charging the wrong party with the offence.

LIGHTNING STRUCK BED THESE GIRLS SLEPT ON

Were Not Aroused by the Shock but by Following Fire

Peru, Ind., September 14. — Lightning struck the home of D. J. Bush, of Newcastle, Ind., and destroyed the bed on which the Misses Maggie and May were sleeping. The bolt entered through a telephone wire. The bedstead was splintered and the bedding and mattress set on fire.

It was not until the fire was gaining headway that the young women were aroused and the fire was extinguished with difficulty. The house was only slightly injured. The bedstead stood near a stairway, and pieces of it were found in the room below. The young women escaped unharmed and were not even shocked.

Public School Teacher's Presentation to Mr. Walker

Pleasing Affair Yesterday Afternoon When Departing Inspector Received a Travelling Bag From Teachers. Address Read by Mr. Wm. Smith

A FORMAL FAREWELL

In the Fourth Book class room of the Central School, after four o'clock yesterday afternoon the teachers of the public schools assembled to bid farewell to Mr. Duncan Walker, for ten years the inspector of the public schools of the city. The affair was a very pleasing one, showing the good feeling that not only exists among the teachers themselves, but it testified to the esteem in which Mr. Walker is held by the city teachers as a result of his kindness and consideration to them during his administration.

The Address

Mr. W. H. Walkey of the West Ward school, occupied the chair, and called upon Mr. William Smith of the Central school, to read the following address to Mr. Walker:

Dear Mr. Walker:

It is no mere matter of form, when we say that we learned with deep regret that you had resigned your position as Inspector, and Supervising Principal of the public school of Peterborough.

Your integrity of character and courtesy of manner have increased our respect and esteem for you with the advance of time, and when we think of severing our association with one so talented for nicely discerning, not only in matters pertaining to the profession in general, but in matters affecting our schools in particular, we do indeed keenly feel our loss; and we trust and hope that the gentleman appointed to follow you in this particular capacity, may prove a worthy successor.

We thank you for your wise counsel, which was at all times so freely given, and in all cases seasoned with sympathy and justice.

But as "sunshine follows rain," we we take pleasure in the thought that your eminent success during ten years sojourn in Peterborough, is but an index to your still greater success in the more extensive field of usefulness which you have undertaken, and should it be your lot to return to Peterborough as an educator and citizen, you will meet with a warm welcome by the teachers of the public schools. And before saying farewell, we ask you to accept this Travelling Bag, which we trust may remind you of the well wishers of the teaching staff, over which you have so long and so efficiently presided as Inspector and Supervising Principal.

Signed on behalf of the teachers of the public schools of the city of Peterborough.

Mr. Walker's Reply

Mr. Walker made a very feeling reply in which he expressed his deep gratitude to the teachers for their kindness, and said that he felt that he was not worthy of all the eulogies which they had paid him. He was modest in his words and tried to disclaim the compliments which they extended him. He would always remember the teachers of the city for their assistance in furthering his plans by their hearty co-operation.

Mr. Walker said that his promotion came unexpectedly to him and he thought that it was not so much due to his merits as it was a compliment to the standing of the local schools and the importance of Peterborough as an educational centre. However, he was happy in leaving the city knowing that he had the best wishes of the teaching staff. He regretted his severing his connections with the Peterborough schools at a time when his aims and labours were beginning to be realized and bear fruit. The School Board, he said, was a most progressive one and educational progress is slow but the time is now mature when Peterborough will be an important educational centre due to the enterprise and ability of the members of the Board.

Mr. Walker referring to the teaching staff of the public schools in the city, said, that the schools are well equipped with good teachers who are doing good work with the scholars. The pupils were well behaved and show the effects of good teaching and discipline and is fact, he said, the schools were a credit to the city. Before concluding, Mr. Walker made mention of his successor Mr. Mowat, of Brockville, as a scholar and a gentleman, who would win the respect of those whom he met. Mr. Walker and Mr. Mowat were students together at University, where he was held in high esteem. Mr. Walker again thanked the teacher and expressed the wish that God would attend them in their future lives and bring them continued success.

Mysterious Disappearance Of Fenelon Falls Youth

Peg-Leg Probably Perished in The Waters Near the Falls—Went Out in Boat Which Was Found Later

PERCY O'DONNELL'S FATE

Fenelon Falls, Sept. 14.—The fact that a week has passed without trace having been found of Percy O'Donnell, the young man who disappeared from a row boat, strengthens the conviction that he has met death by drowning. The facts of the case are that on Saturday morning young O'Donnell, who came to Fenelon Falls a few months ago and has been staying with Mr. E. Glaspell, and other relatives scoured a boat for the purpose of going fishing and several hours afterwards the empty boat was found on the river with the oars floating beside it and a trawling line out the full length with one end caught on bottom and the other fastened to the boat. The entire circumstances pointed to a drowning accident and since that time search is now practically assured as up to the present time nothing further has been seen or heard of the young fellow except the finding of his cap near the scene the next day. A diligent search is being kept up for the body but as the water at the place where the boat was found averages about 80 feet in depth the work of dragging is very difficult. The young man lost a leg some years ago in an accident and despite the fact of a peg-leg he was very active and it is a mystery how the accident happened.

Most Artistic Five Cent Theatre in The Country

"The Crystal", Peterboro's Latest Amusement Place Will Open Next Week—A Magnificent Entrance Being Built

BLAZE OF ELECTRICITY

"The Crystal," Peterborough's latest amusement place, conducted by the Edwards Amusement Company, of which Mr. W. A. Edwards, of Berlin, is at the head, will throw open its doors to the public some time next week. The little theatre is one of the handsomest in Canada, in fact there is only one in Toronto that can compare with it for artistic fixtures and decorations.

The front of the theatre will be magnificent when completed. The store formerly occupied by the B. Y. Moyse firm, has been completely remodelled, the front part being turned into an arcade formed by a graceful arch, and running back about six feet. The arcade will be painted a pure white, the walls being done in white tiling, while a number of large mirrors add to the bright effect. At the top of the arcade at the rear, is a partition of crystal glass, and and below is the office for the cashier, which is enclosed in plate glass.

The front will simply be a blaze of electricity, as three hundred coloured electric lights will be used. The arcade will contain several rows of lights, and outside, running up to the outside of the building, will be an immense electric sign, while still more lights will be placed above the entrance, which is said to be the most splendid in Canada.

Inside the theatre has been decorated with the same lavishness. The walls have been re-papered in attractive colours, and the wood work has been stained. Hanging baskets of flowers will also be used for decorating purposes. The building will seat 150 people comfortably, and the floor has been elevated so that the entertainment can be seen from every part of the hall. A neat stage has been erected at the rear, and will be enlarged in a short time.

At first the programme of "The Crystal" will consist of moving pictures and illustrated songs. Only the newest slides and the latest songs will be used, and the company has secured a professional singer of recognized ability. The moving picture machine is one of the most modern in Canada, with the latest type of lenses. Later on when the stage is made larger a continuous vaudeville performace will be put on.

Mr. Fred Cook has the contract for the painting and decorating of "The Crystal," while the tiling and electrical fixtures are being supplied by the firm of McGregor & Reid.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in you issue of last night an article referring to the acceptance by David Hartley of the challenge of Jimmy Reynolds, of Port Hope. Also it was stated in the same article that Hartley walked in the neighbourhood of 6 1-2 miles in one hour from Bridgenorth to Mr. Mervin's (butcher shop, and that he had beaten Sergt.-Major Brittain's time made some weeks ago. Now I know both these walkers and I will back Sergt.-Major Brittain against David Hartley any day in a walk from Chemong to the city. I will bet $5 even money that the Sergt.-Major will reach the post office here before Mr. Hartley will Mervins' butcher shop in a walk from Chemong, both walkers to use nothing but the heel and toe step. Any time Mr. Hartley is willing I will put up the five.

Yours, etc.,
PEDESTRIAN.

MR. DENNIS HAYES HONORED

A SUPPER FOLLOWED

An interesting gathering was held last night at Geo. Thomas' restaurant, when several of the fellow workmen of Mr. Denis Hayes, in the Packing Department of the Quaker Oats Company met to spend a social evening with him prior to his departure from Peterborough for Rochester, where he will reside in future with his parents. A toast list had been prepared and bright speeches characterized the gathering.

Earlier in the day Mr. Hayes was made the recepient of a handsome leather travelling bag, from the the same set of men. An address, copy of which follows was read by Mr. P. Naish, who also made the presentation:

Dear Dinny,—It was with the deepest regret that we learned of your decision to leave our midst and try your fortune in the country across the border.

We can assure you that we will miss greatly your smiling face around the mill, and your place will be very hard to fill. By your genial nature and good fellowship you have made yourself very popular with the boys, and our best wishes accompany you in your new field. While we are sorry to have you leave us, yet we know it is for your advancement and that you will do everything in your power to uphold the good name of Peterborough.

We ask you to accept this suit-case as a slight remembrance of the good times spent together, and trust in your travels it will remind you of your friends at the Quaker Oats Company mills, Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the boys,
J. P. NAISH,
H. FITZGERALD.

Peterborough, Sept. 13, 1907.

Mr. Hayes made a suitable reply, expressing his thanks at, and appreciation of, the kindness shown by his friends. He assured him that he should always remember them.

MEDICAL PROFESSION IS THE GREATEST COMBINE EXISTING

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — I notice in the Examiner a letter from Dr. Gray, in which he presents his "ultimatum," in regard to reporting cases of infectious diseases. In the course of his letter, Dr. Gray says: "The medical profession owes nothing, and is under no obligation to any Government, City or Municipality under the sun; but, on the contrary, it is persecuted." This reminds me of the opinion of Festus of St. Paul, when the latter argued his case before Agrippa. "Paul, thou art beside thyself, much learning doth make thee mad."

Dr. Gray says, forsooth, that the "medical profession owes the Government nothing." It owes its authority to practice to the government, and, besides, what is much greater, it owes to Government legislation, the statutory power which makes the medical profession the greatest combine for holding up the public now existing, as Dr. Gray would say, "under heaven." Dr. Gray may be all right on diagnoses and doses, but he utterly fails to realize the responsibility of himself, and the profession to which he belongs, towards the public and the government of the province.

Yours truly,
CONSISTENCY.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Lakefield Liquor Case Remains Undecided—Proprietor on August 3rd, To Determine Outcome

EVIDENCE RE TRANSFER

The judgment in the case against J A Lawless for the alleged selling of liquor at Lakefield, August 3rd, still hangs in the balance. The evidence in this case was begun yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and left over until Mr. Ed, Quinn, of Lakefield, arrived towards the end of the afternoon. The judgment in the case, which was reserved by Magistrate Edmison, will depend wholly upon whether Mr. Lawless was in possession of the Lakefield House on August 3rd, at 6.25 p.m. or not.

Mr. Quinn stated that he acquired the lease of the property from Mr. Lawless on Aug. 1st, but did not move in until August 6th. He paid all the bills from the first of the month and and he also received the earnings of the house from the boarders from the same date. He did not, however, receive the bar earnings until after the 6th.

To Mr. Haverson he stated he was entitled to get the receipts from all sources of the hotel from August 1st, as the lease dated from that date.

Mr. Lawless and Mr. G. W. Hatton in the witness box testified that an agreement by which the former took over the Rockland House at Bobcaygeon was drawn up on July 26th and was signed August 1st, so that Mr. Lawless was proprietor of that hotel from the beginning of August. The same witnesses stated that Mr. Quinn took over the business of the Lakefield House, that the lease dates from August 1st, that the agreement was signed by Mr. Lawless on the morning of Aug. 3rd, and by Mr. Quinn on the afternoon of the same day. The charge was for selling at 6.25 in the evening.

This evidence concluded a long day's session in County Police Court, and upon it being recorded the magistrate decided to reserve judgment.

The prosecution, which at first decided to consider the first case only then decided to follow up with the other charges of selling 10 and 20 minutes afterwards, and these will be heard in two weeks' time.

WEDDING BELLS

HUTCHINSON-BURTON

St. John's Church was the scene of a pretty wedding this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Celia Laura Burton, daughter of Mr. Edward Burton, of Toronto, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Charles J. Hutchinson, also of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Davidson. The bride was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Hutchinson, while the groom was unattended.

The happy couple received the compliments of their friends at the home of Mr. O. LaBelle, Charlotte street, where the post-nuptial functions took place.

THE NEW JANITOR WAS APPOINTED

Robert Wilson Was Selected Out of Forty Five Applicants by the Property Committee

The members of the Property Committee of the City Council had more to worry them last night than they have had at any time since they were elected, when the applications for the position of janitor for the city buildings were considered. No less than forty-five men wanted the position and the choice of the committee finally settled upon Robt. Wilson, formerly janitor of the Y.M.C.A., whom it was thought was best suited for the position.

There was considerable difficulty in coming to a decision in the matter. The names of the applicants were first read out with their references and the members of the committee were asked to select three or four as their choices for the appointment. By this process of elimination the number was reduced to eight and finally Mr. Wilson was selected.

The salary attached to the position is $450 and the duties include the taking care of the various city offices and property and also acting as messenger for the officials.

Mr. Wilson will therefore be the janitor if the recommendation of the committee is accepted by the council on Monday night.

The Partridge Season Is Ushered in on Monday

Peaceful Days of the Bird Belong to the Past—Partridge Families Broken up by The Hunter

SOME MEANS OF ESCAPE

On Monday morning of next week, September 16, the season for the hunting of partridge begins, and on that day these feathered hermits of the forest will be, for the first time, aroused from their halcyon dreams. The partridge is a bird sought by the hunter, not so much for its pleasant taste, but more on account of the pleasures of the chase, and man's pride in stalking, successfully, the silent bird. During the day it secretes itself in the interior of the forest, but in the morning dawn and towards the close of day it ventures forth to the edges of the clearing and feeds on the most wholesome food to be found.

The partridge is a bird not easily killed by the inexperienced hunter. Its methods and modes of escaping capture are many and varied—a fact known to all who have ever tramped the woods in quest of the bird. A sharp eye and a true aim are necessary requisites. There are many exceptions to its customary habits.

The bird, when startled, will sometimes remain quietly on a limb in one of the most secluded spots of the tree and watch intently the hunter with his gun pass beneath. Often, when the danger is passed, the bird will leave its concealment after the hunter passes, only to fall a prey to his trusty gun. The "whistling" of the partridge very often betrays its presence, and before it begins to fly is killed. Yet this wily bird has many means to escape capture when a dog is not used to follow its flight, and frequently succeeds in eluding its pursuer, when a different movement would prove the termination of its existence.

THE HEALTH OFFICER WRITES LETTER

Goes to the Garden of Eden for Precedent for Action of the Chairman Board of Health

ADAM THE FIRST ONE

Editor of the Examiner, —

Dear Sir, — It is unfortunate for the chairman of the Board of Health that he should again appear in print. This time he denies that he traduced the Examiner. I have known the Examiner for a long time, and I have always found it reliable. It would have looked better if the chairman had thought of this excuse in his first letter, or even when the Belleville papers were sending the evil tidings all over the country about Peterborough sitting in sack cloth and ashes with an epidemic of typhoid fever.

Then the chairman tried to shift the blame of everything on the Health Officer. This is an old device. It had its origin in the garden of Eden, when our good Mother Eve—blessings on her heart! — said "the serpent beguiled me and I did eat." And the sad refrain has come down the centuries with our fallen race, even to the present time. In a parting word I beg to say that as far as the writer is concerned, there is nothing personal in this matter, my duty to the city compelled me to write as I have done. The chairman, as a successful farmer, I understand, was a very estimable gentleman, but, if it is asked has the chairman the proper qualifications to make him a safe and useful member of a Board of Health, I am afraid that Charity herself must hide her head and weep.

J. BINGHAM.
Medical Health Officer.

A LOCAL FISHERMAN RETURNS EMPTY HANDED

Mr. Jno. Jayes Visits Stoney Lake For Two Days

Mr. Jack Jayes of the Munro House returned to-day from a two weeks' holiday, which was finished this week with friends in Warsaw. Mr. Jayes had an unsuccessful cruise on Stony Lake on Thursday and Friday in quest of some representatives of the finny tribe. On the former day his desire for making a capture was tantalized by a couple of niboles, but on the latter there was not even the sign of a fish in the lake. Mr. Jayes' intention was to startle his friends with reports of the catch of a monster fish, but that desire remains unappeased.

A DOG QUESTION WAS DISCUSSED IN COURT

A Peculiar Case of a Dog That Had Apparently no Owner

The question of a tagless, disowned dog was a stickler at the Police Court this morning. A George street grocer appeared on the charge of harbouring a King Charles dog which did not have a tag. The grocer said that when he moved into his present place the previous tenant left a dog which refused to leave the house. The grocer said that it has come and gone to his place, he has tried to get it away by not feeding it and turning it away as if he had no use for it, and could not have it about the store. The former tenant could not keep it, and the police would not shoot it, and the grocer is in a quandary.

Mr. Dumble offered to take the dog, as his had died, but the grocer said that a man had called and taken it away a week ago. His Worship did not know just what to do, but told the grocer to find the owner or have the dog killed by next Thursday, or it would cost him something.

ENGLISH IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE HERE TO-DAY

Weather in England is Rather Cold at Present

A train load of English immigrants passed through the city to-day, and among those who detrained at Peterborough was Adjt. Osburn, wife and two children, of Keithley, Yorkshire. The adjutant is a friend of Mr. Jos. Thomas, of the local branch of the Army, and although not a bandsman has been connected with a corps which boasted of the best army band in England. The adjutant is, of course an officer in the army, and, if he remains in Peterborough, will certainly be connected with the local corps. Adjt. Osburn is a cobbler by trade and should find employment in the city. He came over on the Empress of Britain, which landed at Quebec on Thursday, after a fairly pleasant trip. He stated that the Old Country is experiencing extremely cold weather for the season, and the people are wearing winter apparel. The Adjutant and his family in fact were clad in heavy clothing, and were surprised to find the weather here so congenial. They are greatly pleased with the country and are confident that they are going to like it, and will do all they can to succeed.

P. C. McGINTY DOES A FAST STUNT

Chased a Gang of Boys This Morning Near G.T.R. Tracks

There was apparently a theft of iron committed this morning or last night from a coal car filled with scrap iron standing on the most easterly G.T.R. siding between Charlotte street and Simcoe street. A gentleman saw a gang of boys, gathered in parties, at these two streets about 8 o'clock this morning, and then all but two watchers disappeared. Mr. Sandy, of the G.T.R. station, afterwards walked up the lane beside Perkins, Ince, & Co.'s warehouse, and came upon the boys doing something Mr. Sandy deemed necessary for a policeman to take a hand in. P. C. McGinty was called, but just before he arrived the boys got scent of danger, and seeing Mr. Sandy, they nearly all disappeared like a colony of rats. When the officer arrived the boldest took to flight to the amusement of those who happened to see the pursuit.

It is thought that the boys were hiding stolen iron, but it will not be known unless a police court case results.

THE COMMITTEE ROOMS RENOVIATED

Are Being Re-Painted and Papered—A Great Improvement

The committee room used by the various civic bodies in the city buildings is being so improved that the city fathers will have difficulty in recognizing it when they meet there again. The room has been enlarged by the removal of the wash room to the west. The woodwork is being repainted and stained and new paper put on the walls, making a decided handsome interior. The firm of Sharpe & Manning is doing the work.

The business of the Peterborough Mattress Company has changed hands, the new proprietor being Mr. James Ellis, who has been in possession some little time now. It is understood that it is the intention of Mr. Wm. Faint, who formany years has conducted the business, to remove with his family to Toronto in the not far distant future. This business is one of the oldest in Peterborough, and under Mr. Faint's management has been a success. The new proprietor, Mr. Ellis, is a practical man, and will no doubt conduct the business in a manner which will ensure its continued prosperity.

HATCHED CHICKENS IN A TREE

Peculiar Stunt of a Smith Township Hen —Somewhat of a Bird

An unusual occurrence took place on Mr. Jas. Baptie's farm in Smith this summer. A hen made a nest in a tree near the barn and hatched out nine chickens, all of which she successfully raised. Mr. Baptie was unaware of the hen having a nest in that particular spot until one day he noticed several chickens around the tree that had fallen out of the nest. There must be something of a bird about that hen. —Lakefield News.

COL. HELLIWELL BURIED AT STIRLING

Orangemen and Militia Turned Out in Large Numbers

Mr. Joseph Batten, Grand Chaplain of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland, was in Stirling yesterday attending the funeral of the late Col. Helliwell. The deceased was a prominent Orangeman and soldier, and the funeral cortege was a very long one, about 500 men walking in the procession, including Orangemen and militiamen, the majority of the latter coming on a special train from Belleville. The grand officers of the Royal Black Knights officiated as honorary pall bearers.

There will be no evening boat to Stony Lake to-night, nor for the balance of the season.

CHORDS REPORTED AS BADLY BENT

Important Evidence in Quebec Bridge Investigation.

WORKMEN KNEW OF DEFECTS

Statements by Men Who Were on Bridge at Time of Collapse—Structure Was Continually Vibrating —Foreman Were Informed But Only Ridiculed — Electrician Says Chords Were Buckled.

Quebec, Sept. 14.—Quite sensational was the account of the collapse of the Quebec bridge, told before the Royal Commission yesterday by two men who went down with it, and by James Johnson, foreman of the labor gang removing timbers, who was only a few feet away.

The latter mentioned heard the locomotive on the bridge run out and a sound as if a piece of iron had fallen. (He saw the stringers parting then started to run, glanced back and saw the whole thing wave. There was a cloud of smoke over which the wooden false work fell straight back towards the shore. He could not say positively what part fell first nor could he say if it was the stringers or chords that he had seen go.

Another man, Ingwall, said the big traveler was hoisting up a couple of timbers at the time of the accident. He was 10 feet from the top of the traveler, near the front, about 500 feet above the water. The bridge went fast until it struck the water and then slowed up. He remained on the traveler all the time and could not move. The water was well upon him and he had to stretch to breathe and lost two fingers. It seemed as if the bridge had just tipped. He never personally had seen any defects, but heard others talk of the bottom chord and quite a few of the men went down and looked at it the night prior to the accident and said it was kinking in.

Alex. Boisvert, now in the hospital at Levis, said that every time a piece of metal fell the bridge vibrated, and every time the shock would make the men afraid.

D. B. Haley explained his testimony concerning defects in the structure by the aid of plans. He marked on the plans the panels of the chord which he said were bent and which he had seen when standing on the third panel of chord nine. He also noticed that the lacing was bent in chord eight. In chord nine both centre lacings were bulged. There were also two or three bends in the rib in panel nine, two or three feet in length. At the splice where the chord in question joined the other he could see that, although the coverpiece was there, that the joint had never been properly riveted. He reported the matter to three of the foremen. He did not report to Mr. Yonser, as he would only have laughed at him. Yenser understood his work, as shown by his opposition to the carrying of the traveler further out on the bridge, and the fact that he did so upon compulsion and against his own better judgment.

Witness heard Yenser say to Birks: "Why in he— don't they let me take down this d— traveler and get the d— load off."

He testified that the work was behind hand because of strike on Aug. 8, lasting three days, due to the fact that the Phoenix Bridge Co. brought Americans here to work on a promise to pay their expenses both ways, which was then repudiated, the matter being regarded by the men as a plain steal.

When Birks was spoken to of the deflected chord he said: "You fellows are getting prematurely alarmed. The thing is perfectly safe."

Dominique McCumber worked on the bridge till 2 o'clock the day of the collapse. He saw a defect in the sixth joint from the pier on the down stream side, and as he had some folks at home he quit work.

Edward Britton, electrician on the bridge, did not work on Aug. 28. In the office he heard Yenser and McClure say that two or three chords were badly buckled.

Quebec Relief Fund.

Quebec, Sept. 14.—The relief fund for the victims of the disaster of the Quebec bridge amounts to $7,544, apart from the subscription of the Provincial Government. It has been decided to close the fund on Monday evening.

RUSSIA TRIED FRAUD?

Alleged Discovery That Alaska Boundary Evidence Was Forged.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—A despatch from Winnipeg states that some ancient Russian documents have been unearthed in Alaska, which materially affect Canada's position on the Alaska boundary question, showing how Russia forged evidence of early occupation of the Pacific coast, and that one of the documents was a direction to the Governor of Alaska in 1836 to bring secretly tablets bearing the Russian coat of arms to various places on the coast.

Dr. W. F. King, Dominion astronomer and chief adviser of the Canadian section of the Alaska Boundary Commission, says that this incident has nothing to do with the boundary question.

"Those tablets," said Dr. King, "do not decide anything, and were not referred to at the time. They may be all true, but they could have no bearing on the boundary question. The boundary was determined according to negotiation for treaty between Great Britain and Russia in 1825.

"What did Russia know about Canada in 1838? Canada was then two provinces, and they were separated from the rest of the territories by the whole of the Northwest. If there were any documents with Russia at that time, they would have been between Russia and Great Britain, but certainly no reference to Canada at all. Canada did not have any port until 1871.'"

LUSITANIA MARKED EPOCH.

Proves Supremacy of Turbines Without Smashing Record.

New York, Sept. 14.—The giant turbiner Lusitania of the Cunard line fleet came into port yesterday on her maiden voyage with a new record of 5 days and 54 minutes between Queenstown and New York.

The Lusitania failed to lower the hourly speed average of 23.58 knots, made by the Kaiser Wilheim II. of the North German Lloyd line, though she covered the distance between ports in an average of 23.01 knots, which is a record for maiden voyages.

Capt. Walls said when the time comes for record-making, after her machinery is in thorough order, the Lusitania will be the empress of the sea.

The Lusitania, the largest ship afloat, was given a royal welcome on her arrival, and it was a continual ovation from the time she sped past the Sandy Hook lightship and made her way through the Ambrose Channel, the first ocean liner to enter the new fairway, until she was safely warped into her dock.

SAILED FOR CANADA.

General Booth Leaves London to Start New Campaign.

London, Sept. 14.—Men and women wearing uniforms of the Salvation Army filled Euston railroad station here yesterday morning, to bid farewell to General Booth, who left London for Liverpool, where he will embark on the Allan line steamer Virginian for Quebec, in which city the veteran commander will begin a campaign which is to extend over Canada and the United States.

The "seventy-eight years young" general, as he describes himself, appeared to be quite as hearty as possible, considering his age. From the railroad car he handed the reporters a message, as follows:

"Once more good-bye, dear Old England. I leave your shores on what I believe is the Master's business. As I contemplate the future, I rely more than ever on the old panacea for lessening the ruins, inequalities and tyrannies of the world—namely, the regeneration of the individual by the power of God."

STOWAWAY'S TRAGIC DEATH.

Jumped Into the Sea and Was Devoured by Sharks.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—News of the horrible death of a stowaway, William Brown, who was devoured by sharks under the eyes of the vessel's crew, was brought by the steamer Annetta from Jamaica yesterday. Brown was deported after being refused permission to land here on the last trip of the Annetta. As he was nearing Kingston he jumped into the water to escape the authorities, who punish stowaways. Hardly had his body struck the water when sharks surrounded him, and before assistance could be sent he was dragged under the waves and devoured.

Noble Charged With Treason.

Coblenz, Prussia, Sept. 14.—Further arrests have been made in connection with the extensive betrayal of military secrets.

There are now fourteen persons in custody, of whom twelve, including four civilians, one of whom, it is said, belongs to the nobility, will be charged with high treason.

The two who will not be arraigned on the charge of high treason will appear as witnesses for the state, but they will not be released before the trial, which in all probability will be held in secret.

Debtor Jailed.

St. Catharines, Sept. 14.—Alonzo Lacey of Port Colborne was summoned to attend division court at Port Colborne as a judgment debtor because he owed Dr. Hutton a little bill of $22 and refused to settle. Lacey refused to obey the summons to court. County Judge Wells of Welland sentenced him to ten days in Welland Jail.

ANOTHER SERIOUS TRAIN WRECK

Engineer and Fireman Hurt In Rear-End Collision.

CARS SMASHED TO SPLINTERS

Muskoka Passenger Traffic Delayed Many Hours Through Derailed Freight at Kleinburg—Engines Reduced to Scrap Heap—Neglect to Raise Semaphore Causes Accident—Conductor Blamed.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The derailment of a number of freight cars on the C. P. R. line, about a mile north of Kleinburg, last night, beside resulting in considerable damage to rolling stock, blocked the line for passenger traffic, making it necessary to send the Owen Sound train, bound for Toronto, around by way of Teeswater, and to trans-ship passengers bound for points between Toronto and Bala.

Latest reports indicate that the smash-up was a severe one. The freight train was a long one, of about twenty cars. The engine and most of the cars stuck to the rails when the jolt came, but several were smashed almost into matchwood, and their contents, general way freight, scattered about in heaps. One of the cars is lying across the rails.

An auxiliary was sent out from Toronto Junction at 11 o'clock last night, and details generally were meagre. Advices indicated that four or five freight cars were lying beside the track above Kleinburg, 18 miles north of Toronto Junction.

Superintendent Smith, who has supervision over terminals between Toronto and Owen Sound, went to the scene of the wreck immediately on receiving advice of the happening. No one is reported injured.

So completely is the main line blocked that passengers on the Muskoka train, due here about 8.15 p. m., did not arrive at the Union Station until more than two hours later, while those on the Owen Sound train, also due here early in the evening, did not reach Toronto until about 11.40 p. m. The outgoing train for Bala had to be used to convey passengers to Kleinburg, where they boarded the stalled trains in waiting, and were carried on to their journey's end, while the delayed occupants of the other coaches were trans-shipped in the same way.

G. T. R. FREIGHT WRECKED.

Nine Box Cars Smashed to Splinters —No Signal Given.

Detroit, Sept. 14.—The second wreck on the Grand Trunk within two weeks occurred at Royal Oak Thursday afternoon at 2.45, when a Detroit-bound regular freight, running behind a "double-header," crashed into the rear-end of a way freight unloading at the depot.

Nine box cars were crushed to splinters; both engines on the rear train were reduced to a scrap heap. The engineers and firemen barely escaped with their lives by jumping.

The cause of the accident seems to rest in the fact that the semaphore, which should have warned the train behind that the other was still on the [illegible] into place. Some blame the conductor of the advance freight for this negligence. Others say it was not his business to handle the semaphore.

REAR-END COLLISION.

Wreck on the Wabash at Cayuga Early Yesterday.

St. Thomas, Sept. 14.—Robert Elliott, engineer, and J. McMullen, fireman, both of St. Thomas, were slightly injured in a rear-end collision on the Wabash-G. T. R. at an early hour yesterday morning, near Cayuga.

They were in charge of a light engine when they overtook a freight near Cayuga. Before the engine could be stopped they were into the rear of the freight, the engine being thrown from the track and several cars derailed and damaged.

The engineer and fireman escaped serious injury. It was reported about town that Fireman McMullen had been killed, but the Wabash officials state that both men were only shaken up. The auxiliary left for the scene about 7 o'clock.

WARNED BY A DREAM.

Engineer's Strange Experience Averts Serious Railway Disaster.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 14.—Confidence in a dream probably averted a big wreck on the Northern Central Railroad.

Previous to reporting for duty at the round-house, Engineer Jas. Burd, who hauls the Buffalo flyer, leaving Harrisburg at 11.10 p. m. dreamed that his train had run into a landslide at a point between Dauphin and Halifax, 15 miles from here. He told his dream to several round-house attaches, but they laughed at him.

Engineer Burd, to ease his mind, determined to run slowly after passing Dauphin. So, speeding his train up to the limit till Dauphin was passed, Burd slowed up, and it was well heeded, for at a point some distance north of Dauphin, identical with the place he had seen in his dream, the engine plowed into a landslide. Going slowly, the engineer was able to bring his train to a stop with little or no damage.

Dies at Ball Game.

Detroit, Sept. 14.—Enthusiastically a Tiger fan to his very last breath, George Stanley Dean, 28 years old, 241 Marston court dropped dead of heart disease while watching the first game of the Detroit-Cleveland doubleheader at Bennett Park.

Just before he fell he exclaimed: "I hope Wild Bill strikes Lajoie out." This last earthy wish was gratified, for as several men were carrying his lifeless form to the box office the umpire called to Lajoie: "Three strikes; you're out."

Dean was standing in the pavilion, just back of first-base, when seized with the fatal stroke. The game reached a very critical stage and the excitement, it is believed, over-taxed the fan's weak heart.

LIKE BOXER OUTBREAK.

Comparison Between 'Frisco and Vancouver Jap Riots.

Tokio, Sept. 14.—In The Hochi last evening Count Okuma contrasts the anti-Japanese disturbances at San Francisco with the Vancouver riot, briefly, as follows:

"The latter occurrence must not be placed in the same category as the former. The San Francisco authorities directly or indirectly countenanced the acts of the rioters, while the Municipal Government was a centre of corruption, almost a state of anarchy prevailing. I liken the San Francisco riot to the Boxer outbreak. President Roosevelt's attitude at first was very fair and admirable; but, after his conference with a delegation from San Francisco, a change came which sadly disappointed us.

"The Vancouver incident was quite different. It was an outrageous act, limited to laborers, and supporters. The local authorities sincerely did their utmost to suppress the riot and protect our countrymen. They even went so far as to give permission to our compatriots to take measures of self-defence. The sincerity so fully evidenced of these really worthy local authorities of our ally in their effort to protect our rights make us confident of effecting a satisfactory solution of the deplorable situation.

Will See Sir Wilfrid.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Consul-General Nosse of Japan stated last night that Ishii, the commissioner whom Japan has sent to Canada and the United States to enquire into immigration conditions, will reach here on Monday afternoon and will discuss the Vancouver incident with Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

To Avoid Trouble.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 14.—The steamer Woolwich, now due, with Japanese from Yokohama, is expected to discharge its human cargo at North Vancouver in order to avoid the possibility of a riot.

Will Discuss Asiatics.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—The big question before the Trades and Labor Congress, which opens on Monday, will be the Asiatic problem, and, according to opinion of delegates already here, drastic action will be taken.

President McVitty of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council last night said that British Columbia would fight to the last ditch for the exclusion of Orientals.

Other important problems before congress will be the formation of an independent labor party, modeled on Great Britain's.

Want Dominion Police.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 14.—City Solicitor Cowan last night pointed out to a committee of the council new features of the Asiatic situation. He advocated that Ottawa be asked to police the city's growing foreign quarter at the Dominion Government's expense.

It was also suggested that the government be asked to erect an immigration shed here for the foreigners, owing to the unsanitary condition of many of their present temporary homes.

The third feature revealed a scheme by which many Chinamen obtain refunds from the Dominion of the $500 head tax. Entering the public schools, they remain long enough to prove the claim that they are students. Some up to the age of 24 are now attending the public schools. The city will adopt Cowan's suggestion and limit Celestial pupils to 16 years of age.

Johannesburg Interested.

London, Sept. 14.—(C. A. P.)—A special despatch here yesterday says that Johannesburg is watching the present situation in British Columbia with the most intense interest. Opinion there is increasing to the effect that the Imperial Government will soon be forced to consider the position of all Orientals at present living, and especially those who are to come to the British colonies.

Marine Signal Service.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—A portion of a new Government marine signal service between Montreal and Quebec was inaugurated yesterday, the points ready for operation being Montreal, Longue Pointe, Three Rivers and Batiscan, while Sorel and Vescheres will be added in a day or two. Other points nearest Quebec will be connected shortly.

The service is a telephonic one, the Government having its own special wires. Heretofore the St. Lawrence has been without such a service between Montreal and Quebec, and past experience has been that points on the river have at times been almost as hard to be into communication with as some place on the other side of the Atlantic.

Injured by Explosion.

Farnham, Que., Sept. 14.—Yesterday morning an explosion of about 30 pounds of powder took place in the Canadian Pacific freight shed at Farnham, injuring severely the freight porter, Morrison, burning his face and body and hands. He was immediately taken to the hospital, where he was promptly attended to by Dr. Slack. The explosion, which was heard from a considerable distance, did not do much damage to the building or its contents and the cause of the accident is unknown. The fire brigade was called to the scene, but their services were not required.

No Sunday Sports.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Archbishop Bruchesi made the announcement yesterday that any sporting events on Sunday would not be countenanced.

This was as the result of a proposed lacrosse match between the Nationals and Shamrocks on Sunday.

Makes Sure of Death.

New York, Sept. 14.—John F. Trommer, one of the family of brewers, committed suicide Thursday night in East New York. He first stabbed himself twice in the breast with a carving knife, and then turned on the gas in his room.

Trommer was 26 years old and unmarried. It was understood that he recently was engaged to be married, and that the engagement had been broken off.

Broker Arrested.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—J. D. Edwards, manager of the Investors' Protective Association, formerly of Toronto, was arrested yesterday by Constable A. E. Morris on a charge of theft in the sale of 5,000 shares of Panhandle.

THE BURGLAR HAD HIS NERVE

Night Operator Robbed by Masked Intruder.

LOCKED VICTIM IN BOX CAR

Thamesville G. & R. Depot Scene of Daring Exploit — Thief Ransacked Office But Only Secured $30—Escaped on Train—Man Held at St. Thomas on Suspicion—Cap May Lead to Clue.

St. Thomas, Sept. 14.—John Millen, star pitcher of the St. Thomas ball team last year in the Western League, South African veteran, and at present night operator on the Wabash-G. T. R. at Thamesville, was confronted at 12.30 o'clock yesterday morning with the cold steel of a masked man's revolver.

The operator was alone. Only the tick of the telegraph instruments could be heard, for the midnight robber moved stealthily. So suddenly did he come upon Mr. Millen with his order of "Hands up!" that the latter could do nothing but obey.

The robber then forced the operator, under cover of his revolver, out of the station and into a box car standing near. Millen was then locked in.

The robber was alone and only partially masked. Above the mask Mr. Millen noted that he was of dark complexion and dark hair and dark eyes. He would be between 25 and 30 years, standing about 5 feet 5 inches and between 145 and 155 pounds. The robber wore a dark suit and a light brown cap with dark peak. The cap fell off during his ransacking and in his hurry to get away he left it. The cap may yet prove a clue for the police, who have been notified all along the line.

Answering the robber's description, a man was arrested here yesterday morning on the arrival of an eastbound Wabash train. He was found on the tender of the engine and was at once suspected of the crime. The railway authorities, however, say that though the prisoner may be a pal of the robber, he cannot be the man wanted, as the train on which he came passed Thamesville before the hold-up took place. Moreover, the man under arrest had only 15c on him, and the robber had got away with considerably more than that. The desperado secured $30 in cash and the operator's revolver. The man arrested here by Sergt. Ketchabaw gives his name as R. J. Ross of Woodstock. He was remanded until Millen can identify him.

The hold-up man is probably the same one who operated in a similar way at the M. C. R. station at Ridgetown last week.

FAINTS ON HEARING SENTENCE.

Eva Strangeways Condemned to One Year's Imprisonment.

New York, Sept. 14.—Eva Fox Strangeways, who swindled a number of business houses by bad checks, was sentenced yesterday by Judge McAvoy of the General Sessions Court to a year in the penitentiary. She had pleaded guilty to two indictments for grand larceny.

She was arrested in Toronto some weeks ago, being caught after having swindled several hotels and business houses here. One of her victims was Susan B. Clarke, a dressmaker, from whom she got $189 worth of goods on a bad check.

The young woman, who has been a governess and done some writing for western magazines, expected to get off with suspended sentence, and when she heard that she would have to stay a year in jail she collapsed and had to be carried from court.

FIREMAN DROWNED.

Became Entangled in Loop Line and Was Pulled Under.

Kingston, Sept. 14.—Passengers arriving yesterday morning on the steamer Toronto brought the news of the drowning of a man at Charlotte, N. Y. He was a fireman on the tug Florence Yates of Charlotte. The tug was assisting in turning the steamer around and the fireman's foot caught in the eye of the line. He shouted to those on board that he was caught and the line was let out its full length.

It was supposed that he had been able to free himself from his dangerous position, but when the line was pulled in the deckhands were horrified to see the fireman's body hanging on the end of the rope, his foot being fastened tight into the loop.

Where Rebels Meet.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 14.—The Council of Ministers has ordered the closing of all the dormitories attached to the institutions of higher learning here and at Moscow, basing its action on the admission of the police that they are unable to prevent them from being used as meeting and hiding places for revolutionists.

Moors Get Ultimatum.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Gen. Drude, the French commander, gave the Moorish tribesmen until this afternoon to visit him and accept the conditions which he specified.

Peterborough Seconds to Play In The Junior O.R.F.U. Series

Club is Organized Last Night With Bright Prospects—In Affiliation With the Senior Club

WANT SUITABLE DISTRICT

A Rugby club known as the Peterborough Juniors was last night organized at the Y. M. C. A. at a well-attended meeting of the younger enthusiasts of the game. The club further decided to become affiliated with the Peterborough Seniors organized on Thursday night and to enter a team in the junior series of the O. R. F. U., providing a suitable district could be found with Peterborough in it. A district which will meet with the approval of the organizers will include the lake towns of Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg, and possibly Trenton and Lindsay to the interior or any number of these or others not too far distant from this city.

As far as practises are concerned no definite arrangements have yet been made but it is the intention of the club to get the men into the field with as little delay as possible.

The question of forming a junior club in Peterborough for the purpose of placing a team in the O. R. F. U. has been discussed for some time informally on the streets by many, and in a more organized fashion at the meeting last night. It was believed that the only manner to keep up the interest in the game, in order to provide material for the higher ranks when the present players drop out, was to institute a junior club to bring out the young and inexperienced men, who, with a year or more tuition will make good in a rugby suit.

It is therefore the intention of the officers and management of the Peterborough II's Club to welcome all those wishing to play the game and to choose the team according to the merits of the players, as shown in practise.

Last night the chair was occupied by Mr. E. E. Sisson, who, after the decision was reached to organize, supervised the election of the following officers:

President—R. F. McWilliams.
Vice-President—Chas. A. Barber.
Secretary-Treasurer—B. T. Huston.
Manager—S. Carniff.
Executive Committee—Crawford Rush, Thos. Kelly, Bert Lord, Jas. Doris, Roy Walker.
Team Committee—Secretary-Treasurer, manager and captain.

"The captain will be elected after beginning of practice.

A MIDLAND LEAGUE GRADUATE

Wallace Formerly of Bowmanville Leads Sotate League

Wallace, whom local fans will remember as the catcher for the Bowmanville team in the Midland League two years ago, has played great ball in the Empire State League, won by Chaucer Elliott's Oswego Club. The official records show Wallace to lead the league both in batting and fielding. His fielding percentage, as catcher, is the highest in the league. Wallace played here several times and caught the memorable game in Oshawa, when the Petes were defeated by Bowmanville in an exhibition game.

WANTED ARGOS AND TIGERS TO DROP OUT

Big Fight at the Meeting of the O.R.F.U. Executive Last Night

Mr. T. W. McDonough was in Toronto last night, attending the meeting of the O. R. F. U. Executive, and reports there was a big fight over the senior series. The Vics and Peterboroughs, with Mr. J. B. Hay, Secretary of the O. R. F. U., wanted the Tigers and Argonauts to withdraw their team from the O. R. F. U., leaving the rest of the clubs to form a senior series. Neither the Tigers or Argos wanted to take this step until the final fate of the big four was discovered. Finally the matter was compromised, the Hamilton team and the Argos agreeing to notify the committee next week of their intentions. Whether the big four goes through or not depends on the action of the C. A. A. U. to-night. If they reinstate the Eastern players, who were professionalized, the union is a certainty. If not it will in all probability be abandoned.

TWO HARRIERS TO RUN FOR THE WARD TROPHY

Ray Best and Ernest Wilson Will be After the Ward Silverware

In addition to Simpson and Howard, the Hiawatha Indian runners, there will be two more Peterborough runners in the Ward race in Toronto on October 12th. Ray Best and Ernest Wilson have decided to try their luck at a fifteen mile run and will be found in the ranks of those in chase of the Ward trophy.

Both Best and Wilson are, or will be by Oct. 12th, in fine training for the run and should not be far behind in the finish of the fifteen mile race.

MORE RUNNERS OUT WITH THE HARRIERS

A 3 1-2 Mile Run Last Night—Are Getting Into Good Shape

The Y. M. C. A. Harriers were out for another run last night and it incidentally was the best of the season. The sprinters began at Murray street, ran to the Oval, around the track two or three times and back again to the Y. M. C. A., a distance of about three and a half miles. In addition to those who have already been out there were last night Sanderson and Bruce. Dick Baker looked after the boys in the run and believes there is some extra good material for the Examiner Road Race this year.

BASEBALL

It has been arranged to have the team which wins to-day's game at Port Hope play a series of games with the Wellingtons, city champions of Toronto. It is likely that one game will be played in Toronto and a second either in Peterborough or Port Hope.

• • • •

It was rumoured this morning that Port Hope's pitcher for this afternoon's game would be Fred Hickey, the crack twirler of the Wellingtons, of Toronto, who has won eight out of nine games pitched in the Toronto City League this season, and who leads the league in batting.

The senior Young Crescents Rugby Club organized last night at the Y. M. C. A., with the election of the following officers:

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, September 14. — Bear pressure was again evident in the steel stocks to-day, the common falling below yesterday's low figure, to a new low record for the year. Interest now attaches to the quarterly report for the current three months which will be made to the end of October. While it is believed that the showing of net earnings will be gratifying, still there is every reason to think that the amount of new business booked will show as great a falling off as compared with last year as was exhibited in the report for the preceding quarter.

We hardly believe that the decline in the common has run its course, especially as there is a very large public interest outstanding in this stock and the bears are persuaded that they can successfully attack this leading industrial security in the hope of bring out further important scattered liquidation. The reduction in the selling price of copper by the principal selling agencies announced to-day is not expected to bring in much more business than came with the recent cut to the 18 cent basis. Independents seem to have plenty of copper for sale and are willing to supply the demand at rates below 16 cents, while surplus stocks are, admittedly, very large.

We look for renewed attacks from time to time in this section of the list and no upward movement of permaneney, until the copper metal situation is thoroughly cleared up.

The London market was dull and about steady with some better support noticed in the copper department. The American list rallied a little in the late dealings, though O P R and Anaconda were off 1-2. Foreign houses had no orders to speak of in this market.

The Tallest Trees.

Australia rivals California in the matter of possessing the tallest trees in the world. The California "Big Tree"—Sequoia Wellingtonia—sometimes grows to the height of from 300 to 335 feet, with a trunk 25 or more feet in diameter. The tallest American tree is the red wood—Sequoia sempervirens—which in some instances has attained the height of 400 feet or even more. In Australia the tallest trees are found in Victoria. There are, indeed, records of Australian trees approximating 500 feet in height, but these are taken to be exaggerations. It seems well enough established, however, that there are trees in Australia which tower upward of 256 feet into the air. Trees have been found in Africa which fall not much short of 400 feet in height.

Forty-seven years ago to-day—that would be September 14, 1860 — His Majesty King Edward spent the day in Peterborough. At that time he was a royal stripplING of 19 years of age, and those living in Peterborough who met and interviewed "the Prince," as he was spoken of at that time, had little idea that the callow lad, in external personal appearance, separated from the state with which it was necessarily environed, would develop into what he is to-day, one of the greatest kings who ever sat upon the throne of England, and to-day the wisest sovereign of the greatest empire in the world — King Edward VII. the Peace - maker. Great as was his august mother, he is a worthy son and successor. He might, during his visit to this great agricultural country, have developed agricultural instincts which may have led him to a temporarily strenuous cultivation of "wild oats"—but years ago he left the farm, and when his royal mother died, succeeded — an honourable and worthy occupant—to the greatest throne of history. "Long may he reign, and, to that end, God save the King."

During the visit of the Prince to Canada in 1860, he laid the cornerstone of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, and opened the Victoria tubular bridge at Montreal. Other important past events happened that year. Winnipeg was founded, the first Provincial Synod of the Church of England was held in Montreal, and the Art Association was founded in Montreal. The population of Canada at that time was a little over half of what it is to-day—3,175,000.

AN HISTORIC CHURCH

OLD CHIPPAWA BUILDING HAS A STIRRING STORY.

Parish Dates Back to 1820—Many of Canada's Pioneers Rest Beneath Its Shadow—Burned by Rebels—King Edward Worshipped Within Its Walls—Jenny Lind Sang There—Links With the Past.

It has been said that the history of a nation is written in its churches, and this applies to Canada as to other lands. Among our Canadian churches it would be difficult to find one of greater historic interest than old Trinity of Chippawa. Seated in its churchyard, with a decayed and sleepy village on the one hand and peaceful agricultural lands on the other, this venerable place of worship gives no indication that its tale is one of pioneer devotion, rebellion, fire and ruin, renewed honor and prosperity, and final decay. Trinity Church was founded prior to 1830, and was originally a humble frame structure, painted white, with Gothic windows and a steeple, pews of the old-time straight sort called "slips," painted white, with a walnut molding round their tops, and a lofty pulpit and reading desk, one above the other. But these things are gone with the original church itself. Rev. William Leeming was its creator. He came from England in 1820, and early Canada had no nobler missionary. He was rector of the parish of Chippawa and Stamford from 1820 to 1863. His church in Stamford—old St. John's—is older and only less historic than Trinity of Chippawa.

The first fifteen years of Trinity's history were years of fatness. Chippawa was booming. All the traffic of the Welland Canal passed up and down the Welland River, for the Lake Erie extension of that big ditch had not been built. The famous portage around Niagara Falls had its southern terminus here, and wharves, warehouses, foundries, engine works, mills and stores lined the waterfront and streets. The horse-railway from Queenston to Chippawa — the first railway operated in Canada—was then an important artery of traffic. All businesses flourished, and Trinity Church shared in the general prosperity. Its congregation in those days included the Cummings family, the Macklems, Streets, Kirkpatricks, Clarkes, McMickings and Hepburns, Thomas Cummings, a United Empire Loyalist, founded Chippawa in 1773. His son, Capt. James Cummings, was a militia officer in the war of 1812-14. His grand-daughter became the wife of Rev. Canon Brent and mother of the present Bishop of the Philippines. A great-granddaughter married Hon. James Crooks of Flamboro' West and became the mother of Hon. Adam Crooks. Samuel Street was the father of Thomas C. Street, for many years a member of the Parliament of Canada. He built the famous Bridgewater mills, which were the first industrial concerns to be run by Niagara water power. They were burned by the American army on its precipitate retreat from Lundy's Lane on the morning of July 26, 1814. Gilbert McMicking was a member of the old Upper Canada Legislature. Col. the Hon. Thomas Clarke, whose remains rest in the shadow of the church, was a noted member of the Family Compact. His wife was an Indian woman—a member of the Ker family, related to the Brants. James Macklem, a native of the north of Ireland, came to Chippawa in 1790. He did business as a miller, distiller, merchant and ironfounder, and his descendants are well known in Ontario to-day. The honored provost of Trinity College is a grandson. Of the Kirkpatrick family little need be said; the name has been honored in Canada for a century.

Of these old families but few descendants remain. Some of them are entirely extinct—notably the Streets. They were intensely loyal to the British Crown and in 1837-38 gave great assistance to the forces under Sir Allan MacNab which were operating against the rebels under Mackenzie on Navy Island, close to Chippawa. In those days Chippawa was once more, after 23 years of peace, a military camp. The rebels were finally forced to abandon the island and disperse, but the revengeful spirit which prompted the destruction of the first Brock's monument on Queenston Heights and the cruel assassination of the Loyalist, Capt. Edgeworth Ussher, near Chippawa, was also directed against Trinity Church, and in the early hours of the morning of Sept. 13, 1839, a rebel hand applied the torch and the old frame building was soon a heap of ruins. With it went all the old records—valuable then—priceless they would be to-day.

In 1841 Bishop Strachan laid the corner-stone of the present edifice, the foundation of the burned structure being used for the new church. In due course it was finished and in the thirty-seven years which have elapsed [illegible] But now the pews are different, there is a new organ (built in 1877); memorial tablets and memorial windows perpetuate the memories of the founders. But Trinity is the same as of old—quaint, historic, charming. In 1863 the aged founder passed to rest, mourned by the whole district in which he had labored so long. Rev. D. J. McLeod, a son-in-law of Dr. Fuller, first Bishop of Niagara, was the second rector and was succeeded in 1879 by Rev. E. J. Fessenden. In 1891 he moved to Ancaster, and Dean Geddes served the church for a time. Rev. Canon McKenzie was rector from 1893 to 1902, when, being the oldest native Church of England clergyman in Canada, he retired. He died in Milton a short time ago. Rev. J. Allen Ballard, now rector at Grimsby, came next, and was succeeded in 1905 by Rev. J. Hirst Ross, the present rector.

Trinity Church has had many noted worshippers within its walls. In 1860 King Edward VII., when, as Prince of Wales, he visited Canada, attended Sunday service here. Jenny Lind worshipped and sang here in 1852 and presented the church with new curtains, of which she saw it was much in need. Laura Secord was a regular attendant during her long residence in Chippawa, where her husband was Collector of Customs. Trinity's glory is in the past. Branches of the old families have reached to every part of the world. Men baptized at its font have won to high places in public life and lived far away, but when they lay their burdens down their mortal remains are brought back to Trinity laid before its altar for the last time and then consigned to a resting-place where these hallowed memories are all about and the sweet tones of the old bell sound ever a requiem for the days and the men that are no more.

IGORROTES' SIMPLE LIFE.

Primeval Simplicity of Filipinos at National Exhibition.

Side by side with the most highly developed examples of modern civilization at the National Exhibition, both in its human and mechanical phases, there was shown at the Igorrote Village one of the most interesting and unique studies by way of contrast that could well be imagined. The transition from the bewildering array of scientific triumph to the primeval simplicity of these children of nature was really startling and nothing could illustrate in a more effective manner what as enormous change has been effected in the modes of living during the past few centuries. Whether the change has been beneficial is greatly doubted by many of the thousands who witnessed the peaceful life and the air of contentment that surrounds these natives of Luzon as the freedom from care and evident disregard of all the nerve-racking obligations of modern social life appeal strongly to those who are compelled to participate in the latter-day strenuous contest for existence.

The Igorrote village was located at the entrance to the Midway, in the most prominent location on the grounds, a favor extended by the management on account of the wonderfully extensive interest taken in these peculiar people. Within the walls were to be found a large group of the natives—men, women and children—who live in the grass-thatched houses to be found in the Philippines. On the right of the entrance was to be seen a young woman who has just entered on the experiment of marriage. She has been taken on trial, according to the custom of the Igorrotes, and should the test result in motherhood, she will be married with a ceremony lasting several days. Once permanently married there will be no divorce, as there is no tradition of any separation where a child has survived.

Another interesting personality is that of the first Bontoc Igorrote baby to be brought to this country. His name is Wai-yi, and he is now a little more than two years old. He has been in the country only a few months, but is rapidly acquiring a knowledge of English, and was quite a pet with visitors. At times he parades in modern dress, but evidently prefers the scanty raiment of his ancestors, and even takes delight in escaping from such restrictions and disporting in only his beautiful bronze-brown complexion.

Scattered throughout the village, working at forges and other forms of employment, were various members of the group engaged in their usual daily tasks. In the centre of the village the entire population participated in war dances and other tribal ceremonies, such as spear-throwing contests.

The Cure.

"How's your wife?"

"She's having constant trouble with her head."

"Can't the doctor help her?"

"No—nobody but the milliner."

A Patriot.

"Say, Freddie, what's a patriot?"

"Oh, it's one of those fellows who tries to make something out of his country."

NEWFOUNDLAND RIGHTS.

Premier Bond Opposes Clause of the Agreement.

State Department advices received at Washington from London, where Ambassador Reid is conducting directly with the British Foreign Office negotiations looking to the adjustment of the Newfoundland fisheries question, indicate that the main obstacle to a complete agreement lies in the opposition of Sir Robert Bond, the Newfoundland Premier, to the renewal of that paragraph of the modus vivendi of last season which legalizes the enlistment of Newfoundland fishermen as members of the crews of American fishing smacks. It is assumed that the Premier's objection is based not so much upon the actual employment of these shore fishermen at lucrative wages on American fishing vessels, a matter of pecuniary loss to the colony, but rather from an unwillingness to admit, even in a modus vivendi, that a colonial law, such as prohibits their employment in this manner, may not invalidate the treaty provision to the contrary. A number of alternative propositions have been advanced from the Newfoundland side, but meanwhile, failing an agreement on a modus vivendi in Newfoundland, it is the understanding that a truce will prevail, by the terms of which American fishermen will continue to ply their vocation on the coast of Newfoundland, according to the terms of the agreement of last year.

Wives Wanted.

A cry for wives comes to England from the French-Canadian settlers in the Canadian Northwest Territories (says "P.T.O."). A Roman Catholic clergyman in Alberta is contemplating trying a scheme suggested to him by the disconsolate bachelors of his parish for supplying them with wives. Women, except squaws, are scarce in the Canadian Territories, and there is an absolute absence of young marriageable women of the same race and religion as the struggling settlers who have gone out there from the French parishes of the Province of Quebec. The priests are anxious to see them married to wives of their own nationality and faith, so as to encourage the growth in the Northwest of a French-speaking and Roman Catholic population. Judging from the wonderful natural increase of the French-Canadian nation in the Province of Quebec, the supplying of wives and mothers to the Northwest settlers is all that is necessary for the early establishment of an equally populous settlement on the western prairies.

Under the Bed.

She was telling a circle of sympathetic friends about the burglar scare in her home. "Yes," she said, "I heard a noise, so I got up at once. There under the bed I saw a man's legs sticking out."

"Good gracious," exclaimed one of the ladies, "the burglar's legs!"

"No, my dear. They were my husband's legs. He had heard the noise too."

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

Priest Urges His Young People To Enter Matrimony

Long Courtships, He Believed, Were Unnecessary and Should Be Avoided—Dearth of Weddings Lamented

THE GIRLS ARE WILLING

In a recent issue the Catholic Record says:

Whatever is becoming the matter with the Catholic young people of the United States? During the last twelve months not less than twenty clergymen in the country have found it necessary to advise marriage from the altar.

The latest is the Rev. Father Biegel, of St. Joseph's church, Elwood, Indiana, who created a flutter of excitement among the younger members of his congregation recently when he admonished the boys and girls of marriageable age that the time had arrived when dilly-dallying in courtship should no longer be tolerated, and that they should get married at once.

Long courtships, he said, should be avoided, and when they concerned two members of his parish where wholly unnecessary. He told them that they had grown up together, and understood each other as well as it was possible for them to do unless they were occupying one dwelling. There had been a dearth of weddings in local Catholic circles, and the advice of the holy father is expected to stimulate activity in that direction. The pastor stated that there were one hundred good, pure, girls in his parish, who were ready to say "yes" to any good, hard-working, honest man who popped the question.

There will be no New England-Puritan array of old maids and old bachelors in the United States if the voice of the Catholic clergy is heeded.

POPULAR LADY ENTERS THE CONVENT

Miss Gertrude Egli of Montreal Comes to Peterborough to Enter St. Joseph's Convent and Will Take the Veil

The Montreal Witness, referring to the departure of a young lady from that city for Peterborough, recently, said:—

PASTOR ASKS GOD TO RAIN ON FAIR DAY

Tents are Put Up On Sunday and Rain Causes a Loss

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 14. — Because some of the concessionaries of the New England Fair "Midway" put up tents on Sunday, Rev. Orson E. Mallory prayed for rain to spoil the fair's business.

It rained.

The officials, who admit the fair will end with a $6,000 loss, are very unhappy. The farmers and the general public, disappointed at not being able to see the fair, are criticising the clerical petition for rain. The concessionaries, who paid for ground privileges, and whose work last Sunday in getting their tents and booths ready, called down the wrath of Mr. Mallory, are also disturbed.

Mr. Mallory says he did pray for rain and is glad of it.

NEW BOYS' CLUB'S OFFICERS

Active Organization Connected With Knox Church Formed For Work Among the Boys

HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

Last night the officers of the newly organized Boys' Club, of Knox Church, were elected and plans for the future work of that organization were discussed. The meeting was presided over by Mr. H. Wilkey, and after the constitution had been adopted, the following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Rev. J. J. Keith.
Hon. Vice-President—Mr. H. Wilkey.
President—W. Perks.
Vice-Presidents—Religious, W. Buyers; Missionary, W. Taylor; Literary, L. Ingram and Social, F. Coleman.
Secretary—R. Thompson.
Treasurer—W. Shannon.

Meetings, embracing the four branches indicated above, will be held each Friday night, and, judging by the enthusiasm displayed by the boys there is a bright future for the club. At the conclusion of the business last night refreshments, of ice cream and cake, the former supplied by some of the young men of the church, and the latter provided by the generosity of the ladies, were served.

Membership in the club is confined to boys between the ages of 10 and 18 years.

T.A.S. ARE CONSIDERING CHANGES

Trustees are Aiming at Increasing the Privileges for Members

An important question that is receiving the careful consideration of the trustees of St. Peter's T.A.S. is the abolition of the Literary Society's tickets, which are annually issued for the use of the library. A decision has not yet been reached, but the point at issue is whether the funds will be obtained by fees alone, and the society thus be made self-supporting, or will the present methods be retained? The question is broader than it appears to the casual observer, but the members of the Trustee Board have brought out every point in favour or against it, and the matter will soon be decided.

If the change is made, the society will offer many advantages which do not go with the simple membership fee at present, and only members of the society will have all the privileges.

The society will make a special effort to increase its membership during October, and will have a better list of concerts this winter than ever before.

PREPARATION FOR THE WINTER'S WORK

Special Service will be Held To-Morrow Morning at St. Luke's Church—Rector's Preparatory Sermon

The rector of St. Luke's has called upon all the church workers to attend a special service to-morrow morning at which he will preach a special sermon preparatory to entering upon the winter's work. The members of the different societies are invited to attend Holy Communion.

The Sunday School and Mr. Turner's Bible Class will resume their session at 3 o'clock to-morrow.

Spiritually hungry ones are specially invited to attend these services.

Examiner Special.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Sept. 13.—Rev. S. W. Gamble, of Olds, Alberta, Canada, has accepted the challenge of the State Adventist association which was made in this city a few weeks ago, to produce a text from the Bible proving the right to observe Sunday as the Sabbath. As soon as the Adventists have deposited their $1,000 reward in a local bank Rev. Gamble says he will come here and not only prove that Sunday is the Biblical Sabbath, but also prove that Saturdayianism is totally un-Biblical and unhistorical.

Mr. B. Lastar has recently made three or four lucky purchases in closing out stocks of millinery, ready-to-wear garments, furs and furnishings at about 38 cents on the dollar. LAKE STREET SCHOOL OPENED THIS MORNING

Children Highly Pleased With Their Attractive Class Rooms

The Lake street school, with its two room addition, and numerous changes and improvements, opened this morning to the largest number of pupils in its history. There were 229 pupils, an increase of at least 60 as a result of the boundary that has been practically named, and also the fourth book, junior and senior, which is now taught. Sister Patricia is in charge of this class room, and the pupils who try the entrance from this school should be well prepared. There are 41 pupils in the fourth class, which is a good number for the commencement. The Lake street school is now composed of six rooms, which are modernly equipped, and with the latest and best methods of ventilation. Everything was done for the pupils' health and the sanitation has received careful attention.

In the infant class a Kindergarten equipment has been provided, and will be a standard work at the school henceforth. Rev. Father McColl was present this morning, and urged the children to study well, and obey their teachers, so that harmony between teachers and pupils may be a feature of the school.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT AT POLICE STATION

Sweet Sounds There To-Day—Mouth Organ is Found

The latest addition to the police station is a musical instrument, and many who passed by to-day were greeted with the sweet sounds emanating from the interior. It has not been definitely decided who the permanent police musician will be, as it appears that all are after the position of first fiddle. P C. Meharry, being an expert on the instrument found, may get the preference.

A mouth organ was picked up on the streets to-day for which the chief wants an owner.

The Fall Opening of the J. C. Turnbull Co's Millinery parlors will be held on Thursday, Sept. 19th and following days when the latest ideas in Ladies' Trimmed Hats will be on exhibition and Ladies' Coats, Skirts, Blouses, etc., will also be on display.

WOULD YOU SUPPRESS ANY IMMORAL POSTERS? "YOU BET I WOULD" SAYS THE CHIEF

But Rev. Mr. Applegath Says They Were Displayed on Peterborough Streets Last Week—So-Called Christians are Lacking in Courage

A MISTAKE, SAYS CHIEF

Head of Police Force Says He is on The Look Out for These Bad Posters and Would Order Them Covered if They Appeared

Is the law with respect to the exposure of vicious posters, advertising shows, not being enforced in this city?

According to the opinion of one visitor to Peterborough, it is not, and a charge to that effect was made against the authorities by Rev. C. S. Applegath, in the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday morning.

This is his statement: "In this city during the past week, the boys and girls on their way to and from school, have witnessed on the billboards scenes of acts of violence, which are contrary to the laws of this country. They are allowed because the so-called Christian people of Peterborough have not had the courage to go to the authorities, and say that the violation of the law must cease."

In reference to the statement of Mr. Applegath, the Chief of Police informed the Examiner to-day that he was inclined to think that a mistake had been made by the preacher. He had not noticed any immoral or objectionable posters on any of the Peterborough streets this week, and and thought that it must be Hamilton, or some other wicked place that he referrred to.

"You are on the look out for posters that offend the moral sensibilities of the people, and would order them covered if they were placed on the streets, would you not?" the Chief was asked, and his reply was characteristic. This is it:

"You bet I would!"

Hired Man Disappears, Ditto Sum of Thirty Dollars

HE LEFT SEVEN DOLLARS

A farmer's trousers, with $37 in one of the pockets, left hanging in the hired man's room, the disappearance of $30 of the money at the same time that the hired man left, is the brief story of how a farmer named Payne, from North Monaghan, trusted his hired man, not wisely, but too well. Early this morning Mr. Payne drove into the city to seek legal advice as to what he should do in the matter, being very anxious to regain the money which he is confident was taken by the hired man.

The latter had worked for him last spring, and when Mr. Payne paid him, the money was taken from the trousers that were hanging in the hired man's room. Mr. Payne is, therefore, certain that his helper knew where the money was kept, and is, in fact, the guilty party. When the man returned a short time ago to get work, Mr. Payne hired him, and the man worked but a short time. He left suddenly one day last week, but Mr. Payne did not notice the disappearance of his money until Saturday night, when he was about to pay a boy who is working for him. Mr. Payne has the utmost confidence in this lad and will not consider the idea that the boy had anything to do with the alleged theft.

Stole Thirty Dollars

The money that was left in the trousers pocket, in the same room as last spring, was composed of a twenty-dollar bill, a ten, a five and a two, and only the five and two remain. Mr. Payne made inquiries about the city, and learned that the man paid his board here with three one-dollar bills, but this does not present a clue. He called at his doctor's, where the hired man owes a little money, but he had not been there. The man's home is at one of the C.P.R. stations between Peterborough and Toronto, and Mr. Payne believes that the man intends to go West on the harvesters' excursion, and is in a quandary as to what step to take. He was told that it was his own fault that the money was gone, as he should not have left it where it was a temptation to his hired man. It is not likely that he will get the money back, and there is not much evidence against the man whom Mr. Payne claims to be guilty.

Stoney Lake Saw Mill Burns Early on Sunday Morning

Belongs to Messrs. Lynch and Ryan—Loss is Estimated at $2000 and is Partly Covered by Insurance

FIRE AT GILCHRIST'S BAY

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, Sept. 16.—Fire broke out in the saw and shingle mill at Gilchrist's Bay, Stony Lake, on Sunday morning and destroyed the mill property belonging to Messrs. Lynch and Ryan. So far as can be learned here, there is no cause yet assigned to the blaze, which swept over the mill site, making a loss estimated at $2,000.

The flames were first discovered shortly after 3 o'clock, but despite everything that could be done to save the buildings, they were burned to the ground. They were partly covered by insurance, but the amount is not known, and nothing has been stated as to the plans of the proprietors for the reconstruction of the mills.

The reflection of the flames, it is reported, could be seen all over Stony Lake and presented a picturesque appearance during the darkness of the night.

Is There a Gold Field in Burleigh Township?

American Mining Man Reported to be Looking for a Vein Which His Father Discovered

WORKING NEAR BUCKHORN

A report comes from Buckhorn that a young American mining man is prospecting in Burleigh township in the hope of finding a vein of gold. It is stated that the father of the young man is question while holidaying at Buckhorn discovered a quantity of the mineral which an assay showed to be decidedly rich. Before he could take any advantage of his discovery, however, the father died, leaving somewhat vague directions to his son who is now endeavouring to find the spot described by his father. He believes that there is gold in the township and is making a vigilant search for the precious metal, which he has reason to believe exists in the neighbourhood.

A BRIDGENORTH MAN IS INJURED

Falls From Scaffold With Barrow of Cement and Cuts His Head

Mr. Wm. Cullen, county constable at Bridgenorth, met with a rather severe accident on Friday last while working in the village. He was assisting in the construction of a new cement stable for the Kelly Brothers, when, in wheeling a barrow of cement around a scaffold, the boards broke and he fell through. In the fall, he cut his head severely above the eyebrow and sprained his ankle. Nothing serious, however, is anticipated.

THE ALL RED LINE

The attempt of the Lusitania, the leviathan among steamships, to break the trans-oceanic record, gives a fillip to the fortunes of the All-Red Line. This steamer has broken the record for speed, having made a run of 593 nautical miles in 24 hours. Alongside, and contemporaneous with this achievement, is the feat more momentous to Canadians and Britishers, of one of our own boats, the Empress of Britain, of the C. P. R. Line. This steamer left Liverpool on Friday, and delivered her mail in Montreal on the next Saturday morning. As a matter of fact, in spite of the boasted record of the Lusitania, the mails by the Empress of Britain were delivered in Toronto and Chicago hours before those arriving by the great Cunarder. The Empress of Britain is not, by comparison, an ocean greyhound. The Allan liners, with their seventeen to eighteen knot turbines, have made records similar to the Empress of Britain.

If twenty-five or twenty-six knot steamers, such as would and will, serve the All-Red Line, were in commission, the All-Red route, would for mail and passenger service, beat any combination of steam speed which could be brought against it. Then the All-Red route would remove the reproach of British mails reaching Canada by New York, and the conditions would be reversed — the mails would reach New York by way of Canada. We can easily hold what we have. With the fuller development of the resources of this country, Canada will be in truth, as in poetry, "the granary of the Empire." It seems quite logical that Canada should be also the highway of the Empire.

MR. BORDEN'S EXPLANATION

Ottawa Free Press.

The Minister of Justice evidently hit the bull's-eye when, in his speech at Dundas on Tuesday night, he stated in effect that if the petition against Mr. R. L. Borden were ever tried at Halifax it would result in the disqualification of the leader of the Opposition. The best proof of the efficacy of that speech is the manner of the "explanation" which it produced from Mr. Borden at Peterborough last night. His reply is that Mr. Aylesworth "is reckless and irresponsible"; that he did everything in his power to bring the trial of the cross-petition against himself and Mr. O'Mullin to trial; and that "Mr. Aylesworth's wild and irresponsible insinuations are absolutely devoid of the slightest foundation."

It is very easy to make sweeping general assertions of this nature. But what the people of this country want are specific denials.

Will Mr. Borden deny that he was responsible for men who handled the vast campaign fund which was expended, not only in Halifax city and county, but in every constituency in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in 1904?

Will he say that he did not have any negotiations with the general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, as the result of which a note was discounted, the proceeds of which were to be used for election purposes?

Will Mr. Borden argue that although he "was only in Halifax for three days" during the campaign of 1904 he was not responsible for the actions of his agents in that constituency? When it was the case of Mr. Fleming in Queen's-Shelburne last winter, Mr. Borden argued that a candidate was responsible for the acts of his agent. If it was so in the case of the Minister of Finance, why not in the campaign of the leader of the Opposition?

Will Mr. Borden deny that "as late as the general elections of 1904 Conservative heelers were armed with corrupting funds?" That is the statement of his own organ, the Halifax Herald. Is the Herald telling the truth?

Will Mr. Borden please explain also this paragraph from the Halifax Herald published in April last?

"The Conservative central fund for Nova Scotia was somewhere about $75,000. This sum must have been disbursed in about sixteen constituencies, as in one or two constituencies, such as Yarmouth and Guysborough, the Conservative case was so hopeless that it is not likely they spent very much money in them. In some ridings the outpouring of money was very great."

This statement is made by Mr. Borden's own personal organ in his own city. So far, there has been no repudiation of it by the Opposition leader. Until he does repudiate it, it must stand as the statement of one who knows the secrets of the party.

Finally, will Mr. Borden deny that a part of the flood of money which was outpoured from the office of the Montreal Star found its way into the riding of Halifax City and County?

As we said before, sweeping assertions are all very well in their way. What the people want are specific denials supported by proof. Will Mr. Borden give them?

IS THE PEAR RIPE?

Mustapha Kamel Pasha, of the old Egyptian National party, writes to the British premier, demanding autonomy for Egypt. He urges him to remove the stain from England's name by fulfilling the long-standing promise to turn Egypt over to the Egyptians, who, he asserts, have long been capable of governing themselves. That is a question. England found Egypt a quarter of a century ago, in a state of anarchy, and revolution, almost bankrupt, and crumbling under her own rottenness. British skill in the art of government, her patience and wisdom, restored Egypt, brought her to what she is now. England is the best judge of the time to trust Egypt to walk alone. It is not according to British traditions to hold any country, subject and suzerain, which shows signs of the ability of self-government. The Boers of South Africa were conquered, and almost immediately they were given self-government. But the South African Republics, before, and consequently after, British acquirement, were in a far different position from Egypt. They were accustomed to responsible government from the beginning, and peopled by a race that had been under that development of government for centuries. They had served a sufficient apprenticeship. Is this the case with Egypt? It has had only a quarter of a century of experience of the benefits of constitutional government and expert administration. If, as remarked, Britain felt that it could trust the oldest country of the world with self-rule, that boon would not be long withheld. In the meantime Egypt is in good hands. If the Egyptians are wise they will not pluck the pear before it is ripe.

IS IT GOOD FOR SPORT?

Port Hope will, of course, be boasting of having won the trophy in the Midland Baseball League. The claim is, of course, absurd, for not a single Port Hope player figured on what is technically called the "line-up" in the deciding game played at Cobourg on Saturday. Port Hope deserves no more credit than having the luck to hire expert outside players. One cannot fairly condemn baseball of this kind as a business speculation. It may be called sport, but it is not true sport, nor in the interests of true sport. On the contrary, it is distinctly to the detriment of true sport. A purely local baseball team or other local sporting aggregation will not have its spirit quickened nor its zeal intensified, if, after themselves bringing a team into the "home stretch" of victory, it is at the last moment pushed aside and replaced by hired outsiders, and even foreigners, for, as a matter of fact, the game at Cobourg was not a contest between Port Hope and Peterborough at all, but between two Toronto nines. One defeated the other, and the two towns deserve no credit for it—only possibly a little cash. If the bona fide members of either of the two teams have any true spirit they will resent being used as mere conveniences, or catspaws all summer, and then being pushed aside at the moment of victory for one or other local teams. If such conditions are resented, the machinery producing baseball material will be put out of gear, and when the present generation of hirelings passes away the game will decay or deteriorate. The same applied to any other game will have a corresponding effect.

REGIMENTAL STORES ARE TRANSFERRED

Major Stevenson Now Has Supervision of The Stores of the 57th—Col. Young Here

Lt.-Col. Young of Kingston arrived in the city on Saturday night, and to-day supervised the transfer of the stores at the drill hall from Lt.-Col. Miller to Major Stevenson, who, on Wednesday of this week, will become Commanding Officer of the 57th Regiment. This is a necessary action which always occurs in connection with military affairs when a new officer assumes command of a regiment. So that to-day Lt.-Col. Young, Lt.-Col. Miller and Major Stevenson went through the old armoury, taking stock of all arms and equipments, which are henceforth under the supervision of the latter gentleman.

The present colonel of the regiment, on Wednesday, will be no longer in command, and on that day Major Stevenson will be advanced to colonel, and Major Clegg to senior major of the 57th. It is probable that an acting adjutant will be soon appointed by Major Stevenson when he assumes the duties as Commanding Officer.

A fox terrier was expressed to the city to-day per the Canadian Express Company, but was carried into the office on George street only after a lively run in which the driver of the express company participated.

The little canine managed to escape at Dalhousie street but was followed by the driver westward to Park and recaptured again.

In the succeeding stops the expressman took special care of the terrier and carried him under his arm into each store he entered until the office was reached.

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Mrs. J. W. Lang and Mrs. S. Frake

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, chronic kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Lydia E. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for a woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the feminine organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing-down pains, scalding or burning sensations or deposits in the urine, unusual thirst, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back running through the groin, she may infer that her kidneys are affected and should lose no time in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the woman's remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Samuel Frake, of Prospect Plains, N. J., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I cannot thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I first wrote to you I had suffered for years with what the doctor called kidney trouble and congestion of the female organs. My back ached dreadfully all the time, and I suffered so with that bearing-down feeling I could hardly walk across the room. I did not get any better, so decided to stop doctoring with my physician and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am thankful to say it has entirely cured me. I do all my own work, have no more backache and all bad symptoms have disappeared.

"I cannot praise your medicine enough, and would advise all women suffering with kidney trouble to try it."

Mrs. J. W. Lang, of 626 Third Avenue, New York, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a great sufferer with kidney trouble. My back ached all the time and I was discouraged. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure kidney disease, and I began to take it; and it has cured me when everything else had failed. I have recommended it to lots of people and they all praise it very highly."

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from kidney trouble, or any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Out of the great volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than likely she has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

A Compulsory Military Training is Advocated

Thought by Rev. C. S. Applegath to be Means of Developing a Desirably Stability of Purpose in The Youth of Canada

DR. LANGFELDT'S OPINION

Some system of military or other training, by which the youth of the country would be taught stability of purpose, was advocated yesterday morning in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church by Rev. C. S. Applegath, who, in comparing the conditions here with those in Germany, where every man was obliged to spend four years in military service, stated that the effect of this period of military training was seen in the German people, who were noted for their fixity of purpose.

Canadians, the speaker remarked, were, unfortunately, becoming more and more like the people to the south in their habits, and were becoming more fickle. Young men are skipping from one thing to another, and apparently have no definite and settled ideas about what they want to be. Some system of compulsory training—preferably something similar to that in Germany—was, he believed, the remedy for this condition of affairs.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, a native of Germany, and a product of the German system of military training, was interviewed to-day in reference to the statements of Mr. Applegath, and stated that in his opinion the principle of compulsory military training as it is practised in Germany is most desirable. Certain modifications could be made to the system to improve it, however. Speaking of the benefits of this training, he believed that it taught men to obey orders, to endure hardships, to be respectful to their superiors: it developed their physique, made them efficient in the defence of their country, and gave them a stability of purpose, all of them qualities which were calculated to make men better citizens.

Dr. Langfeldt stated that a comparison between men who had been through the military course and those who, because of the necessity for supporting those dependent upon them, or for other reasons, were exempt from serving in the army, was sufficient to prove that this training was beneficial, since those who took it were 100 per cent. better men in every way than those who did not.

When Your Health Fails--What Then?
BETTER TO GUARD AGAINST SUCH AN EMERGENCY BY KEEPING VITALITY AT HIGH-WATER MARK BY THE USE OF
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle.
In these days of strenuous life and keen competition there is no place for tired brains and weak bodies.
Success is for the strong and alert for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy.
It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health, and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion, such as brain fag, headache, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, failure of memory and loss of power to concentrate the mind.
While Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has succeeded in curing many cases of partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, and the most severe forms of nervous prostration and exhaustion, it is not well to delay treatment until these stubborn and dangerous diseases set in.
At the slightest indication of waning nerve force, begin the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and with a few weeks' treatment you will be able to restore the vitality of the body to high-water mark, remove the cause of nervous disorders, and prevent serious results.
Miss Mary Leitch, Coulson, Simcoe county, Ont., writes: "When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system was all run down, and I suffered terribly with nervous headache and sleeplessness. Sometimes I could not sleep for three or four nights in succession. By the use of several boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food these troubles were entirely overcome, and I consider the preparation an excellent nerve tonic."
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—4

LIGHTNING JERKED UP CLOTHES LINE

A SPECTACULAR STORM

A tremendous thunderstorm prevailed over this locality a few days ago, says the Haliburton correspondetn of the Minden Echo. The vivid lightning, accompanied by immediate peals of almost deafening thunder, gave evidence of its nearness. After the storm was over the hill gave proof of the contact by the riddled trees and wide furrows through the surface of the ground. One small branch of the electric fluid descended the chimney of Mr. Bain's house on West avenue, disconnecting the stove pipes and escaped through the floor near the stove in the dining room into the cellar. Mr. Bain, who was sitting about three feet off, where the dart penetrated the floor, was not injured in the least, except being somewhat startled. His two daughters were in the kitchen and were not so much surprised. Another small bolt of lightning struck in the yard beside the home of Mr. George Potts, extracting from the ground a deeply rooted post used for the purpose of a clothes line.

THE WEDNESDAY MARKET FOR WOMEN

Housewives Should Remember They May Then be Supplied

The majority of the housewives of the city are forgetting that there is a mid-week market now. Each Wednesday morning for the past month a large number of farmers and gardeners, with their wives, have driven into the market, with produce for sale, which is in good demand at present. Yet the produce is scarcely is scarcely ever disposed of until late in the day, merely because the citizens forget or do not know, there is a market. Plums, pears, apples, potatoes, etc., have been much in evidence, at the past two mid-week markets, and some or all of these will hold away for several more weeks.

A HYMN IN CHINESE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

Little Girls From China Sing in Chinese Costume

There was a unique feature introduced during the service at the Cold Springs Union Sunday school, of Otonabee, yesterday afternoon. Present at the service was Mrs. Shantz, a Chinese missionary, who at present is visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Jewett of Otonabee, and her two little daughters. The latter are better acquainted with the Chinese than the English language, and yesterday they sang together the hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," as it is in the foreign tongue. The two little girls during their duet were attired in Chinese costume, and, needless to say, their presence at the Sunday school and their singing, were very much appreciated.

Mrs. Shantz and her daughters, leave during the week for the far-off eastern land again.

DOURO FARMER'S BUGGY IS SMASHED

In Collision With Delivery Wagon on Water Street on Saturday Night

According to Mr. Jno. Leeson, of Douro township, Water street is too narrow. This he discovered on Saturday night when in a collision with a delivery wagon his buggy was badly smashed and lay on the street all day yesterday a total wreck. Mr. Leeson claims he was on the proper side of the street when the collision occurred, but on account of the narrowness of it the delivery wagon, when passing, caused the damage.

FREIGHT CARS LEAVE MATTHEWS' SIDING

Refrigerator Car is Overturned—Strikes Buffer and Falls off Track

A miniature wreck occurred in Peterborough yesterday on the C.P.R. siding running into the Matthews Pork Packing establishment. During the afternoon some refrigerator cars were being shunted in to be loaded this morning when the first car was sent against the buffer with more force than intended with the result that it was completely overturned alongside the track. Had the buffer been built on a smaller scale it is probable that the car would have gone through and into the waters of Little Lake.

The front of the next car was also shunted off the track, but the rear wheels held their ground so that it was an easy matter to pull it back again.

This morning a large number of men, an engine and apparatus for lifting up the fallen car were working at the scene of the wreck.

ISOLATED OVER THE OLD FIRE HALL

Scarlet Fever Patient Isolated Near The 57th Band Room

The upper floor of the old fire hall has been turned into an isolation hospital, and the scarlet fever patient about which so much has been heard during the past few days, has been installed there. As far as isolation is concerned the plan is a success, but whether the patient will find it so or not is doubtful. The 57th Band practice just across the hall, which means that the band will either have to stop their rehearsing or the patient will have to stand the harmony at close range.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

AN INTERESTING EVENT SUNDAY

Woodmen of the World Unveil Two Monuments at Little Lake Cemetery

A large number of the citizens attended the beautiful memorial services held at the Little Lake cemetery yesterday afternoon, when the members of the local branch of the Canadian Order of the Woodmen of the World, dedicated two monuments to the memory of two deceased brethren. The weather was delightful, if a trifle warm, and, as a result, a large concourse gathered at the cemetery, which is in excellent condition, the autumnal tints being of most pleasing hues, and in keeping with the occasion, for the flowers and all nature are beginning to fade, leaving a tender sadness on those who can appreciate it.

The two monuments which were unveiled and dedicated were in memory, respectively, of Frederick George Wyatt, who died March 7th, 1907, and Richard Foster, who was called away on the 15th of March, 1907. The monuments are situated on the two family lots, and are lasting testimonials of remembrance of departed brethren. Quite a number of the Sherwood Forest Camp of the Woodmen of the World, that is the local branch, were present in a body, and the branches of the Orders in Lakefield and Omemee also assisted in the ceremonies. The hymns for the occasion were sung by a quartette composed of Messrs. Wesley, Chandler and Coleman.

The visiting officers, who conducted the unveiling ceremonies were Mr. W. C. Fitzgerald, Head Clerk, London, Ont.; Lieut. Cinnamon, Head Adviser, Lindsay; Mr. L. Taylor, Head Manager, Brantford. Several of the local members assisted. The friends of the deceased were present, in each case occupying a position of honour.

The ceremony of unveiling is an interesting one, and is the last rite to the departed member. The monuments will always remind the living of deceased Woodman, who once flourished an active member of the Order. The custom is a creditable one for a member of the Woodmen of the World is assured that he will not be forgotten when he has been called to his reward.

After the ceremonies the Woodmen marched back to their hall in a body.

DIDN'T SAY IT WAS NOT SCARLET FEVER

Dr. Bingham Denys Report That he Disagreed With Diagnosis of Physician

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In Saturday's issue of the Examiner it is stated that I differed from the diagnoses of the medical gentlemen in attendance on the case of scarlet fever in the city. I beg to say that the report is absolutely incorrect; the case in question was a clear case of scarlet fever, of a mild type, as diagnosed by the attending physician.

SUNDAY BASEBALL IN THE CITY YESTERDAY

Citizens Complain of Youths Using Profane Language

Sunday baseball in Peterborough appears to be again becoming prevalent. A citizen informs the Examiner that yesterday a gang of youths played ball on the Burnham Point and were unmolested by the police. Profane language, which could be heard on the west side of the river was quite frequently indulged in by the ball players. This is a practice which should be eliminated, at least, within the city limits.

Lockmasters Tell of The Condition of Canal Water

Men in Charge of Dams at Nassau and in Gull Rivers State That The Water is at Normal Height This Year

BEEN A VERY DRY SEASON

Evidence of two lockmasters on the Trent Canal, in reference to the height of water, was given to-day. Mr. Wm. Lockington, who, for 27 years, has been living at Nassau, and who, since the locks were taken over by the Government, has had charge of the water, and Mr. Peter Grozel, for 17 years in charge of the Gull River waters, were visitors at the office of the superintendent of the canal this morning and gave some interesting information concerning the water this year. Mr. Lockington stated to the Examiner that the water at Nassau dam this season had never been more than half an inch below normal, which is 82 inches.

The only occasions when it went below that was when an extra foot of water was required for floating logs in a drive, and this was only a few times during the season. His statement was to the effect that the water had never been more uniform since he had been living at Nassau than it had been this season.

Mr. Grozel knows all about the waters in the north, and can string off a list of the lakes in his vicinity as long as one's arm. He told the Examiner that in only one year since he has had charge of the dams in the north has there been as dry a season as the present one, but in spite of this fact he has still plenty of water, and, as a matter of fact, he has been allowing it to flow into Balsam and Sturgeon Lakes, with the result that during the last week the level of those lakes has been raised.

A list of the lakes controlled by Mr. Grozel's dams gives one an idea of the immense number of bodies of water in the system tributary to the canal. Here is the list as he gave it to the Examiner:—Percy, Haliburton, Oblong, Eagle, Little Redstone, Big Redstone, Keenes (two), Paint, Crab, Hawk, and Hall's. These lakes all flow into Bushkong, and eventually find their way into Balsam Lake, and thus become part of the canal system.

BANDMASTER GREENE OFFERED LEADERSHIP OF PICTON BAND

One result of the Salvation Army Band's recent trip to the lakeshore towns, which, owing to Bandmaster J. M. Greene's modesty, has not been made public, was reported to the Examiner by a gentleman to-day. Mr. Greene, after the band's performance in Picton, was offered the leadership of the Picton band at a tempting salary. The offer was not for an army band, for there is not one there, but the town boasts of a citizens' band, and the result of Mr. Greene's teaching and leadership appealed to those who are in charge of it.

However, Mr. Greene did not consider the offer for several reasons, chief among them being that his heart is in the local corps, and he is more than pleased with the band and their willing respones to his leading.

THIS TIME RETAIL GROCER GETS WORST OF THE DEAL

The consumers are apparently not the only ones to be affected by the increase in the price of food stuffs. The retailers are hit sometimes, too. On Saturday, wholesale grocers gave notice of an increase in price to the retailers of starch and syrup, the former going up about half a cent a pound for the different qualities, while there has been a stiff advance on the latter commodity. It is stated, however, that this increase will affect only the retail grocer, since the price at which they are sold to the consumer will remain practically the same. Usually an increase to the retailer is accompanied by a corresponding increase in the price at which goods are sold, but this seems to be one time when the consumer gets the best of the deal.

The J. C. Turnbull Co. cordially invites the Ladies of Peterborough to their Fall Millinery opening of High Class Novelties in Ladies' Millinery and also Skirts, Coats, Blouses, Etc., on Thursday, September 19th, and following days.

THE WEATHER

Though our summer has been cooler than usual, we have had some quite warm days lately. Yesterday the thermometer soared to 84 degrees in the shade, and to-day at noon the mercury stood at 82 degrees. A year ago to-day was a fine bright day, with the thermometer up to 74 as its highest.

THE SHOES ARE SURPASSINGLY GOOD

Claim That the Way to Conquer Competition is to Always Get the Best

The Ontario sales manager of the Dolly Varden Shoe Company, and one of the directors of the Foot-Rite Shoe Company, have promised to be in Peterborough this week to attend the opening of the fine boot and shoe department in Cressman's enlarged store. The success achieved by these shoes since their introduction into Canada has surpassed that of any footwear ever introduced. There is always a demand for fine dependable goods. In Toronto, Frank Mercer, a Peterborough Old Boy, owns the Dolly Varden store, and under his direction the sales have nearly doubled. In Montreal and Winnipeg, where there are handsome stores devoted exclusively to the selling of Dolly Varden shoes for ladies, and Foot-rite shoes for men, the sales this year are nearly 100 per cent. larger than those of the first year.

In securing these two agencies Mr. Cressman displayed his usual business sagacity in a quick capture of goods which are surprisingly good. This is the way to conquer competition for when one gets the leaders it is the "others follows" who cannot compete.

SPLENDID MUSIC AT ST. JOHN'S YESTERDAY

Miss Lancaster gave an excellent rendering of the solo "O, Death, Where is Thy Sting," in the anthem at matins in St. John's Church yesterday. Possessing a clear soprano voice, her singing is tasteful and expressive.

Mr. Geo. Chandler was soloist at Evensong in the anthem "I will Extend Peace," and while it is always a pleasure to hear him sing, last night found him in excellent voice.

The choir, numbering over thirty voices sang the services both morning and evening with heartiness and spirit.

IS PRESENTED WITH A GOLD SIGNET RING

Pre-Nuptial Presentation to Mr. G. N. Gordon by Members of B.A.C.

An interesting pre-nuptial presentation took place on Saturday afternoon in the law office of Mr. G. N. Gordon, of the firm of O'Connel & Gordon, when he was given a gold signet ring by the members of the B.A.C., of which Club Mr. Gordon is a member. The event was of an informal nature, an informal address being made by Dr. J. Middleton, the President of the club, while the presentation of the ring was made by Mr. Percy Hetherington. Mr. Gordon was taken by surprise but acknowledged the gift in a brief reply thanking the club for the remembrance.

AMATEUR CARPENTERS WORKING AT THE MARKET

New Coal Bin in Course of Construction There

Building operations are unusually extensive around the market at the present time. The latest addition is a coal bin on the west side of the office, which was begun this morning. The contractors of the work, are Messrs. W. A. Stabler and Fred Roseboro, neither of whom, it is understood, ever used a saw or a hammer before. The operations are being supervised by Market Clerk W. A. McIlmoyl, and of course the work is being done to perfection.

With the addition of the coal bin to the market offices everything will be completed for the coming of the winter season.

Alsike Clover Was Stolen From A Farmer's Barn

An Otonabee Farmer Loses $100 Worth of the Seed—Disappears By Night in Mysterious Way

A peculiar theft is reported from the township of Otonabee, where $100 worth of alsike clover was stolen from a farmer's barn a few nights ago. The clover belonged to Mr. Wm. Reid, who resides about four miles south of the city, and who is one of the principal growers of alsike in Otonabee. Four bags of the seed, each containing over two bushels, were left in the barn, and this is the extent of the theft committed. It is presumed that some person knowing Mr. Reid's property and outbuildings pretty well is connected with the midnight robbery.

The indications go to show that the transfer of the four bags did not take place in one night. The robbers used only a horse and buggy in carrying away their stolen goods. The bags were first carried from the barn to the road, about 200 yards distant, where the horse had been left tied to the fence. The marks of the animal's shoes could be plainly seen in the fence corner, and at the same place some of the clover seed had been spilled. From the trail of the robbers, it also could be easily seen that a buggy had been used to export the alsike, so that it was not possible to take all away on one occasion. Clover is an expensive seed just now, being worth about $8 per bushel, so that no grain in the barn was as valuable to Mr. Reid as the stolen seed.

Protest Against Assessor's Work In Some Of Wards

Property Owners Complain That He is Assessing Their Property Too High—Mass Meeting Will Be Held Soon, It is Said

SOME INSTANCES ARE GIVEN

Mr. Thos. McKee, the assessor in the southern part of the city has been making his rounds assessing the property in the district allotted to him. He is basing his assessment upon his inspection of the different properties, and the report will, no doubt be presented to the council in due course. It is understood that a large number of those to whom the assessment slips have been given, are complaining at the increases in the assessments made upon their property this year, and it is reported that a mass meeting of the ratepayers of that part of the city will be called in the near future to consider a line of action. Some are said to be in favour of asking the council to annul the present assessment and to have another assessment made.

One case was mentioned as a sample. A lady had a house which she was offering for sale at a figure which she considered reasonable, pretty nearly what it was worth. She was surprised to find, however, that according to the opinion of the assessor, as indicated by the valuation placed upon it in the returns, she was asking too little for it, for the assessment on the property was fifty per cent. more than the price she was asking for it.

Disclaims Responsibility For Authorities' Action In Scarlet Fever Case

Chairman Eyres States That Patient Was Placed in City Building Without His Consent and Against His Wishes

THE PLACARD MISPLACED

The relations between the Board of Health and the City Council, are becoming more tense, as, especially, shown by the friction arising from the disposal of the scarlet fever case, which developed on Friday, in a residence on Downie street.

The alleged isolation of the case, does not, so the chairman of the Board of Health says, conform either to his views of what is right, or to the requirements of the law. On learning of the intentions of the city authorities to place the scarlet fever patient in question in an upper room, in the city buildings, the chairman of the Board of Health protested on behalf of the Health Board, both to the Mayor and the Medical Health officer, against using the room. It was, he said, contrary to prudence, and also contrary to the law, which, the chairman says, requires that the patient shall be isolated in such a manner as to be at least 150 yards from any occupied building. The chairman says that neither he nor the Board will take any responsibility in the matter, since the action mentioned was taken contrary to his express protest, made to the Mayor, and the Medical Health Officer. If, as is stated, the room in which the infected patient is placed, is only ten feet from the entrance to the hall used for practices by the 57th band, the law is clearly not complied with, and necessarily the city will be held responsible should anything serious arise from the condition created by the action of the health authorities.

The chairman also says a placard should be placed at the outside entrance of the city buildings—"in a public place," and not in the interior.

"No land or building to be used for the purpose of this act shall be nearer than 150 yards to an inhabited dwelling."

Italian Had Narrow Escape at The Station

Missed His Footing When Trying to Catch a Morning Freight Train—Conductor Saved Him Just in Time

HE WAS NOT INJURED

A young Italian, whose name could not be ascertained, had a very narrow escape from serious injury, and, probably death, at the C.P.R. station last evening. A west bound freight train was passing through the station about 6.30 o'clock, and the young foreigner, apparently one of the C.P.R. labourers, attempted to catch the rear step of the caboose. He evidently misjudged the speed at which the the train was moving, and failed to get onto the step, his foot slipping and throwing him under the end of the car with his feet touching the wheels. He managed to hold on until the train had gone some forty feet, when the conductor, who was on the station platform noticed his predicament, jumped unto the caboose and succeeded in pulling the young man upon the train. If he had lost his hold of the car he would have undoubtedly been crushed between the train and the platform, but owing to the prompt action of the conductor he escaped practically unhurt.

NOBLE IMPULSES ARE COMMENDED

Rev. J. R. Webb Pays Tribute to Ambition Expressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier For Canada's Future

AN INSPIRING SERMON

The ambition to achieve desirable temporal advantages and the ability to make the best use of them when secured, formed the basis of an interesting sermon preached last night in the Murray Street Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, whose subject was "A Noble Citizen," and in the course of his sermon he referred to the noble impulses actuating Sir Wilfrid Laurier in statements recently made as to his ambition. The text from which the sermon was preached was from II. Samuel, xxiii., 15-16:—"And David longed, and said, 'Oh, that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Bethlehem, which is by the gate.' And the three mighty men broke through the host of the Philistines and drew water out of the well, and took it to David. Nevertheless, he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the Lord."

In part, Mr. Webb said:—"The longings of men for some earthly things are not necessarily incompatible with a consecrated life. Our affections ertwine themselves so completely around some things of earth that we cannot feel that they are ever really lost to us. I have never been able to believe that this passion is displeasing to God. There is a charm about some localities so intense that we cannot shake it off if we would. We all understand something of the feelings of General Booth as he bade such an affectionate farewell to his beloved England three days ago. A familiar chord is struck in every breast as we read Byron's:

"I have loved thee! ocean,
And my joy of youthful sports
Was on thy breast to be."

"Christ's lament over Jerusalem was not only for the people, but the place. A man is right in burning with intense interest when his country is in jeopardy. The impulse was noble that made Sir Wilfrid Laurier say in his speech, on returning from the Colonial Conference, that he prayed that his life might be spared to see the completion of of two great enterprises that would make for his country's weal—the All-Red Line and the Quebec bridge.

"No life is justified in lying as a stagnant pool when it may become a Niagara.

"The man who loved his native land and boasted that he was a citizen of no mean city was the very man whose intense spirituality led him to carry the gospel to the gentiles. The company of believers who teach that a citizen of heaven should not take his place as a citizen on earth, do absolutely nothing for the evangelization of heathendom. Despising the Spikenard never made a Christian of any man. There is nothing undignified or ungodly in David's prayer, in his memory of the past, in his love for Bethlehem, and his longing for the draught from the well by the gate,—but, when he secured the blessing, he made the noblest use of it.

The test of our righteousness or unrighteousness is why we do, what we do. The motive lurking behind any deed may either glorify or damn it; there are those who are struggling for place and possessions whose motives make their lives a stench in the nostrils of all right-thinking citizens.

"What use a Christian makes of a little indicates the probable disposition he would make of much, if he had it. A man selfish with a goblet of water, would be selfish with an alabaster box of nard. What wondrous things some people promise to do for the cause of Christ when they get rich. If the Lord has no part of your dollar He would have no part of your million. God scattered grain like gold on the western prairies, and men went laden to the elevators, but too often empty to the house of God. A season of hard times is required to teach men Whose it is that gives them power to get wealth. The kingdom is safe in the hands of one who, like David, longs for some blessing, and when it is secured remembers his Lord.

"I am watching with interest the actions of Canadians in view of the great tragedy at Quebec. When men risk their lives and lose them to accomplish a great end for the country, its citizens are in duty bound to care for the widows and orphans. Not by tens or by hundreds, but by thousands should this fund leap upward. David said, 'Is not this the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives?' The movement is one which should appeal to every true citizen."

The congregation last night was large, and deep interest was evidenced in the sermon.

An interesting feature of the service was a solo given by Miss Clara Kidd.

Jail Ahead of Some Persons

Someone in the city is taking a course which will lead him into a captivity more binding than that of matrimony, if he is not careful. Recently two notices of marriages, which inquiry revealed to be bogus, were handed to the press for publication. The last one came in this morning, and inquiry from the minister, who is represented to have performed the ceremony, gave the information that, while he knew the family to which the alleged bride belonged, he had performed no wedding ceremony in which she was a principal.

Persons who imagine that the newspapers are so easily gulled as to accept notices of this kind, and publish them without verification, might do well to save their energy, because their efforts will only bring themselves into trouble.

It may not be generally known that one who is found guilty of supplying formation of this kind to the press with the knowledge that it is not correct, is liable to a punishment by confinement in prison. This is a fact, however, and if the practice is persisted in, the newspapers of this city will be forced to make an example of the guilty persons.

BAD RAILWAY SMASH KILLS MANY

Twenty-Four Passengers Dead and Many Seriously Injured.

SEVERAL CANADIANS KILLED

White River Junction, Vt., Sept. 16.—A fearful head-on collision between the south-bound Quebec express and a north-bound freight train of the Concord division of the Boston and Maine Railroad occurred four miles north of Canaan station early yesterday, due to a mistake in train despatcher's orders, and from a demolished passenger coach there were taken 24 dead and dying and 27 other passengers, more or less wounded. Nearly all those who were in the fatal car were returning from a fair at Sherbrooke, Quebec, 160 miles north. The conductor of the freight train was given to understand that he had plenty of time to reach a siding by the night operator at Canaan station, receiving, according to the superintendent of division, a copy of a telegraph order from the train despatcher at Concord, which confused the train numbers 30 and 34.

The wreck occurred just after the express had rounded into a straight stretch of track, but, owing to the early morning mist, neither engineer saw the other's headlight until it was too late.

The Canadians dead are:

Timothy Shaughnessy, Castlebar Que.

Mrs. Shaughnessy, Castlebar, Que.

Miss Annie St. Pierre, Isle Verte, Que.

Mrs. Philip Gagnon, Sherbrooke, Que.

The unidentified are: A boy of 10 years old; a man 40 years old; a woman 30 years of age; a man 55 years of age; a man 35 years of age; four other bodies, also unidentified. All the bodies, with two exceptions, were removed to Concord during the day. Some of the unidentified dead may be Canadians.

The south-bound train originated at Sherbrooke Saturday evening, where it picked up two sleepers from Quebec and two more on the way down. It consisted of the baggage car, passenger coach, smoking car in that order with the sleepers in the rear. The train left White River Junction at 3.45 a. m. yesterday, and was followed 20 minutes later by the Montreal express over the Central Vermont Railroad. The Quebec train is known as No. 30, and the Montreal train as No. 34. In the meantime the north-bound freight train had arrived at Canaan, 18 miles down the road, at 4.23 a. m., on time.

Fearful Misunderstanding.

According to Superintendent W. R. Ray, J. R. Crowley, the night train despatcher at Concord, sent a despatch to John Greeley, the night operator at Canaan, that No. 34 was one hour and ten minutes late. The order which Conductor Lawrence of the freight train claimed that the evident, distinctly states that No. 30, instead of 34, was an hour and ten minutes late. Conductor Lawrence, believing that he had sufficient time in the hour and ten minutes to reach the side track at West Canaan, four miles beyond, before No. 30 reached it, ordered his train ahead. The superintendent declared that the accident was due to the mistake in placing a cipher after the three in the number of the train instead of a four.

Headlights Burst Through Fog.

The morning was a dull, misty one, and the long freight train with a score of heavily londed cars lumbered up the long grade towards West Canaan at the usual speed. On the other track with her heavy load of passengers and the four heavy sleepers in the rear. The freight train was on a straight piece of track, about a mile in length, and the Quebec express had rounded a curve into this stretch when each engineer saw the headlight of the opposite train burst out of the fog.

Both engineers set their brakes and then jumped, while the two great locomotives crashed into each other and rolled into the ditch. The baggage car in the rear was hurled back into the passenger coach like a great ram and tore it asunder from end to end.

The ill-fated passenger coach was filled with more than fifty people. One of those who escaped said that as the train was rounding a curve some one in front began to sing, so that nearly everyone was awake when the crash came. When those who were in the other cars recovered their dazed senses, they hurried to the demolished passenger coach, where groans, cries and shrieks were rending the air.

The Work of Rescue.

Fortunately, with the engines off to one side, the wreckage did not take fire. The train hands, ably seconded by the passengers from the sleeping cars, groped their way among the ruins and began the work of rescue. The bodies of the dead were laid beside the track quietly, but tenderly, while the rescuers turned their attention to those who needed aid. Great beams were lifted, pieces of joists were thrown aside, and the bleeding and mangled forms were dragged out and laid on the backs of broken seats or upon blankets from the sleeping cars. Wounds were hastily bound up, and deep cuts staunched by strips torn from the bedding of the sleepers. The little band worked diligently and faithfully in the dawning light before the doctors came.

Frank Ryan a Hero.

The accident was not without its heroes, and one of these was Frank Ryan, a brakeman on the express. Ryan was caught in the wreck and had an artery severed. He was unconscious for nearly fifteen minutes, and when he regained his senses his first thought was of the Montreal express, which he knew was thundering down on the wreck with no brakeman in the rear to wave a warning signal. In a few husky words Ryan told of the approaching danger, and the Montreal express was stopped only a quarter of a mile from the rear of the wrecked train.

WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC.

Woman Who Enticed Girls From Canada Is Found Guilty.

Erie, Pa., Sept. 16.—Mrs. Alice Sexton, known through this section of the state as the leader of the white slave traffic, was yesterday found guilty of enticing and inveighing young girls from Canada. The jury was out just 21 hours. The charge against Mrs. Sexton was preferred by the father of Edna Lacy, a girl of 14 years of age. When she appeared in court, Edna looked more than 21, but both she and her mother testified that 14 was her age. The defendant received the verdict very calmly, but her two daughters, who have stood by her throughout the ordeal, fainted, and one became hysterical. Both have used their saving to hire legal talent to defend their parent. Public opinion against [illegible] although a verdict of acquittal was looked for on the evidence offered by the commonwealth. Mrs. Sexton will be sentenced to-day by Judge Walling, and is liable to receive five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

RUNYAN GOES TO "PEN."

Kissed and Forgiven by Wife Whom He Wronged.

New York, Sept. 16.—With words of forgiveness from the two women he most injured ringing in his ears, Chester R. Runyan, the bank teller who stole $96,000 from the Windsor Trust Co., was taken to Sing Sing prison on Saturday to begin his seven-year sentence.

Although they had not seen him since his arrest, Runyan's wife and mother went to the Tombs prison to say good-bye to him. In spite of the fact that he was a self-confessed thief, and that he had left his wife to squander the money he had stolen from his employers on a woman of the street, the two women freely forgave him and it was with their kisses still warm on his lips that the young man started for the prison where he will expiate his crime.

"I must have been crazy to do what I did," was Runyan's last statement as he left for the prison.

Japanese Rely Upon Receiving Fair Play and Justice.

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—A cable has been received by Hon. T. Nosse, Japanese consul-general, from Tokio, giving him information on the attitude of the public in regard to the Vancouver disturbance. It says: "The feeling, in spite of the character of the disturbance being very much graver than that of San Francisco, is, throughout, most friendly to Canada. While greatly regretting that this deplorable incident occurred within a dominion of the British Empire, whose ally Japan is, the tone of the press is very calm and the public shows no excitement, all depending upon the friendship, justice and fair play of the Government and people of Canada, and also fully expecting that the very best measures will be taken by the authorities for the protection of Japanese lives and property and the reaching of an amicable settlement of the trouble."

Killed by Ball.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—Henri Pilon, first-baseman of the Manhattan Baseball Club, was struck over the heart by a ball yesterday afternoon and instantly killed while "warming up" for an exhibition game. The second-baseman sent a hot one over to Pilon, who leaned forward to land it, but missed, and the ball struck him with full force over the heart. Pilon staggered back for a moment and then fell. The force of the blow caused instantaneous death from heart failure.

KNEW THE BRIDGE WOULD FALL

Quebec Bridge Victim Wrote Day Before the Disaster.

DOUBTED ITS COMPLETION

Phoenix Bridge Co. Say It Is Fake Letter to Extort Damages — Commission to Visit New York—An Indian Also Told of Defective Chord—Gave Warning Some Weeks Ago.

Quebec, Sept. 16.—D. Lefebvre, who unloaded the metal for the Quebec bridge as it arrived here from Phoenixville, testified before the Royal Commission of enquiry Saturday that Angus Diebo, an Indian, who is now dead, told him about four weeks ago that one of the chords on the Quebec side was forced.

C. L. Edwards, who inspected the material at the mills and shops of the Phoenix Bridge Co., for the Quebec Bridge Co., testified to the caution taken in this matter and said that only about 21-2 per cent. of the work done by the company was rejected. No material had been returned from Quebec, but some plates on the cantilever arm had to be changed.

Messrs. Measer and Clark also testified in regard to the inspection of material, but no further evidence of importance was elicited. The commission only sat in the forenoon.

It is probable that the witnesses to be examined in Quebec will be exhausted this week, after which the site of the bridge will be again visited and inspected, and the commissioners will go to New York to examine Mr. Cooper and also to Phoenixville to examine witnesses and probably to other centres to take the evidence of experts.

Boss Gave Warning.

New York, Sept. 16.—The World Saturday says: Swenson & Swenson, real estate dealers at Flushing, gave out yesterday a letter said to have been written by their brother, Carl Swenson, a boss employed on the Quebec bridge, which fell on Aug. 20. Swenson's letter is dated the day before the disaster. He was killed.

The letter reads: "I doubt very much whether the bridge will ever be finished, since the first and second panels of the bottom chord of the cantilever, Quebec side, are buckling. I want to be in New York when she falls. If the bridge goes it will be the worst wreck that ever occurred. Don't show this to any one. This part is no fool-catcher story."

Deny Swenson Letter.

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—Officers of the Phoenix Bridge Co., which was building the collapsed Quebec bridge, expressed disbelief, yesterday in the genuineness of the Carl Swenson letter, which was shown to them. President David Reeves and Secretary Frank T. Davis of the company denied that the panels of the chord had buckled, and said the letter could not have been written before the disaster. They regarded the letter as an attempt to manufacture evidence to hold the company responsible in damage suits.

"There will be a thorough investigation of the accident by the commission appointed by the Dominion Government," said Mr. Davis. When it has secured all the evidence it can in Quebec, the commission will continue its investigation in the offices of Theodore Cooper in New York, who was the consulting engineer. The members of the commission will also visit the plant at Phoenixville, Pa.

Newsboy Loses Leg.

Englehart, Sept. 16.—An Italian newsboy, employed on the railway contractors' train which runs between here and McDougall's Chute, was run over and his left leg was obliged to be amputated from the upper part of the thigh. The accident occurred while the train was entering Englehart. The boy slipped and fell between the cars. An operation, performed by Dr. Lowrey with the assistance of two other medical men, was successful.

Was Terribly Mangled.

Cobourg, Sept. 16.—Wm. Jamieson, a farmer living about nine miles north of Cobourg, was accidently killed Saturday night while returning home from town. His horse took fright and ran away. In falling from the buggy Mr. Jamieson got caught in the wheels and was terribly mangled.

Hickey's Pitching Too Much For Peterborough

Port Hope Imported the Twirler of the Wellingtons for the Final Game and Won by 4-2 After a Great Contest ---No Championship for Ours, Thank You

Contrary to expectations the Midland League baseball trophy will not winter in Peterborough, owing to the fact that Peterborough failed to trim Port Hope in the final game for the championship in the play-off at Cobourg on Saturday, and the lake shore team gathered in the victory, the honours and, incidentally, the silverware, by a score of 4—2.

An individual by the name of Fred Hickey, and who hails from Toronto, beat Peterborough. Of course there were eight other men on the field with him, but they didn't count. Mr. Hickey is the brother of our Mr. Joe Hickey, who has held down first base for us so gracefully during the latter part of the season, but he didn't use us any nicer on that account, in fact he failed to act anything like the way one would expect a man to act under such circumstances. Mr. Hickey occupied the box for Port Hope, and what he didn't do to our aggregation of swatsmiths wasn't worth doing. He had our gladiators tied in knots from the beginning of the fray, and at the end the knots still held. During the whole nine innings only two Peterborough men connected safely with Mr. Hickey's offerings which sounds like a pipe dream to any one who has followed their record during the season. Mr. Haliburton secured a single in the fifth and Mr. Burridge, our husky backstop, annexed the second in the last innings. Beyond these two hits the result of our efforts with the bat is represented by a large cipher. Throughout the game only five Peterborough men reached first base, two on the hits mentioned, two on errors and one on a base on balls so that Manager Johnston's aggregation never had a chance to win.

It was simply a case of too much Hickey. He had everything and had Peterborough breaking their backs after his deceptive out-drop and speedy in-shoot. Thirteen of the local batsmen struck out and there were only four balls went to the outfield. Those that did not strike out could do nothing better than send weakly grounders or pop flies to the infield, and Hickey disposed of six batters himself on easy grounders. It was a great exhibition of pitching and was the feature of the game.

Four hundred Peterborough people saw their team go down to defeat, the special train which left here shortly after 1.30 carrying that number of fans, Port Hope sent a delegation of about the same size and the Cobourg fans turned out in large numbers, so that there was an enormous crowd at Donegan Park when the contest was commenced.

It was a pitcher's battle between Clements and Hickey and while the Port Hope twirler had the best of the argument his opponent pitched well enough to win an ordinary game. Errors by Murphy in the fifth innings gave Port Hope three of their runs and won the game for them. Clements pitched a steady and generally effective game and was, for the most part, well supported by the locals.

Murphy, although his errors were very costly, played a great game in left field. He had no less than seven put outs, some of them decidedly difficult chances. He went back to the trees in deep left to pull in some and came in behind short and third for others. The two he dropped were directly responsible for losing the game, but they were hard chances, and he lost the ball in the sun.

Cheatham had the feature play of the day as usual, making a sensational catch of O'Neill's fly in the second which looked to be dropping safely into left field. The local shortstop ran away back into the field and jumping high into the air gathered in the ball, making the prettiest play of the day. Cheatham handled a number of grounders in his usual effective manner. Haliburton accepted five chances without a slip up at third, and Joe Hickey held down first base to perfection, having four teen chance a. Burridge had only three chances behind the bat. Burns had a couple of pretty catches in centre, while Dubbie Shea had nothing to do in the right garden.

Port Hope had two changes in their line-up besides Hickey; Winchester of the Park Nines, and Danny Burke, of Brantford. Neither of them did much to win the game. O'Hearn did the best fielding for the winners, making several pretty catches at second. None of the rest had much to do with the exception of Kolb and O'Neill, the latter missing a third strike, which resulted in Peterborough's first run.

There was no scoring until the fifth, although Port Hope had several chances before that, which were spoiled by fast fielding on the part of the Petes. In the fifth, with two out and a man on first for Port Hope, Murphy missed a high fly to the sun garden, and the skip was responsible for the game as three runs came in afterwards. Two singles followed and then Murphy had another error, the whole being accountable for three runs and the game. Peterborough scored one in their half on O'Neill's error, and Haliburton's timely single. Port Hope scored their last on a base on balls and Ross' single. Peterborough got one in the ninth, when Burridge singled and stole second and third and finally home.

The game was a great exhibition of ball, about the best that has been seen in the Midland League since that body has been in existence, and although the locals lost, the Peterborough fans enjoyed the contest. If Surphlis had been in the box the result would have undoubtedly been different, but he was not in the game and there is no use in talking about what might have been.

Umpire W. Walsh, of the Toronto City League, handled the indicator to the satisfaction of both teams.

The game by innings follows:—

First innings. — Peterborough won the toss and took the field. O'Brien, first up for Port Hope, died on a grounder to Haliburton. Benson was safe when Anderson and Cheatham collided, allowing his easy fly to drop safely. Winchester grounded out to Cheatham. Ross was given a base on balls, but Murphy annexed O'Hearn's fly to left. No runs.

Burns was safe on O'Hearn's tumble of his grounder and stole second. Hickey, after several attempts at sacrificing, struck out. Burridge flew out to Ross, and Anderson fanned. No runs.

Second innings.—Burke struck out. Kolb flew out to Burns, and Cheatham made a sensational catch of O'Neill's fly to short left. No runs.

For Peterborough, Cheatham fanned and Shea and Murphy died on grounders to Hickey. No runs.

Third innings.—Fred Hickey led off with a smashing single over third. O'Brien sacrificed, going out catcher to first. Benson died on a grounder to Cheatham. Winchester hit to the same player who fumbled, and both runners were safe. Murphy once more pulled out of the hole by gathering in Ross' fly to left.

Haliburton was out on a fly to O'Hearn. Clements smashed a liner at the same player, which he dropped, and the runner would have been safe if he had not stopped running. Burns grounded to Hickey. No runs.

Fourth innings.—O'Hearn flew out to Murphy. Burridge captured Burke's foul fly. Kolb was walked, but O'Neill grounded to Cheatham. No runs.

Fifth innings.—F. Hickey flew out to Murphy. O'Brien was safe on Clements' error, but was forced at second on Benson's grounder to Haliburton. With two gone Winchester lifted one to Murphy, which the left fielder dropped. Ross followed with a single between short and third, filling the bases. O'Hearn came along with an opportune single to centre, scoring Benson and Winchester. Burke drove out a fly to left which Murphy dropped, losing the ball in the sun, and Ross cantered in. Kolb grounded to Cheatham. Three runs.

For Peterborough, Cheatham struck out and Shea flew out to Burke in field. Murphy fanned, but O'Neill missed the third strike and the runner was safe. He stole second and scored when Haliburton smashed out a single to right, the first hit made off Hickey. Clements fanned. One run.

Sixth innings.—O'Neill flew out to Murphy. Hickey grounded to Anderson, and O'Brien went out on a grounder to third. No runs.

Burns grounded to Hickey. J. Hickey pop-flied to O'Brien, and O'Hearn made a nice running catch of Burridge's fly to second. No runs.

Seventh innings.—Benson was give a base on balls. Winchester sacrificed him to second, going out pitcher to first. Ross singled along the left field foul line, scoring Benson. O'Hearn grounded out to Cheatham and Burns gathered in Burke's fly to centre. One run.

Anderson and Cheatham struck out. Shea was given a base on balls and stole second and third, but Murphy fanned. No runs.

Eighth innings.—Kolb grounded to Haliburton. O'Neill flew out to Murphy. Hickey drove out a beauty to centre for two bases, but it was wasted as O'Brien grounded to Clements. No runs.

Haliburton and Clements fanned, and Burns grounded to Hickey. No runs.

Ninth innings.—Benson was out on a grounder to Haliburton. Winchester was safe on Anderson's error. Ross flew out to Murphy and O'Hearn grounded to Cheatham. No runs.

Dick Turpin, of the Cobourg team was put in to bat for Hickey, but grounded to the pitcher. Burridge drove out a corking single to left and stole second and third; catching Hickey napping on a return from the cather he completed the circuit by stealing home. Anderson grounded to O'Hearn and Cheatham did likewise, ending the game. One run.

Following is the score and summary. It will be seen that Peterborough had it on their opponents in base stealing, purloining eight sacks, while Port Hope didn't get one.

Early Rugby Gossip; Notes For Enthusiasts

Lively Practice Was Held at Riverside Park on Saturday Afternoon---Electric Lights Will be Installed There As Soon as Possible

Although the baseball excursion to Cobourg on Saturday took a number of the players out of the city, the remainder had a rattling practice on the Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. 'Gene Hurtubise took charge of the practice and gave the men a good drilling in punting, catching and tacklings.

Arrangements are being made to have lights placed in the Riverside Park, and as soon as this is done, the team will be able to get down to work in earnest. The players are entering into the game with enthusiasm, and great things may be looked for from the team this season.

It is very likely that George Ballard, captain and quarterback of the Hamilton Tigers, will give the boys a number of chalk talks on the game in the near future. An effort will be made to secure the foxy Tiger to whose great coaching and headwork so very much of the remarkable success achieved by the Hamilton Club is due.

There will be a meeting of the executive to-morrow evening at the Examiner office, and all the members are asked to be present, as there is important business to be taken up, including the question of lights for the Riverside Park, which will have to be settled at once, if the team is to get into shape as quickly as their opponents.

Tom Colledge of the Trinity College school team is in the city, and will turn out with the team. He is said to be a fast half back, and if so, can be used to advantage on the line-up.

The club is taking advantage of Mr Ed. Hall's offer, to donate a pair of $8 trousers for a drawing competition to aid the club's finances. Every supporter of the club is asked to buy a ticket, when they are offered for sale.

The membership tickets will be ready in a few days, and it is hoped they will find a ready sale. If there is to be a winning team here the citizens must give their support, and a dollar at the beginning of the season is better than two later on, so that every membership ticket sold will be of great benefit.

AN EASTERN ONTARIO LEAGUE SUGGESTED

The Hockey Prospects are Being Discussed by Local Enthusiasts

With September half gone local hockey enthusiasts are beginning to discuss the prospects for the coming season, which are, to say the least, somewhat indefinite. With last year's unsatisfactory experience, still fresh in the memories of Peterborough lovers of the game, it is not likely that this city will be represented by an O.H.A. team this season. The suggestion has been made, and is looked upon with favour here, that a league should be formed, consisting of Port Hope, Belleville, Picton, Kingston and Peterborough. The outside clubs are requested to correspond with the secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club, with a view of having a meeting called at an early date to talk over the prospects for the coming season.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Caryle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. There was a good attendance at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon at the Evangelistic meeting for men and boys. The subject was "The Character of Ahab," which Rev. W. M. Character In Medicine

In medicine as in every sphere of human action, it is character that tells. Every prescription that Dr. A. W. Chase gave to his fellowmen is full of character, full of the honest, sterling character, which made the grand old doctor, respected, admired and loved by all who knew him. There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

BRIDGENORTH IS NOT AFTER THE CUP

A County Foot Ball Team is Wanted To Play for R. R. Hall Trophy

The secretary of the Bridgenorth Football Team has written to the secretary of the Industrial Exhibition, stating that the team will not be able to play for the R. R. Hall Trophy this year. The Quakers won the silverware last year and are anxious to arrange a game again, as the cup must be won—not secured by default or by any tie game like the last—for two years in succession, before it becomes permanent property.

If any team in the county wishes to make a bid for the silverware, arrangements may be completed by writing Mr. F. J. A. Hall, secretary of the Industrial Exhibition.

The latter failed to get a hit on Saturday and his average has dropped to .386. He has made one home run, three triples, five doubles, and 23 singles, a total of 32 hits out of 83 times at bat.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

Prisoner Burns His Way Out of New Liskeard Lock-Up.

New Liskeard, Sept. 16.—A sensational jail breaking took place here this week when a young fellow about 23 years of age, charged with the theft of $175 from William Byers of Thornloe, actually burned his way out of the New Liskeard lock-up. His matches were placed on the top of a stove in the corridor and he rigged up a fishing device with a sliver of wood and a pin by which he brought the lucifers to hand. He lit a fire under the ceiling of the cell, burning a hole sufficiently large for him to draw himself through. He has not yet been recaptured.

Legless Body In Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 16.—The legless body of a man was taken from the Niagara River Saturday at the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing. The body was removed to the Morse Undertaking Morgue on the Canadian side of the river, and shortly after a leg was taken out of the water, which undoubtedly belonged to the trunk. The leg was also removed to the morgue on the Canadian side.

The body was evidently that of a young man, but it was in a bad state of decomposition. The teeth were short and far apart, and the face was smooth shaven. It will be remembered that a couple of weeks ago a leg was found floating in the river at the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing, which, it is believed, belonged to the body.

Danger in Farming.

"Dollar Wheat" is fine for farmers, but they take long chances with their health in getting the wheat. Bad weather, lifting, straining, wrenched backs, lay the foundation for Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble. There is a farmer, out Markham way, who was so busy making money that he did not realize he was making ill-health at the same time. He had headaches; often his back hurt so badly he could hardly stand, often the urine was highly colored and scalding. But he thought he was only "working too hard." One day he caught cold. The next day he had Rheumatism. This Markham farmer suffered 7 years with Rheumatism until chance brought a friend who told him about Bu-Ju. They relieved the excruciating pain, and cured him in three months.

MARKHAM, ONT.

"I had suffered almost continually for seven years with Kidney Trouble; could scarcely walk and was unable to attend to my farm duties. After taking the first few pills I felt much relieved, and after taking half a box was able to do a full day's work. I know one box of Bu-Ju saved me $50.00 Doctor's bill, and think they are the finest Pill made." JAMES ABBOTT.

Inspector Finds Condititons in Local Packing House Good

In an Interview Dr. Ransom, the Medical Inspector in Charge at Matthews Co's Packing House Pays Tribute to the Care Exercised

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ARE BEING EFFECTED THERE

Conditions of New Act Are Being Fully and Cheerfully Met By Local Company---What is Being Done To Ensure Absolute Purity and Good Quality of Product

Dr. Ransom, the Government Inspector, appointed to supervise the work carried on in the packing house of the George Matthews Co., gives his views on the manner in which the law is being observed here.

His testimony is: "I find the hogs remarkably free from disease."

Every hog is inspected by him when it is brought into the yards, again just after it has been killed, and is under his supervision until it is finally shipped from the establishment.

Whitewash and paint are being used copiously throughout the building, and Dr. Ransom's belief is that in a short time it will be one of the best equipped, if not actually the best, in Canada.

New lavatories and clothes closets are being built in remote part of the building, and changes made in the killing room. Aprons are supplied by the Company and are laundried in the building.

The statements of Dr. Ransom are complimentary to the modern methods made use of in the local packing house, the management of which is enterprising and thorough.

In keeping with the modern movement in connection with the manufacture and preparation of food stuffs, the Geo. Matthews Company is making extensive changes and improvements in the plant in its establishment on George street with the object and, when completed, the effect of insuring the production of the meats manufactured therein under the most approved, modernized and sanitary conditions. It will be remembered that on September 3 the Meat and Canned Foods Act came into effect, and, as a result, the provisions of the Act must be carried out in all Canadian packing houses.

The Object.

It has never been charged that our packing establishments were in the same class as those exposed by Upton Sinclair, but the people of today have a universal desire of being sure that the food they eat is pure, and to guarantee this they demand a Government inspector, who is to represent them in the preparing of the food, and it is his duty to see that it is pure in all its stages of manufacture, and is handled in a cleanly and sanitary manner. The new Act calls for an inspector in every packing house, and the Government voted $15,000 to enforce the law, and forty inspectors were appointed for the different Canadian packing establishments between Calgary and the Atlantic.

The Local Inspector

Dr. S. Ransom was chosen as inspector for the local branch of the Geo. Matthews Company, and he has been on duty but a few weeks. He was one of the sixty doctors who were sent by the Dominion Government to Chicago to study the methods employed in the large packing houses in that city, and, with his varied experience, should succeed in his duties in Peterborough. The movement is a new one and will take some time before it is in complete working order, but the result should be to protect the trade in Canadian export meats, as well as that of the inter-provincial trade.

What the act Demands

The new Act insists that all establishments carrying on packing or canning industries shall be suitably lighted and ventilated, and that all appliances of every kind shall be kept clean and sanitary. All steps in manufacture or preparation shall be taken in such a manner as shall be approved by the inspectors from a sanitary point of view. The rooms in which the work is done shall be frequently whitewashed or painted, and the equipment tshall be of a kind readily cleaned. The employees must observe such rules as seem necessary to guarantee the purity and cleanliness of the articles they handle, and their clothing or the coverings used to protect it must be of material that will wash easily. Dressing rooms and lavatories shall be kept apart from the rooms where the food is produced or stored.

If everything about the premises is in a perfectly clean and wholesome condition the manufacturers will have the right to use a stamp consisting of a crown and the words "Canada approved," which will serve as a guarantee to the world.

The Local Establishment

Regarding the local packing house, Dr. Ransom said that it is in very good condition, and when the numerous alterations, which are now under way, are completed, it will be one of the most modern in Canada. The company, he said, has practically begun the improvements itself, and there has not been the slightest friction in the discussing of details. Not only that, but it has gone beyond the provisions of the Act and has provided all the employees with aprons, which will be laundered in one part of the building. Preparations are now under way for large closets and lavatories, and all the walls are being painted in white, with black base. The yards and pens are as good as Dr. Ransom has ever seen, and are well arranged. They are easily cleaned, like other rooms, and, in fact, from the appearance of the killing room yesterday one would scarcely believe that hundreds of hogs had been slaughtered the day before. Wooden vats in this room are to be replaced by metal ones, and every care is being taken to ensure sanitation in the preparation of the meat.

Dr. Ransom's Reply

Dr. Ransom stated that his duties are to inspect the hogs when they are first brought in, also just after they have been killed, and to look after the different parts until they are shipped from the establishment. The inspector has a position in the killing room, where every hog passes him after it has been killed and opened. The chief diseases which are to be guarded against are tuberculosis and hog cholera. The doctor stated to the Examiner that the hogs which he has examined are remarkably free from disease, and with the added precautions which are now being taken the consumer may feel confident that the meat is absolutely pure. He also sees them in the cutting room, and none but first-class meat is shipped from the packing house.

Thus, from the very time that the hogs enter the pens they are under the inspector's eye, and every article manufactured, such as lard and sausage, is cared for in the same manner. In the pens he sees that the conditions are as clean as possible, and any food they are given must be clean.

As said before, it will take time before the effects of the change are really felt, although there has never been the least suspicion about Canadian meats from packing houses. The Canadian people will be satisfied, foreign countries should be more impressed with the meats, and, as a result, Canada's foreign trade should be materially benefitted. In a few more months all the improvements will have been made, and the local packing house will be as modernly equipped as any in the country.

SPANKED DYNAMITE IN POCKET

And the Result Was Almost Fatal to the Victim Of the Spanking and The Administrator

SHINGLE WAS SPLINTERED

Cheboygan, Mich., September. 16.—Mrs. Fred Williams living at Bear Point, on Crooked Lake, near this city, was severely injured, and her seven year old son was probably fatally hurt when a dynamite cap in the boy's hip pocket exploded, while his mother was spanking him.

The little boy had been out in the field, where his afther had been using dynmite to blow up stumps, and had slipped one of the percussion caps into his pocket. When he returned to the house his mother called him to be punishedfor some childish misdemeanour.

Mrs. Williams used a shingle as the instrument of punishment. The first blow exploded the cap. The explosion tore a large hole in his hip, from which he is believed to be dying. The mother lost two fingers, and received several minor cuts about the face and body. The shingle has not yet been found.

THE MARRIED MEN AT SCHOOL

Classes in Night School at Business College Open This Week With Good Registration

A GREAT ADVANTAGE

A largee proportion of the people are denied the best things of life because they have not the necessary education to qualify them to occupy the best positions. Such persons would say, doubtless, if they were given an opportunity, that if they had their lives to live over again they would try and secure a better education. In these days, however, defects of early life, so far as education is concerned, may, in may cases, be overcome. One of the means to this end is the night school, in which persons who feel the need for a supplementary education, and who are working during the day may obtain it.

Last night the fall term of the night schol, in connection with the Peterborough Business College opened and a registration of twenty is recorded. Mr. Pringle stated to the Examiner to-day that he expected a large addition to this number during the next few weeks. He finds a growing desire on the part of many persons to take advantage of this opportunity offered, and rather a surprising fact was learned; that among the students are frequently many married men, who are anxious to improve their education.

The usual subjects are taught in the Night School, writing, arithmetic, spelling, bookkeeping and typewriting and shorthand, the majority of persons who attend taking up the general course, which everyone, whether they intend to follow a business career or not should be fairly proficient in, if only for their own protection.

Many persons have to leave school in early life and go to work before they are given sufficient education, and for those thus situated, the night school offers about the only means of obtaining an education which will enable them to take their proper place in the world.

BOARD OF SELECTION OF JURORS IN SESSION

Met Yesterday at Court House—City Has Representatives Now

Yesterday the board for the selection of jurors for the High and County Court sittings for 1908 met at the Court House. The board this year consists of Judge Weller, Sheriff Hall, Crown Attorney Wood, Mayor McWilliams, Warden McNutly, and Messrs. Ed. M. Elliott and Frank Adams, Treasurers of the county and city, respectively. This is the first year that the Mayor and Treasurer of the city have sat on this board, this being brought about by the town of Peterborough growing into a city.

FIFTY EIGHT BUSHELS PER ACRE; ALBERTA'S WHEAT CROP GOOD

This talk of poor crops in the west does not seem to be substantiated by reports which are coming from at least some sections of Western Canada. The latest is from Lethbridge — the place where last week a fall of snow was recorded—and it is a rosy tale, of a story which would cheer the hearts of the Ontario farmerif it were his crops that were being described. Fifty-eight bushels to the acre of No. 1 Alberta Red Fall Wheat. The Lethbridge Herald does a little bit of pardonable crowing over it and says:

"The farmers around Magrath have evidently decided to make their farms do something. Land that two years ago yielded about four bushels to the acre, because of poor cultivation, is this year yielding from thirty to sixty bushels per acre. Skelton and Jensen threshed one hundred acres just west of the town, and got 58 bushels to the acre of No. 1 Alberta Red to the acre. And there are some farms that are reported to be even better. Mr. Wyman purchased a section from the O. W. Kerr Co., with the crop on it this spring for $20 per acre, and it is expected his crop will pay for the land this year. Real farming pays."

Took it From Thos. Roger's Trousers Which Hung in his Room. Sixteen Dollars are Missing, the Couple Also—Were Suspicious Characters

FROM THE UNITED STATES

Thomas Rogers, a young man, in the employ of the George Matthews Company, was poorer by $16.00 this morning, as a result of leaving his money in his trousers pocket, in the clothes closet, at his boarding house on Charlotte street.

A short time ago, a young man, about 24 years of age, presumably from the United States, came to the boarding house with his wife, a young woman about 21 years of age, and of seemingly negro persuasion. Yesterday afternoon the landlady was surprised to see the couple coming down the stairs with their earthly goods, as if they were leaving. She asked them if they were going away, and she was told that they were.

When Mr. Rogers returned from his work, and learned that they were gone, he was somewhat suspicious, and going upstairs found that his money was not where he had left it at noon. He is confident that the strangers took it, for they were, according to him slick customers, and he believes that they made a regular practice of this work. The husband in his week's stay had worked at the C.G.E. works only three days, and said that he earned $2.50 per day, whereas he could get $4 across the border. They stated that they have recently been in Toronto, Belleville, Port Hope and other towns, and Mr. Rogers is now sure that they were engaged in thieving operations. Some of the money was in English currency. Mr. Rogers wanted the chief to try and get the couple in Toronto, where he believes they have gone, but finally decided that he had no specific evidence and the pair may have left Canada. Th chief gave Mr. Rogers a little advice, telling him not to leave loose money in a boarding house but to put it in a bank. There have been so many examples of the tendency of nomadic boarders of the suspicious character that people should be on their guard, and leave no temptation in their way.

Chas. Burton Has Been Placed Under Arrest

Charged With Stealing $30 From Mr. Payne of North Monaghan Was Apprehended by Constable Cochrane To-Day

WAS LEAVING THE DISTRICT

Chas. A. Burton was arrested this morning at Claremont by High County Constable Cochrane on a charge of stealing thirty dollars from a farmer named Payne, of North Monaghan. The particulars of the case were given in last evening's issue of the Examiner. Burton had been working for Payne and left suddenly one day last week. On Saturday night Payne discovered that his money was gone, and informed the authorities, who have lost no time in getting on the track of the missing man.

Constable Cochrane learned that the man was at Claremont, and went there this morning, succeeding in making the arrest. Burton, it is said, was about to leave for the Northwest on the C.P.R. harvesters' excursion when he was apprehended.

He appeared before County Magistrate Edmison for a preliminary hearing this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FINGERS SMASHED AT C. G. E. WORKS

Painful Accident of Which Fred Coleman Was Unfortunate Victim

Fred Coleman, an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company's works, in the metre department, received painful injuries yesterday, his fingers being badly crushed in a machine he was operating. Dr. Young was called to attend the young man, who is doing well to-day. He resides on Rutherford avenue.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN OF THE CITY WILL GATHER AROUND BANQUET TO HEAR AN EDITOR SPEAK

SECOND INSTALLMENT OF "THE ENGLISH ORPHANS"

To-day the second installment of the serial story, "The English Orphans," commenced last Tuesday, is published. A number of those who read the opening chapters of this story have been inquiring as to when they were to be given another installment. It is evidently a story of more than usual interest, and it will run for several months, sections being published usually on Tuesdays, when a 12-page paper is printed.

Mr. J. A. Macdonald of Toronto Will Give an Address to Laymen of The Churches About End of October

ON LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

An Interesting Gathering Arranged by Three Presbyterian Churches of the City in St. Andrew's Hall

A gathering of the men representing the three Presbyterian churches in the city will be held about the end of October, when a banquet is being arranged for. A feature of this gathering, which is in many respects designed to be an epoch in church work among men will be an address which will be given by Mr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, who will speak on the Laymen's Movement.

The present intention is to hold the banquet in St. Andrew's Hall, and tickets of admission will be issued and disposed of to the men of the three Presbyterian churches in the city, for whose benefit the gathering is primarily intended. Invitations will also be issued to a limited number of men representative of the other churches in the city.

A strong committee has been appointed, composed of men from the three churches of the Presbyterian denomination and Mr. G. M. Roger has been appointed chairman of the committee and will in all probability act as chairman at the banquet.

This event will, no doubt, be important in more respects than one, and great things are looked for as a result of the gathering.

CAMPBELLFORD GIRL IS IN TROUBLE

Edith Bonnycastle Charged With Theft at Toronto and is Placed Under Arrest

Edith Bonnycastle, a young Campbellford woman, who recently resided in Ottawa, was arrested at the Palmer House late last night by Dectectives Mackey and Kennedy, on two charges of theft. The first was made by William Patterson, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., for whom the prisoner had acted as housekeeper until about two weeks ago, when she left, taking a gold ruby ring, a gold ruby brooch, and some dress material, all of which were found in her possession. The second charge referred to a silver mounted umbrella, also found in her possession. The prisoner had accepted a position as assistant bookkeeper at the Palmer House, Toronto.—Globe.

Declare New Section of The Trent Canal Open

Victoria Road, After To-Morrow Will be Officially on the Route of the Canal—An Interesting Function

WILL BENEFIT INDUSTRIES

To-morrow will be a memorable day for Victoria Road. The annual fair will be held there, but that will not be the particularly interesting event of the day. The section of the Trent Canal to that town will be officially declared open, and the government steamer "Bob Hall," with a party from Lindsay will make a special trip to that town with the superintendent of the canal and Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, of Lindsay and others on board. Recently considerable dredging has been done in the waters leading to Victoria Road, and it is now on a branch of the canal, a fact which will be duly appreciated by the business men of that section particularly.

There are several industries there which the navigation by water will prove most advantageous, and one of these, the peat industry, is one in which Peterborough capitalists are largely interested. It will mean that peat can be delivered at Peterborough considerably cheaper than at the present time. To the other industries of the village, the Raven Lake Cement Works, saw mills, tannery, etc., the opening of that section of the canal will prove beneficial.

Second Shipment of Buffalo For Canadian Government

Mr. Michael Pablo Corralls Big Bunch and They Will be Sent to Canada at Once---Trouble To Secure Them

MAGNIFICENT SPECIMENS

Missoula, Mont., Sept. 16.—The roundup of the famous Pablo buffalo herd preparatory to moving them to Canada has commenced. The final payment of $70,000 by the Dominion Government to Pablo was made by Howard Douglass, and A. Ayotte, the Government Atents, who are her to superintend the loading There are 350 head, including the outlaws who defied all attempts to secure them last June in the mountains, and the task of corralling and loading them will be herculean. The difficulties are greatly accentuated by the fact that the grasshoppers have cleaned the Flathead range out, and many of the herd have crossed the Powder River, and are now scattered in the ravines over Pondera mountains. Pablo has gone in quest of them with fifteen Mexican cowboys. The buffalo will be driven back across the river down to Ravalli, 37 miles below, where they will be loaded after they are corralled. It is estimated that it will require two weeks with the loading gangs working fifteen hours per day. Every animal has to be put in with a separate block and tackle, after the stall has been made for it in the car.

Preparations at Lamont

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 31. — Frank Walker, M.P.P., stated yesterday that he expected the remainder of the Pablo buffaloes within the next ten days. Rounding-up commenced a month ago, and over 343 bisons will be loaded for Elk Island Park, Lamont. The herd will be taken straight to Lamont and unloaded. The fence leading from the station to the park has been replaced and strengthened. There is an abundance of feed in the park for the entire herd. The work of building the corrals' house and stable in the park commenced this week. The work is being done by the provincial department of public works, and will be rented to the Dominion Government. The building is to be a two-story Swiss cottage.

THREE MINUTE CURE FOR DIPTHERIA

Chemist Discovers Anti-Toxin Which he Claims Will Kill Germs Almost Instantaneously

Columbum, Ohio, Sept. 16.—Announcement of the discovery of an antitoxin that will kill dyphtheria germs in the living human organism within three minutes, has been made at the Ohio State University by Prof. Blyth, physiological chemist, as the result of an exhaustive technical and intricate series of tests.

The discovery is accredited to Theodore Wolfram, a German scientist now living in this city.

The antitoxin was given tests in hospitals and private practice before announcement of the discovery was made. It is applied by injection and can be applied in any quantity to the youngest patient.

UNATTACHED RUNNERS AFTER EXAMINER CUP

Mr. Vernon Morphett is again training for the Examiner road race. He will run unattached this year and has already been training for a month. Mr. Morphett's practice track extends south towards Crawford's Grove, and last night he made good time in his jaunt down there. It is expected that a couple of other runners will be out with him in a short time, all of whom will enter the Examiner road race.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY

It is no reproach, but a simple statement of fact, to say that Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, has rural ideas as to his ideas on rural mail delivery. He advocates a system of rural mail delivery to farmers, using the argument that it would be far better for one postmaster to go to a hundred farmers than for a hundred farmers to go to one postmaster. Would it be better for the proprietor of the cross-roads "general store" to deliver his parcels of tea, coffee, sugar, tobacco thread, etc., to a hundred farmers than to have a hundred farmers come to the general store? It is possible that the farmers would not appreciate the boon of a rural postal delivery. As a rule and, compared with business men in cities, farmers receive few letters, and these are of a character and of a class in respect of which time or prompt delivery is not an important element. Besides, the weekly, or bi-weekly, visit to the local post office, for the letters or the weekly papers, is viewed as a pleasure, rather than a hardship; for the farmer, or the members of the family, isolated during the rest of the week, and absorbed in the lonely and hard work of the farm, rather delight in a chance to meet their neighbours at the post office, talk over the crops, and exchange the gossip of the neighbourhood. When the farmers want rural mail delivery they will ask for it. The average farmer of good sense, would far rather have the money spent on free rural delivery—and it would cost a pretty penny—in improving the highways, so that he could get to the post office comfortably and readily. Besides, Mr. Borden's rural free delivery, would be class distinctoo. Self-evidently, the poorer farmers, those in the most remote and sparsely settled districts, would not have free delivery; it would only apply to prosperous farmers living in closely populated districts. The prosperous farmer would be benefitted, but the struggling farmer, while having to pay his share of the cost, would get no benefit. The existing postal arrangements are universal; every man benefits, the city dweller, as well as the most remote settler. But the matter is hardly worth arguing. It is a politician's dream, an expedient for creating a little popularity.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Borden has gone west in good time. If his temper had continued much longer getting hotter and hotter, it would not have been able to make the pacific "slope."

The United States navy is short of coal. Uncle Sam's navy was more successful when it relied upon the national source of motive power, of which there is never a shortage — wind.

In the past three years the city of Toronto has voted $2,481,171 for its waterworks system. It would be interesting to know what sum the city has spent in the past three years for liquids employed to dilute city water to sanitary consistency.

There's a resemblance and a difference in the case of Hon. Mr. Aylesworth and Mr. Borden. Both declare themselves in favour of improvement of our election law machinery; that is the resemblance. The difference is that Mr. Aylesworth has both the will and the power, and Mr. Borden hasn't.

The Bishop of London, now visiting Canada, gives English immigrants the terse advice — "be sober and industrious"—the veritable key to success. For the sober man there is always an opening to industry — employment is always available. But the man who abuses his beer is not wanted, either at home or in Canada.

A candidate for the Canadian Parliament in 1806, had the following sentence in his address to the address to the electors:

"If you make me your representative, I will faithfully discharge my duty; your confidence is not misplaced: may the first moment of my dereliction be the last of my existence."

What sanguinary scenes of harikari would there be in our legislative halls if all our representatives nowadays lived up to so heroic a standard, and what a perennial crop of bye-elections!

The French-Canadian, says the Toronto News, excels in platform oratory. Whether speaking in French, among his own people, or to audiences in the English speaking provinces, he is witty, hearty and entertaining. Many persons will remember the profound impression made in Ontario by Mr. Chapleau during the excitement arising out of Riel's execution more than twenty years ago. Mr. Tarte, much as he was denounced in this province, never failed to capture his audiences, and to arouse a remarkable degree of enthusiasm. It is not necessary to dwell upon the extraordinary acceptance with which Sir Wilfrid Laurier is received in all the English-speaking provinces.

Mr. Borden is not maintaining the moderation of language with which he began his stumping tour. In London, he accused Sir Wilfrid Laurier of having "betrayed" Canada in the matter of preferential trade at the Imperial Conference. Could Sir Wilfrid force the Imperial Government to abandon its policy of untaxed food products for the people? What could Sir Wilfrid do but acquiesce in the decision of the chief of the two parties to a preferential arrangement? Did Sir Wilfrid "betray" Canada by refusing to sulk and leave the Conference because the British ministers refused to tax the bread of their people in order to favour the products of Canadian farms? Mr. Borden seems to be determined to occupy some strong position, and he selects strong language as the only position of strength which he seems able to achieve. When Mr. Borden has done one hundredth as much as Sir Wilfrid Laurier has done for the material benefit, good name and prestige of Canada, he can afford to use childish talk about "betrayal" in a matter quite beyond the Prime Minister's control.

A CONFLICE OF THE FAIR DATES

Bowmanville Fair to be Held on Same Days as Exhibition at Peterborough—Promises to be a Success, Though

It is an unfortunate fact — for Bowmanville—that the fall fair in that town will be held on the same dates as the Industrial Fair in Peterborough—Friday, September 27, being the last day of the Durham Exhibition. In spite of this seeming handicap, however, the Bowmanville Fair, according to the report of the press agent, gives promise of surpassing any former exhibition in some respects. The competition in light and heavy horses, Durham cattle, Shrops and South Down sheep, poultry, fruit and vegetables will be very keen. As a live stock show, Bowmanville has led all Eastern Ontario for years; indeed, there are few better purely agricultural exhibitions in Ontario. Entries may be made on or before Tuesday, September 24, with J. S. Mooncraft, secretary, Bowmanville. Fair night concert on Friday will be given by for of the best singers and entertainers to be secured in Toronto.

THE IMPROVEMENTS IN ALLEYS

The Proprietors of the Majestic Make Arrangements for the Season

With the bowling season at hand the proprietors of the Majestic Bowling Alleys have been making great preparations for the opening and have succeeded in making their alleys among the most handsome and well arranged of any in the Dominion. One of the alleys has been removed to make way for a walk to the rear of the room, a convenience that will be appreciated. The floors have been levelled and are perfectly true, permitting of scientific bowling and improvements have been made in the carriers for returning the bowls. New pins have been ordered, the alleys have been repainted and everything is ready for what promises to be the most successful season in the history of ten pin bowling in Peterborough. The annual meeting of the Ten Pin League will be held on Friday night at the alleys.

NEW WATERING TROUGH APPRECIATED

Douro Farmers are Greatly Pleased With The Convenience Afforded

The Douro watering trough, concerning which there has been in the past so much controversy, is at last in a state of completion, and the testimony of those who live in that vicinity is that it is worth $100 a year to the township. It is proving a great convenience to the farmers driving to and from the city, and the unpleasantnesses of the past will be forgotten in the completed convenience.

THE WORLD'S CROPS ENCOURAGING

Reports From European Countries Indicate That There are Better Prospects Now—France May Export

RUSSIA AN EXCEPTION

(J. R. Heintz & Co. Special.)

Liverpool, Sept. 17. — Broomhall's weekly foreign crop report says:—

United Kingdom—Owing to the continued favourable weather, harvesting has made good progress during the past week. Early threshing returns are favourable.

France—In the northern section the crop is damp, otherwise the quality is good. There is some talk that this country will be in a position to export wheat this year.

Germany—Harvesting has made fair progress during the week. Supplies continue light, although offerings show some increase.

Denmark—Reports indicate a fair harvest.

Hungary—The outlook for corn has improved, but the drought which continues is hindering ploughing.

Roumania — Some rains have fallen, which were beneficial, but more is needed to enable ploughing to be carried on. Supplies are scarce.

Bulgaria—Good rains have fallen, but the corn crop is expected to be only half a usual one.

Russia—Some reports indicate that supplies will be larger, but many complaints are heard regarding the quality of threshing arrivals. Reports regarding the seeding of wheat are favourable, while that for corn still continues, on the whole, unfavourable.

Italy—According to harvesting indications, the wheat crop of this country is of splendid quality.

Australia—Late reports state that drought continues.

TO ENLARGE SCOPE OF DEPARTMENT

New Plans in View for Social Department of Y.M.C.A.—Committee Met Yesterday

The Social Committee of the Y.M.C.A. held a good meeting last night, under the leadership of the chairman, Mr. Charles Coleman.

The question of a better social work and the securing of the co-operation of all the members was the theme of the evening. It was decided to increase the committee to 21 with three men on duty each evening. It was also decided to keep the parlours open on Sunday evenings from 8 to 10 o'clock.

A special letter will be sent to the members calling their attention to a number of ways in which they can help in this department.

It was decided to hold a "Social motto contest," the idea being to secure a phrase of not more than ten words, which will convey to strangers and visitors to the building, the social idea. This motto will be hung at the entrance of the building. The committee will receive answers till the first of October, and a prize will be given the one who sends in the best quotation.

Another meeting of the committee will soon be held to arrange for the opening reception.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Caryle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Sir, — It would seem from the interview reported in your paper of yesterday that our worthy Chief of Police has not been in the vicinity of the opera house lately. For if he had, he would not have said that he is inclined to think that the young preacher in the Charlotte street church was mistaken in his statements last Sunday morning. From the report of the sermon Mr. Applegath has evidently noticed, what many are noticing every day, a flaming poster depicting a stabbing affray, which certainly is contrary to the laws of this country. The scene represented is from Faust, and law with reference to all such scenes should certainly be enforced.

There are other posters of a later production which are also far from being above criticism.

Let our chief see to it, that he live up to his characteristic reply, "You bet I would!" suppress illegal posters.

Aldermen Talk On a Variety Of Questions---Sawdust Fires May Cost the City Something---Boat House Owners May Be Taxed---General Business of the Council

There was probably never any greater variety of subjects up for discussion at a council meeting, than at the meeting of the city council in the council chamber last night. Each alderman was commissioned with some particular mission or missions, with the result that citizens' complaints from all parts of the city were ventilated in addition to those read in communications and referred to the various committees.

Only two bylaws were passed, but considerable time was spent in discussing alleged high assessments, diversion of the Aylmer street creek, taxation of lands along the Otonabee, with boat houses erected on them, arc lamps and numerous other problems.

Those present at the meeting were His Worship the Mayor, Ald. Duncan, Elliott, McIntyre, Morgan, Johnston, Leary, Wilson, Stevenson, Bradburn and Phelan.

Communications

Mr. P. B. Solmes, of 300 Smith street, wrote to the council informing the members that his wife had fallen on September 1st on Reid street, between London and Dublin streets, and fractured her right ankle. The cause of the accident was a loose plank, to which Mr. Solmes stated, the attention of the city authorities, had been called. He asked for unstated damages in view of the accident. The matter was left to the Legal Committee.

Saw-dust Fires

Edmison and Dixon wrote the council stating that their clients, the Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Company, Limited, instructed them to make application for payment of loss sustained in having 95 cords of wood burned on the property of the Hydraulic Power Company on Aug. 18, owing to a fire in a sawdust pile, which the fire brigade refused to put out. The company claimed $285 damages and asked for a settlement from the city. This was left to the Legal Committee.

Tax on Boat Houses

The city solicitor wrote the council in reference to the leasing of part of the reserve along the west bank of the river to Mr. R. Sheehy for storage purposes. The reserve, he stated, was originally intended for road allowance so that it could not be leased without taking the necessary steps such as posting up notices in the neighbourhood of the property and publishing the same in a newspaper, etc. Instead of going to that trouble he advised that Mr. Sheehy be merely allowed to pay $25 for the use of the land and let him run the risk of his occupation being objected to. He pointed out that there were some 15 or 20 boat houses along the river, the owners of which do not pay any rent for the use of the ground, and if this is allowed to continue difficulties may arise as to possession; he suggested that each boat house should be charged a reasonable rent.

In connection with this letter Ald. Bradburn and Elliott thought that the interests of the city should be looked after regarding the boat-houses along the river. Ald. Duncan considered that a nominal fee should be charged to each person having a boat house there, so that the right of the city to claim the property would be valid at any time.

It was moved by Ald. Bradburn and Phelan that the city solicitor's letter be referred to the Property Committee.—Carried.

City Hall Janitor

Mrs. R. Stevenson stated that she had seen references in the paper to the effect that the city buildings had not been taken care of properly. She stated that the police officers had been informed regarding the condition of the cells; she also referred to the fact that the double windows not having been taken off it was impossible to have cleaned them as she would have wished. She also referred to her mother-in-law as a probable successor as janitress of the city buildings. It was moved and seconded by Ald. Johnston and Leary that Mrs. Stevenson be written to to inform her what action had been taken with respect to the appointment of a janitor.—Carried.

Aylmer Street Creek

A number of ratepayers in the vicinity of the waterway along and near the railway track from Smith street south to Aylmer street, wrote the council complaining that one of the residents had blocked the course of the creek preventing the free outlet of the water and stating that if the matter were not attended to the properties above that might be flooded and in that case damages would be looked for.

Ald. Elliott stated that he had followed the bed of the creek all the way down through the city and that it had not been diverted except where it crosses the property of Mr. Bogue. Sometime ago it was decided to bring the drain around by Allison's, but that nothing had yet been done in that regard. It was cheaper he said to change the bed of the creek than to repair the present crib work where the creek already flows.

Ald. Johnston stated that Mr. Bogue was paid himself for placing the creek where it was and censured him for damming up the water and forcing it backwards on the properties behind him.

This was left to the Legal Committee.

The following bylaws were passed in council:—

Bylaw No. 1,338, authorising the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on Townsend street as a local improvement, and also Bylaw No. 1,339, appointing Robt. Wilson janitor for the city buildings.

Ald. Elliott brought up the question of the board sidewalk alongside the Hillier property, which has been thrown up on the bank so that pedestrians were forced to walk in the mud in the wet weather. Ald. Duncan explained that Mr. Fitzgerald had instructions to remove the sidewalk to its proper place.

Ald. Morgan referred to the want of a sidewalk in East City, alongside the creek, from the Riverside Park, and stated that Mr. Fitzgerald was only waiting for instructions to construct it. The alderman was given to understand that the work was not being overlooked.

Ald. Wilson called the attention of the Council to the condition in which the police cells were at the present time. It was stated that action had already been taken to improve the conditions there.

Ald. Stevenson asked what had been done regarding the proposed foot bridge across the river at the C.P.R. bridge. The Mayor stated that action had been taken by the Board of Works and that a reply with the company's plans was awaited.

Ald. Stevenson also asked about the proposed new gates on Aylmer street across the C.P.R. tracks, but this is also under consideration.

Committee Reports

The following report of the Legal Committee was read by the chairman, Ald. Phelan:

Your committee considered a memorandum prepared by the Mayor regarding the house-numbering system, suggesting that those parts of the city south of Lake street and west of Park street, and the short streets in the other portion of the city, be re-numbered on the same system as the central portion. We recommend that these suggestions outlined by the Mayor be adopted, and that this committee be authorized to prepare a plan in accordance with them, and report on the cost of carrying them out.

Aldermen Express Views On Scarlet Fever Dangers

Mayor Clears Himself From Blame In Selection of Isolation Hospital on the Upper Flat—The City Fathers Differ in Opinion

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION

The city fathers spent the greater part of the meeting of the Committee of the Whole last night, in talking about scarlet fever—the degree of danger to which a person is subjected with respect to the location of a patient; when that danger becomes the greatest and also the subject of an Isolation Hospital again.

Differences of opinion were expressed by different aldermen, as is usually the case in discussions of important problems, yet, from lack of professional advice in the matter, there was no decision arrived at as to whether scarlet fever is or is not a dangerous disease.

Several times was the new Isolation Hospital of Peterborough — a room on the third flat of the city buildings—alluded to, and in introducing the subject the Mayor exonerated himself from any blame which was, or which might be, attached to the selection of that room for a scarlet fever patient. He stated that the chairman of the Board of Health and the Medical Health Officer, came to him in regard to an isolated place for the sick girl. The officer, he said, asked his opinion, but that he requested him to take action himself. Dr. Bingham then pointed out the room in the top flat of the city hall, stating that it would be satisfactory, and an ideal place for a temporary "isolation hospital." There was no danger, the doctor had stated, in placing the patient there, as she would be absolutely separate from every person. The Mayor repeated that he had nothing whatever to do with the location.

Ald. Johnston was entirely against the top story of the city hall being turned into an isolation hospital. A contagious disease case, in his opinion, should be placed apart from any building.

Ald. Bradburn stated that the Special Committee in connection with the Isolation Hospital had met in his office, but the committee had decided that $9000 for an hospital was too much of an expenditure. Ald Bradburn further said that he had written to Belleville to get information about the hospital there but had received no reply. Later he had learned that Belleville was just about as far ahead with the Isolation Hospital as Peterborough, and that representatives from that place were thinking of coming to Peterborough to look over the building here, to which Ald. Phelan jocularly remarked, "We'll take them up to the band room and show them ours."

Ald. Wilson in speaking of the scarlet fever question, did not think there was as much danger in the disease as most people considered, and Ald. Leary informed the committee that there was little danger until the scales began to drop off.

After all this information had been dispensed the proposed Isolation Hospital was again talked of, and a resolution passed by the committee regarding further steps in the matter.

Western Farmers Will Have a Prosperous Year

Former Peterborough Man Now Living in the West, Tells of Conditions There---High Prices will Help

MR. IVEY'S OPINION

Encouraging reports of the conditions in the Canadian West this year are brought by persons recently in the West, and, judging by their statements, it seems a warranted assumption that, while the yield, per acre, and possibly the total yield of Wheat, in the West this year will not be equal to that of 1906, the returns to the farmers will be fully up to those of last year. There is a considerable increase in the acreage this year, and the prices will be higher.

Even from the standpoint of the yield, though, there does not seem to be any cause for alarm. While the crops in Manitoba, as a whole, are not up to those of last year, those in Alberta and Saskatchewan are good, and when the backward and unfavourable spring ist aken into consideration, the results in Manitoba are remarkable.

These are the opinions expressed by Mr. A. R. Ivey, who is in the city on a visit from Winnipeg, where he has lived for several years.

Mr. Ivey is hopeful for the future, not only of Winnipeg, but of the whole West, and points out as an evidence of the growth of Winnipeg's trade, the fact that the returns for the clearing house this year so far as away ahead of those of last year up to this time. There have not been as many building permits issued this year, at least the value of buildings erected is less than it was in 1906, which was a remarkable year, and it would be expecting too much for it to be repeated this year. An encouraging feature, however, in connection with the permits issued this year is the fact that the greater number are for the erection of homes, an indication that the people of the city have faith in it, else they would not be willing to risk their money in building homes. In the majority of cases, too, the buildings are of a superior class.

Mr. Ivey is visiting, while in the city, with Mr. R. J. Ivey.

Stomach Troubles Of Long Standing

WHEN DOCTORS' TREATMENT FAILED THIS SEVERE CASE WAS ENTIRELY CURED BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Doctors failed to cure Mr. De Courcey because they were satisfied to treat the stomach instead of getting at the cause of trouble in the liver and bowels.

The most complicated and deep-seated digestive troubles yield to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Livre Pills, because of their direct and combined action on the liver, kidnye and bowels. We are continually receiving such letters as the following in regard to the failure of mere stomach treatment:

Mr. Patrick De Courcey, Midgell, lot 40, P.E.I., writes: "For some time I had stomach trouble, and was scarcely able to do anything at all. I was treated by doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. A friend advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Livre Pills, and I did so, to very great advantage, for my old trouble has disappeared, and, though past middle age, I feel young and hearty again. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's medicine."

Another interesting case of liver derangements and stomach troubles is that described in this letter:

Mrs. James Monteith, Saarin, Simcoe County, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for liver complaint, biliousness and terrible sick headaches, and have found that they are more effective than any treatment I ever tried. They cleanse the system thoroughly, remove the cause of pains and aches, and make you feel fresh and strong again. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are also excellent for stomach troubles."

By means of their direct and specific action on the liver—causing a healthful flow of bile—they regulate and enliven the action of the bowels and ensure good digestion in the intestines. At the same time they stimulate the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

TRAVELLER HAS A BIG COMPLAINT

Editor of Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I came down on the midday C.P.R. train to-day. There were about 20 passengers in the coach I was in, who had to stand. There were seats enough occupied by bouquets of flowers and parcels to accommodate all the passengers. Two interests were to blame—the standing passengers who had the grievance—they should have sat on the persons to whom things belonged by putting on their bouquets and band boxes. Then the railway is to blame—they have no right to carry hogs in passenger coaches.

Yours truly,
"STANDING KICKER."

CULTIVATE A TASTE FOR THE BEAUTIFUL

President of Horticultural Society Speaks Of Its Objects

Mr. D. W. Dumble, president of the society, when interviewed by the Examiner in reference to the awarding of prizes, stated that the object of the society was to cultivate in the people of Peterborough a taste for the beautiful, and to rid them of the idea that a backyard if only a place for the storing of rubbish. He went on to explain that a few plants and evergreens, tastefully arranged, would make a marvellous transformation in the appearance of premises, even where there was no front lawn. The society had dropped the annual show because it was not a success, financially, and in other ways did not achieve the objects of the society. The diffusion of bulbs and the stimulus of giving prizes for well kept grounds was proving decidedly more beneficial.

Alderman Charges Council With Undue Expenditure

Says Sewers Are Laid in Streets Before Water Pipes—Debenture Debt is Increasing

DISCUSSION ON SUBJECT

Is the city council spending money needlessly? According to the statements made by Ald. Bradburn at the Council meeting last night it is. The alderman asserted in substantiation of his claim that there are streets in Peterborough where sewer pipes have or are being laid where there is no water. A sewer, he said, was of no value whatever until water connections had been made and called the attention of the other aldermen to the increasing of the city debentures and the difficulty in disposing of them.

In introducing the question, Ald. Bradburn stated that some streets of the city there were sewers being laid where there was no water and mentioned Patterson and Union streets. The Mayor stated that either the water or a sewer had to come first so that there was little difference which preceded the other. The building of a sewer he considered was very important, and that when it preceded the people on the street would be more anxious for the water.

"We are going ahead spending money" said Ald. Bradburn, "and with the money market as it is now, we are going to have difficulty in selling our debentures." He further went on to say that sewer construction could often be delayed until water pipes precede so that the debenture debt could be lessened.

Ald. Wilson and Phelan concurred in Ald. Bradburn's opinion and believed the water should precede.

Ald. Stevenson considered it would be better for the city to go slowly in times of depression and for the council to spend no money on a street unless it were absolutely necessary. When times are more prosperous are the times that the greater number of improvements should be made.

Ald. Wilson called the attention of the council to the consideration of another trunk sewer and advised that one be constructed on Park street. The present trunk sewer, he stated, was now almost taxed to its capacity adn he believed the council should move slowly in building sewers until another trunk sewer was laid.

Baby Boy Eats Almost A Cake of Rat Biscuit

Was Discovered in Time by a Little Companion who Noticed the Danger---Little Son of Mr. Geo. L. Stevens, George Street

FOUND IN SIDEBOARD

The inability of a child's mind to distinguish between an ordinary biscuit, and a rat biscuit designed for the extermination of rodents, was the cause of the little son of Mr. G. L. Stevens, No. 613 George street, eating a rat biscuit yesterday. He obtained it out of a cupboard, and being but a little over two years old did not realize his mistake. He began eating it, and went out on the lawn, where he was joined by little Miss Olive Thompson, who, for a time did not notice the cake marked "poison." Finally she did and ran into the house with the startling announcement that the baby wat eating a rat biscuit. The little fellow had nearly finished the cake, and it was thought that he was in danger of being poisoned. A doctor was called and by emetics the rat biscuit was removed from the stomach. The little one was fortunately noticed in time so that he was not as ill as might be expected.

57 HAVE LEFT THEIR HEADQUARTERS

The turning of the upper floor of the old firehall into an isolation hospital has driven the 57th Band from its headquarters and practice room just across the hall from where the scarlet fever patient has been placed. As soon as the patient was installed there the members of the band took their instruments out of the hall, and it is understood, refuse to return until the patient has left the building.

Flying From Russian Shots.

Four aliens applied to the London Immigration Board recently for admission to England, alleging that they were "flying from Russian shots" in Odessa and Lodz.

A young tailoress named Lita Kuschnia said that she had left Odessa because she was afraid of assassination. It was stated that one of the family had been shot in the house where the young woman lived.

The chairman asked the girl whether she knew that there were many unemployed tailoresses in the East End, but a relative of the girl, who said that he employed twenty tailoresses, declared that it was difficult to find workers, and he had to pay some of his girls $10 a week. Another relative offered to keep the girl until she got married, and ultimately she was admitted.

Mendel Dombinski said that he had left Lodz with his wife and young son because "they are shooting people in my country every day." He admitted, however, that he had left two of his children behind. A brother-in-law said he could keep the family for six months if the old man did not get work, but the three applicants were rejected.

Infants In the Commons.

The spectacle of a boy in an Eton suit listening to a debate in the House of Lords from the steps of the Throne is by no means uncommon in the Upper Chamber. The House of Commons has had much less conventional visitors, including more than one infant in arms. On one occasion, when Lord John Russell was Premier, a debate in the Commons was interrupted by a childish voice exclaiming, "Oh, mammy, there's papa!" The Speaker (Mr. Shaw-Lefevre) was horrified, and promptly sent the Serjeant-at-Arms to remove the intruder, while Mr. Bernal Osborne convulsed the House by proclaiming the identity of the offender. "A wise child knows its own father," he said; "it is Lord John's baby."

Constable, the famous painter, once gave a remarkable instance of the sweetness of his temper, which scarcely anything could ruffle. The story was told by Julian Charles Young, whose uncle had witnessed the incident.

He called on Constable one day and was received by him in his front room. After half an hour's chat the artist proposed to repair to the back room to show him a large picture on which he was engaged. On walking up to his easel he found that one of his little boys in his absence had dashed the handle of the hearth broom through the canvas and made so large a rent in it as to render its restoration impossible. He called the child up to him and asked him gently if he had done it. When the boy admitted his act Constable took him on his knee and rebuked him in these unmeasured terms:

"Oh, my dear pet! See what we have done! Dear, dear! What shall we do to mend it? I can't think—can you?"

THE BRICKLAYERS WANT UNION MEN

Communication to City Council Complaining of Alleged Wrongs

Mr. Wm. Stevens, secretary of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, No. 17, of Peterborough, has written the City Council, calling the attention of that body to the fact that Contractors White & Martin Neary had employed non-union men in the construction of man holes in the sewers under their supervision. The letter further states that union men could easily have been employed and calls the attention of the council to the matter with a view to having it rectified.

The letter was read last night in Council and briefly discussed. Ald. Leary asked if the city was compelled to employ union men and disregard non-unionists even if they were ratepayers. It was a free country, said, and didn't see why non-union men if satisfactory should not be appointed if wanted.

Ald. Morgan remarked that if there were any union bricklayers available thy should be given the preference.

The Mayor considered the question was one to be dealt with in committee and referred it to the Board of Works.

The contractor has a large staff of men at work, and hopes to get the roof on the addition this fall in order that work may be carried on in the interior during the winter.

Music and Drama

LITTLE DOLLY DIMPLES

Mr. Webber Turner, of the firm of J. J. Turner and Sons, has returned from Toronto, where he has been successful in securing the "Little Dolly Dimples" Company as an attraction for the Grand Opera House for next Monday night, September 23. This comic opera success is playing at the Grand all this week, and is receiving very flattering press notices from the Toronto critics. It was to have gone to Michigan after the Toronto engagement, but Messrs. Turner and Sons have been successful in inducing them to cancel the date and come to Peterborough. "Little Dolly Dimples" is one of the biggest musical comedy successes which will appear here this season. Miss Grace Cameron, the winsome star, is supported by a cast of pretty talented singers and dancers. There is an abundance of tuneful music and plenty of fun of the refined type.

AN ANGEL IN DISGUISE TO OBTAIN OPTIONS

Proposal of Ald. Leary Respecting Alleged High Assessments

Ald. Leary, at the Council meeting last night, proposed a novel scheme for discovering whether ratepayers were asking more or less for their properties than the amount for which they were assessed. His proposal is that one of the aldermen be disguised and sent around the city to those persons who are complaining of high assessments, with a view to discovering what they really would ask for their properties if a purchaser should happen along. By obtaining options on such properties, Ald. Leary considered that it would then be found whether they are sincere in what they state regarding the values of their properties relative to the assessment of the same.

Fall Millinery Opening

1907 Thursday, September 19th 1907

YOUR STORE is ready with an exceptionally comprehensive assemblage of all that is new, fashionable and worthy Millinery Garments and Dress Materials for the Fall and Winter of 1907, as well as a splendid showing of New Draperies, Carpets and Linens. Visit the store on the special opening days of this AUTHORITATIVE STYLE EXPOSITION. You'll find yourself then possessed of a clear knowledge of Fashion's most favored fancies, for they're here awaiting your approval. Prepartions on a larger scale than ever before--assortments unusually complete, and varied styles far more beautiful, and prices particularly attractive. Below are hints of the feast that here awaits you. Be sure you come.

THE NEW MILLINERY

Special attention is invited to the New Millinery. The latest creations of those designers in Paris, London and New York, who establish the vogue the world over, are shown in a wonderful profusion of beautiful effects.

These imported Hats are augmented by a splendid showing of sweet designs produced in our own workrooms.

This season's rule of Fashion is to wear any kind of a hat you like. Probably large Hats will be the most fashionable, although plenty of small shapes are in evidence.

A great variety of trimmings are employed, including all kinds of feather effects and plumes, together with large flowers and ribbons.

With the many different color effects, a visit to our Millinery Show Room now will prove wonderfully appealing to the eye of the lover of beautiful style effects.

CARPETS AND DRAPERIES

The woman whose artistic taste enables her to cover the floors and drape the windows of her house in a pleasing manner at little expense, will appreciate our splendid new display of Carpets, Draperies and other things which will add comfort and refinement to her house.

We provide the path of economy which leads to the possession of all these Home Furnishings, and ours are the products of the best makers.

BEAUTIFUL WAISTS

Many of the novelties in separate Waists this season are designed on lines similar to the effects seen in the dressiest costumes.

Net and Net Lace Waists, rich Silk Waists in tucked and pleated effects, and Tailored Waists are among the leading styles.

No limit to choice, however. Here you'll find an immense variety of the new waists in all styles to select from.

TAILORED SUITS AND COATS

This will be one of the greatest seasons ever known for Tailor Made Suits; probably the fact that the styles are particularly becoming accounts for it.

All the best styles are here, from the simple mannish tailored suits to the most striking novelty.

Jackets are generally longer this season. Sleeves are three-quarter and full length with the three-quarter sleeve in the lead as favorite.

Whatever color you fancy you'll find that too, for here are suits in all prevailing colors and materials.

Skirts are generally pleated and the walking length still rules.

Of Cloth Coats we have prepared a most extensive showing. Here are the long loose-fitting and long tight-fitting coats, medium and semi fitted coats, natty short and medium long coats in plain materials and fancy mixtures.

DRESS GOODS! DRESS GOODS!

Our showing of the many new fabrics has been carefully chosen, and only those that are thoroughly reliable in every detail have been allowed to enter the store. Never before have we begun a season with such an abundant variety; here are Dress Goods for every conceivable occasion.

DRESS TRIMMINGS! DRESS TRIMMINGS!

Novelty is the keynote of the showing of Dress Trimmings, and here you'll find your every requirement can be most satisfactorily supplied. In fact we have made unusual preparations to have our stock of Dress Trimmings so complete that it can meet every demand made upon it.

Public Abattoir Proposed For City of Peterborough

Ald. Elliott Introduces Question of Tainted Meats and Suggests Inspection—Alderman Stevenson's Opinion

NEW PROBLEM FOR COUNCIL

One of the innovations at the city council meeting last night, and one which will probably prove popular among the aldermen was the question of the construction of a public abattoir, for the slaughtering of animals for the consumption of the citizens to be supervised by an inspector, whose duties will be the culling out of all tainted animals. The matter was advanced by Ald. Elliott, who first mentioned the work that is being accomplished by the inspectors over the various Canadian packing houses.

What was wanted, said Mr. Elliott, was a public abattoir, where all the animals killed for local butcher trade should be inspected before coming to the public for consumption. As it is the people of Canada are forced to consume tainted meat, when the people of England and the old land get the very best. Some of the butchers, he said, had been advocating this innovation, and he believed it was something well worth considering.

Ald. Stevenson believed that Peterborough ought to have an inspector to inspect all cattle and other animals at a slaughter house or have a general slaughter house, and compel all animals to be consumed by the citizens inspected. He mentioned the varying prices at which farmers and butchers sold beef, the former at the market and the latter in the butcher shop, and believed that there would be a greater equality if the new scheme could be effected.

The matter was dropped here, but will be brought up again for further discussion.

CANADIAN CLUB MOVEMENT IS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

A meeting of the committee having in charge the work of arranging for an organization meeting of a Canadian Club in Peterborough, was held yesterday afternoon.

The reports given were most encouraging and a plan was decided upon for a canvas for members, following which a general meeting will be called.

The Club will be independent of any other organization and conducted along the same lines as in other cities.

The Y.M.C.A. Educational Committee are merely undertaking the working up of the Club and arranging for the organization.

WEDDING BELLS.

HENNESSEY-MOHER

A pretty autumn wedding was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at 8 o'clock, when Miss Mary Moher, eldest daughter of Mr. Daniel Moher, 20 Patterson street, was united in marriage to Mr. Michael Hennessey, son of Mr. William Hennessey of Toronto. The ceremony, which was performed by the bride's cousin, Rev. Father O'Leary, was witnessed by a large number of the relatives and friends of the young couple. The bride was given away by her father, and looked very pretty in a becoming travelling suit of navy blue lady's cloth and hat to match. She carried a mother of pearl prayer book.

The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Delphine Moher, who wore a dress of white panama cloth and a pink picture hat. She carried a bouquet of carnations. Mr. Thos. Hennessey, brother of the groom, was best man. The choir, of which Mrs. Hennessey was a member, rendered special music, and solos were sung by Miss Lavina Halligan and Miss Annie Simons.

After the wedding the happy couple returned to the bride's home, where the nuptial dinner was spread for about fifty guests. The catering was done by Mr. Thos. Hooper in his usual dainty style.

Mr. and Mrs. Hennessey received many congratulations from their friends at a reception held in the afternoon. They left on the 4.45 p.m. C.P.R. express for Niagara Falls, Buffalo and New York on their honeymoon. On their return they will reside on Sixth street, New Toronto. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. Plouffe of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGarry of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Hennessey received many gifts from their friends. The members of St. Peter's choir presad bowl. The bridesmaid's gift to sented them with a hand-painted sal the bride was a pretty hand satchel; the groom's gift to the groomsman was a pearl tie pin, and to the brides maid an opal ring.

City Aldermen Talk Of Assessment in The South

Council Has no Control, Says the Mayor, But Ald. Morgan States That Body Has Control of The Appointments

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION

The alleged high assessment in the south end of the city was introduced to the City Council last night by Ald. McIntyre, mentioning that he considered the complaints were justified. There were some properties, he said, assessed for double what he would be willing to pay for them.

The Mayor, for the benefit of the Council and members of the press informed them that the council had no control over the work of the assessors. There were undoubtedly some remarkable raises, he remarked, but the question was whether the assessor was justified or not. Mr. McKee had told him that on one occasion a citizen in the south end of the city had complained of a raising in assessment from $4 to $9 when he had sold part of the property at $10 per foot.

Ald. Wilson believed Mr. McKee was on the right path, but stated he may be assessing a little high.

Ald. Bradburn, Morgan and Elliott all believed that if the assessment is raised too high, people will not build and there will be a great depreciation in the building line. Several of the Aldermen rose in their seats and gave specific cases in which assessments were raised $750, $1,300, $1,500, etc., above what they were last year.

Mr. McKee had stated to the Mayor that by the act governing the assessment of properties, he was bound to assess closer than he has done in the past.

Ald. Phelan stated that he could not say whether the assessor was justified or not, but he knew that there was never before so much "kicking" on the part of the ratepayers.

Ald. Johnston considered Mr. McKee to be fair in his assessments and believed him to be a good man for the work. He advocated one assessor being appointed stating that would do away with differences in the rates of assessment used by two men.

The Mayor again stated that the work of the assessors was not controlled by the council.

"Yes, but the council appoints them," remarked Ald. Morgan.

After this discussion had been continuing for some time the Mayor informed the council that no action could be taken by them. Any complaints must first come before the Board of Revision.

TROUBLE IN CHINA.

Determined Battle Between Troops and Insurgents at Lingshan.

Hong Kong, Sept. 17.—A stubborn 12-hour engagement occurred on Sunday between troops and insurgents at Lingshan City, in the Prefecture of Yungchow.

The imperial reinforcements marched 60 miles from Kwangsi and relieved the city.

The insurgents, who are moderately well armed, have severed telegraphic communication.

It is reported that the leaders of the new movement are emigrants who have returned from the Straits Settlements, Annam, where they obtained their military stores. Gunboats are patrolling the coast to prevent smuggling.

GOES BLIND IN PRISON.

Cassie Chadwick Stricken Down While Serving Ten Years.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Cassie M. Chadwick, who, posing as Andrew Carnegie's natural daughter, swindled Ohio and eastern banks and capitalists out of millions in loans on bogus securities, was stricken with a nervous collapse at the penitentiary yesterday, which has left her blind.

Her condition is serious, and it is the opinion of the prison physicians that she will never live to serve out her ten years' sentence, two years of which she has completed.

Must Not Do It Again.

Stratford, Sept. 17.—The Fall Assizes of the High Court opened yesterday with Chief Justice Falconbridge presiding. There was one criminal case, King v. Lockyer. Henry Lockyer, charged with the murder of Noah Hills, in a fistic encounter last June, was allowed off on suspended sentence, his lawyer, J. C. Makins, putting up a magnificent plea for leniency. There are eight civil cases on the list.

Immigration Statistics.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The total immigration to Canada for the first seven months of the present year, ending July 31, was 153,696, as compared with 116,382 for the corresponding period of 1906, an increase of 37,034, or about 20 per cent. The immigration via ocean ports totalled 126,458, an increase of 39,220 over the first seven months of 1906. The immigration from the United States was 27,238, a decrease of 2,516.

A Fashionable Gem.

Of the minor gems of which the smartly gowned woman now makes much there is a translucent green stone known as amazonite. It is of vivid and yet a soft green and purposely is worn on a platinum chain to look as if detached and to make a bright center of color on a white blouse. Rose quartz is another of the same kind used for necklace ornaments and hatpins.

The Boy Guessed Right.

"What is this?" she asked, as she touched the fender.

"Iron."

"What is this?" indicating a bottle.

"Glass."

"What is this?" and she touched her watch chain.

"Brass," said one small boy, and then she changed the subject.

The New York Stock Market

New York, September 17. — A much better tone has prevailed in the market to-day. The demand from the shorts was particularly insistent in Reading and Union Pac., and also in Amal. Copper and Smelters. Nor. Pac. was quite the conspicuous feature, doing very well bought. The day brought the beginning of testimony taking in the suit for the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company, but no particular attention was paid to the actual testimony as it came out.

As far as the general market is concerned it all depends upon the position assumed by important banking interests as to whether this new stand will have any great effect, and at the moment it would seem that the Standard Oil party as well as the Morgan interests are in favour of further improvement in gilt edged railroads.

The sentiment regarding the copper situation was brighter in London to-day, but further declines were reported on the metal exchange.

It is thought that as soon as monetary conditions permit the financing of various enterprises which have been planned and which will use vast amounts of copper, it would not be long before a large surplus stock now piled up would show gratifying diminution. We would advise confining purchases to the best of the rails, especially Harriman, and Hill stocks, Reading, St. Paul, which will enjoy a maximum of improvement which we believe will come into the market during the next few weeks. The big factor in the market is the bright outlook for money, both at home and abroad. The closing was strong at the best of the day.

Peterborough Should Be Proud of Its Team

Port Hope Guide Says They Deserve Credit—Comment on Saturday's Big Ball Game

THERE WAS MUCH REJOICING

The Port Hope Guide contains two columns of rejoicing over the victory of their ball team, embellished with an enormous rooster. Here is some of the coment:—

Now just a word or two about the game, and the best way to express our opinion about it is to tell you that it was a crackerjack. Snappy fielding, fine base running and accurate throwing. A battle between eighteen of the best amateur players in the province, and the Crawfordites were just a little better. Every man on the Port Hope line put up star ball. Their whole heart was in the game and they did not miss a single opportunity. It did not lag for a single instant and it was certainly a great sight. It was an eye-opener for the Cobourg people, and for the first time this season they saw base ball in its real form.

It has been said that at championship games is not the place for people with weak hearts. We don't think we had any from Port Hope, but if we did they were all right. There was nothing to worry about. The score by no means indicates the play. It was one of those games where you had nothing to fear. After the first couple of innings it was quite evident that Peterborough were not at all dangerous. Hickey's benders were too much for the northern men and there wasn't the slightest chance of them doing any harm. On the other hand every Port Hoper was hitting the ball and during the whole game only one of the locals struck out and this was on a foul tip.

It was the fastest game in the history of the Midland League and the losers put up a plucky fight. Coming into this league as they did, with too losses credited against them, they are deserving of every praise and every Peterborough fan should feel proud of the showing their team has made.

MANY RUNNERS PREPARING FOR EXAMINER ROAD RACE

There is apparently a revival of interest in running in the city. Last night the Y.M.C.A. Harriers' Club had the most successful run of the season. There was a large number of men out, about fifteen new men being in the run, among them being Elliott, Gord Turnerr, Harry Hall Armstrong and Reed.

A number of these men will, in all probability, enter the Examiner road race this year, which promises to be a greater success than that of last year.

Another run will be held on Wednesday night, and following the run, there will be a business meeting of the club.

ANGLERS AT COTTAGE FOR WEEK END

C. G. E. Izaaks Spent a Quiet Day at Their Club House On Rice Lake

A FEW OF THE INCIDENTS

Saturday and Sunday at Jubilee Point was more delightful than it has been the lot of regulars to enjoy this summer, and quite a number accepted the opportunity of a pleasant week-end at Rice Lake. The C. G. E. cottage had the following guests:—Anglers Wilson, McCabe, Brundrette, Trombley, Hughes and Sheridan. The Eko Camp boys called in on Sunday with the following crew:—L Ramsden, M Counsell, A Glover, W Higgins, M Mowry and Capt. Carson at the wheel of the yacht "Eko." The "Tootsie" carried the Anglers down and back, and on the return trip a hot race between these two fast boats was the feature. It was neck and neck for miles, although the "Eko" had a handicap at the start. It had a canoe in tow, which was swamped, owing, it is said, to the poor generalship of the "Eko's" wheelman. According to the Anglers' Official Liar, they landed home first by over five minutes in a race that was exciting from start to finish. Messrs. A. Cranfield, Fred and Bert Holland were visitors at the C. G. E. cottage on Sunday.

The Lord's Day was spent quietly, the Anglers taking in the autumn pleasures on lake, river and field. Mr. Jack Trombley, the Royal Chef, excelled himself with the Sunday mid-day meal, which was so elaborate and appetizing that a few complimentary speeches were made when the inner man was satisfied. It is reported that Mr. "Merce" Mowry's post-prandial oration was the best ever delivered at the cottage.

Walter Hughes' First.

When the Anglers reached their destination on Saturday Mr. Walter Hughes, with one of the Anglers, went out on the lake for a quiet fish. Walter had his first sail on the lake his first trip in a canoe, and altogether had a great time. He was very successful with the rod and line, landing a sunfish and several small perch. Walter also had a delightful sail on the lake on Sunday.

A Fishing Exploit

Angler Mercier and W. Higgins went out for a quiet trawl as the shades of Saturday evening were beginning to creep over the lake. They paddled around for about half an hour when they had a big strike. After a hard struggle they landed Mr. Lunge and brought him back to the cottage where all the anglers congratulated them on their success. There were no scales to weigh the fish, but the Official Angler states that Angler Mowry put it in an envelope for Mr. Higgins to bring home and have it mounted.

Vernon O'Dette, Len Naylor, Harry Hayes, et al., returned home on Saturday evening after, two weeks' holidays at Jubilee.

The Rob Roy, with the office employees of the Cordage Company on board, called at the cottage on Sunday on their return trip from Hastings.

Nearly Missed the Boat

Early on Monday morning Anglers McCabe and Hughes went out for a morning brace across a meadow behind the cottage. The first thing they saw was a fine black squirrel, with a bushy tail that was unsurpassable. They started to chase him out of curiosity, and it led them a merry chase to the hill where the old cemetery is located. Here it disappeared, and Walter exclaimed, disconsolately, "He's a dead one, Jack, come on back." They started to return when they heard the Monarch's whistle and had a faster race than when chasing the squirrel.

The anglers' cottage has been a great success this year, the men enjoying the quiet and rest that it affords at the week-end.

THE VICE IS AGAIN IN TRIUMPH

It Enters the Realm of Sport and the Vice Skip Defeated the Skip in Competition

After the way of this wicked old world, vice has again triumphed over virtue. In the realm of sport even, this seems to be the case. The finals in the competition in the local Lawn Bowling Club between the skips and vices is a case in point. Dr. Holloway, a vice, won from J. E. A. Fitzgerald, a skip, by the one-sided score of 13-2. The winner in this instance, however, disclaims the responsibility of representing the vice in its generally accepted term, of the lawn bowlers, as the loser, with his characteristic modesty, would no doubt not care to assert that he was the embodiment of the virtue.

Big Rally of Young People at Murray Street

Inspiring Addresses Were Listened to By a Most Representative Gathering. The Spokane Convention

REV. MR. SCHUTT'S ADDRESS

The success of the Young People's Rally in the Murray street Baptist church last night must have been gratifying to the B.Y.P.U. of the church under whose auspices the gathering was held. Not only was there a large attendance of the young people of Murray street present, but the other churches of the city were well represented and as a result the seating accommodation of the church was pretty severely taxed. It was a representative assembly of young church workers such as is not often gathered together in Peterborough, and should, if the good advice given by the speakers is carried out, result in great benefit to the different churches of the city.

Rev. J R Webb, the pastor of Murray street, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened with a hymn and the offering of prayer by Rev. A H Brace, of the Park street Baptist church, who occupied a seat on the platform. The chairman then, after a few words of welcome, called upon Mr. E M Hooker, the president of the Murray street B.Y.P.U., to give an address. Mr. Hooker, after cordially welcoming the young people to the Murray street church, stated that the rally had been held for two objects, to stimulate the interest of those already engaged in church work and to arouse those who were not so engaged. He spoke of the need there was for young people in the operations of the church, and of the necessity that existed for training for the work of the Master.

The choir of the church at this stage rendered the anthem "Christ is Risen," in spirited manner.

Mr. Mann, of the Gilmour Memorial church, and Mr. Chas. Barrie, of the Park street Baptist church, on behalf of the young people of the two churches replied to the address of welcome, and brought messages of encouragement to the B.Y.P.U., of Murray street.

Rev. L. McKinnon, of the Gilmour Memorial Church, gave an interesting address, taking as his subject the recent International Baptist Young People's Convention at Spokane, which he attended. The speaker gave an interesting description of the trip and of the convention, quoting from some of the speakers at the gathering. He stated that such conventions did much to promote a friendly and neighbourly spirit among the people of Canada and the United States. The essence of the young people's work was, he thought, "Christ for the young people" and the "young people for Christ," and he spoke at some length on this, urging his hearers to greater efforts.

A quartette by the choir, "The Lord is My Shepherd," was well rendered and much appreciated.

Rev. C H Schutt, of Toronto, made a most forcible and inspiring address. After relating some of the achievements of Baptists in the past and showing how they had contributed to the world's great men, he passed on to point out the opportunities that existed before the Baptist young people of the present day. The speaker referred to Canada's advantages and the things which the young people had to fight against, among which the speaker referred to the rush for wealth, which he ascribed to the material spirit that was too rapidly growing up among Canadians.

In conclusion he urged upon his hearers the necessity for a forward movement in connection with young people's work. The address could not fail to be helpful to those who heard it and should have a good effect upon the different young people's church societies in the city.

Mr. Geo. H. Williamson, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was called upon and spoke briefly, advising the audience to follow the advice of the previous speaker.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the young people of the church in the Sunday School room, where a pleasant social hour was sent.

THE EXTENSION OF AYLMER STREET

City Decide to Purchase Properties at Sums Arranged For By Special Committee

THE REPORT IS ADOPTED

Extension of Aylmer street south is now in a position to be accomplished. The Special Committee appointed in regard to the opening of Aylmer street from Lake street to Wescott street reported last night to the council, stating they had made arrangements with the property owners about the purchase of the necessary property and that these arrangements were better than any of the past. The report was read by Ald. Duncan and adopted in Council. It was as follows:—

"We have arranged with the property owners on the south side of Lake street to purchase from John McMahon the south part of lot No. 14, adn lots Nos. 12 and 13, plan 26, and from Thomas F. Kennedy, the north part of lot No. 14, plan No. 26, giving Mr. Kennedy in exchange 50 feet of lot No. 13 with a depth of 100 feet, a lot the same size as he now has, and paying $300 for moving his building to the land given him in the exchange. Mr. McMahon will take $4,750 for his property, and after giving Mr. Kennedy the 50 feet and taking the land necessary to make the street 66 feet wide, the city will have 34 feet on Lake street and 120 feet on Aylmer street to dispose of, and the McMahon house can be sold or moved onto one of the lots. In addition the house on the right of way on Wescott street can be moved onto the lots on Aylmer street.

We recommend that this Committee be authorized to carry out this arrangement and that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue cheques to the City Solicitor to pay John McMahon and T. F. Kennedy the sums mentioned."

INSURANCE DIRECTORS NOT CRIMINAL

A Montreal Witness Points Out That Assumption to This Effect is Grotesque

One of the most encouraging signs of the times in relation to life insurance legislation is the sound and reasonable position taken by the Montreal Witness, says Office and Field. Those familiar with Canadian public affairs know that, in the first place, the Witness has always been the most outspoken and fearless of our public journals and that, in the second place, our present Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the head of the Government, has always had a higher regard for the utterances of the Witness than for those of any other newspaper. Now that life insurance is in the hands of Parliament to be legislated upon, it is gratifying to know that the view of this important subject taken by the Witness is not that of the quick-cure "reformer," but that of the man of affairs,—the common-sense, practical view.

In its issue of July 8th, the Witness published an article under the title "The Regulation of Business." Noting a news item to the effect that those engaged in the canning trade were about to meet the officers of the Department of Agriculture to discuss regulations under the new food inspection act, the Witness commends the Department for thus "availing itself of the best wisdom of those who are experts in the matter." The article then proceeds:

Canada has, perhaps, the best banking system in the world, her banking law is essentially the work of Canadian bankers and the resultant of their experience. She is now looking forward to the construction of an amended insurance law, and she can by the same process have one that will be a model for all nations. The New York exposure created a common impression that insurance managers and directors are necessarily knaves. The Royal Commission appointed by our government, with its prosecuting attorney, seemed to regard itself as commissioned to draw up a criminal indictment against all insurance men and carried out that task with zeal, treating every point questioned in a quarter of a century by the departmental inspectors as evidence of criminal intent.

Nothing more foolish could be done than to attempt to legislate on the grotesque assumption that insurance directors are a criminal class. On the contrary, they are usually selected as being among the more reputable of business men. Certainly, no one is better able to give advice as to how to protect the interest of policyholders than those who have been studying the problem and working to that end all their lives. Had the insurance men of Canada been doing otherwise, it would surely have come out in the long and searching investigation. That the directors want a certain liberty in the management of their business is natural, especially when they can show that the limitations it is proposed, in the alleged interest of the policyholders, to put upon them would reduce to almost nil the profits they are able to pay to those very policyholders.

CLOSE OF SEASON AT STONEY LAKE

The Steamers Have Discontinued Their Regular Trips—Best Year in History Of The Lakes

MORE ACCOMODATION

Mr. Fred Holland, who has been engaged during the past summer months as mate on the steamer Empress, returned to the city on Saturday, the work being practically over. He stated that the boats have discontinued their Saturday trips, and the Stoney Lake will soon be tied up, while the Empress has considerable towing to do. The past season has been the best in the history of Kawarthadom, in spite of the backward tendency of the weather in the early months, and the number of people carried by the boats has exceeded that of any past year.

Speaking of the prospects for next summer, Mr. Holland believes that in the present condition the Lakes cannot become more popular on account of the lack of sufficient accommodation. The hotels and resorts were crowded during the past summer, and a fact that was clearly emphasized was that there is great need of a large, modern hotel, pleasantly situated, in the hands of a company or a man who understands such a business. Mr. Holland thinks that all the resorts could, if enlarged, have a full capacity during next summer. Some of the proprietors are going to make changes to their houses, and Mr. Brooks of South Beach is contemplating another addition. This certainly has been a great season at the lakes, and many people who visited them for the first time stated that they were going to return early next year, while the regulars will, of course, be back. A party of Americans, which in past years spent the summer at Muskoka, was at one of the Kawartha resorts this year and, when leaving a few days ago, after a three months' holiday, were very loth to go, but said they would be back next spring as early as possible.

ARC LAMP TALKED OF NEAR JACKSON'S PARK

At Committee of Whole Meeting—Water Front and Stagnant Water Again

The question about the claim for damages by Mr. Rogers was again brought up at the Committee of the Whole by the Mayor last night who traced the history of the problem since its beginning. He explained that the matter is still under consideration and that two of the interested parties are still dealing with the situation.

Ald. Johnston referred the Committee to a request of Mr. Reid who resides near Jackson Park, but outside the city limits and who was asking for an arc lamp at the corner near the park which the Fire, Water and Light Committee recommended some time ago. The chairman stated that the Peterborough Light and Power Company were willing to put up the light but not altogether at their own expense as it was more than 800 feet from another arc lamp. The committee he stated had decided on a lamp not merely for Mr. Reid's benefit, but for the benefit of those going to Jackson Park on dark nights. Some of the Aldermen thought a light in the hollow near the G.T.R. tracks would be more serviceable but no action was taken last night.

Newbro's Herpicide is specially made to destroy the germ that is living on the roots of your hair.

That is why it is so exceedingly efficacious—it is there for the sole purpose of ridding the hair of this parasitic growth, after which the hair grows as nature intended.

CHOIR HONOURS THREE MEMBERS

Three Presentations Made to Members or Former Members of The Charlotte Street Methodist Choir

Three members, of former members of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church choir were, yesterday, given tokens of remembrance and evidences of the appreciation of their services. Miss Frances Manning, who, until her removal to Brampton, was a valued member of the choir and frequently delighted the congregation with solos, was given a handsome jewel case, and Mr. S. Clarke, now living in Toronto, but during several years' residence in Peterborough one of the most faithful and consistent members of the choir, will be given a Methodist hymn book, morocco bound. Evidence of the choir's appreciation of the services of Mr. Jas. Browne was represented by a silk umbrella with gold mountings, which was sent with the compliments of the choir.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages, and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei's medicated air soothes the inflammation, stops the cough, and relief soon becomes permanent, and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles, and is sold by Wm. Madill with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh, that is to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

The English Orphans

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Lena Rivers," "The Homestead on the Hill," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

On a marble table in the same room lay the handsome coffin, and in it slept young Ella. Gracefully her small waxen hands were folded one over the other, while white, half-opened rosebuds were wreathed among the curls of her hair which fell over her neck and shoulders, and covered the purple spots which the disease had left upon her flesh. "She is too beautiful to die, and the only child too," thought more than one as they looked first at the sleeping clay and then at the stricken mother, who, draped in deepest black, sobbed convulsively and leaned for support upon the arm of the sofa. What now to her were wealth and station? What did she care for the elegance which had so often excited the envy of her neighbors? That little coffin, which had cost so many dollars and caused so much remark, contained what to her was far dearer than all. And yet she was not one-half so desolate as was the orphan Mary, who in Mrs. Bender's kitchen sat weeping over her sister Alice, and striving to form words of prayer which should reach the God of the fatherless.

But few of the villagers thought of her this afternoon. Their sympathies were all with Mrs. Campbell; and when at the close of the services she approached to take a last look of her darling, they closed around her with exclamations of grief and tears of pity, though even then some did not fail to note and afterward comment upon the great length of her costly veil, and the width of its hem! It was a long procession which followed Ella Campbell to the grave, and with bowed heads and hats uplifted, the spectators stood by while the coffin was lowered to the earth; and then, as the Campbell carriage drove slowly away, they dispersed to their homes, speaking, it may be, more tenderly to their own little ones, and shuddering to think how easily it might have been themselves who were bereaved.

Dark and dreary was the house to which Mrs. Campbell returned. On the stairs there was no patter of childish feet. In the halls there was no sound of a merry voice, and on her bosom rested no little golden head, for the weeping mother was childless. Close the shutters and drop the rich damask curtains, so that no ray of sunlight or fragrance of summer flowers may find entrance there to mock her grief. In all Chicopee was there a heart so crushed and bleeding as hers? Yes, on the grass-plot at the foot of Mrs. Bender's garden an orphan girl was pouring out her sorrow in tears which almost blistered her eyelids as they fell.

Alice at last was sleeping, and Mary had come out to weep alone where there were none to see or hear. For her the future was dark and cheerless as midnight. No friends, and no home except the poorhouse, from which, young as she was, she instinctively shrank.

"My mother, oh! my mother," she cried, as she stretched her hands toward the clear blue sky, now that mother's home. "Why didn't I die too?"

There was a step upon the grass, and looking up Mary saw standing near her Mrs. Campbell's English girl, Hannah. She had always evinced a liking for Mrs. Howard's family, and now after finishing her dishes, and trying in vain to speak a word of consolation to her mistress, who refused to be comforted, she had stolen away to Mrs. Bender's, ostensibly to see all the orphans, but in reality to see Ella, who had always been her favorite. She had entered through the garden gate and came upon Mary just as she uttered the words, "Why didn't I die too?"

The sight of her grief touched Hannah's heart, and sitting down by the little girl she tried to comfort her. Mary felt that her words and manner were prompted by real sympathy, and after a time she grew calm, and listened while Hannah told her that "as soon as her mistress got so any body could go near her, she meant to ask her to take Ella Howard to fill the place of her own daughter."

"They look as much alike as two beans," said she, "and s'posin' Ella Howard ain't exactly her own flash and blood, she would grow into liking her, I know."

Mary was not selfish, and the faint possibility that her sister might not be obliged to go to the poorhouse gave her comfort, though she knew that in all probability she herself must go. After a few more words Hannah entered the cottage, but she wisely chose to keep from Ella a knowledge of her plan, which very likely might not succeed. That night after her return home Hannah lingered for a long time about the parlor door, glancing wistfully toward her mistress, who reclined upon the sofa with her face entirely hidden by her cambric handkerchief.

"It's most too soon, I guess," thought Hannah. "I'll wait till to-morrow."

Accordingly next morning, when, as she had expected, she was told to carry her mistress's toast and coffee to her room, she lingered for awhile, and seemed so desirous of speaking that Mrs. Campbell asked what she wanted.

"Why, you see, ma'am, I was going to say a word about—about that youngest Howard girl." (She dared not say Ella.) "She's got to go to the poorhouse, and it's a pity, she's so handsome. Why couldn't she come here and live? I'll take care of her, and 'twouldn't be nigh so lonesome."

At this allusion to her bereavement Mrs. Campbell burst into tears, and motioned Hannah from the room.

"I'll keep at her till I fetch it about," thought Hannah, as she obeyed the lady's order. But further persuasion from her was rendered unnecessary, for Mrs. Lincoln, whom we have once before mentioned, called that afternoon, and after assuring her friend tha she never before saw one who was so terribly afflicted, or who stood so much in need of sympathy, she casually mentioned the Howards, and the extreme poverty to which they were reduced. This reminded Mrs. Campbell of Hannah's suggestion, which she repeated to her visitor, who answered:

"It would unquestionably be a good idea to take her, for she is large enough to be useful in the kitchen in various ways."

Mrs. Campbell, who had more of real kindness in her nature than Mrs. Lincoln, replied, "If I take her I shall treat her as my own, for they say she looks like her, and her name, to, is the same."

Here Mrs. Campbell commenced weeping, and as Mrs. Lincoln soon took her leave she was left alone for several hours. At the end of that time, impelled by something she could not resist, she rang the bell and ordered Hannah to go to Mrs. Bender's and bring Ella to her room, as she wished to see how she appeared.

With the utmost care Ella arranged her long curls, and then tying over her black dress the only white apron which she possessed, she started for Mrs. Campbell's. The resemblance between herself and Ella Campbell was indeed so striking that for the dress the mother might easily have believed it to have been her own child. As it was, she marvel up when the little girl appeared, and drawing her to her side, involuntarily kissed her; then causing her to sit down by her side, she minutely examined her features, questioning her meantime concerning her mother and her home in England. Of the latter Ella could only tell her that they lived in a city, and that her mother had once taken her to a large handsome house in the country, which she said was her old home.

"There were sights of trees, and flowers, and vines, and fountains, and little deer," said the child, "and when I asked ma why she did not live there now she cried, and pa put his arm tight 'round her—so."

From this Mrs. Campbell inferred that Ella's family must have been superior to most of the English who emigrate to this country, and after a few more questions she decided to take her for a time at least; so with another kiss she dismissed her, telling her she would come for her soon. Meantime arrangements were making for Mary and Alice, and on the same day in which Mrs. Campbell was to call for Ella, Mr. Knight, one of the "selectmen," whose business it was to look after the town's poor, also came to the cottage. After learning that Ella was provided for, he turned to Mary, asking "how old she was, and what she could do," saying that his wife was in want of just such a girl to do "chores," and if she was willing to be separated from Alice, he would give her a home with him.

But Mary only hugged her sister closer to her bosom as she replied, "I'd rather go with Alice. I promised mother to take care of her."

"Very well," said the man, "I'm going to North Chicopee, but shall be back in two hours, so you must have your things all ready."

"Don't cry so, Mary," whispered Billy, when he saw how fast her tears were falling. "I'll come to see you every week, and when I am older, and have money, I will take you from the poorhouse, and Alice, too."

Just then Mrs. Campbell's carriage drove up. She had been taking her afternoon ride, and now, on her way home, had stopped for Ella, who in her delight at going with so handsome a woman forgot the dreary home which awaited her sister, and which, but for Mrs. Campbell's fancy, would have been hers also. While she was getting ready Mr. Knight returned, and driving his old-fashioned yellow wagon, with its square box-seat, up by the side of Mrs. Campbell's stylish carriage, he entered the house, saying, "Come, gal, you're ready, I hope. The old mare don't want to stand, and I'm in a desput hurry, too. I ort to be to hum this minute, instead of driving over that stony Portupog road. I hope you don't mean to carry that ar' thing," he continued, pointing with his whip toward Alice's cradle, which stood near Mary's box of clothes.

The tears came into Mary's eyes, and she answered, "Alice has always slept in it, and I didn't know but——"

Here she stopped, and running up to Ella, hid her face in her lap, and sobbed, "I don't want to go. Oh! I don't want to go; can't I stay with you?"

Billy's yellow handkerchief was suddenly brought into requisition, and Mrs. Bender, who with all her imaginary aches and pains was a kind-hearted woman, made vigorous attacks upon her snuffbox, while Mrs. Campbell patted Mary's head, saying, "Poor child, I can't take you both, but you shall see your sister often."

Ella was too much pleased with Mrs. Campbell and the thoughts of the fine home to which she was going to weep, but her chin quivered when Mary held up the baby for her to kiss, and said, "Perhaps you will never see little Allie again."

When all was ready Mr. Knight walked around his wagon, and after trying to adjust the numerous articles it contained, said, "I don't see how in the world I can carry that cradle; my wagon is chuck full now. Here is a case of shoes for the gals to stitch, and a pillercase of flour for Miss Smith, and forty 'leven other traps, so I guess you'll have to leave it. Mebby you can find one there, and if not, why, she'll soon get used to going without it."

Before Mary could reply Billy whispered in her ear "never mind, Mary, you know that little cart that I drew mother's wood in, the cradle will just fit it, and to-morrow afternoon I'll bring it to you, if it doesn't rain."

Mary knew that he meant what he said, and smiling on him through her tears, climbed into the rickety wagon, which was minus a step, and taking Alice in her arms, she was soon moving away. In striking contrast to this Ella, about five minutes afterward, was carefully lifted into Mrs. Campbell's handsome carriage, and reclining upon soft cushions was driven rapidly toward her new home.

CHAPTER V.

How long and tiresome that ride was with no one for a companion except Mr. Knight, who, though a kind-hearted man, knew nothing about making himself agreeable to little girls, so he remained perfectly taciturn, whipping at every cow or pig which he passed, and occasionally screaming to his horse, "Git up, old Charlotte. What are you 'bout?"

Mary, who had seldom been out of the village, and who knew little of the surrounding country, for a time enjoyed looking about her very much. First they went down the long hill which leads from the village to the depot. Then they crossed the winding Chicopee River, and Mary thought how much she should love to play in that bright, green meadow and gather the flowers which grew so near to the water's edge. The causeway was next crossed, and turning to the right they came upon a road where Mary had never been before, and which grew more rough and stony as they advanced.

On the top of a steep hill Mary looked back to see if Chicopee were yet visible, but nothing was to be seen except the spire of the Unitarian meeting-house. About a quarter of a mile to the west, however, the graveyard was plainly discernible, and she looked until her eyes were dim with tears at the spot where she knew her parents and brother were lying. By this time Alice was asleep, and though the little arms which held her ached sadly, there was no complaint, but she wished Mr. Knight would speak to her once, if it was only to ask her how she did!

At last concluding there would be no impropriety in making the first advances herself, she said timidly, "Is it such a very bad place at the poorhouse?"

"Why, no, not so dreadful. There's places enough sight worse; and then again there's them a good deal better. But you needn't be afeared. They'll take good care of you."

"I wasn't thinking of myself," said Mary.

"Who was you thin' of, then?"

"Of Alice; she's always been sick and is not used to strangers, and among so many I am afraid she will be frightened."

"Oh, she'll soon get used to 'em. Nothin' like habit. Weakly, is she? Wall, the poorhouse ain't much of a place to get well in, that's a fact. But she'd be better off to die and go to her mother, and then you could get a good place at some farmer's."

Mary wondered how he could speak thus carelessly of what would cause her so much sorrow. Gently lifting the old faded shawl, she looked down upon Alice as she slept. There was a smile upon her face. She was dreaming, and as her lips moved Mary caught the word "Ma," which the child had applied indiscriminately both to herself and her mother. Instantly the tears gushed forth, and falling upon the baby's face awoke her. Her nap was not half out, and setting up a loud cry, she continued screaming until they drove up to the very door of the poorhouse.

"For the land's sake," said Mr. Knight, as he helped Mary from the wagon, "what a racket; can't you contrive to stop it? you'll have Sal Furbush in your hair, for she don't like a noise."

Mary glanced nervously round in quest of the goblin Sal, but she saw nothing save an idiotic face with bushy, tangled hair, and nose flattened against the window pane. In terror Mary clung to Mr. Knight, and whispered, as she pointed toward the figure, which was now laughing hideously, "What is it? Are there many such here?"

"Don't be afeard," said Mr. Knight;

FIRST WIDOW: Oh, Sir! my husband was insured in that company, and you frightened him so that he dropped his policy, and now what will become of my children and me?

SECOND WIDOW: And my husband had promised to insure, but you stopped him, and now I have nothing.

THIRD WIDOW: My husband would have insured too, but your law compelled the companies to dismiss half their agents, and no one came to see him. Will you educate our children?

JUDGE McTAVISH: My poor women! I am very sorry for you, but you are martyrs in a good cause. As Mr. F. McLean says, Canada was suffering from an attack of over-insurance and we had to cure it. Over-insurance is a terrible disease! If every person was insured there would be no use for our workhouses and orphan asylums.

is was followed by a wild, in- chuckle, which made Mary spring rror to Polly's side.

ry longed to ask who Sal Furbush but as her guide did not seem l inclined to be communicative, followed on in silence until they to a longer and lighter hall, or way," as it is frequantly call- New England. On each side of there were doors opening into sleeping-rooms, and into one of these Polly led her companion, saying, as she did so, "This is your room, and it's a great favor to you to be so near me. But mind, that child must- n't cry and keep me awake night, for is she does, maybe you'll have to move into that other space, where we heard the laugh."

Mary thought she would rather do anything than that. She also felt a great curiosity to know who her companion was, so she at last ventured to ask, "Do you live here, Miss Polly?"

"Why, yes, I'm staying here for a spell now; kind of seeing to things. My name isn't Polly. It's Mrs. Mary Grundy, and somehow folks have got to nicknaming me Polly, but it'll look more mannerly in you to call me Mrs. Grundy; but what am I thinking of? The folks must have their supper. So you'l better come down now."

"If you please,' said Mary, who knew she could not eat a mouthful, "if you please, I'd rather stay here and rest me if I can have some milk for Alice by and by."

"Mercy sakes! ain't that child weaned?" asked Mrs. Grundy.

"Ma'am?" said Mary, not exactly understanding her.

"Ain't Ellis weaned, or must we break into the cream a dozen times a day for her?"

"She has never eaten anything but milk," said Mary, weeping to think how different Mrs. Grundy's manner was from her own dear mother's.

"Wall, there's no use blubberin' so. If she must have milk, why she must, and that's the end on't. But what I want to know is, how folks as poor as yourn could afford to buy milk for so big a child."

Mary could have told of many hungry nights which she and Frank had passed in order that Ella and Alice might be fed, but she made no remark, and Mrs. Grundy soon left the room saying, "Come down when you get ready for the milk. I s'pose skim will do."

Half an hour after Alice began to cry; and Mary, knowing she was hungry, laid her upon the bed and started for the milk. She trembled as she drew near the garret stairs, and trod softly that she might not be heard, but as she was passing the mysterious door a voice entirely different in its tones from the one assumed toward Mrs. Grundy, called out, "Come here, little dear, and see your aunty."

Mary's circle of acquaintances was quite as large as she cared to have it, and quickening her steps, she was soon in the kitchen, where she found several old ladies still lingering over cups of very weak and very red-looking tea. As she entered the room they all suspended their operations, and looking hard at her, asked if she were the little English girl. On being told that she was, three of them returned to their cups, while one shook her head, saying, "Poor child, I pity you."

Mary had heard that remark many times, but she knew that the words now conveyed other meaning than what referred to her face or teeth.

"Where can I find Mrs. Grundy?" she at last ventured to ask.

"Where can you find who?" asked a spiteful-looking woman. "Did she tell you to call her so?"

"She told me that was her name—yes, ma'am," said Mary.

"Well, Mrs. Grundy is in the but'ry," indicating with her elbow the direction.

Mary had no trouble in finding "the but'ry," but on trying the door, she found it fastened inside. In answer to her gentle knock a harsh voice replied, "Who's there?"

"It's I. I've come after the milk for Alice."

With a jerk Mrs. Grundy opened the door, and putting a pint cup two-thirds full of blue milk in Mary's hand, she hastily shut and fastened it again. Quick as her movements were Mary caught a smell of strong green tea, and the sight of a sugar bowl and a slice of white bread. She knew now why the door was buttoned, but thinking it was none of her business, she started to return to the kitchen. As she passed the outer door an old gray-haired man, with a face perfectly simple and foolish in its expression, stepped toward her, stretching out his hands as if to reach her. With a loud cry she rushed headlong into the kitchen, where one of the women was still sitting.

"What's broke loose now?" asked the woman, to which Mary replied, "Look at him!" at the same time pointing to the man, who with his hands thrust out was still advancing toward her.

"Don't be scared," said the woman. "It's Uncle Peter. Let him touch you and he'll go off;" but Mary didn't choose to be touched, and retreating toward the chamber door she flew rapidly up the stairs.

This time she was not accosted by any one, but as she passed the dark closet she was surprised to hear a musical voice singing the national air of her own country, and she wondered, too, at the taste of the singer in finishing every verse with "God save Miss Grundy."

That night Alice, who missed her cradle, was unusually restless, and Mary, remembering Mrs. Grundy's threat, carried her in her arms until after midnight. Then without undressing she threw herself upon the bed, and, for the first time in many weeks, dreamed of George and his parting promise to see her again. The next morning when she awoke she found Mr. Parker's prediction verified, for the clouds were pouring rain. "Billy won't come to-day," was her first thought, and throwing herself upon the floor she burst into tears, wishing as she had once done before that she had died with her mother.

In the midst of her grief the door was pushed hastily open, and Mrs. Grundy's harsh voice exclaimed, "Wall, so you are up at last, hey? I didn't know but you was goin' to take it upon you to sleep over, but that don't answer here."

"Is it after breakfast time?" asked Mary.

"After breakfast time," repeated Mrs. Grundy. "No, but I guess you'll find there's something to do before breakfast, or did you think we's goin' to support you in idleness?"

Here, touched perhaps by the pale, tearful face uplifted to hers, Mrs. Grundy's voice softened, and in a milder tone she added, "We won't mind about it, seein' it's the first morning, but come, you must be hungry by this time."

Although so poor, Mrs. Howard had been extremely neat, and as she said, "cold water cost nothing," she had insisted upon her children's being very nice and particular in their morning toilet. Mary remembered this, and now casting a rueful glance around the room she said, "I wonder where I am going to wash me."

The loud, scornful laugh which followed this remark made her look up amazed at Mrs. Grundy, who replied, "In the back room sink, of course. Maybe you expected to have a china bowl and pitcher in your room, and somebody to empty your slop. I wonder what sirs paupers won't take on themselves next."

"I didn't mean to take airs," said Mary; "I don't care where I wash myself, but Alice is sick, and mother had me bathe her every morning. While we were at Mrs. Bender's, though, I didn't do it, and I don't think she seems as well."

"Pride and poverty," muttered Mrs. Grundy. "She won't get many baths here, I can tell you, nor you either, unless it is a dishwater one. Know how to wash dishes, hey?"

"Yes, ma'am," said Mary meekly.

"Then I'll give you a chance to try your hand after breakfast; but come, I'm in a hurry."

Mary glanced at Alice. She was sleeping sweetly, and though there seemed to be no reason, she still lingered.

"What are you waiting for?" asked Mrs. Grundy, and Mary, with some hesitation, answered, "I haven't said my prayers yet."

A change passed suddenly over Mrs. Grundy's face, and she turned away without a word. When she was gone Mary fell on her knees, and though the words she uttered were addressed more to her mother than to God, she felt comforted, and rising up started for the kitchen. It was a motley group which she found assembled around the breakfast table, and as she entered the room the man called Uncle Peter smiled on her, saying, "Come here, little daughter, and let me touch you with the top of my fourth finger."

Shrinking to nearly half her usual size, she managed to pass him without coming in contact with said finger, which was merely a stump, the first joint having been amputated. On reaching the back room she readily found the place where she, with all the rest, was to wash. For this she did not care, as the water was as cold and pure, and seemed as refreshing as when dipped from her mother's tin wash-basin. But when she came to the wiping part, and tried in vain to find a clean corner on the long towel, which hung upon a roller, she felt that she was indeed a pauper.

"I should think we might have a decent towel," thought she. Mother used to say it cost nothing to be clean;" then looking round to be sure that no one saw her, she caught up up the skirt of her dress, and drying her face with it, went back to the kitchen.

She would greatly have preferred a seat by a pleasant-looking old lady who looked kindly on her, but Mrs. Grundy bade her sit down by her and help herself. She did not exactly fancy the looks of the thick fried pork, swimming in grease, so she took a potato and a slice of bread, to get which she reached so far that the lower hook on her dress, which for a day or two had been uncertain whether to come off or stay on, now decided the matter by dropping on the floor. As she was proceeding with her breakfast Uncle Peter, suddenly dropping his knife and fork, exclaimed, "Little daughter's teeth are awry, ain't they?"

Mary had hoped that at the poorhouse her mouth would not be a subject of comment, but she was disappointed, and bursting into tears would have risen from the table, had not the kind-looking woman said, "Shame on you, Peter, to plague a little girl."

Uncle Peter, too, who was fond of children, seemed distressed, and passing toward her the bowl of milk which was standing by him, he said, "Drink it, daughter—milk for babes, and meat for strong men."

There was so much of real kindness in his manner that Mary's fear of him diminished, and taking the offered milk she thanked him so kindly that Uncle Peter, who was quite an orator, considered it his duty to make a speech. Pushing back his chair he commenced, with a bow which required so many changes of his legs that Mary wondered they were not entirely twisted up.

"Ladies and gentlemen, one and all," said he, "but particularly ladies, what I have to say is this, that henceforth and forever I am the champion of this unprotected famale, who from parts unknown has come among us—God bless her! I will also announce formally that I still hold myself in readiness to teach the polite accomplishment of dancing in my room, No. 41, Pauper's Hotel."

Having finished this speech he resumed his breakfast, after which, with another of his wonderful bows, he quitted the room. Mary was about following his example when Mrs. Grundy said, "Come, Mitch hold now and see how spry you can clear the table, and you, Rind," speaking to a simple-looking girl with crooked feet, "do you go to your shoes. Be quick now, for it's goin' on seven o'clock."

At this moment Mary caught sight of Mr. Parker, who was standing just without the door, and his mischievous look as Mrs. Grundy gave out her orders made Mary a little suspicious of that lady's real position among them. But she had no time for thought, for just then through all the closed doors and the long hall there came to her ears the sound of a scream. Alice was crying, and instantly dropping the plate she held in her hand, Mary was hurrying away when Mrs. Grundy called her back, saying, "Let her cry a spell, 'twill strengthen her lungs."

Mary had more spirit than her face indicated, and in her mind she was revolving the propriety of obeying, when Mr. Parker, who was still standing by the door, said, "If that baby is cryin', go to her by all means."

The look of gratitude which Mary's eyes flashed upon him more than compensated for the frown which darkened Mrs. Grundy's brow as she slammed the doors together, muttering about "hen-hussies minding their own business."

Mary was not called down to finish the dishes, and when at last she went to the kitchen for milk, she found them all washed and put away. Mrs. Grundy was up to her elbows in cheese curd, and near her, tied into an armchair, sat Patsy, nodding her head and smiling as usual. The pleasant-looking woman was mopping the kitchen floor, and Mary, for the first time, noticed that she was very lame.

"Go out doors and come round. Don't you see you'll track the floor all up?" said Mrs. Grundy, and the lame woman replied, "Never mind, Polly, I can easy wipe up her tracks, and it's a pity to send her out in the rain."

Mary chose to obey Mrs. Grundy, who wiped the crumbs of curd and drops of whey from her arms and took the cup, saying, "More milk? Seems to me she eats a cartload! I wonder where the butter's to come from, if we dip into the cream this way."

Had Mary been a little older she might have doubted whether the blue-looking stuff Mrs. Grundy poured into her cup ever saw any cream, but she was only too thankful to get it on any terms, and hurried with it back to her room. About noon the clouds broke away, while here and there a patch of bright blue sky was to be seen. But the roads were so muddy that Mary had no hope of Billy's coming, and this it was, perhaps, which made the dinner dishes so hard to wash, and which made her cry when told that all the knives and forks must be scoured, the teakettle wiped, and set with its nose to the north, in what Mrs. Grundy called the "Pout Hole," and which proved to be a place under the stairs, where pots, kettles and brooms generally were kept.

All things have an end, and so did the scouring, in spite of Mary's fears to the contrary, and then watching a time when Mrs. Grundy did not see her, she stole away upstairs. Taking Alice on her lap she sat down by the open window where the damp air cooled and moistened her flushed face. The rain was over, and across the meadow the sun was shining through the tall trees, making the drops of water which hung upon the leaves sparkle and flash in the sunlight like so many tiny rainbows. Mary watched them for a time, and then looking upward at the thin white clouds which chased each other so rapidly across the blue sky, wondered if her mother's home were there, and if she ever thought of her children, so sad and lonely without her.

A movement of Alice aroused her from her reverie, and looking into the road, she saw directly opposite the house Billy Bender, and with him, Alice's cradle. In a moment Mary's arms were thrown about his neck as tightly as if she thought he had the power and was come to take her away.

"Oh, Billy, Billy," said she, "I was afraid you would not come, and it made me so unhappy. Can't you take me home with you?"

Billy had expected as much, and had tried hard to make his mother say that if Mary and Alice were very homesick, he might bring them home. But this was Mrs. Bender's sick day, and Billy's entreaties only increased the dangerous symptoms of palsy from which she was now suffering, the scarlet fever having been given up until another time.

"If the s'lectmen pay me well for it," said she, "I will take them what little time I have to live, but not without."

Billy knew the town could support them much cheaper where they were, so he gave up the project, and bought Mary a pound of seed cakes and Alice a stick of candy. Then, the moment the rain had ceased he got himself in readiness to start, for he knew how long the day would seem to Mary, and how much Alice would miss her cradle. Three times before he got outside the gate his mother called him back—once to find her snuffbox—once to see if there was not more color in her face than there ought to be, and lastly to inquire if her mouth hadn't commenced turning a little toward the right ear! After finding her box, assuring her that her color was natural and her mouth all straight, he at last got started. The road was long and the hills were steep, but patiently Billy toiled on, thinking how surprised and pleased Mary would be; and when he saw how joyfully she received him he felt more than paid for his trouble. Some boys would have rudely shaken her off, ashamed to be caressed by a little girl, but Billy's heart was full of kindly sympathy, and he returned her caresses as a brother would have done.

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary afflictions, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

Curran's Retort.

Justice Robinson's encounter with John Philpot Curran has been stated by Lord Brougham to have been the most successful instance of repartee on record. Judge Robinson was known to be the author of some anonymous pamphlets, a circumstance which gave Curran an opportunity to retort when the judge made a brutal attempt to crush him when a young and inexperienced man at the bar.

"I have searched all my lawbooks," said Curran, "and I can find no precedent on the point."

"Your law library," said the judge, "is rather contracted."

"My books," replied Curran, "may be few, but the title pages give me the writers' names. My shelf is not disgraced by any of such rank absurdity that their very authors are ashamed to own them."

"If you say another word, sir," said the judge, "I'll commit you."

"Then, my lord," replied Curran, "it will be the best thing you have committed this term."

The judge endeavored to get Curran disbarred, but failed.

What the Store Ho Meant.

Crumpled in his hand was a batch of shopping bills, whose intermittent rustling, as the clutch of their possessor relaxed and again tightened, afforded ample testimony to the cause of his lordship's displeasure.

Gently and with all her wooing arts evidently in hair trigger readiness the young wife approached the offended one and began:

"Lovey, now don't sit here pouting all by yourself like a bad natured little boy. Such actions, as you very well know, if you'll only stop to think it over, will not at all contribute to the making of that blissful home you were so prone to picture to me during our courting days. Don't you recall it, dearie, and how eloquent you used to grow over the happiness the future had in store for us?"

With the spell of his displeasure partly broken by her persuasive manner, and yet with some touch of tartness in his tone, he turned and replied:

"Yes, I do, but I assure you, madam, that in that remark there was not even a remote hint of a department store."

The "Letter Gae."

The leader of psalmody, or precentor, in the Church of Scotland used to read from his desk in front of the pulpit the successive lines for congregational singing. He was the "letter gae"—i. e., he that let go or started the praise—and his desk was called the "letteron" (lectrinum). Pitching his voice to the first note of each line, he proceeded to chant the words in a slow, drawling monotone, prolonging the last syllable for a little and then breaking at the head of the congregation into the music set to the words thus delivered. The effect of this would no doubt be frequently more curious and entertaining than edifying and solemn, and strange developments must occasionally have occurred. The position tested not only the musical qualifications, but also the literary attainments, of the leader, and there are passages in the metrical version of the Psalms as used in Scotland which must have put rural precentors on their mettle.—London Notes and Queries.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

Everyone Should be Prepared for it with a Bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Very few people escape an attack of Summer Complaint. It may be slight, or it may be severe, but nearly everyone is liable to it.

You cannot tell, when it seizes on you how it may end.

Let it go for a day or two only, and see how weak and prostrated it will leave you.

There is only one safe way to cure it and that is by Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has been on the market for sixty-two years and has been proved and tried so you are not experimenting when you buy it.

Do not accept a substitute or imitation, as many of these are positively dangerous to life and health. Insist on having Dr. Fowler's.

Mrs. Norman H. Eisan, Ship Harbor, N.S., writes: "Last summer my baby was very bad with Summer Complaint. I tried most everything for him, but nothing seemed to help. One day a neighbor called in and told me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so I got a bottle and after a few doses my baby was cured. I shall always keep it in the house."

GEN. FRENCH'S NEW POST.

Brilliant Cavalry Leader to Be Inspector-General of the Forces.

It has been officially announced by the War Office that Gen. Sir John French, on relinquishing his command at Aldershot, will succeed the Duke of Connaught as Inspector-General of the Forces, Sir John's post at Aldershot being occupied by Lieut.-Gen. H. L. Smith-Dorrien, commander of the 4th (Quetta) division of the army in India.

Gen. French served in the royal navy for four years before receiving a commission in the 8th Hussars in 1874, and transferred to the 19th Hussars, in which regiment he served in the Soudan campaign in 1884-5, and in the actions of Abu Klea, Gubut, and Metemmeh. He commanded the regiment from 1889 to 1893, was employed as assistant adjutant-general of cavalry on the staff 1893-4, appointed assistant adjutant-general at headquarters 1895, and served there until 1897, when he was appointed brigadier to command the 2nd cavalry brigade.

He was transferred as temporary major-general to the first cavalry brigade at Aldershot in 1899, and appointed major-general to command the cavalry division in Natal in the same year, and subsequently had charge of the cavalry division in Lord Robert's forces throughout the operations ending in the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria.

Lieut.-Gen. Smith-Dorrien served in the Zulu war (1879), the Egyptian war (1882), the Soudan campaign (1885), and the Soudan Frontier Field Force (1885-6). He was in the Chitral Relief Force in 1895, served on the northwest frontier of India (1897-8), and in the Nile expedition (1898). He was major-general commanding the 19th brigade in South Africa in 1900, and was adjutant-general in India from October, 1901, to May, 1903.

FIGHT WITH A LION.

Tamer Killed In a Theatre Dressing Room.

A man was killed by a lion after a terrible fight in a dressing room of the Gloucester Palace of Varieties.

The lion was one of a troupe of seven or eight performing animals which are put through their paces nightly by "Miss Ella." The man who was killed was Joseph Hasselman, her chief assistant.

The lions recently arrived in Gloucester from South Wales, and were installed in cages in a room behind the stage. Hasselman was cleaning out the cages when one of the brutes escaped into a dressing room.

He tried to drive it back into its cage, and the animal became furious and attacked him. His screams for help attracted his mistress, who pluckily entered the room and tried to drive the lion off with her whip.

The beast, however, attacked her and drove her from the room. Hasselman was by this time unconscious. A rifle was brought, but it was found that it was impossible to shoot the beast without endangering the life of the man.

Finally the theatre fire hose was brought into action, and a powerful stream of water was turned on the lion. This subdued it at once, and it was driven back into its cage.

Hasselman, who was terribly mangled, was placed in an ambulance at once and hurried to the hospital, but he died on the way.

His injuries were of a most fearful nature, for the animal literally clawed and crushed him to pieces. His cries, "Save me! Save me!" were heartrending.

"Miss Ella" is suffering greatly from shock. She states that although she has had eight years' experience with her lions she has never had an accident before of this kind. She is a native of Germany, and is traveling in company with her father and husband.

At the inquest it was stated that the lion had the character of being a particularly quiet animal. One witness said the lion did not growl, but stood digging its claws into the man's shoulders, as though waiting to play. The lion had its mouth over Hasselman's head, but did not attempt to bite him. The jury found that Hasselman died as the result of injuries inflicted by the lion, and attributed no blame to anyone.

Saved by His Dog.

The affection of a dog saved its master's life recently at Kildysart, Ireland.

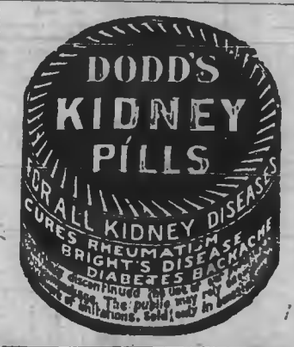
The owner of the dog, John Cleary, who is employed by the agent of the Lower Shannon Steamship Company, was mooring his boat after conveying two passengers from a steamer in the river, when he fell into deep water.

He was unable to swim, but he grasped and clung to the mooring cable of the boat.

No one witnessed the accident, and Cleary's cries for help were unheard, but the whining and strange behavior of his dog on shore attracted the attention of the passengers he had landed, and one of them, Joseph Frawley, immediately swam out and succeeded in rescuing Cleary.

A Mean Dig.

Myrtle—Look what a lovely diamond engagement ring George has given me. Estelle—Yes; it's lovely. It nearly broke my heart when I sent it back to him.



GREAT CHANNEL SWIM.

Robbed of Victory Within Mile of the French Coast.

Jabez Wolffe recently made a magnificent effort to swim the English Channel, and was only robbed of victory by the most untoward circumstances. He had been 15 1-4 hours in the water, and was within three-quarters of a mile of the French coast at Cap Blanc when the wind turned and drove him away from the shore. Wolffe, who had entered the water at South Foreland just before 11 a. m., with his strong overarm stroke, swam a mile in the first half-hour, and when two miles out passed through shoals of mackerel. At 12.45 he was abreast of the South Sands Head lightship, and 15 minutes in front of his last year's record. He kept doggedly on, accompanied by swimmers from the steamer, including Miss Lily Smith, who kept up with him for three hours. Wolffe steadily pursued his course, and by midnight he was within two miles of Calais Harbor. Though a westerly breeze then sprang up and made the sea choppy, he struggled on, in spite of feeling unwell, and at 1.30 was only three-quarters of a mile from the shore. Then the wind suddenly changed to the south, and he commenced to lose ground. He left the water at 2.7. Wolffe made a record swim, crossing the Channel to the point where he finished in the record time of 15 1-4 hours.

Heaton Gives Up.

Heaton, the Liverpool swimmer, also made a good attempt, but was obliged to leave the water when four and a half miles off Cape Grisnez. Soon after four o'clock he struck some very cold patches of water, and it was necessary to give him hot refreshment in order to counteract the effect of these. However, he got through this well, and continued his swim merrily. Owing to the thick haze it was impossible to pick up the coasts anywhere in the Channel, and for the greater part of the time those on board the tug were unable to ascertain exactly where the swimmer was. Heaton struggled away pluckily, and his stroke kept up to 24 to the minute right to the end, but the monotony of the swim, with no goal in sight, appeared to have a very depressing effect upon him, and at three minutes to seven he decided to abandon the attempt. He was in splendid condition physically, and stated that he will probably make another attempt on the next suitable tide. During the swim Heaton was very interested to hear news of his friendly rival, and remarked, "There's room for both in the Channel. Let the best man win." Heaton was then putting in some magnificent work, and getting through the water at a great speed.

Dangerous Odors.

Some smells are dangerous. A single sniff of highly concentrated prussic acid will kill a man as quickly as a shot through the heart. The odor of a bad egg is due to the presence of sulphureted hydrogen, and the objectionable perfumes of sewers and bone factories are attributable chiefly to the same gas. Chemical laboratories are famous for bad smells. Berzelius, who discovered the element called "selenium," once tried the experiment of permitting a bubble of pure hydrogen selenide gas to enter his nostril. For days afterward he was not able to smell strong ammonia, the olfactory nerves being temporarily paralyzed. Selenium gas has the odor of putrid horseradish. Tellurium is even worse. There is a story of a physician whose patient, a lady, refused to take an absolutely necessary rest because she was so fond of being always in society. He gave her a pill containing a small quantity of tellurium, and her breath was affected by it to such an extent that she was not able to appear in public for a month. She never guessed what the trouble was. The volatilized essential oil of roses is supposed to cause "rose cold." This peculiar complaint is so far nervous in its character that paper roses sometimes excite it.

Useful to Know.

Palpitation of the heart may often be arrested by bending down so as to allow the blood to run to the head.

Do not start hollyhocks in the conservatory. They are hardy and do not like artificial heat.

Poached eggs may be kept from spreading in the pan while cooking by putting a few drops of vinegar in the water.

EARL'S HEIR A COWBOY.

Hon. Francis Clements Flees to Texas From London Society.

Although heir presumptive of his brother, the Earl of Leitrim, the Honorable Francis Clements was recently discovered on an American liner working his way as a stoker. He is now in Texas seeking work as a cowboy.

Born in 1885 and a sailor by profession, the Honorable Francis does not plead poverty as a reason for his entry into the ranks of the world's workers. Rather is it his experience of the "artificial and unreal" life of London drawing rooms which has convinced him that if he did not remove himself as far as possible from their pernicious influences his life "would ferment into mere froth, like those of the nobility around him."

He is determined to earn his own living, and as a Clements he has no lack of determination. He is a great-nephew of the famous third Earl of Leitrim, who was shot dead on the roadside in Donegal one night in 1878. The "suppression" was an act of revenge, for the old Earl was as hard with his tenants as he was quarrelsome with his relatives.

All the property he could bequeath elsewhere than to his nephew, the father of the Honorable Francis, he did. Litigation thereover lasted for thirteen years in the Dublin courts. When he died, however, the fourth Earl, father of the present Lord Leitrim, left more than $650,000.

No Fun For Boys.

In some of the cantons of Switzerland they have special laws made for boys. Here is a sample of them:

"If a boy throws a stone and hits a man he may be fined 3 francs.

"If a boy throws a snowball and hits a woman he may be fined 2 francs.

"If a boy calls a girl a 'red head' he may be fined from 2 to 4 francs.

"If a boy throws at frogs in a pond without being ordered to do so by his father or teacher he shall be fined a franc.

"If a boy throws a stone and breaks a window belonging to some one else his father may whip him or he may be fined 2 francs.

"If a boy makes a face at his teacher or draws pictures of him on his slate or speaks ill of him he may be fined 5 francs and have to beg his pardon.

"If a boy stones a dog or chases a cat it is a fine of a franc.

"If two boys fight without the consent of their teacher it is a fine of 3 francs.

"If a boy steals apples or other fruit it is a fine of 2 francs, and he should be beaten by his father."

The American boy who reads the above will wonder what the Swiss boy has to live for. About all he can do and not be fined is to have the measles or whooping cough.—Exchange.

Living Snow.

One of the most curious sights in northwestern Canada is that of living snow. There a curious phenomenon is seen in the appearance of millions of minute black insects when a thaw occurs. During the winter the snow is dry and crisp, like sand, and nothing whatever can be discovered of these insects, but as soon as a thaw comes they are found everywhere in large patches, looking like a dusting of soot. They are generally known as snow fleas, or jumpers, and have slight hopping powers, being able to leap three or four inches. They entirely disappear when it freezes again, and not a trace of them can be found. They do not fall with the snow, as there may have been no snow for a month or more before their arrival, and are probably something similar to the "red snow" of the Arctic regions.—Dundee Advertiser.

The ancient Egyptians used a form of blast furnace in 2000 B.C. We have pictures of these ironworkers on the tombs of Thebes.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Sept. 14 were 3569 cattle, 2236 sheep and lambs, 3336 hogs and 1069 calves. The offerings this morning for local consumption were 1280 cattle, 1090 sheep and lambs, 899 hogs and 350 calves. Altho the supply of cattle to-day was fully 200 head in excess of a week ago, yet there was no actual change in the condition of the market, as prices were maintained under a good local and outside demand, and an active trade was done. There was also some demand from exporters for a few in order to complete shipments with, but really choice beeves were scarce at 5c to 5¼c per lb., while good stock was plentiful at 4½c to 4¾c, and some northwest ranchers of medium quality were offered at 3½c per lb. Cables from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade very slow and prices quoted for American and Canadian steers and ranchers were ½c to ½c per lb. lower, while native cows and bulls showed a decline of ½c to 1c, as compared with a week ago. Locally sales of choice cattle were made at 5c to 5¼c; good at4¼c to 4¾c; fair at 4c to 4¼c; lower grades at 3½c to 3¾c, and canners at 2¼c to 1½c per lb. Owing to the increased supplies of lambs that have been coming forward since this day week, a weaker feeling has prevailed in the market, and prices show a decline of ¾c per lb. At this reduction the demand from local buyers has been brisk, and an active trade done at 5¼c to 5⅝c per lb. Receipts of sheep have also been larger, but, as the demand for export account has been more than ample to absorb all offerings, prices have been maintained, and sales were made freely at 4c to 4¼c per lb. The demand for calves continues good, and, as supplies are fair for this season of the year, a fairly active trade was done at prices ranging from $3 to $12 each as to quality. The feature of the hog situation continues to be the weak feeling in the market, and prices since this day week show a further decline of 10c to 25c per 100 lbs., making a net drop of 25c since Aug. 19. This is due principally to the fact that advices from European sources on Canadian bacon are still favorable, and in addition to this supplies of hogs coming forward here are fairly large for the season of the year, which has also tended to depress the market some. The demand this morning was fairly good, and sales [illegible] lots were made at $6.25 to $6.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Galt Tradesmen Victimized by Clever Swindler—Used Bogus Checks.

About two weeks ago J. C. Stewart, ostensibly representing the Dodd Meade Co. of New York City, publishers, came to town. He hired a rig every day from John E. Keyes and his bill amounted to $30. He stayed at the Grand Hotel, where he borrowed $5 and owed for two weeks' board.

He was driving around with a Galt maiden, whom he promised to marry this week. To get ready for the coming ceremony he called at W. H. Kennedy's, the tailor, and ordered two suits and gave a check for $30, on which Mr. Kennedy gave him $5. The check was made out for J. C Stewart by the Eau Clare County Poor House, Wis., signed by the secretary and president, and payable at the Eau Clare Bank.

On Saturday morning nothing could be found of him, as he had left on the 9 o'clock car for Berlin. Mr. Kennedy sent a telegram to Eau Clare Poor House. Sunday he received a reply that the check was no good.

Stewart has how had nearly three days' start, and it will be a hard matter to trace him.

The company's loss in property is estimated at about $50,000.

To save him from the wrath of the mob, it became necessary to lock him in a store.

In the meantime the car was lifted from the track, thrown on its side, regardless of passengers in it, and wrecked. The crowd grew to such proportions that it packed more than four blocks.

A TERRIBLE DEED IS REPORTED

Insane Mother Murders Her Three Children Out West.

CALLED IT BLOOD SACRIFICE

Knocked Boys on Head With Hammer — Took Them to the Potato Patch—Afterwards Cut Them Up With Draw Knife — Faithful Dog Saves Little Girl — Due to Religious Mania.

Midale, Sask., Sept. 17.—On Saturday afternoon Mrs. John Anderson, wife of a farmer residing about a mile from Midale, on the Soo line, took her three children, all boys, to the potato patch and there knocked them on the head was a hammer, after which she cut them up in a horrible manner with a draw knife.

She had not shown any signs of insanity before, but had been ill, and it is supposed the murder was due to religious mania. She is probably 35 years old. The police of Weyburn were notified of what had taken place, and Constable Ing arrested the woman, who is insane. The woman shows no remorse for what she has done and expects to be hanged. She believes it was some kind of a blood-sacrifice.

Later reports give fuller particulars of the horrible tragedy. The three children murdered were a baby, 18 months old, and two boys, six and nine years old, respectively. She also made a desperate attempt to kill her 11-year-old daughter. She put a rope around the girl's neck, but the child struggled bravely and was assisted by a dog, which attacked the maddened mother.

OPPOSED TO FRILLS AND "SIDE"

Bishop Ingram Utters Weighty Words to Canadians.

SOME SECRETS OF INFLUENCE

Famous English Prelate Sounds Note of Warning Against Corruption In Public Life—Strong Plea For Purity and Straightness — Conceit Is Fatal to Successful Work Among Men, Says Bishop.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—The Bishop of London was the guest of the Canadian Club yesterday, when he delivered an address, in which, dealing with the secrets of a man's influence over his fellows, he furnished the key to his own remarkable individuality. With characteristic frankness, indeed, the bishop confessed that he was speaking from his own experience, and the personal reminiscences which led him on to his subject were as entertaining as the moral of his address was inspiring and impressive. The secrets of a man's influence over his fellows he defined as absolute straightness, the avoidance of "side," sympathy, a sense of humor, and faith, and a remarkable feature of the address was the evidence it afforded of the possession by the speaker of the qualities he desiderated. Under the first head the bishop made a strong plea for absolute straightness in public life. He had learned a good deal about Canada in the short time he had been in the country, and he hoped that Canada would not be afraid to learn something from the old Mother Country. He believed that in the old country they could hold up an example to the world of absolute straightness in their public life. He did not know of any man who was even suspected in London to-day of having used his position in Parliament for any private end whatever.

In regard to municipal life he alluded to the West Ham scandal, and declared that it was merely one of the exceptions which proved the rule of the purity of the municipal life of the old country. "If," he proceeded, "your country is going to be that great country which we all believe it is going to be at home after it reaches one hundred millions and is atop of the United States, you have got to get absolute straightforwardness in your public life." And it was the same in social life and social friendships.

He would also urge them to avoid what in the old country they called "side," but which Americans and perhaps Canadians would describe as "frills." Whether in the city, in the east end of London, in the university, or in the west end the man who had "side," and who rusted his gifts by being conceited, had lost his influence and never would regain it.

Convict's Story True.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—A number of human bones and a stiletto were found in a quarry in the north end Sunday. The place was being drained by order of the police in order to ascertain the truth of a statement made by a convict serving a term in penitentiary that the bodies of Ellen Quinn and a Chinaman were disposed of by murderers in that place. Sunday's find is regarded as corroboration of the man's story.

AFRAID TO WORK ON BRIDGE

REFUSED TO RESUME WORK

Foreman Yenson Was Also Anxious—Wrote Concerning Quebec Structure —Pointed Out Defects and Asked For Telegraphic Instructions—Witness Had Marvellous Escape When Bridge Fell.

Quebec, Sept. 17.—John E. Splicer, an employe of the Phoenix Bridge Co., was examined by the Royal Commission yesterday.

He did not work the day of the accident, but was on duty on the previous day. Answering Mr. Holgate he said he did not work on the 29th because he got nervous. He had never got nervous before, but it "just got into him"; he had intended to go back to work in the afternoon, but it got too windy.

The night before the collapse he said, "The whole bunch of us were talking about the bend in the chord. Messrs. Solman, Augus, Rose, Mitchell, Michael Adams, John Jocat, Joseph Diabo, Louis Diabo, all of whom were killed, had discussed a place in the chord which was open, and that an endeavor had been made to jack it up. It could not be gotten into position, and the plates were drawn together and rivetted."

Prior to this he and J. Bowen, from Nova Scotia, had viewed the bent chord.

Quebec, Sept. 17.—On the very day of the Quebec bridge disaster, a letter was received at Phoenixville from Mr. Yenser, the actual foreman in charge of the work, asking for telegraphic instructions as to whether or not he was to continue work on the structure in view of the deflected chord. This fact was sworn to yesterday by Mr. Milliken, who was in Phoenixville at the time, and who immediately called up Yenser on the long-distance 'phone to learn from him that, believing there was no danger, he had continued operations. Yenser is one of the victims under the debris of the bridge. One of yesterday's witnesses, J. Nance, had a marvelous escape when the structure collapsed. He ran a small electric engine on the top of the small traveler. When he felt the bridge give way, he was in the water almost before he knew what had happened. He was picked up by a small boat. In common with a couple of other witnesses, he said his attention had been previously drawn to defects in the structure, but he had continued working because he did not care to be the first man to walk off the work.

Raoul Lafrance said he had noticed a crack in one of the bridge plates two or three weeks before the collapse. It was 18 or 20 inches long and as wide as his little finger. His cousin, Ouimet, who had since left for the lumber shanties in Ontario, had drawn his attention to it. He noticed it on three different days. When asked to point out its location on a plan he indicated a different position to that given by former witnesses. He was ordered to meet the engineers to-day on the scene of the [illegible] to locate the defect.

A. B. Milliken, re-called, related that on the day of the accident he received at Phoenixville a letter from Mr. Yenser on the works, dated two days before, asking whether, in view of the deflected chord, he should go on with the work on the structure, and requesting an answer by wire. As the transmission of messages was very uncertain, owing to the telegraph operators' strike, Mr. Yenser was called by long-distance telephone and asked further about the matter, when he said that as there appeared to be no danger he was proceeding with the work.

For the present there are no more witnesses to be heard here. To-day the commissioners go to Levis to examine the injured victims now in hospital there. Wednesday and Thursday will be spent in examining the storage yards for material, and men in charge at Belair and Chaudiere, and on Friday certain foremen and engineers will be recalled here before the commission. Early next week the commissioners will go to New York to examine Mr. Theodore Cooper and other expert witnesses, and will later visit the works at Phoenixville and the rolling and other mills at Harrisburg and elsewhere.

Used Knives In Chatham.

Chatham, Sept. 17.—Knives were freely used in a fight between an Italian and some Assyrians here yesterday afternoon, but the police took in the bunch before any serious damage was done.

Mike Vato, an Italian push-cart man, wheeled his bananas up in front of Zakon Bros.' store, next the Rankin House.

The Assyrians rushed out at him, and for a minute it looked serious for the pedlar. Knives were pulled and a general melee ensued.

NO MORE DISORDER.

But Public Opinion In B. C. Is Firm For Restriction.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 17.—So far as further resort to disorder as a protest against Asiatic immigration is concerned, public opinion throughout British Columbia has become so settled or unified during the past week as to put all danger of that character far beyond the range of probability. At the same time, popular feeling is steadily taking deliberate and dignified grounds, unmistakably on the side of restriction of emigration.

"British Columbia, a white man's country," appears to be more than the labor party slogan. The issue insists upon capable legislative treatment.

Confidence In Canadians.

London, Sept. 17.—Baron Komura, the Japanese ambassador to Great Britain, who has just returned to London, after an absence in the country, called on Sir Edward Grey at the Foreign Office, yesterday afternoon, and discussed the anti-Oriental disturbances at Vancouver.

The ambassador took with him home despatches which he received from the Japanese consul at Vancouver and Ottawa, and, it is understood, assured the Foreign Secretary that Japan had the greatest confidence that the Canadians would punish those who were responsible for the attacks on the Japanese, and was satisfied with the steps in that direction already taken.

Heading For British Columbia.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The Trade and Commerce Department is advised that 400 of the Hindoos recently driven out of Bellingham, in the State of Washington, are heading for British Columbia, in small parties.

SAYS JUSTICE IS LAX.

Orangeville People Lay Complaint Against Magistrate.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—In pursuance of correspondence which has passed on the subject between the complainants and the Department of the Attorney-General, a deputation consisting of the Reeve of Orangeville and two of the councillors, Messrs. Lynn and Henderson, waited yesterday afternoon upon the Hon. J. J. Foy, and requested that a thorough and early enquiry be ordered into the methods employed by the police magistrate of Orangeville, Joseph Pattullo, during a period extending over many years.

About one dozen cases were especially mentioned in this particular; one of the dates was so far back as thirty years ago, and another goes back five years.

Hon. Mr. Foy informed the members of the deputation that he would direct that an examination be made into the complaints which had been laid before the Department.

ALEXANDER NIVEN IS STRANDED IN WILDS OF NORTH ONTARIO

Well Known Fenelon Falls Surveyor in bad Straits---Indian Assistants Deserting Him and he Needs Money

AWAY FROM SUPPLIES

Far North of Grand Trunk Pacific Line and Must Abandon work for The Winter Now

Mr. Alexander Niven, a land surveyor in the employ of the Surveys Department of the Ontario Government, and well known in Peterborough, which he often visited, has notified the Department that he is stranded in the northern part of Ontario. The exact location is not designated, but it is said to be somewhere between the proposed junction of the Temiskaming and Northern Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific and the North Pole.

As a matter of fact, he reports that he is 111 miles from his base of supplies, and he has another hundred miles yet to travel to reach the conclusion of his work.

Under these conditions, Mr. Niven has notified the Department that he will be obliged to abandon his work for the winter. When Mr. Niven gives in that he is beaten, conditions must be discouraging, because he is recognized as a man of deep resources, and in addition to this qualification he has spent many years surveying in that portion of the country and is thoroughly familiar with the conditions.

A Peterborough man to-day, to whom the circumstance was mentioned, stated that if any man in the Province could penetrate the northern wilds, Mr. Niven was that man, and he was surprised to learn that he had been forced to give up the work.

The reason for his present condition, however, is attributed to the fact that his Indian assistants are leaving him and he has been unable to secure help from others.

He is now far north of the line surveyed for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and has forwarded an urgent request to the Department to be supplied with money orders in order that he may again reach civilization.

A despatch from Toronto, referring to Mr. Niven's condition, says: "The work of surveying in the northern district is so arduous and primitive," said Mr. Kirkpatrick, head of the Department, this morning, "that we have been unable to secure white assistants, although the Government has offered big money. Accordingly, Mr. Niven had to enlist the redmen, who are now leaving him." The work will probably be abandoned until the spring.

Mr. Niven is a Fenelon Falls man and has lived in this district, where he is well known, for a number of years.

GOOD PROGRESS ON ARMOURY BUILDING

Mr. Geo. A. Proctor, Mayor of of Sarnia, and contractor for the Peterborough Armouries is in the city inspecting the work already accomplished on the new buildings. He states that he finds the work progressing favourable, the foundations being now almost completed. To-morrow morning the workmen will begin installing the joists.

Mr. Proctor will be in the city until Saturday and will frequantly pay visits here afterwards. He is superintending the erection in Sarnia of a large Chain Factory, which when completed will be the only one in Canada. This factory will at first employ about 60 men and will gradually increase that number until 125 are employed.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT WOULD KILL TWO THIRDS OF POPULATION

San Francisco, September 18.—"If we could have a great drought, killing off two-thirds of the population, and great care was taken to see that the best third, mentally, morally and physically, were reserved, what a magnificent race of people we would have!" said President David Starr Jordan at a student body gathering at Stanford University.

After making this astounding statement the head of the institution shifted to a theme in keeping with the gathering.

Former Peterborough Man Is Supreme Court Judge

Mr. N. D. Beck, K.C., Appointed to Bench in Alberta Province---A Son of Former Rector of Peterborough

ABILITY IS RECOGNIZED

Announcement is made to-day from Ottawa to the effect that Mr. N. D. Beck, K.C., a son of the late Rev J W R Beck, rector of Peterborough, and, during his younger days a resident of Peterborough has been appointed to the position of judge of the Supreme Court of the new province of Alberta. It will be remembered that some months ago the appointment of Mr. Beck to this position was foreshadowed by the Examiner. He has many friends in Peterborough who will learn with pleasure of this recognition of the ability of this former Peterborough boy.

For some years, and up until the the present time, in fact, Mr. Beck has been city solicitor for Edmonton, the capital city of Alberta, and, of course, with his appointment to the bench, this office will be vacated by him. It is stated, in some quarters that it is considered probable that his successor as city solicitor will be Mr. E B Edwards, also a former Peterborough man, and an authority on municipal law.

Mr. Beck is a brother of Mrs. A. Stevenson, of this city, and also a brother of Mrs. R. M. Dennuston, of Winnipeg. Mr. Harry Beck, a brother lives in Toronto, and another brother is practicing medicine in Port Arthur.

A despatch from Ottawa referring to Mr. Beck's appointment says:—Mr. Beck is best known as the intermediary between the Government and Mgr. Sbarretti, when the ticklish school question, arising out of the Northwest Autonomy Bills, was under discussion, in 1905.

LITTLE APPLES TO BE PLENTIFUL

Hot Winds and Drought Play Havoc With Fruit

The "little apples" will be in evidence again this year. The last report of the fruit branch of the Dominion Government gives the information that the drought of the last few months will affect not only the size of the apples, but is held responsible, along with very hot winds, for more than the usual quantity of "drops." Some correspondents are placing the damage in the Lake Erie counties at 30 per cent. of the crop. Others are more conservative. The damage will be nearer 20 per cent. in shrinkage in size alone.

WOMAN ROAMS WILD IN QUEBEC WOODS

Harvard Professor Tells of Finding One Who Shuns Society and Dresses in Leaves

SHE HAS NO COMPANION

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—Prof. Macauley, of Harvard University, who has come here after spending a few weeks in the country surrounding Blue Sea Lake and Maniwaki up the Gatineau River, not many miles from Ottawa, on the Quebec side, brings down with him a strange story of a woman roaming wild in the forests of that district.

He states that while hunting one day in the woods near the Gatineau, a rush and scurry in the undergrowth caused him to quickly turn his rifle in the direction of the sound. To his surprise, the wild face of a human being, tanned to a dark brown by exposure to sun and air, framed by masses of dark, coarse hair, and unmistakably the face of a woman, peered at him from the shadows. The hunter quietly approached her, but before he could speak she turned and fled.

Prof. Macauley said that she seemed to be dressed in nothing more substantial than leaves, entwined and matted together so as to form a covering for her body. He made inquiries in the neighbourhood and found that other persons besides himself had seen the woman. She lives in solitude in a small, low hut, in the interior of which no person of medium size could stand upright. She has no companion save a number of dogs, which help her in procuring food in the forest. A rifle is included in the list of her possessions, but ammunition has been refused her. It appears that owing to an injury done the woman years ago she has ever since shunned human society and lived in the depths of the bush. How she keeps alive during the severe winters is a mystery.

WEDDING BELLS.

PEARSON--ISBISTER

Another pretty September wedding was celebrated this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, when Margaret Anderson, the third daughter of Mr. Jacob Isbister, 200 London street, was united in the sacred bonds of marriage to Andrew Pearson, son of Mr. Richard Pearson, of Ivy. Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox church, performed the ceremony in the drawing room of the home of the bride. It was tastefully decorated with palms and asters. The nuptials were sealed beneath a bower of the season's foliage and flowers.

Miss Henrietta Isbister, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Wesley Leonard of Lakefield acted as best man. Miss Girven of Lakefield, played Mendelssohn's march as the wedding part entered the room.

The bride's wedding dress was a cream costume trimmed with pearls, which was most becoming, and her travelling suit was of brown lady's cloth, with hat to match.

The bridesmaid wore a pretty dress of white organdie and carroied a bouquet of white asters. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson left on the 4.48 C. P. R. train for Toronto, Barrie and other western points, and on their return they will reside on Albert street.

LAKEFIELD FAMILIES ARE LIVING IN SKATING RINK; NO DWELLINGS

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Sept. 18.—The scarcity of dwelling houses in this town has reached an acute stage, and is indicated by the fact that at the present time three families are domiciled in the skating rink, which, in the meantime has been turned into a house of accommodation for families for whom no houses can be found.

The population of the town has been increasing at a more rapid rate than the house accommodation, but it is expected that in a short time the present situation will be relieved. There are about fifteen houses in course of construction and these will be completed in a short time and ready for occupancy. It is an encouraging sign that Lakefield is growing so rapidly, and the business men are expressing pleasure at the prospects for the future of the town.

YOUNG MAN'S SLEEPING COMPANION RISES EARLY AND ROBS HIS POCKETS

Loser Says $21 Has Disappeared---Both Call at C.P.R. Boarding House for Lodgings

COMES FROM STIRLING

Only 25 Cents Left to Pay for His Bed---Goes to the Country To work with Farmer

Monday night appears to have been a disastrous one so far as burglaries are concerned and another has been reported by the loser of $21, who states that while sleeping with a supposed friends the latter rose from the bed, rifled his pockets and disappeared with the money. The two young men arrived in the city on Monday night on the G.T.R. train from Belleville, the loser of the money stating that he came from Stirling. About 10 o'clock they called at the C. P. R. boarding house asking for shelter for the night, which was granted by the landlady. They were given a room occupied by two regular boarders and being strangers, and on account of their rather peculiar actions, were watched until both had taken their departure.

On Tuesday evening one reported the loss of $21 and stated his chum whom he had met the previous day and whose name was Powell, had arisen from bed an hour after both retired and disappeared with all his money. The cash had been left in his trouser's pocket, he stated, but yesterday he found it had gone.

The stranger called last night again at the boarding house, told of his loss and where his suspicions rested. His companion of the previous night was gone, however, and he stated he had only 25 cents left to pay for his night's lodging.

He remained around the city until yesterday evening when he reported at the boarding house he had received a situation in the country with a farmer.

TOO MUCH CONFUSION AT POST OFFICE

A Few Suggestions to the Public Which Should Tend to Improve Matters

If there is anything that a person with any individuality detests, it is to meet other people at the post office who are going in or out the wrong door. To a casual observer the majority of the citizens in some manner break the ordinary conventions of a post office whenever they call for mail. To the man of regular habits there is nothing more annoying than to start to enter by the proper door and collide with some thoughtless person who is coming out by the same door instead of taking the one to his right. This is a matter that is exceedingly simple and in fact escapes the attention of the most of people but it should be remembered for the doors at the post office are too small as they are without confusion in going in and out the several doors.

Another matter that needs attention from the authorities is the loitering of people in the lobby, on the steps in front of the entrances and in the office itself. Some of the offenders are loafers the rest are inconsiderate people who may have the idea that the place is theirs and they can do as they like. These objections are not very serious in themselves but if they were removed the conditions at the post office would be very much improved.

WILL THE BOARD OF HEALTH RESIGN IN A BODY AS A PROTEST? MEMBERS SAY SO

CHAIRMAN TAKES HIS COMMITTEE ON JAUNT AROUND THE CITY

Ald. Geo. Duncan, Chairman of The Board of Works, Which This Afternoon is Taking an Inspection Tour of the City

Character is Medicine

In medicine as in every sphere of human action, it is character that tells. Every prescription that Dr. A. W. Chase gave to his fellowmen is full of character, full of the honest, sterling character, which made the grand old doctor, respected, admired and loved by all who knew him. The integrity of Dr. Chase is shown in every one of his famous family medicines.

An Appointed Official Said to be in Reality the Board of Health Members Say They are Ignored and Opinions Disregarded

SAY THEY WILL RESIGN

All Over the Scarlet Fever Patient Who Was Placed in City Building —Not Proper Isolation

A member of the Board of Health informed the Examiner that in all probability the whole board would in a short time resign as a protest against the action of the officials appointed by the city in connection with the scarlet fever patient who was recently placed in a building which, it is claimed, does not meet with the requirements of the law.

He stated that not only was he not in favour of having the patient placed where she was, but that he actually did not know she was to be taken there until twelve hours after the removal had been made. So far as he could learn every member of the board was opposed to the action which, he termed high-handed, of the official, who, while nominally the servant of the Board of Health, is in reality the whole board, the members being simply figure heads, when it comes to a question of authority.

Not even the chairman, he said, had any rights, apparently, since his opinions were not given any consideration.

PETERBOROUGH HEBREWS ARE TO-DAY BENDING THE KNEE IN SOLEMN PRAYER

Day of Atonement, The Holiest Day of The Jewish Year—Lasts for 26 Hours

NO FOOD DURING THAT TIME

Wearing of Shoes is Prohibited by Their Religion—Pray for Year of Blessings

In every country of the world wherever representatives of the Hebrew race are scattered, to-day the holiest day of the Jewish year, is being celebrated. This is the Day of Atonement for all who profess the religion of the Hebrew and a day set apart for special prayers. In Peterborough it is being kept by the resident Jews with all the scrupulousness of their forefathers and not a representative of that ancient race could be seen on the streets of the city to-day.

The Day of Atonement began at o'clock last night and lasts until o'clock to-night. The first service in the city was held last night at 5 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Laster, Sameon street, over which the reverend Jew from Toronto, presided. All the families in the city were present at the services, totalling altogether not more than 20 Jews.

The 26 hours of Atonement are spent in prayer and fasting. No food is eaten during that period and those who keep the day sacred on spend the time in fervent prayer for a year of blessings as the year in the Hebrews began on Monday of the past week.

Another peculiarity during the Day of Atonement, at least peculiar to those not familiar with the custom is that the Jews wear no shoes on this, the holiest of their days, but go about in stocking feet for 26 hours. All work as well as school was dispensed with so far as the Jews are concerned and until the evening twilight begins to fall a solemn ceremony of prayer and fasting will prevail among this devout race throughout the world.

Thirty Inches of Snow in The West Blocks Trains

Mr. C. B. McAllister on a Visit to The East Tells of Conditions at Present Prevailing in Western Canada

THE FROST HURTS CROPS

From twelve to thirty inches of snow for the second week in September in Canada is a record which can hardly be called an enviable one.

This is the report brought to the city to-day by Mr. C. B. McAllister, who is on his way to the east from Calgary, where, he stated, last week there was a heavy fall of snow, sufficient in some cases to stop the trains, which were not prepared to buck thirty inches of snow before the harvest has been taken off the ground.

The snow, however, did not do any particular damage. The Chinook winds soon took it away, and good weather followed. He reports, however, that there was a frost a few nights ago, which will work havoc with the crops in some localities.

Mr. McAllister's headquarters are in Winnipeg, but he expects, eventually, to locate permanently in the Kootenay district, with which he is greatly impressed. He is east on a visit to his wife and family, and may take them back with him, on this point he has not become definitely decided yet.

The West, generally, is in good condition, and the people are in splendid spirits over the prospects for the crops and prices.

British Columbia is, according to Mr. McAllister, in a particularly happy condition, and he is so well pleased with the conditions there that his ambition is to settle in the province Kootenay district.

A CANADIAN CLUB.

The present movement looking to the establishment in Peterborough of a Canadian Club is a good one, and deserving of encouragement and success. Such a club is designed to be both a corrective and a positive benefit — a corrective of the modern mania of amusement for the mere sake of amusement itself. Such a club will provide, at the same time, amusement, entertainment, instruction and culture. The Canadian club is largely literary in its aims and functions. It is a purely secular organization, with no political nor church affiliations, and offers membership to every class and condition. While it is largely literary, it is, incidentally, social in the broadest meaning of the word social — so broad as to include the brotherhood of a common citizenship. It is calculated to develop literary tastes with the Canadian motif preeminent — to develop patriotism through a closer and deeper study and understanding of Canadian literature, events, capabilities, resources, and institutions; their merits, and their claims to our loyal regard. It thus develops a true patriotism, one founded upon the merit of the country of our birth or adoption, and upon a sense of our duty in regard to making ourselves worthy in every respect to become contributory elements in its up-building and progress.

Its scheme of action includes monthly addresses at luncheon hour, to be given by some Canadian, distinguished for ability, upon some subject of Canadian interest, followed by brief, pointed discussion by members.

The enterprise is worthy of encouragement, and if it succeeds, as it should do, it will enter upon its work at a time when the long evenings of autumn and winter demand means of profitable entertainment. In every department of our city life there is a resumption of activity. The churches, through their auxiliary organizations, are stirred to a renewal of functions, from a cottage prayer meeting to a tea fight. In every domain of autumn and winter sport, organization and operation are the conditions—in football, in hockey, skating, curling, etc., etc., preparations are made. The evening party, the soiree, dansante, bridge whist, progressive euchre and similar forms of dissipation or diversion are all in seasonable activity. While most, if not all, of these, under proper conditions, are all very well in their way, they are comparatively material and restricted in scope, and fail to meet a social intellectual want with a broad field of appeal like that supplied by a Canadian Club.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS

The Hague Peace Conference seems to be wasting its time, if it confines its deliberations to a consideration of the means of preventing waste of human life by war. If it would attack some real evil, bringing the results named, it should take up railways. Of late there has been a long record of accidents on railways, and incidentally, and directly, appalling loss of life and destruction of property. This is an evil that is certainly preventable. In Great Britain and on continental Europe, where the rate of speed, and the conveyance of passengers per mile, is much greater than in Canada and the United States, there is nothing like the railway disasters we have to chronicle and suffer from on this side of the Atlantic, where the slaughter of railway passengers has reached a condition, in frequency and proportions, which demands the most rigid investigation into the causes. We have a Railway Commission to regulate the freight charges on packages of butter and baskets of eggs. Why should we not have a commission to investigate the subject of the tremendous toll in human life the railways are exacting? The present Railway Commission is loaded up beyond its capacity with business, so that it cannot, without neglecting other departments of its duties, give due attention to the conditions productive of such awful loss of life as results from the operation of our railways. If only the loss of property of the railways were concerned, the public could afford to be as indifferent to it as the railways seem to be, to the loss of life of our people. The attitude of the railways to these conditions, is a surprise to everybody—they stand to lose immensely, in the way of the destruction of their property, and in the payment of damages in respect of the loss of life of passengers entrusted to their care, for safe transportation to their destination. One would, therefore, think that these arguments ad crumenam would produce a reform in railway management, would prevent accidents which, the history of British and European railway management, shows to be preventable.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Borden declared at Dunville that the Conservative party had readjusted its ecclesiastics and was prepared to swallow every feature of his policy. Mr. Borden has declared that the present financial stringency was world-wide, and Mr. Cockshutt, speaking on the same platform, declared that it was due to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Either Mr. Cockshutt does not believe what his leader says, or he attributes a world-wide influence to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Laurier radiates his influence pretty widely, but it is hardly world-wide.

The Mail and Empire is rather exploiting "Liberals," and "Old Liberals," as correspondents, finding fault with Liberals and the Liberal Government. There is very good reason to believe that these correspondents are counterfeits. For instance a genuine Liberal, such as the one ostensibly writing the Mail and Empire, on Tuesday, if he were really in search of information as to the doings of the Toronto Reform Association, would have written to the Globe, which would be in a better position to know, and which would tell the truth, which is more than could reasonably be expected of the Mail and Empire, judging from its record in dealing with political matters.

J. C. TURNBULL CO. BUILDING GREATER

Rapid Expansion of Their Business—More Enlargements

Old age and conservatism are generally closely associated in the minds of most people, especially in connection with a business house. Sound business principles certainly will keep an establishment moving prosperously, but it is the progressive, up-to-date, alert concern that takes the highest place in the public estimation and secures the "lion's share" of the public trade.

The firm of The J. C. Turnbull Company, Limited, is one of the business landmarks of Peterborough. Age has not made it conservative, or kept the establishment from growing and prospering. Of the number of model stores in Peterborough, that contribute so much to the admiration of our city, none is more widely and favourably known to the general public than that of the J. C. Turnbull Co., Limited.

Among the first to initiate extensive enlargements with the view of maintaining a greater variety of dry-goods, housefurnishings, carpets, millinery and ready-to-wear garments, they added two additional stores to their premises, and launched out into a "departmental" store, with entrances on George and Simcoe streets. Ever since, hardly a year has passed, without their being compelled to make either new enlargements or to remodel their premises, in order to find room for additional goods and increasing business. Having enjoyed an unrivalled central location, right in the heart of the city, their splendid show windows have been a tower of strength in displaying their high-class goods.

The head of the firm, remarked yesterday that "it is our stern duty to look ahead of this beautiful season, and to make material provision for autumn trade. And we are doing it. Autumn goods have arrived by the shipload. Already we are showing a large range of our foreign and domestic importations, and the effect of our special displays has already been felt and appreciated."

Although the great space in the interior of this store has heretofore been utilized to its utmost every season, another series of changes and remodelling has been going on during the past few weeks to still further augment the store's selling capacity. The dress goods department has been removed and given a more prominent position—near the front entrance on the opposite side of the main store. More space has thus been given to staple wares,—such as linens, woollens, prints, cretonnes, etc. A handsome new sales case has been installed in the central aisles, and six separate departments conveniently allied to each other are now located where only four formerly existed. The positions of certain departments have been changed and re-arranged in order to afford more room. The range of goods now on exhibition on both sides of the centre aisles were never so varied as now, never quite so large, and will equal anything that the most expeditious shopper may demand.

The great space devoted to the carpets and floor coverings on Simcoe street is likely soon to undergo another re-modelling. The firm has secured the lease of the adjoining store, now occupied by Messrs. Adamson and Dobbin, and as soon as this firm's new building is ready for them, their store will be absorbed by the Turnbull Company, and further new departments opened out there.

CONSIDERATION TO AN INDUSTRY

Manufacturing Committee Deal With it To-night

To-night the Manufacturers' Committee of the Board of Trade will hold a meeting in the city clerk's office, when matters of vital interest affecting the future of one of the city's oldest and best industries will be discussed. In dealing with this question the Board of Trade is giving evidence of its practical appreciation of the functions of a board of trade, to foster the business interests of the community.

NOT SO MANY CHEESE THIS SEASON

Mr. John Riddell Gives His Reasons for The Shortage

1879 LESS IN FOUR MONTHS

Mr. John Riddell, president of the Peterborough cheese board reports that the season's make in cheese up to the present time is 1879 boxes less than during the same period last year.

Beginning with May, the manufacture for four months was 4612, 9428, 9336, and 8091, while this year during the same months, it was 3866, 8519, 9595, and 7608.

Only in the month of July, this year, it will be seen, did the amount of cheese manufactured exceed the make of last.

The total number on the board in 1906, for the first four months, was 31,467, and this year the number amounts to 29,588.

Mr. Riddell accounts for the depreciation in the number of cheese, by the late spring, the shortage of grass and the lack of farm help, which prevented the farmers from keeping so many dairy cows.

STEALS A WATCH AND LOSES IT

John Barrie, Boarding on Parnell Street Locked Up

John Barrie, a man who says his boarding house is on Parnell street, was locked in one of the police cells to-day, charged with having stolen a gold watch from the son of the people with whom he has been living. Worse than that, he is just recovering from a "toot," and says that he does not know anything about the watch, and, of course, the article is gone. He will appear before the Magistrate in the morning.

The price of cheese took a small jump upwards at the meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board this morning, when the figure offered was 12 5-16c., the highest paid this season. The greater part of the cheese sold at this figure which was 1-16c. higher than the maximum bid at the last meeting two weeks ago. Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

A Message for Pile Sufferers

FROM TWO LADIES WHO HAVE BEEN CURED OF EXTREMELY TORTURING CASES OF PILES BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Russell county, Ont., writes:—"Eleven years ago I began to suffer from piles, and as they caused keen distress, and became worse, I doctored for them, but with little or no avail. They were bleeding, itching and protruding, and oh! the torture suffered at times can never be described. It was with suffering that the bowels moved, and, as nothing brought relief, I could only endure the misery with an aching heart and without hope of cure.

"Finally a lady friend told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment curing piles, and to my surprise I felt relief at once on using this ointment; the little tumors soon disappeared, the ulcers healed, and the bowels became regular. This was five years ago, and I have never been troubled with this terrible ailment since, a thousand thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Mrs. Capt. Climansmith, Salvation Army, Essex, Ont., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two years ago I was taken with a severe attack of protruding piles, and became so bad that I had to keep my bed, and could lie in no position except on my Stomach. Doctors could give me no help, and the various oils and ointments used proved of no avail.

"One Saturday night, when I was suffering untold agony, my husband went to the drug store, for a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I had heard of as a cure for piles. Although I had almost given up hope, to the wonder of those around me, I was able to be up and on my feet by Monday, and have had no difficulty from piles since. As a treatment for all kinds of sores and burns, Dr. Chase's Ointment works like magic."

To persons who have given up looking for a cure of piles or hemorrhoids, this letter should bring new hope. There is, we believe, no more effective treatment for piles than Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MR. RUDDICK TALKS IN GLASGOW

Tells Big Scottish Audience About Canadian Cheese, Butter and Fruit and How They are Shipped

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE

A recent issue of the Glasgow Herald gives a lengthy account of an address given by Mr. J. A. Ruddick, the Canadian Dairy Commissioner for Canada, who is now in the Old Land acquainting purchasers of the way in which Canadian cheese, butter and fruit are prepared there to be sent across the ocean. The following is the account of his address published in the Herald:

Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner for Canada, addressed a meeting of the Glasgow Provision and Fruit Trades Associations yesterday in the Provision Exchange, 101 Albion street. Mr. J. B. Mathie, president, Scottish Provision Trades Association, occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance, Mr. Ruddick, after remarking briefly on the amount of bacon, cheese and butter exported from Canada to this country, said he believed they would in the future see a very great improvement in the apple trade from the Dominion. In the past the trade had suffered from a lack of organization, but now it had been realized that it required organization something like that which has pusted the dairy produce to the front, and a movement was on foot among the apple-growers to form a co-operative association, and he believed that, with this in existence, they would have a more carefully grown and a better quality of apple, while better attention would be given to the packing of the fruit. His (Mr. Rudick'd) mission to this country was twofold. In the first place, he came to study the conditions and requirements of the market, and to see what their competitors were doing to please their taste; but he also wished to learn from them what Canadians must do in order to meet the demands of the market and thus increase their trade. They were not depending upon any feeling of sentiment for the sale of their products. They did not expect to extend their trade unless they could give a good article. The laws in Canada regulating dairy produce were very stringent. In the first place, all kinds of adulteration in connection with butter and cheese were absolutely prohibited, and he was able to state from his own knowledge of the situation that there was no adulteration of dairy produce in Canada. (Applause.) Then the importation, manufacture, or sale of oleomargarine, or any butter substitute was prohibited, as was also process or renovated butter. In the matter of dating the manufacture of cheese, there was no law dealing with this, and he might frankly say that he was against the dating system. Dating the month of manufacture did not represent anything that had to do with the intrinsic value of the cheese. The only reason why September cheese had been better than the cheese of other months was because they had, generally, cooler weather then. Personally, he would rather have May cheese, or that of June or July, that had been properly cured and made, than cheese made in the autumn. With the improvement in the cooling of cheese that was becoming general, they might, however, be able to produce cheese throughout the whole season that would be equal in quality to that of September. In the matter of cold storage, he thought that the steamship companies were entitled to very great credit for having developed this part of their service, often in the face of very great discouragement. Another good work that had to do with the improving of the relations between the shipper and receiver on this side was the inspection of the cargoes. Every cargo of perishable produce was carefully inspected by men employed by the Department in Montreal, and the same goods were re-inspected as they were discharged on this side, so if there was any difference in the condition of the goods they knew exactly where the blame lay. It was the policy of the Dominion Government to do everything possible to assist the producer in Canada to increase the production of food products of high quality, and to assist him in landing these goods in other markets in as near a perfect condition as possible. (Applause.)

Mr. Ruddick afterwards answered several questions. In reply to Mr. James Dougherty, he said he thought that the fruit-growers, in forming a co-operative association, were trying to raise the price of the fruit, but they were trying to do it by giving good value for the money. So far as he had heard, the work turned out by this association had given very great satisfaction. Mr. Thomas Clement drew attention to the matter of short weights and too green cheese being shipped to this country. He also suggested that Mr. Ruddick's Department might spend more time in considering the matter of mould in butter. Mr. Ruddick, in reply, said that he was doing his best to encourage the Canadian farmers to hold their cheese for a reasonable length of time, and he believed that he had made some progress. Regarding the second question, it was sometimes difficult to tell where the mould was coming from. It was a minute form of plant life, and it must have a seed of some kind. In a new country like Canada a great many of the buildings were of wood, and that encouraged the growth of mould. Newer houses were now, however, going up, having impervious walls that did not support the growth of mould. Mr. Barrow, president of the Fruit Trade Association, referred to the fact that for the past 25 or 30 years there had been no variation in their seaboard freight at Glasgow. He thought that the Government might bring pressure to bear upon the shipping companies to have Glasgow put on a better basis, say the same basis as Liverpool, where the rates rose and fell. On the motion of Mr. Jas. Selanders, a vote of thanks was awarded Mr. Ruddick for his address.

WOMAN PAY MORE

Why Insurance Companies Discriminate Against the Gentle Sex

If one is to believe the medical examiners the reason a woman pays more for the privilege of life insurance is that she is much more commonly a victim of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the fatal ailments that spring from these causes.

It is not the acute attacks of disease that influence the insurance examiners alone, but the constant feelings of weakness, headache, indigestion and stomach troubles. These things, physicians say, kill more people than many of the serious diseases.

For curative power in all stomach troubles nothing else is as safe yet effective, nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles of indigestion, as Mi-o-na. It is unlike any remedy heretofore known; it is not a mere digestive tablet; it strengthens and restores to natural action of the stomach and bowels, and makes a complete cure in even the worst forms of stomach troubles.

Mr. Madill sells Mi-o-na in 50-cent boxes under a guarantee to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.

Music and Drama

There is a wholesome countryside brand of comedy down in Southern Indiana that didn't exist elsewhere, and when the playwright originally dug "Sis" and her fun-makers out of Posey County and made them stage folks, there was a breath of the flower-laden prairies that refused to be left behind, and the fragrance has always sort of taken hold and made you a friend of "Sis." This time she is going to tell what Broadway is like and how she liked the Waldorf-Astoria, for her latest is "Sis in New York," at the Grand on Saturday, September 21, matinee and night.

LITTLE DOLLY DIMPLES

In connection with the above production at the Grand Theatre all this week, the Toronto World of yesterday has the following to say:—

"Little Dolly Dimples," after making a great hit, which has echoed around the world, is this week stopping at the Grand Opera House, where she was at home to a large audience last night. Jolly Grace Cameron, or as she is known among the profession, "Dolly Dimples," is appearing in a musical drama with the title that she is best known by, and the vehicle is going to be a popular one is evidenced from the enthusiastic manner with which it was received last evening by a representative Toronto audience. At the rise of the curtain, and from the time Miss Cameron appeared, she was the talk of the whole house. It began to dawn on the people that they were making the acquaintance of one extremely charming and talented young woman when she made her first appearance, but it was not until her singing of "Good-Bye, Dear Old Home" that she took the house by storm, and then they accorded her an ovation.

That inimitable mimic and comedian, Al. Lawrence, has the leading comedy role, and carries his audience to the heights of merriment. He does not speak a line that lets the laughing and his one song won him many encores.

The company is a big one, and the chorus work decidedly above the average. The production is also pleasing, the costumes being bright and attractive in colours and style. There are a number of good specialties introduced, and give that variety so essential in the modern musical vehicle.

That "Little Dolly Dimples" pleased last evening goes without saying, for at the close of the performance many were heard to express their determination to come again before the engagement closed.

This Company appears at the Grand Monday, Sept. 23rd. Sale opens Friday at 10 a.m.

Mr. E. C. Srigley will teach the Mechanical Arithmetic and Geometrical Drawing.

The course for employed boys in Arithmetic, Spelling and Writing, will again be conducted.

CRITICISM OF POSTERS IS UPHELD

"Civic" Says Young Preacher Was Right and Chief Can Find Plenty of Offending Posters in the City

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The facts stated by Rev. Mr. Applegath at the Charlotte Street Church regarding gross violation of law in connection with bill board posters is most timely. Despite the bland assertion of our Chief of Police the law is flagrantly broken. Citizen calls attention to an instance near the opera house, but similar posters were in evidence in several places.

If the high professions of the Bill Posters Association mean anything, (that any member violating the law shall be expelled), the representative from this city must be on dangerous ground. Our chief had better wake up and take a walk around town.

The bill board is regarded as a public nuisance in many places, an unsightly eyesore not in keeping with civic beauty of good taste. Some towns have succeeded in abolishing it altogether. Peterborough should at least confine it to vacant lots and remove the unsightly barn doors from its street corners. Why do the government officials permit such an unsightly thing to disfigure the front of the custom house? We do not expect anything better from our city council, but we think government officials should have better taste. Our young preacher has hit the nail on the head; if we are to endure bill board advertising by all means let it be kept within the bounds of law and free from vulgar and demoralizing portrayals.

Yours truly,
CIVIC.

A NEW LIGHT SYSTEM DISCUSSED

Light and Power Company to Make a Plan for the Council

Among the matters that came up in the conference between Mr. Larmonth, of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council last night was a discussion about the headlights on the street cars, about which there have been many complaints, and which the committee asked should be remedied. Mr. Larmonth promised that the matter should be attended to at once, and said that the company would adopt some system that would prevent the light from the cars being so widely diffused over the road as to make it dangerous for those driving on the streets of the city.

No limit to choice, however. Here you'll find an immense variety of the new waists in all styles to select from.

TAILORED SUITS AND COATS

This will be one of the greatest seasons ever known for Tailor Made Suits; probably the fact that the styles are particularly becoming accounts for it.

Jackets are generally longer this season. Sleeves are three-quarter and full length with the three-quarter sleeve in the lead as favorite.

Whatever color you fancy you'll find that too, for here are suits in all prevailing colors and materials.

Skirts are generally pleated and the walking length still rules.

DUCK SHOOTING IS VERY QUIET

Rice Lake is Like a Back Yard Where Ducks May Roam at Will

People returning from Rice Lake report that there are scarcely any duck shooters out at present, and the birds feed about the lake undisturbed. The most of them were to be found near Keene when the season opened, but the Indians and others gathered near the beds there, and as a result the ducks have come up the lake, and many are beginning to feed around the mouth of the Otonabee. Around Jubilee, to the east and west, they have been seen feeding unmolested, and, according to reports, are becoming rather tame. At present the season is at its best, so the sportsmen must be allowing their guns to become unburnished, if they are not shining in use.

CHIEF WANTS THE ADVICE OF "CITIZEN"

As to What the Law is, and he Will Try And Reform it Respecting Posters, He Says

The Chief of Police wants the writer of the Post-Card communication, signed "Citizen," in the Examiner last night, to enlighten him on the law. He told the Examiner to-day that he had no doubt that "Citizen" could tell him many things about the law that he did not know, and in view of this fact, he would like to be informed just what the law is concerning the exposure of objectionable posters. He is anxious to keep the law observed in Peterborough, so far as it relates to posters and other objectionable practices, and if "Citizen" will advise him as to what the statute provides he states that he will do his best to have it observed.

MILITARY TRAINING CONDEMNED

A Correspondent Who Claims to be a Product of the System Refers to Some Disadvantages in it

MINISTER CRITICIZED

Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir. — I notice in a late issue of your paper an article advocating "Compulsory military training," as carried on in Germany. This, coming from a Christian minister, is rather startling, as when one reads the Book which Christians take as their guide book, they may there read that Christianity is love, towards God, and one's fellow men, and not war, which is the end to which we are told by some we should train our youth. One clergyman states that military training, as that in Germany, teaches a man to be respectful to his "superiors." Can this gentleman tell me when and where God made one man superior to another; is it that one man has more money, or a more lucrative position, as "German Kaiser Billy" has, that makes him superior? Are the "superior" people differently constructed from their "common" brethren? My own experience after seven years of military training, is that it turns a man into a brute, when he has to slay another, with whom he has no quarrel at the bidding of a third. Military training totally unfits a man for an industrial life; and instead of making good citizens it keeps our jails and asylums well stocked.

When we hear such things preached from the pulpit, we are not surprised at the "hooliganism" of some of the youth of our town, about whom complaints are constantly being made. What are the words of Christ on the subject? "Put up thy sword, for all they that take thre sword, shall perish with the sword." This, preached from the pulpit, would be our Lord's words, but our clergy are often superior to Christ, and can go one better by perverting the beautiful truths laid down by Him, who said, "Love your enemies," and not train our youth to hate unto murder every man of other nationalities, when a few who call themselves, the rulers, cannot agree.

Yours, etc.,
PRODUCT OF MILITAIRISM.

THE NEW MARRIED COUPLES' HAVE MANIA FOR PICTURES

In spite of the statements to the effect that the past summer has not been prolific of the usual number of weddings, there are evidences that many young people have braved the dangers and have entered upon matrimony's troublesome sea. Mr. J. L. Richmond has on display at his studio an unusually handsome array of bridal couples, all apparently happy and in a frame of mind which would make it unnecessary for Mr. Richmond to make the usual request to "look pleasant, please." As a matter of fact, some of the ministers are reporting that recently there have been a goodly number of quiet, but, to the participants, important matrimonial functions.

Announcement as to the date of the opening of the new hall in connection with the Conservatory, may be expected in a short time.

The commissioners also dealt with the application for a license made by Edward J. Flaherty, to succeed Jas. Kelly, of the Royal Hotel, unter street. THE SALVATION ARMY'S BIG PLANS

25,000 Immigrants Will be Brought to Canada Next Year—Many For British Columbia

An officer of the Salvation Army's Immigration Department recently in the city gave the information that during the coming year ten steamers would be engaged in carrying immigrants to Canada sent out by the Salvation Army, and he expected that fully 25,000 persons would find their way to Canada through the instrumentality of the organization.

Of these a very large number will be sent direct to British Columbia, where there is apparently a need for labourers, and where white men will be welcomed, both by the employers, and, it is believed, by organized labour as well.

ENGINEER RITCHIE EXONERATED

The Inquest at Manvers Was Concluded Yesderday, Verdict Returned

CORONER GRAY PRESENT

"That the deceased Edward Wansboro came to his death by one train colliding with another, said collision being caused by inefficient airbrakes, and we exonerate Engineer John Ritchie from all blame in not being able to stop his train. We further recommend that all airbrakes in future shall be thoroughly inspected at terminal points."

The above verdict was reached by the jury that was empanelled to inquire into the death of Edward Wansboro, who was killed at Manvers station on August 28 by a rear-end collision. The inquest was resumed in the Orange Hall, Manvers, at 1 o'clock, and the verdict was returned at 6 o'clock. Those examined yesterday were Fred Hilton, car repairer; John Blake, airbrake inspector at Toronto Junction; Henry Falkner, inspector at Havelock; Albion Maynes, road foreman of engines.

The Evidence

Hilton's evidence was mostly in connection with the cars that he had found with good brakes, and those that were defective. His inspection resulted as follows: Out of the 24 cars in the train, 10 were defective and 14 were in working order. He thought that a tram of that character would not be as easily stopped as if all the cars were working.

John Blake stated that he inspected the tram on August 28, but kept no memoranda or any details of the cars. He did not know how seven other brakes ceased to work between Toronto Junction and Manvers. His inspection showed that there were 21 good working brakes and three defective.

Henry Falkner stated that he had only inspected a few of the brakes in a casual way at Havelock. He recollected three not being in condition.

The last witness was Albion Maynes, who gave evidence as to an engineer's duties in connection with the brakes on the cars in his train. Coming from Toronto, he said, that, by the time Pontypool was reached, an engineer should have a good idea of the breaking power of his train. Witness said that he had known Ritchie for seven years, and always considered him a careful man and a good driver. Mr. Maynes said, as to the cause of the accident: "I would say that the accident occurred through an error in judgment as to the speed the tram was moving at, and also to an error in judgment as to the retarding power of the brakes."

Coroner Gray, who conducted the inquest, asked the jury to consider the evidence that had been offered, and to try and come to a conclusion regarding the causes of Wansboro's death.

A SPLENDID VOCAL TEACHER

Mr. Henry J. Lautz to Take up Vocal Teaching at Conservatory

The management of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music considers itself fortunate in having secured the services of Mr. Henry J. Lautz, as teacher in the vocal department during this season. Mr. Lautz, who is on the staff of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, will be in Peterborough one day each week—Wednesday. He comes with the highest of recommendations, and those who have heard him sing, and who are familiar with his work, are enthusiastic in his praises. In addition to being a teacher, Mr. Lautz is also a composer of some prominence, the Buffalo News, referring in its musical columns recently to his work, in the following terms:

Two of Henry J. Laut's songs, "Du bist wie eine Blume," "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose," are charming and well worth the attention of all singers looking for something new of musical value. Mr. Lautz is fortunate in having written songs that have won immediate favour with the best singers.

A National Success.

A significant event during the past month was the opening by Earl Grey of the Canadian National Exhibition.

As in former years the exhibition was attended every day by crowds who displayed a keen interest in all things which Canadian exhibitors have to show.

The presence of His Excellency gave the national event a good send-off. Citizens of Toronto were pleased to have such another opportunity of extending a hearty welcome to the occupant of Rideau Hall. While serving the Dominion and Great Britain as the representative of His Majesty, Earl Grey has proved himself to be a modest, shrewd and diplomatic man. He has opinions of his own and expresses them occasionally, but with that grace and finish which is admirable.

As an exhibition, intended to bring all corners of Canada together, to show to the world what natural resources, industrial enterprises and great manufacturing industries can produce, the purpose has been splendidly fulfilled. It makes a man feel himself a greater patriot after spending a few hours on the grounds. All those connected with the undertaking are to be congratulated on the success attending it this year.

CRESSMAN'S CAREFUL ENQUIRY

His Method of Enquiry and Following Up an Opportunity

Always on the look out for the very best things which the market affords, Mr. A. W. Cressman can look back on a business career, and know that he has invariably secured what he wanted—goods of highest quality.

When he decided many months ago to open up a shoe department, Mr. Cressman looked over the field. The Dolly Varden shoe had just been introduced into Canada a few years, and after a look at the sample shoes and a visit to some of the Dolly Varden stores, Mr. Cressman made careful enquiries about the quality of the shoe. "It has the style and finish of a fine shoe, but I want to know about its wearing quality," he said.

In the same careful, systematic way he went after the agency of the Foot-rite shoe for men, a shoe which had won the name of the Napoleon of shoes, and which was creating a great furore in the cities.

From what he learned, Mr. Cressman promptly closed with both companies for their exclusive agencies in Peterborough.

This is the opening week at Cressman's, and on Friday these fine shoes will be among the attractions prepared for the beginning of the fall business. They are emblematic of the reputation made at Cressman's—"The place to go when you want something which you know is the best to be had."

"When the makers guarantee their product I know that I can," said Mr. Cressman.

MOTHER REPORTED SON WAS MISSING

Police Found Out That He Has Been After Can For Several Days

An elderly woman reported a sad story to one of the police officers yesterday. She lives on Aylmer street, and her only son has been missing since Monday night, and she told the constable that she thought he must be dead. On Monday evening she told him to go up town and pay the electric light bill, and he started out to do so with a fairly large sum of money in his pocket. He did not return home that night and the old lady has not seen her boy since then. She was very disheartened when speaking to the police, who promised to look for her missing son.

Since that time P. C. McGinty, to whom the affair was reported, has seen the young man, and says that he has been on a spree, the effects of which have not left him. Although the fact that the young man has been so foolish as to go on a long drunk is sad enough, the old lady may be assured that he will soon return to lead usually clean life that has been reported of him.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH F. W. McMULTY

The death occurred at an early hour this morning of Joseph Francis W. McNulty, infant son of Dr. F. P. McNulty. The funeral will be held to-morrow morning to St. Peter's cemetery from the family residence, Hunter street.

ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

Canada Will Soon Send Cables at Ten Cents a Word.

Wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic will soon be an established fact. Marconi has attained the great ambition of his life and given wireless communication between Canada and the Mother Country. Within a few weeks' time a constant night and day wireless telegraphic service between England and America, at an average speed of 900 words an hour, will be in operation. It is expected that the rates of the messages will be considerably less than cabling.

It was in 1901 that Mr. Marconi commenced his first signalling experiments between Newfoundland and his station at Poldhu, Cornwall. The aerial wires in Newfoundland were supplied by kites, and after several anxious days the letter "S" was received clearly and distinctly. On both sides of the Atlantic the critics were sceptical and Marconi's high hopes were regarded as the airy dreams of a visionary.

Recently interviewed, Mr. Marconi was asked if he thought the introduction of wireless telegraphy would injure the business of the present cable. In reply he expressed the opinion that there was sufficient work for both systems, and, he added, it will be found that business will increase.

The great inventor is at present engaged on the construction of a new instrument which promises to facilitate shipping. This instrument will give the exact land bearing of any one of the wireless telegraphic stations, and will enable a steamer which has been caught in a dense fog to exactly locate its position in any given point, and steam ahead at full speed up or down the gulf or river, by being in constant communication with the line of stations on the coast. It is certain that shipping firms will appreciate the value of this invention which Mr. Marconi will give out to the aid of navigation at an early date.

Messages from Canada have recently been sent to England by the old method, but the latter will soon be displaced by the latest system, which Mr. Marconi will instal immediately. The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. is now issuing the new Marconi method for transmitting messages from New York to England, and the first to use the Marconi service was the New York correspondent of The London Times.

Thus, after six years of hard work, and steady but constant progress, Mr. Marconi is now able to say that he has evolved a perfect system of wireless telegraphy.

"The great ambition of my life," he said recently, "is to link together the two great countries of Britain and America by wireless telegraphy," and at an early date, it is hoped, he will see this achieved.

The first Marconi transatlantic wireless message from England to Canada direct has been received, and Mr. Marconi is naturally elated at the ultimate success of his efforts.

Following is the message which was received at Glace Bay, N. S., from Poldhu, Cornwall:

"One hundred strikers cycled into Pretoria to demand the passing of the Arbitration Bill. The Premier refused. The deputation withdrew, repudiating all responsibility of possible bloodshed."

Mr. Marconi, interviewed, said he supposed the people of Canada would like to know whether the establishment of wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic would mean a reduction in the present cable rates. All he could say was that when once the long distance apparatus is working perfectly it will mean that private messages will cost only 10c a word, while I hope to treat the press more leniently by charging 5c a word, and this rate will also cover business messages. There is at least some advantages to be derived from the perfection of my invention.

HINTS FOR THE HAIR.

When there is dryness of the scalp the application of warm olive oil to the head prior to washing is recommended. If possible this should be done twenty-four hours before the hair is shampooed, the oil being both rubbed into the scalp and also allowed to saturate the roots. This has the effect of strengthening it, and in the case of weak and falling hair it will do much to prevent the distressing loss which is so often the effect of shampooing.

The yolk of an egg as a hair wash is an old and tried specific, but many women nowadays believe in adding to it the juice of a lemon, while as many as six or seven yolks are sometimes employed for one shampoo, so as to permit of three or four applications, thus insuring a perfect cleansing. An excellent method of obviating any subsequent stickiness is to add a teaspoonful of cream of tartar to the final rinsing water.

In the case of very fair hair the whites of the eggs are always better than the yolks, which tend to darken it, and these should be used with a little soft soap.

Nothing is simpler or more easily managed than a soft soap made of castile or palm oil. Take a cake of either and cut into small bits. Put into a china basin and add a few tablespoonfuls of hot water. Set the basin in a pan of boiling water and let this stay on the stove until the soap is melted. Sometimes it is necessary to add a little more water to the bits, and one need not be afraid of getting in too much. One cake may easily make a pint of liquid. When the soap has arrived at this condition put it into a wide mouthed glass jar and set away in a cool place. When cool it will be like a jelly.

To Mend Gauze Hose.

In mending stockings use four ply cotton, but with three different sizes of needles. One fine needle is threaded with a single strand of black cotton and is used for the small holes in the thin gauze or lisle thread stockings. This tears the fabric much less than the ordinary large eye darning needle. A second rather large size is used for the larger holes with two strands of the cotton, where the single thread would take too long and not fill in strongly enough.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY, POSSIBLY, BUT NOT FOR WOODSTOCK

The Woodstock Sentinel - Review says:—Nothing has yet been heard of a professional team in this city, and really there will have to be a grand awakening of those interested if a professional team is put on the ice here this winter. That it will come some day seems certain, but the chances this winter are slim, very slim. That there will be a professional league in Ontario is likely, judging from the manner in which some cities wound up last season. It would not be surprising to see a professional league composed of Berlin, Brantford, Toronto, Peterborough and one or two other places.

PORT HOPE AND RETURN IN 14 HOURS

Is Wager Mr. D. Hartley Will Make—A Distance of 60 Miles

Mr. David Hartley, the East City long distance walker, will make a wager to walk to Port Hope and return. The distance is placed at 60 miles there and return, and he states that he can cover it in walking with heel and toe in 14 hours—an average of 4 2-7 miles an hour. If the attempt is made worth while, Mr. Hartley will wager that he can do the 60 miles in the above-mentioned time.

LINDSAY PROPOSE A RUGBY TEAM

Have Good Men But Need Some One to Get Them Out on the Grid

The rugby enthusiasts in Lindsay are endeavouring to get a team under way as a revival of the good old game. They have material, but need an experienced man to manage a fourteen. The Post has the following in reference to a new rugby team':—

"Some time has elapsed since rugby football was played in town. The game, contrary to the belief of some, is a splendid recreation for developing brain and muscle. Material to form a team is plentiful in town, and all that is needed is an active man to back a team. Already challenges have been received from Peterborough and other towns, and if a team were formed some interesting matches could be arranged."

THE KENORA MANAGER IN THE CITY.

Mr. Johnston Looking For Players For The Western Team

Mr. A. Johnston, manager of the Kenora Hockey Club, was in the city yesterday, and it is understood that his visit down this way is for the purpose of securing some players for the West this season. Mr. Johnston, when seen by the Examiner, was very reticent about the team, and, while he intimated that he had secured a number of stars in the hockey world, he would not give the reporter any information as to the identity of the men. Mr. Johnston, however, stated that Kenora would have a team the coming season that would be strong enough to bring the cup back to Kenora. While in Peterborough Mr. Johnston called upon his old friend, Fred. Whitecroft.

RIVERSIDE PARK TO BE LIGHTED

Rugby Club Executive Making Necessary Arrangements

The executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club met last night at the Examiner Office and decided to have lights placed in Riverside Park for practice purposes. Arrangements are being made to have these installed as soon as possible, and will be ready probably by the first of next week. The team will then be able to get down to work to get into shape for the opening of the season.

It is likely that the 200 tickets for the drawing competition for the trousers donated by Mr. Ed. Huff will be ready for sale to-night. Every friend of the team is expected to take one of these and a substantial contribution to the exchequer of the club is expected.

The membership tickets this year will be sold at $1, and you will be given double that value in rugby. Help the team to get a good start by buying a season's ticket giving admittance to all games.

BASEBALL

A local fan sends the following poetic effusion on Saturday's game with Port Hope:—

There was a young man named Fred Hickey,
Our baseball boys found very tricky,
He won all the game,
'Twas a measely shame,
That our boys lost the game, by crickey!

Re-Opening of Cressman's Store Marks the Ninth Anniversary

27,000 SQ. FT. FLOOR SPACE

A Modernized Store of Many Departments — Remodelling Now Nearing Completion After Five Months' Alterations—Some of The Changes

By a peculiar and interesting coincidence, to-morrow, the 20th day of September, and the date set apart for the re-opening of A. W. Cressman's remodelled store, is exactly the ninth anniversary of the opening of Mr. Cressman's first store in Peterborough. Nine years ago to-morrow, this well-known business man for the first time began to satisfy the public, and the degree of success he has met in giving that satisfaction is amply shown by the size and scope of his business at the present time.

It is also a peculiar fact that the area of the floor space now used by Mr. Cressman for the carrying and disposal of the materials he offers for sale is nine times greater than it was at the opening here nine years ago. Since the latest remodelling of the store which embraces the premises recently occupied by Mr. Jno. Nugent to the north, Mr. Cressman has now 27,000 feet of floor space, or nearly three-quarters of an acre. He now employs over 70 hands, while nine years ago he gave employment to only 16. Another evidence of the popularity of the Cressman store is that the assortment of goods in all departments has increased eightfold in that space of time.

Orchestra at Opening

To-morrow evening the newly remodelled store, modern in every particular, will be thrown open to the public. At 12 o'clock at noon the doors will be closed to re-open again at 7, when those attending the event will be ushered in to the strains of the music of an orchestra.

The operations of the changes began in the month of April last, and are now nearing completion. From the present appearance of the store, Mr. Cressman has spared no expense to make it the largest in the city and one of the most modern in every detail.

In the most recent changes, it will be remembered that Mr. Cressman secured the drug premises to the north, to embrace them with those he already possessed. The drug store being shorter than the premises to the south, the western end was torn down and the building extended, to be on a line with that which Mr. Cressman formerly occupied. The store is, therefore, now at a uniform depth of 100 feet, and its breadth is altogether about 63 feet.

A Handsome Front.

In these modern times, one of the requisites to a modern store, in the minds of the public of any city, is an attractive front, and Mr. Cressman has evidently recognized this important feature in the remodelling of the building. Not only has he considered the aesthetic tastes of the public, but he has carefully attended to another important factor—the correct distribution of light throughout the big department.

The front is fitted up with the latest in double plate glass windows, making the display compartments as handsome as possible. Above there is installed a continuous row of Luxifer prisms for the diffusion and correct distribution of the daylight. In the men's furnishing store these are installed at the rear and side, and in the ladies' department they are also at the rear, so that the whole interior is as bright as day.

The three entrances are laid in Mosaic tiling, with the name "Cressman's" written in script in each doorway.

Men's Furnishings

The most striking feature in the store for the men, which is situated to the north, and apart from the large compartment, is the fact that the quality of the goods offered for sale is quite consistent with the quality of the store and fixtures, in which the goods are placed. Mr. A. Temple, under whose capable management, this store is placed, looks entirely after the purchase of all goods in it. In making these purchases he did so with a view of obtaining a class of goods to meet the most exacting requirements of men who are particular about their dress. This "Semi-Ready" store has gained considerably in the re-modelling, and is modern in all details.

The fittings are of the very newest fashion, and those used by all haberdashers who wish to be classed among the most fashionable. Two of the latest wall cabinets, which take the place of silent salesmen, have been installed, and to present the natural appearance of any goods to a man nothing is superior to it.

The underwear goods are kept in dust-proof cabinets, near the floor, the doors of which slide sideways on roller bearings. Just above the cabinets are rows of drawers, which, when pulled out, immediately present to view the various colours and styles in men's neckwear. The pleasing feature of these is that no handling of the ties by the salesman is necessary. They are so arranged that all can be seen by the purchaser at a glance, and if he knows what he wants he may have his tie in a minute. The gloves are similary arranged, according to a size. Above the tie and glove cabinets is a row of sliding panels, which may be pulled out on which to display goods.

Clothing Wardrobes

The clothing wardrobes, which, by the way, are the results of an idea originated by the Semi-Ready, are of great benefit. The cabinets or wardrobes, are so constructed, so as to exclude all dust, and are made with the extension rods, which may be drawn out for display purposes.

Further, towards the rear of the men's store, is the men's boot and shoe department, exclusively filled with the "Foot-rite" shoes. At the extreme rear are alteration rooms and dressing booths of the newest fashion.

Connecting this store with the general department is an arch, to which extends the office, making the latter easily accessible from the two places.

The Large Store

In remodelling the large store, containing several departments, it was found necessary to discard the centre wall on three floors. Supporters with steel beams, and steel pillars, were used, and in fact all the remodelling was done with steel.

The elevator was removed from the centre to the south side. It has been thoroughly overhauled by experts and made modern in every convenience and utility, with a view particularly to safety. It will be inspected regularly every two months by a proper inspector.

Through the centre of the store runs a low fixture and in this large apartment, there are nearly 100 feet of silent salesmen, which at night are handsomely illuminated.

New offices have been installed as well as two parcel desks—for the direct purpose of seeing that no parcels go astray. All the shelving has been deepend and the goods placed on them endwise to permit of more room.

Bargain Annex

On the 4th floor of the store are the Bargain Annex counters which need no introduction to the feminine population of the city and county. Every Wednesday the Annex is opened where all odds and ends and small lines are gathered from every department and taken there for disposal. Two years ago Mr. Cressman opened this to the public and he has never since had an unsuccessful Wednesday. It has grown so that now he has placed it under a responsible buyer. It is not out of the ordinary for his employees to wait on 500 persons in the annex on a Wednesday. On the third floor is the carpet and rug department, the prominence of which is so well known that it needs no introduction here.

Millinery Room

The ladies' ready-to-wear and millinery department is located on the second floor and also the ladies' boot and shoe department. In the front are large bowed windows, fitted with cushioned seats. The millinery room is a very handsome portion of the second floor the supporters as well as the walls are almost wholly covered with mirrors and there is an exclusive millinery fitting room in connection with it.

A "Rest Room" in the centre of the second floor is something novel. It is fitted up with rugs, chairs and surrounded by a railing hung with draperies. The dressmaking rooms are situated to the rear and these are also nicely furnished.

Wash rooms and lavatories both for employees and the customers are constructed on the second floor also.

Generally Speaking

The whole store is now arranged in departments each being placed under a responsible head. Mr. Cressman is arranging for new lines on the ground floor, but these have not yet been definitely decided upon. A new lighting system as well as a new heating system has been installed and and the Cressman store is the only one in the city with the new delivery system. Another delivery wagon has been added this week so that now there are three wagons covering the city from three to four times per day. Another interesting feature about the work just completed is that it has been done solely by Peterborough men. Mr. W. J. Johnston was the contractor and Mr. F. C. Bartlett the architect and their work has been creditably accomplished.

A Last Warning

To-morrow the store will be open from 7 to 10 in the evening when an orchestra will be present and on Saturday afternoon and evening it will again be in attendance.

WAS MARRIED ON HIS DEATH BED TO SWEETHEART OF EIGHT YEARS STANDING

Examiner Special.

New York, September 18. — To have become a bride and a widow all within a few hours, is unusual, but has been the experience of Mrs. Alfred Adler, of this city. Mr. Adler was a wealthy Broadway glove manufacturer. He was taken with typhoid fever on his way back from a trip through the Yellowstone Park, with his fiance, who was Miss Johanna M. D. Hartung, of this city, and a party of friends. On his being taken to Mount Sinai Hospital, Miss Hartung, to whom he had been engaged for eight years, became his nurse. He succumbed to the disease, but before his death he and Miss Hartung were married. The wedding took place at 6.30 o'clock in the morning, and he expired at 10 o'clock. For three nights previous to his death, Miss Hartung did not leave his bedside.

OPENING OF THE NEW ORGAN

An Interesting Musical Event at Omemee When New Pipe Organ Was Opened

(Examiner Special.)

Omemee, Sept. 17. — Farmers are raising their potatoes, which are a fine crop, excepting those having a rot setting in.

Turnips, mangels and other root crops never promised better.

Mrs. and John Tisdall of Peterborough, formerly of this village, spent Sunday here.

Peterborough Fair will attract a great number from here.

The organ recital on Monday evening last, on the occasion of the opening of the new pipe organ in the Methodist Church, a gift of Mrs. J. C. Eaton of Toronto, was a very interesting, profitable and attractive musical and social event. The church was crowded to the doors, the audience being made up of all denominations. The organ was made by the Karn Company of Woodstock, costing about $2,000, and is an up-to-date instrument in every respect. The organist was Mr. E. R. Bowles of Dunn Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, and other contributors were Miss Palen, soprano soloist of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto; Mrs. J. C. Eaton, contralto, Toronto; Mr. Arthur Blight, the famous baritone, Metropolitan Church, Toronto, and the choir. Each number on the programme was well rendered, and the organ is one of the best outside the cities.

The trustees of the church and the presiding minister thanked those taking part, and presented an address to Mrs. Eaton.

The Presbyterian anniversary services are announced for October 20, and will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Abraham of Toronto. Special music is being prepared, and a very interesting time is looked forward to.

The meetings for this year will be held in the usual place, the Y.M.C.A. parlours. Two new members have been added to the list of those included in the membership of the association since the meetings were abandoned for the summer, Rev. E. A. Pearson and Rev. C. H. Coon. They will, no doubt, associate themselves with the organization.

GEORGE ST., PETERBOROUGH

The English Orphans

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Lena Rivers," "The Homestead on the Hill," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

There was no looking-glass in Mary's room, and she stepped before the one in the kitchen while she adjusted her hat, but her courage almost failed her as she saw the queer-looking image reflected by the mirror. She was unusually thin, and it seemed to her that her teeth were never so prominent before. Her eyes always large, now looked unnaturally so, and as she placed what Sal had termed a "teakettle" upon her head, she half-determined not to go. But Sal caught her hand, saying, "Come, child, it's time we were off. They'll all know it's Mrs. Campbell's old bonnet, and will laugh at her for giving it to you."

Billy had not come, but the pleasant-looking woman had succeeded in making friends with Alice, and as Mary passed out of the yard she saw her little sister spatting the window-sill, and apparently well pleased with her new nurse. Scarcely were they out of sight of the house when Sal, seating herself upon a large stone, commenced divesting her feet of her shoes and stockings.

"What are you doing?" asked Mary in great surprise.

"I guess I know better than to wear out my kid slippers when I've got no Willie's father to buy me any more," answered Sal. "I'm going barefoot until I reach the river bridge, and then I shall put them on again."

The shoes and stockings being carefully rolled up in a paper which Sal produced from her pocket, they walked briskly forward and reached the village some time before the first bell rang for church.

"Come down this street, please," said Mary to her companion, who, with slippers readjusted and umbrella hoisted, was mincing along, courtesying to every one she met, and asking them how they did—"Come down this street; I want to see my old home."

Sal readily complied, saying as they drew near the low brown house in which a strange family were now living, "There is nothing very elegant in the architecture of this dwelling."

Mary made no reply. With her head resting upon the garden fence, and one hand clasped around a shrub which Franky had set out, she was sobbing as though her heart would break. Very gently Sal laid her hand on Mary's shoulder, and led her away, saying, "What would I not have given for such a command of tears when Willie's father died. But I could not weep; and my tears all turned to burning coals, which set my brain on fire."

The next time Mary raised her head they were opposite Mrs. Bender's, where Sal declared it her intention to stop. As they were passing up to the side door Billy, who heard their footsteps, came out, and shaking hands with Mary, and trying hard to keep from laughing at the wonderful courtesy which Sal Furbush made him. On entering the house they found Mrs. Bender flat on her back, the pillow pulled out from under her head, and the bedclothes tucked closely up under her chin.

"Mother was so sick I couldn't come," said Billy to Mary, while Sal, walking up to the bedside, asked:

"Is your sickness unto death, my good woman?"

"Oh, I am afeard not," was the feeble response. "Folks with my difficulty suffer for years."

Mary looked inquiringly at Billy, and a smile but little according with his mother's seeming distress parted his lips as he whispered, "She was reading yesterday about a woman that had been bed-ridden with a spinal difficulty, and now she declares that she too 'has got a spine in her back,' though I fancy she would be in a pretty predicament without one. But where did you get that fright of a bonnet?" he continued. "It's like looking down a narrow lane to see your face."

Mary knew that Billy was very observing of dress, and she blushed painfully as she replied that Mrs. Campbell gave it to her.

"Well, she ought to be ashamed," said he, "with all her money to give you a cornbasket of a thing like that. Ella doesn't wear such a one, I can tell you."

Just then the first bell rang, and Sal, who had mischievously recommended a mustard poultice as being the most likely to draw Mrs. Bender's spine to a head, started to go, saying "she wanted to be there in season, so as to see the folks come in."

Accordingly they again set forward, attracting more attention, and causing more remarks, than any two who had passed through Chicopee for a long time. On reaching the church Sal requested the sexton to give her a seat which would command a view of the greater part of the congregation, and he accordingly led them to the furthest extremity of one of the side galleries. Mary had been there at church before, but as she had always sat near the door, she did not know in what part of the building Mrs. Campbell's pew was located. As she leaned over the railing, however, she concluded that the large square one with crimson velvet cushions must be hers.

Ere long the bell began to toll, and soon a lady dressed in deep mourning appeared, and passing up the middle aisle, entered the richly cushioned pew. She was accompanied by a little girl, tastefully dressed in a frock of light blue silk tissue. A handsome French straw hat was set jauntily on one side of her head, and her long curls hung over her white neck and shoulders. Mary knew that this was Ella, and involuntarily starting up, she leaned forward far enough to bring her bonnet directly in sight of some thoughtless girls, who immediately commenced tittering and pointing her out to those near them.

Blushing scarlet, the poor girl sank back into the seat, saying half-aloud, "Oh! I wish I hadn't come."

"What's the matter?" said Sal. "Has somebody laughed at you? I'll warrant there has," and leaning over the railing herself, she shook her fist threateningly at the girls whose eyes were still directed that way.

Mary felt instinctively that her companion was attracting more attention than her bonnet; and twitching her dress bade her sit down. Sal obeyed; but she had no opportunity that morning of deciding whether the sermon were grammatical or not for she was constantly on the lookout, and whenever she saw any one scrutinizing Mary or herself more closely than they ought, a shake of her fist and a horrid face warned them to desist. Twice during church time Mary thought, nay, felt sure, that she caught her sister's eye, but it was quickly withdrawn, as if unwilling to be recognized.

When church was out Sal insisted upon going down immediately; so they descended together to the porch below, reaching it just as Mrs. Campbell appeared in the doorway. Had she chosen, Mary could have touched the lady's dress as she passed; but she rather shrank from being seen, and would probably not have been observed at all, had not Sal planted herself directly in front of Mrs. Campbell, saying loudly enough for all near her to hear, "Madam, do you not recognize your munificent gift of charity in yonder amazing bonnet?" at the same time pointing toward Mary, who nervously grasped the string of her hat, as if to remove the offensive article.

Mrs. Campbell haughtily pushed Sal aside, and advancing toward the child, said, "I am glad to see you at church Mary, and hope you will now come regularly. You can accompany Ella home after the Sabbath school, if you like."

The words and manner were so cold and formal that Mary was obliged to force down her tears before she replied that she was going to her mother's grave, and wanted Ella to go with her.

"It is pretty warm to walk so far, but if Ella wishes it she has my permission. Only tell her not to get red and heated," said Mrs. Campbell; and gathering up the folds of her rich silk, the texture of which Sal Furbush had been examining, and comparing with her own plum-color, she walked away.

Scarcely was she gone when Jenny Lincoln came tripping up, and seizing both Mary's hands, exclaimed, "I am real glad you are here. I thought you hadn't come until I heard them talking about a crazy woman. But let's go to my class and you'll have a chance to see Ella while the scholars are getting their seats."

Mary accompanied her young friend to a pew, at the door of which she met her sister face to face. There was a sudden exclamation of joy on Mary's part and an attempt to throw her arms around Ella's neck, but the little girl drew back, and merely offering her hand, said, "Oh, it's you, isn't it? I didn't know you, you looked so queer."

"Heavens! what a headdress! Big as our carriage top any day!" was the exclamation which reached Mary's ear as Rose Lincoln brushed past. Glancing from her sister to Rose, Mary half-determined to tear the bonnet from her head and trample it under her feet, but Jenny softly squeezed her hand and whispered:

"Don't mind what Rose says; I love you and so does Billy Bender. I saw him in the village yesterday and asked him if he didn't, and he said he did."

It required more than Billy Bender's love to soothe Mary then. Her sister's cool reception, so different from what she had anticipated, had stung her heart; and sitting down near the door she burst into a passionate fit of tears. Jenny, who was really distressed, occasionally pressed her hand in token of sympathy, at the same time offering her cloves, peanuts, and sugarplums. There was a brighter flush, too, than usual, on Ella's cheek, for she knew that she had done wrong, and she so jumbled together the words of her lesson that the teacher made her repeat it twice, asking her what was the matter.

By the time Sabbath school was over Mary had dried her tears; and determining to make one more advance toward her sister, she said, "Won't you go to mother's grave with me? I want to tell you about little Allie. I have taught her to call your name most as plain as I can."

Ella looked down at her embroidered pantalets, and hanging her head on one side, said, "Oh, it's so dusty. I'm afraid I'll get all dirt—and hot, too. Mamma doesn't like to have me get hot."

"Why not?" asked Jenny, who always wished to know the reason of things.

"'Cause it makes folks' skin rough and break out," was Ella's reply.

"Oh, pshaw!" returned Jenny, with a vain attempt to turn up her little bit of a nose. "I play every day till I am 'most roasted, and my skin ain't half as rough as yours. But say, will you go with Mary? for if you don't, I shall!"

"I guess I won't," said Ella, and then, anxious to make Mary feel a little comfortable, she added "Mamma says Mary's coming to see me before long, and then we'll have a real good time. I've lots of pretty things—two silk dresses, and I wear French gaiters like these every day."

Glancing first at Mary, and then at Ella, Jenny replied: "Pho! that's nothing; Mary knows more than you do, anyway. Why, she can say every speck of the multiplication table, and you only know the tens!"

When Ella was angry, or felt annoyed, she generally cried; and now declaring that she knew more than the tens, she began to cry; and announcing her intention of never speaking to Jenny again "as long as she lived and breathed," she walked away, while Mary and Jenny proceeded together toward the burying ground, with a bitter cry Mary threw herself upon her mother's grave, and wept for a long, long time.

"It would not be so bad," said Mary, "if there was anybody left, but I am all alone in the world. Ella does not love me—nobody loves me."

It was in vain that Jenny told her of Billy Bender's love, of her own and Gorge Moreland's, too. Mary only wept the more, wishing that she had died, and Allie too. At last remembering that she had left Sal Furbush behind her, and knowing that it was time for her to go, she arose, and leaning on Jenny, whose arm was passed lovingly about her, she started for Burnt.

Afternoon service had commenced before they reached the church, and as Mary had no desire of again subjecting her bonnet to the ridicule of Rose Lincoln, and as Jenny had much rather stay outdoors in the shade, they sat down upon the steps, wondering where Sal Furbush had taken herself. "I mean to look in and see if she is here," said Jenny, and advancing on tiptoe to the open door, she cast her eye over the people within; then clapping her hand over her mouth to keep back a laugh, she returned to Mary, saying: "Oh, it it isn't the funniest thing in the world. There sits Sal in Mrs. Campbell's pew, fanning herself with that great palm-leaf, and shaking her fist at Ella every time she stirs!"

It seems that Sal had amused herself during the intermission by examining and trying the different pews, and taking a fancy to Mrs. Campbell's, she had snugly ensconced herself in one corner of it, greatly to the fear and mortification of Ella, who chanced to be the only one of the family present. When service was out Sally gathered up her umbrella and courtesying her way through the crowd, soon found Mary and started for home, declaring the clergyman to be a "well-read grammarian, only a trifle too emphatic in his delivery."

As they were descending the long hill which led to the river bridge, Mr. Lincoln's carriage passed them, and Jenny, who was inside, seized the reins, saying, "Please, pa, stop and let them ride—there's nobody but Rose and me in here, and it is so hot and far."

Mr. Lincoln might possibly have complied with his daughter's request, had not Rose chirruped to the spirited horses, and said, "Don't father, for mercy's sake, ask those paupers to ride."

So the carriage dashed on, but Mary forgot the long walk by remembering the glance of affection which Jenny gave her as she looked back from the window. Sal seemed unusually silent, and even forgot to take off her shoes and stockings when she reached the river bridge. Mary saw there was something weighing upon her mind, but she forbore asking any questions, knowing that Sal would in her own good time make her thoughts known. They had nearly reached home, when Sal suddenly turned aside, and seating herself upon a rock under a white beech tree, said, "Miss Howard, I've been thinking what a splendid minister was spoiled when they put dresses on me! Oh! how hard I had to hold myself to-day to keep from extemporizing to the congregation. I reckon there wouldn't have been quite so many nodding as there were."

In the excitement of the moment Sal arose, and throwing out her arms, gesticulating in a manner rather alarming to Mary, who had never before seen so wild a look in the crazy woman's eyes. Soon, however, her mood changed, and resuming her seat, she continued in a milder tone, "Did you ever know that I was an authoress?"

"An authoress!" repeated Mary—"an authoress! Why, no; are you?"

"To be sure I am," answered Sal. 'What's to hinder? Haven't I told you repeatedly that I once possessed an unusually large amount of judgment? and this, added to my knowledge of grammar, and uncommon powers of imagination, enabled me to produce a work which, but for an unaccountable freak of the publisher, would have rendered my name immortal."

"I don't understand," said Mary, and Sally continued:

"You see, I wrote about six hundred pages of foolscap, which the publisher to whom it was sent for examination was impolite enough to return, together with a note, containing, as I suppose, his reasons for rejection; but if he thinks I read it he's mistaken. I merely glanced at the words, Dear madam—We regret—, and then threw it aside. It was a terrible disappointment, and came near turning my brain; but there are other publishing houses in the world, and one of these days I shall astonish mankind. But come, we must hasten on, or the gormandizers will eat up those custard pies which I found in the cellar with the brass kettle covered over them."

Accordingly they started for home, but found, as Sal had predicted, that supper was over and the pies all gone. By a little dexterous management, however, she managed to find half a one, which Miss Grundy had tucked away under an empty candle box for her own future eating.

CHAPTER IX.

The next morning, for a wonder, Jenny Lincoln was up before the sun, and in the large dark closet which adjoined her sleeping-room, she rummaged through bandboxes and on the top shelves until she found and brought to light a straw hat, which was new the fall before, but which her mother had decided unfit to appear again in the city. Jenny had heard the unkind remarks which Mary's odd-looking bonnet elicited, and she now determined to give her this one, though she did not dare to do so without her mother's consent. So after breakfast, when her mother was seated at her work in the parlor, Jenny drew near, making known her request, and asking permission to carry the bonnet to Mary herself.

"Mercy on me!" said Mrs. Lincoln, "what won't you think of next, and where did you get such vulgar taste? It must have been from your father, for I am sure you never took it from me. I dare say, now, you had rather play with that town pauper than with the richest child in Boston."

For a moment Jenny was silent, and then as a new idea came into her head she said, "Ma, if you should die, and pa should die, and everybody should die, and we hadn't any money,

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;

One ounce compound salatone;

Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will assist these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatica, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

wouldn't I have to be a town pauper?"

"What absurd questions you ask," said Mrs. Lincoln, overturning a workbox to find a spool of cotton which lay directly on top. "Do what you please with the bonnet, which I fancy you'll find as much too small for Mary, as the one she now has is too large."

Jenny felt fearful of this, but where there's a will there's a way;" and after considering a moment, she went in quest of her sister, who had one just like it. Rose did not care a fig for the bonnet, and after awhile she agreed to part with it on condition that Jenny would give her a coral bracelet with gold-clasps which she had long coveted. This fanciful little ornament was a birthday present from Billy, and at first Jenny thought that nothing would tempt her to part with it, but as Rose was decided, she finally yielded the point, brushing away a tear as she placed the bracelet in her sister's hand. Then putting the bonnet in a basket, and covering it with a newspaper, she started for the poorhouse.

"Good-morning, Miss Grundy," said she, as she appeared in the doorway. "May I see Mary just a little minute? I've got something for her."

Miss Grundy was crosser than usual this morning on account of a sudden illness which had come upon Patsy, so she jerked her shoulders, and without turning her head, replied, "It's Monday mornin', and Mary ain't goin' to be hindered by big bugs nor nobody else. Here 'tis goin' on nine o'clock and them dishes not done yet! If you want to see her, you can go into the back room where she is."

Nothing damted by this ungracious reception, Jenny advanced toward the "back room," where she found Mary at the "sink," her arms immersed in dishwater, and a formidable pile of plates, platters, and bowls, all ready to be wiped, standing near her. Throwing aside her bonnet and seizing the coarse dish-towel, Jenny exclaimed: "I'm going to wipe dishes, Mary, I know how, and when they are done, if Miss Grundy won't let you go upstairs a minute I'll ask Mr. Parker. I saw him under the woodshed grinding an ax."

It was a rare thing to see Jenny Lincoln in the kitchen at the poorhouse, and now the fact that she was there, and wiping dishes, too, circulated rapidly, bringing to the spot the sour-faced woman, the pleasant-looking woman, the girl with the crooked feet, and half a dozen others, each of whom commented upon the phenomenon after her own fashion.

"Do see the little thing," said one; "handles the wiping rag like anybody!"

"And look there," cried the second; "setting them up in the cupboard! Did you ever!" While a third remarked that she wore silk stockings, wondering whether they were bought on purpose for her, or had been cut over from a pair of her mother's.

Thus noticed and flattered Jenny worked away, assisting in scouring knives and washing spiders, until her dress was splashed with dishwater, and her white apron crocked by the kettles.

"Won't your marm scold you for getting so dirty?" asked the girl with the crooked feet.

"I s'pose so," said Jenny carelessly; "but then she scolds most all the time, so I don't mind it!"

The dishes being done, and Miss Grundy making no objections, Mary accompanied Jenny upstairs, where the latter, opening her basket, held to view a neat-looking straw hat, far prettier than the one which Mrs. Campbell had presented.

"See," said she, placing it upon Mary's head; "this is for you. I wanted to give you mine, but 'twasn't big enough, so Rose let you have hers. It's real becoming, too."

The tears which fell from Mary's eyes were caused not less by Jenny's kindness than by the thought that the haughty Rose Lincoln had given her a bonnet! She did not know of the sacrifice which the noble-hearted Jenny had made to obtain it, and it was well she did not, for it would have spoiled all the happiness she experienced in wearing it.

"Thank you, Jenny, and Rose, too," said she. "I am so glad, for I love to go to church, and I surely would never have gone again and worn that other bonnet."

"I wouldn't either," returned Jenny. "I think it was ridiculous for Mrs. Campbell to give you such an old dud of a thing, and I know mother thinks so too, for she laughed hard for her, when I described it, though she said nothing except that 'beggars shouldn't be choosers.' I wonder what that means. Do you know?"

Mary felt that she was beginning to know, but she did not care to enlighten Jenny, who soon sprang up, saying she must go home, or her mother would be sending Henry after her. "And I don't want him to come here," said she, "for I know you don't like him, and there don't hardly anybody, he's so stuck up and kind of— I don't know what."

In passing through the hall the girls met Miss Grundy, who had just come from Patsy's room. As soon as she saw Mary she said: "Clap on your bonnet quick, and run as fast as ever you can to Mrs. Thornfield's. Dr. Gilbert has come there, and do you tell him to come here right away, for Patsy is dreadful sick, and has fits all the time."

There was a tremor in her voice, and she seemed much excited, which surprised the girls, who fancied she would not care even if Patsy died. Mrs. Thornfield's was soon reached, the message given, and then they hurried back.

"Is Patsy worse?" asked Mary, as she saw the bedroom door open, and two or three women standing near the bed.

Miss Grundy did not answer, and when next her face was visible the girls saw that her eyes were red, as if she had been weeping.

"Funny, isn't it?" said Jenny, as she started for home. "I didn't suppose anything would make her cry, and I guess now the tears are sort of sour!"

Dr. Gilbert came, but his skill could not save the poor idiot girl, and at four that afternoon she died. Around the bed of death there were no tears of lamentations, for those who stood by and watched the lamp of life as it went out felt that the spirit which was leaving them would be happier far in another world, for never in this had a ray of reason shone upon poor Patsy's darkened mind. We have said there were no tears, and yet, although the waters came not to the surface, there was one heart which wept, as with unflinching nerve the cold, stern woman arrayed the dead girl for the grave.

That night Mary was aroused from sleep by some one whispering her name in her ear, and starting up she saw Sally bending over her.

"Come with me," said she softly, "and I'll show you the queerest sight you ever saw."

Trembling in every joint, Mary arose and followed Sal, who led her toward the room where Patsy lay. As she drew near the door they paused, and by the light of the autumn moon, which streamed through the curtained window, Mary saw Miss Grundy kneeling by the cold body, and sobbing bitterly. Once she spoke, and Mary caught the words, "My child, my poor child."

Wonderingly she looked up to Sally for an explanation, but the crazy woman only replied, as they returned to their rooms: "Yes—there's been queer doings some time or other, it's very evident; but I know one thing, I'll never draw her profile again, and I'll call her Mrs. Grundy after this!"

It was hardly worth while, as the neighbors thought, to be at all the trouble and expense of carrying a foolish girl without friends or relatives to the graveyard, so they buried her beneath the shadow of a wide-spreading maple, in a little inclosure where several other unfortunate ones lay sleeping. At the funeral many wondered at the ghastly whiteness of Miss Grundy's face, and why she grasped at the coffin lid, as if to keep from falling, when with others she gazed upon the pale face which, in its dreamless slumber, looked calm and placid as that of a child.

There were but few who knew of Miss Grundy's sin, and her secret was buried in Patsy's grave, where often a mother's form was bending and a mother's tears were shed, when the world was dark and still, and there was no eye to see, save that of Him who said, "Go and sin no more."

CHAPTER X.

One afternoon about the middle of October Mary sat under an apple tree in the orchard, weeping bitterly. It was in vain that Alice, who was with her, and who by this time was able to stand alone, climbed up to her side, patting her cheeks, and trying in various ways to win her attention. She still wept on, unmindful of the sound of rapid footsteps upon the grass, nor until twice repeated did she hear the words, "Why, Mary, what is the matter? What's happened?" Then looking up she saw Billy Bender, who raised her in his arms, and insisted upon knowing what was the matter.

Laying her head on his shoulder, she sobbed out: "She's gone—she's gone, and there's nobody left but Sally. Oh, dear, oh dear!"

"Gone! Who's gone?" asked Billy.

"Jenny," was Mary's reply. "She's gone to Boston, and won't come back till next May; and I loved her so much."

"Oh, yes, I know," returned Billy. "I met them all on their way to the depot; but I wouldn't feel so badly. Jenny will come again, and besides that, I've got some real good news to tell you."

"About Ella?" said Mary.

"No, not about Ella, but about myself; I'm coming here to live with you."

"Coming here to live!" repeated Mary, with astonishment. "What for? Are your folks all dead?"

Billy smiled and answered. "Not quite so bad as that. I went to school here two years ago, and I know I learned more than I ever did at home in two seasons. The boys, when Henry Lincoln is away, don't act half as badly as they do in the village; and then they usually have a lady teacher, because it's cheaper, I suppose, for they don't pay them half as much as they do gentlemen, and I think they are a great deal the best. Anyway, I can learn the most when I go to a woman."

"But what makes you come here, and what will your mother do?" asked Mary.

"She's got a sister come from the west to stay with her, and as I shall go home every Saturday night, she'll get along well enough. I heard Mr. Parker in the store one day inquiring for a boy to do chores. So after consulting mother, I offered my services, and was accepted. Won't we have real nice times going to school together, and then I've brought a plaything for you. Are you afraid of dogs?"

So saying he gave a whistle, and a large Newfoundland dog came bounding through the orchard. At first Mary drew back in alarm, for the dog, though young, was unusually large; but her fears soon vanished when she saw how affectionate he was, licking her own and Alice's hands, and bounding playfully upon his master's shoulders.

"He is a nice fellow," said she, stroking his shaggy sides. "What do you call him?"

"Tasso," answered Billy; and then seeing Mr. Parker at a distance, and wishing to speak to him, he walked away.

Three weeks from that time the winter school commenced, and Billy took up his abode at the poorhouse, greatly to the satisfaction of Sally and Mary, and greatly to the annoyance of Miss Grundy, who, since Patsy's death, was crosser and more faultfinding than ever.

"Smart idea!" said she, "to have that great lummox around to be waited on!" and when she saw how happy his presence seemed to make Mary, she vented her displeasure upon her in various ways, conjuring up all sorts of reasons why she should stay out of school as often as possible, and wondering "what the world was coming to, when young ones hardly out of the cradle begun to court! It wasn't so in her younger days, goodness knew!"

"I wouldn't venture a great many remarks about my younger days, if I were you, Mrs. Grundy," said Sal, who had adhered to her resolution of always addressing her old enemy as Mrs., though she whispered it to Mary as her opinion that the woman didn't fancy her new title.

Much as Mary had learned to prize Sally's friendship before winter was over she had cause to value it still more highly. Wretched and destitute as the poor crazed creature now was, she showed plainly that at some period or other of her life, she had had rare advantages for education, which she now brought into use for Mary's benefit. When Mary first commenced attending school Miss Grundy insisted that she should knit every evening, and thus she found no opportunity for studying at home. One evening when, as usual, a part of the family were assembled around a blazing fire in the kitchen, Sal Furbush suddenly exclaimed, "Mary, why don't you bring your books home at night, just as Mr. Bender does?"

She had conceived a great respect for Billy, and always called him Mr. Mary cast a rueful glance at the coarse sock, which certainly was not growing fast, and replied: "I should like to, but I have to knit all the time."

"Fudge on your everlasting knitting," said Sal, snatching the sock from Mary's hands and making the needles fly nimbly. "I'm going to be very magnanimous, and every time you'll bring books home I'll knit for you—I beg, Mrs. Grundy, that you'll not throw the fire all over the floor," she added, as that lady gave the forestick a violent kick.

"The Lord save us!" was Miss Grundy's exclamation, when after supper the next evening she saw the three-legged stand loaded down with Billy's, and Mary's schoolbooks.

But as no one made her any reply, she quietly resumed her work, appropriating to her own use the only tallow candle there was burning, and leaving Billy and Mary to see as best they could by the firelight. For some time Mary pored over her lesson in Colburn, but coming to the question, "Twenty-four is three-fifths of how many times ten?" she stopped, unable to proceed further. Again and again she read it over, without gathering a single idea, and was on the point of asking Billy to assist her, when Sal, who had been watching her, said, "Let me take your book, child."

Mary did so, and then, as if conscious for the first time of Miss Grundy's monopoly of the candle, Sal seized a large newspaper lying near, and twisting it up, said, "Let there be light;" then thrusting one end of it into the flames and drawing it out again, added, "and there is light."

After tumbling over the leaves awhile she continued, "No, they didn't study this when I was young; but tell me what 'tis that troubles you."

Mary pointed to the problem, and after looking at it attentively a moment Sal said, "The answer to it is four; and if you will give me some little inkling of the manner in which you are taught to explain them at school, perhaps I can tell you about that."

"It begins in this way," said Mary. "If twenty-four is three-fifths of some number, one-fifth of that number must be something or other, I don't know what."

"One-third of twenty-four of course," said Sal.

"Oh, yes, that's it!" exclaimed Mary, who began to understand it herself. "Now I guess I know. You find what one-third of twenty-four is, and if that is one-fifth, five-fifths would be five times that, and then see how many times ten will go in it."

"Exactly so," said Sal. "You'll make an arithmetic yet, and have it out just about the time I do my grammar. But," she added in another tone, "I've concluded to leave out the Grundy gender!"

Each night after this Mary brought home her books, and the rapid improvement which she made in her studies was as much owing to Sally's useful hints and assistance as to her own untiring perseverance. One day when she returned from school Sally saw there was something the matter, for her eyes were red and her cheeks flushed as if with weeping. On inquiring of Billy, she learned that some of the girls had been teasing Mary about her teeth, calling them "tushes," etc.

As it happened one of the paupers was sick, and Dr. Gilbert was at that time in the house; to him Sal immediately went, and after laying the case before him, asked him to extract the offending teeth. Sally was quite a favorite with the doctor, who readily consented, on condition that Mary was willing, which he much doubted, as such teeth came hard.

"Willing or not, she shall have them out. It's all that makes her so homely," said Sal; and going in quest of Mary she led her to the doctor, who asked to look in her mouth.

There was a fierce struggle, a scream, and then one of the teeth was lying upon the floor.

"Stand still," said Sal, more sternly than she had ever before spoken to Mary, who, half-frightened out of her wits, stood still while the other one was extracted.

"There," said Sal, when the operation was finished, "you look a hundred per cent. better."

For a time Mary cried and spit, hardly knowing whether she relished the joke or not; but when Billy praised her improved looks, telling her that "her mouth was real pretty," and when she herself dried her eyes enough to see that it was a great improvement, she felt better, and wondered why she had never thought to have them out before.

Rapidly and pleasantly to Mary that winter passed away, for the presence of Billy was in itself a sufficient reason why she should be happy. He was so affectionate and brother-like in his deportment toward her that she began questioning whether she did not love him as well, if not better, than she did her sister Ella, whom she seldom saw, though she heard that she had a governess from Worcester, and was taking music lessons on a grand piano which had been bought a year before. Occasionally Billy called at Mrs. Campbell's, but Ella seemed shy and unwilling to speak of her sister.

"Why is there this difference?" he thought more than once as he contrasted the situation of the two girls—the one petted, caressed, and surrounded by every luxury, and the other forlorn, desolate, and the inmate of a poorhouse; and then he built castles of a future, when, by the labor of his own head or hands, Mary, too, should be rich and happy.

CHAPTER XI.

As spring advanced Alice began to droop, and Sally's quick eye detected in her infallible signs of decay. But she would not tell it to Mary, whose life now seemed a comparatively happy one. Mr. and Mrs. Parker were kind to her—the pleasant-looking woman and the girl with crooked feet were kind to her. Uncle Peter petted her, and even Miss Grundy had more than once admitted that "she was about as good as young ones would average." Billy, too, had promised to remain and work for Mr. Parker during the summer, intending with the money thus earned to go the next fall and winter to the academy in Wilbraham. Jenny was coming back ere long, and Mary's step was light and buoyant as she tripped singing about the house, unmindful of Miss Grundy's oft-expressed wish that "she would stop that clack," or of the anxious, pitying eyes Sal Furbush bent upon her, as day after day the faithful old creature rocked and tended little Alice.

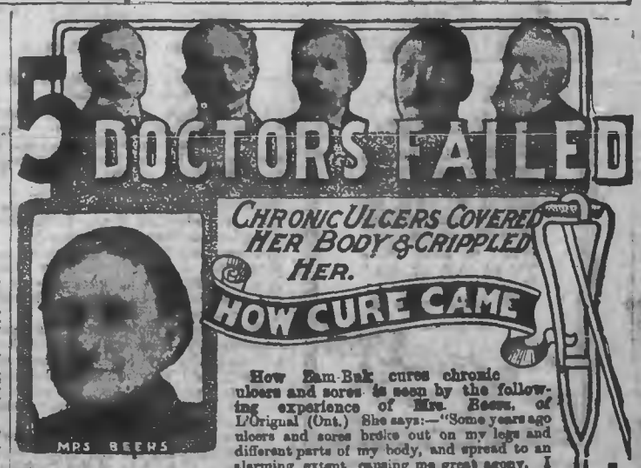
THEY ARE THE BEST



How Zam-Buk cures chronic ulcers and sores is seen by the following experience of Mrs. Beers, of L'Orignal (Ont.) She says:—"Some years ago ulcers and sores broke out on my legs and different parts of my body, and spread to an alarming extent, causing me great agony. I began to try salves, oils and medicines of various kinds, but the sores refused to heal. I then consulted a medical man, who treated me for some time, but the ulceration continued just as bad as ever. Another medical man was consulted, then another and one after another until I had tried five different Doctors. All gave me up in despair. The ulceration and the skin disease were getting worse all the time, so I then went into the Hospital. I was there five months, and came away very little better. I next went to another Hospital, and stayed there three months, —again with no success. By this time my legs were covered with sores, my bones seemed all picked out with ulcers, and I could not walk without the use of a cane and a crutch. I was in such a shocking condition that I was longing for death.

"I saw a report of the value of Zam-Buk and I obtained a small supply. This did me so much good that I went to Ottawa and bought a further supply. A few weeks trial of this wonderful balm healed the ulcers, removed the sores, and I am to-day completely cured.

"For many years I was obliged to use a cane and crutch to walk. Now I have thrown both cane and crutch away, and feel as well and vigorous as at the age of 30."

Do You Suffer from Any of These?

Zam-Buk heals all skin diseases—eczema, scaly sores, ulcers, ringworms, poisoned wounds, barber's rash, pustules, face blemishes due to blood poison, rheumatism and neuralgia. Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable Minister of Public Works, for two thousand five hundred dollars, ($2,500.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering declines the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

WORKMAN WAS MISTAKEN.

Steel Plate In Quebec Bridge Was Not Cracked as Stated.

Quebec, Sept. 19.—Yesterday Raoul Lafrance, one of the witnesses heard by the commission on the collapse of the Quebec bridge, located pursuant to instructions at the scene of the wreck the steel plate, which he declared was cracked before the disaster. Upon examination it was found that the plate contained no crack at all. Nor was any to be found upon the shoe plate, which had been described by some witnesses as cracked prior to the disaster and by others as having been crimped.

While these facts assist the commissioners to clear up a good deal of the contradictory evidence, they apparently add very much to the difficulty of the task before the commissioners of ascertaining the actual cause of the disaster.

Yesterday the commissioners visited the storage yard for the bridge steel at Belair on the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, some nine miles from Cape Rouge. Here they found nine thousand tons of steel from the works at Phoenixville intended for the north or Quebec end of the bridge and for that portion of it known as the anchor arm. The material for the cantilever arm of that side has not yet been delivered.

The commissioners also visited and inspected the portion of the structure already erected at Cape Rouge on the north side, where the disaster occurred, and as the material at Belair is also identical with that in the wrecked anchor arm the commissioners believe that they have succeeded in putting in a very useful day's work of inspection.

Have Closed Relief Fund.

Quebec, Sept. 19.—For relief of the victims of the Quebec bridge disaster $11,569 was collected. The fund has served the immediate needs of the situation and has been closed.

WERE THEY ANARCHISTS?

Armed Men Carrying Nitro-Glycerine Arrested at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 19.—Chief Mains and Officers Kelly and Greenwood of the Ontario police force made an important arrest yesterday.

Three men, named William Pasqua of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and "Harding" of Toledo and a third man, name unknown, were standing at the southwest corner of the depot.

The chief drew his gun on Pasquay and threatened to shoot and made him stop and arrested him. The unknown, who got a good start, made his escape. The two men arrested held tickets for Hagersville.

Harding had in his possession an eight-ounce bottle of nitro-glycerine, while Pasquay had a cake of soap to do the loading of the nitro-glycerine in safe combinations.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

OFFICER SHOOTS HEIRESS.

Attempted Murder of Young Girl Through Jealousy.

New York, Sept. 19.—Miss Draga Zeigel, the 20-year-old daughter of Col. Zeigel of the Austrian army, was in Bellevue Hospital yesterday with three bullets in her body, and Julius Hoffman, a former lieutenant in the Austrian army, is under arrest, charged with shooting the girl, for whom he left his wife. Miss Zeigel is an heiress to $100,000, which was to come into her possession within a year.

Hoffman tried to end his own life, but was prevented by the girl, whom he had already fatally injured. Jealousy prompted the shooting.

Hoffman told the police that he often met the girl and was jealous of her because of the attentions of another man.

Miss Zeigel refused to identify him as the man who shot her. As Hoffman was being led away she feebly cried that she still loved him. Hoffman has confessed to the police.

DENOUNCE LEMIEUX BILL.

Railway Men Oppose It at Trades Congress.

Winnipeg, Sept. 19.—The Lemieux bill was the principal question before the Trades Congress yesterday, some of the delegates, particularly railway men, opposed it bitterly, but the general feeling seemed to be to give it a trial.

Solicitor O'Donoghue strongly defended it as in the best interests of labor. He presented his report and in a three-hour speech reviewed the labor legislation of the year.

That congress is not through with the Oriental question is shown by the fact that a resolution was presented by Pettypiece of Victoria yesterday, calling upon the Dominion Government to take steps to shut out the Hindoos.

The question will come before congress to-day.

PRIEST A DEFAULTER?

Alleged to Have Obtained $50,000 From Members of His Flock.

Detroit, Sept. 19.—That Rev. Father Charles Grunenwald obtained $13,000 from Mrs. Christian Wagner, and is a defaulter to the extent, perhaps, of $50,000, is the charge made against the pastor of St. Mary's Church of this city.

The facts came out yesterday when a suit was entered to have a guardian appointed for Mrs. Wagner, who is a widow. Father Grunenwald is known in some of the German Catholic churches of Western Ontario, where he is said to have been a popular occasional visitor.

No Abrogation of Treaty.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—The request of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress for the abrogation of the treaty between Canada and Japan has not yet been transmitted to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but when it is there can be but one answer.

The desire of the Dominion Cabinet is for an understanding not only with Japan, but with India, too, which will prevent the flooding of the labor market in British Columbia with Japanese or Hindoos.

There is good ground for believing that through the exercise of a little patience this object will be shortly accomplished.

FOR PUBLIC BENEFIT.

Lord Brassey Advocates Policy of State-Owned Railroads.

Liverpool, Sept. 19.—Presiding at a meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce here yesterday, Lord Brassey appeared in a new relation, that of an advocate of the state ownership of railroads.

He referred to the growing demand that the railroads should be managed solely in the interests of the public service and not for the benefit of the shareholders, and declared that if a change of policy was seriously proposed there could hardly be a doubt that it would receive the support of Parliament.

In continental Europe, he added, where the railroads were the property of the state, the requirements of the public were fully considered and the results to the treasury were satisfactory, while in Great Britain competition was carried to excess, an immense amount of capital was wasted, shippers were dissatisfied with the burdensome rates and the employes were discontented with their wages and hours of labor.

NEEDS IMPERIAL HELP.

Newfoundland Would Otherwise Be at Mercy of United States.

London, Sept. 19.—(C. A. P.)—Where, indeed, asks The Manchester Guardian, would Newfoundland stand in any negotiations with the United States which she conducted as an independent self-supported state instead of as a colony of the Empire?

She would stand pretty much where Venezuela or Columbia stands—at the mercy of Washington. The difference between that and her present position is one Bond should not forget. It is due to a very tangible "Imperial contribution" made at no small cost and risk by the people of this island.

Caused a Collision.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—In his decision on the Prescott-Havana collision on July 2, Commander Spain censures Capt. Dunlop of the Prescott and J. K. Naal, inspector of hulls.

The evidence showed that the signal wires of the Prescott were out of order and she was not provided with a speaking tube to the engine-room.

309 Assassinations.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—The police statistics for the month of August record the carrying out of 31 sentences of death, the assassination of 309 persons, of whom 107 were Government officials and 202 were citizens, and the wounding of 175 people in various encounters.

More Japanese Coolies.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 19.—The steamer Indiana, chartered by emigration agencies in Honolulu, passed through quarantine yesterday afternoon, bound for Vancouver with 250 Japanese coolies on board.

ADMITTED NEGLIGENCE.

G. T. R. Engineer Found Guilty of Causing Gourock Wreck.

Guelph, Sept. 19.—Engineer Mark Reid, who was concerned in the wreck at Gourock a year ago, was found guilty by the jury of negligence and will receive sentence to-day.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting a jury to sit on the case, but after a dozen jurors had been challenged the requisite number were finally secured. Very little evidence was taken at the first sitting, the witnesses being Conductor John Hunt of the mixed train which figured in the collision; Lorne Palmer, and Night Operator Aylesworth of Guelph Junction.

The evidence of Reid himself told in part the story of the trip until the accident occurred. He admitted that he should have kept clear of No. 44 by five minutes, but he did not consider himself to blame for running into Hespeler, although he admitted that it was his duty to side there.

New Bodyguard For Czar.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—For the further protection of his own person, Emperor Nicholas has ordered the creation of a new regiment of life guards, composed of specially selected officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers, drawn from regiments throughout the entire Russian army, on the personal recommendation of the commanders of the various corps.

France Will Withdraw.

Paris, Sept. 19.—If the peace negotiations at Casablanca are successful, France intends to prove her loyal respect for the terms of the Algeciras convention, by immediately repatriating the main portion of the troops, leaving only a sufficient force at Casablanca to insure, in conjunction with the Spanish troops, the policing of the city.

Four More Cardinals.

Rome, Sept. 19.—The next Papal Consistory will be held in the middle of November or the middle of December. It is not believed that any foreign cardinals will be created, but the names of four Italians have already been decided upon for elevation to the cardinalate.

Fell Downstairs; May Die.

Hamilton, Sept. 19.—Ardon Lane, while walking downstairs at home, missed his footing and fell to the bottom, striking his head against the wall. His skull is fractured. He will likely die.

Madman Kills Wife.

New York, Sept. 19.—Following his discharge as sane from the psychopathic ward at Bellevue Hospital, Frank Moulton, 43 years old, once a prosperous real estate promoter, murderously assaulted his wife, Della, aged 23, and frightfully injured himself.

When she had fallen fast asleep he beat her with a hammer and slashed her with a razor, with which he also cut himself.

Charged With Cattle Stealing.

Ingersoll, Sept. 19.—Frederick Hopkins, arrested here for the Brampton authorities, was taken to that town yesterday afternoon by High Constable Broddy. Hopkins is charged with the theft of two cattle belonging to John Wilson, a Dereham farmer.

Abductor Sentenced.

Chatham, Sept. 19.—Raymond Toulouse, of Big Point, a married man, who was accused of running away with 14-year-old Maggie Bellaire of Chatham, was sentenced to one year in Central Prison by Judge Houston yesterday.

Sign Arbitration Treaty.

The Hague, Sept. 19.—The general treaty of arbitration negotiated here by the delegates of Italy and Argentina to the Peace Conference, was signed in the Hall of Knights here yesterday by the delegations of the two countries.

Dr. Workman's Orthodoxy.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—A new stage has been reached in the enquiry into the orthodoxy of Prof. Workman of the Wesleyan Theological College. Prof. Workman has presented to the college board a statement of his theological position, which will be considered at a meeting in October.

Dr. Workman, who was formerly on the staff of Victoria College, Toronto, holds views on Messianic prophecy and Old Testament interpretation to which strong exception is taken in certain quarters in the Methodist Church.

The Government Says

—"Pay 24c. a gallon extra if you drink imported beer."

You don't get any better beer, remember.

The brewers, themselves, can only say that the lager they ship to Canada is "just the same" as the lager sold in the States.

In Canada, the same lager sells for 20c. and 25c. a bottle.

YOU pay the difference.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" Lager

is brewed right here in Canada. There is no duty to pay on it. That's why it costs only as much here at home, as imported beers cost at their home.

To Herald the Coming of the Two Shoe Prizes of the World

Dolly Varden Shoe

For Women

In the shoes which we intend handling in future we have had the good fortune to find the ideal combination so ardently sought by the earnest shoe dealer.

This is the shoe ideal :

Parisian Elegance.
American Finish.
British Comfort.
Canadian Sturdiness.

Without the latter quality to withstand the wear of the Canadian weather conditions, our ideals would not permit that real test of worth — the maker's name and the maker's price stamped on each shoe.

Foot-Rite Shoe

For Men

That this shall be the high-class shoe store of this city is our purpose in securing the exclusive agency for the two finest shoes made in the world.

The advanced cost of leather makes it imperative on the part of both the dealer and his customer to insist that the maker's name shall be stamped on the shoe as an evidence of the faith that is in it.

Good Leather—true leather and genuine material within the hidden parts of the shoe, and the maker can stamp the name, and the price he makes must be the actual worth price

The Dolly Varden for dainty women is the standard by which all other fine shoes must be judged. With fourteen new features the Dolly Varden presents in one shoe all the desirable and attractive qualities which appeal to ladies. It is sold at $4 to $5—the same price in Canada as in the United States. This is the Shoe for which we make way—giving a store clearance of all shoes not worthy to be on the same shelves.

We can safely make the claim for the Foot-Rite Shoe that its 20 improvements are 20 arguments in its favor.

It is not a fad shoe—but is sensible, attractive and stylish, with the added advantage of having been made in the shoe factory which is the best exponent of the famous Goodyear Welt system of making shoes—the tireless, perfect system which finally vanquished the custom bootshop.

There are styles, shapes and sizes to fit all manner of feet, and fit them so perfectly that walking exercise will be one joyous march of Napoleonic activity.

There will always be a glad welcome for the customer who comes frankly to see our shoes — whether it be to buy or but to see them.

Because we believe in these shoes—because we know their parentage and their every excellence we intend to give them the foremost place in our store.

There are to-day 27 Foot-rite shoe stores and exclusive agencies in Canada, and their success has been without parallel in the history of the shoe trade. Applications are being made every day to the Canadian head offiices of the Foot-rite Shoe Company, in Montreal, for exclusive franchise.

Foot-rite Shoes are sold at $4, $5 and $6 the same prices in Canada as in the United States.

There will always be a glad welcome for the customer who comes frankly to see our shoes—whether it be to buy or but to see them.

MURDERS TWO BOYS IN THE WOODS

Terrible Sequel to Day's Hunting Near Woodstock.

SHOOTS HIS COMPANIONS

Lads Had Heated Dispute as to Right of Way—Oscar Downing Was Approaching Guy Tardis When Latter Fired His Gun and Killed Him — Then Shot Downing's Brother While Running Away.

Woodstock, N. B., Sept. 19.—Two boys, Guy and Oscar Downing, brothers, were shot in the woods near here Tuesday by Guy Tardis, who was hunting with his cousin, Fred Tardis. The parties met in the woods and a dispute arose over the right of each party to hunt there.

Guy Downing stood his rifle against the fence and ordered Fred Tardis to do the same. He then seized Tardis by the collar.

Oscar Downing started toward Guy Tardis, who fired his gun, the bullet piercing Downing's lung and coming out at the shoulder blade. He dropped dead.

Guy Downing started to run, but Guy Tardis fired at him, striking him on the top of the head, the bullet plowing its way through the brain and killing him instantly.

The Tardis boys were arrested. The boys were all about 17 and sons of respectable and prosperous farmers.

Engineer Hodge and Conductor Grimes Face Serious Accusation—Released on $4,000 Bail—Will Be Formally Charged With Manslaughter—Remanded Until Saturday—C. P. R. Exonerates Grimes.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—George Hodge and Matthew Grimes, engineer and conductor of the C. P. R. train wrecked at the Horseshoe Curve, for whose arrests warrants were issued by Chief Coroner A. J. Johnson, at the close of the inquest at the City Hall Tuesday night, gave themselves into custody at an arranged court held by Magistrate Ellis at Toronto Junction last night.

Chief Flint of the Junction police served the coroner's warrants, as the men entered the court room. These warrants placed them in legal custody upon the finding of the jury, which charges criminal negligence resulting in death.

Each was admitted to bail in his own and one other surety of $2,000 each, by consent of Crown Attorney Corley, under arrangement with the Attorney-General's Department, made yesterday afternoon.

The men were remanded till Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, and on appearing there T. C. Robinette, K.C., attorney for the accused, says that they will waive examination and consent to be bound over to stand their trial before Justice Magee at the fall Assizes at Brampton, which opens Nov. 11.

Before the men can be committed for trial a formal charge must be laid. The charge will be manslaughter.

Grimes was exonerated by the C. P. R.'s own investigation and has been back on the road again.

Attorney-General Foy has ordered several indictments to be preferred at the Whitby Assizes, commencing on the 23rd inst., by Frank Arnoldi, K. C., who is to conduct the crown business there against several officials of the C. P. R., for breach of duty under sections of the criminal code applicable. The whole circumstances and the responsibility for the Myrtle accident last April, in which two men's lives were sacrificed and numerous lives endangered, will be sifted.

Illness, Worry, Suicide.

Woodstock, Sept. 19.—Catherine Sarah Howell, aged 54 years, the wife of George H. Treffey, who lives two miles east of Hawtry, committed suicide by swallowing the contents of a four-ounce bottle of carbolic acid. The rash deed was the result of worry, as the deceased's husband had been ill for a long time. An inquest is deemed unnecessary.

Boy Injured In Runaway.

London, Ont., Sept. 19.—Tuesday evening Robert Henderson, aged 14, was driving from his home in the city to Westminster, when his horse was frightened by an automobile, and ran away.

Henderson was thrown out and got entangled in the reins and was dragged 30 yards, sustaining a fracture of the leg.

THE WIARTON RIOTERS SENTENCED

Lancasters of Wiarton Go to Prison For Eight Months.

AGNES THOMAS ACQUITTED

Chief Justice Mulock Metes Out Stiff Punishment to Raiders—Said Their Action Was Illegal and Unmanly—Woman Bursts Into Tears on Hearing Verdict — The Sentence Regarded as Too Severe.

Walkerton, Sept. 19—Agnes Thomas, who shot Philip Gilbert in the Wiarton riot, is free. The jury, after being out an hour, found her not guilty of manslaughter, and she took the first train to London.

Mrs. Thomas burst into tears when the verdict was announced.

Chief Justice Mulock expressed the hope that the tragic nature of the incident would cause her to lead a better life.

John Lancaster, William Lancaster and Walter Lancaster, charged with unlawful assembly and rioting, and who pleaded guilty, were each sentenced to eight months in the common jail.

In addressing the prisoners the judge referred to the seriousness of the offence.

He styled the attack on the two women as not only illegal, but unmanly.

The sentence of the Wiarton men was a source of much surprise. Nothing of the kind had been anticipated. The prisoners themselves seemed almost stunned by his lordship's decision.

After hearing Chief Justice Mulock's charge, the jury retired at 10.30.

"It is commonly said," remarked his lordship, "that a man's house is his castle and that he may kill persons entering forcibly without his permission, but that is altogether too broad an interpretation of the law. No man is justified in shooting another unless he fully believes his life or the life of some inmate of his house to be in danger. If Mrs. Thomas had reasonable grounds to fear bodily harm at the hands of her assailants, her case should not be prejudiced by the manner of woman she was. The fact that she was there for immoral purposes has nothing to do with the case except as affecting the credibility of the witness."

Mr. McKay, counsel for Mrs. Thomas, objected to his lordship's charge, holding that the law did justify Mrs. Thomas in shooting persons forcibly entering her home, even though she did not fear personal injury. His lordship overruled the objection, however.

Wiarton Sends Deputation.

The case as relating to the three Lancasters, who pleaded guilty to the charge of rioting, took another unexpected turn yesterday morning, when a deputation from Wiarton, composed of Mayor McEwen, Rev. Mr. Smythe, Methodist minister; James Walmsley, George Dawson, foreman of the Dominion Fish Co., and several others waited on Chief Justice Mulock and asked that he be as lenient as possible with the prisoners. Every member of the deputation certified to the good character of the prisoners. Rev. Mr. Smythe was asked by the chief justice to state how lenient he thought he should be. After some hesitation, the minister suggested that the prisoners should be let off on suspended sentence. His lordship promised consideration.

Sentence Regarded Severe.

Walkerton, Sept. 19.—The sentence meted out to the three Lancaster brothers for the part they took in the rioting on the night when Philip Gilbert forfeited his life at the hands of Mrs. Thomas, for attempting to destroy her home, which consisted of a tent, has caused much dissatisfaction and adverse comment here on British justice.

Thrown Off Load of Wood.

Kingston, Sept. 19.—W. L. Allan, a coal and wood merchant of Wolfe Island, met with a serious accident yesterday. He had delivered a load of wood to the summer cottage of G. E. Hague, manager of the Merchant's Bank of this city, and was returning with Mrs. Hague in the wagon to Marysville.

Suddenly the horses balked going down hill and threw Mr. Allan out. He alighted on his head, sustaining a scalp fracture. He was carried unconscious and bleeding freely to his home, and it will be several days before it is known whether he will recover.

Mrs. Hague escaped without serious injury.

"Sherlock Holmes" Married.

London, Sept. 19.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Miss Jean Leckie were married in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, yesterday. The ceremony was quiet and the name of the church at which it was performed was kept secret in order to avoid the presence of a crowd of persons who otherwise would have flocked to see the wedding of the author of "Sherlock Holmes."

Sir Arthur is 48 years old and was regarded as a confirmed bachelor. Miss Leckie lived with her parents at Blackheath.

Troops Clash With Rioters.

Rome, Sept. 19.—Agrarian troubles have broken out again in Southern Italy. The troops present are insufficient to cope with the rioters, who already have done much damage to property.

There have been frequent conflicts among the strikers, the non-strikers and the troops, in which the soldiers have used their bayonets freely.

German Balloon Wins.

Brussels, Sept. 19.—The long distance prize in the international balloon race has been won by the German balloon Pommarn, piloted by Herr Erbalob. The Pommarn came down at Bayonne, France, 631 miles from Brussels.

The Swiss balloon Coona, and the English balloon Zephyr probably will tie for second place. All the balloons have been accounted ...

FREIGHT TRAINS COLLIDE.

Brakeman Killed and Fireman Severely Injured at Vaudreuil.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—One brakeman was killed and a fireman badly injured in a rear-end collision near Vaudreuil station at 9.30 o'clock last night, in which three freight trains were mixed up, six or seven cars damaged and one knocked into the river off the Vaudreuil bridge.

That the loss of life was not greater is due to the fact that the train which caused the collision was not going fast, and her engine did not leave the track.

The dead man is Brakeman Robertson of freight train No. 893, which was moving east up to Vaudreuil station, and dashed into the rear of No. 1,363, which had stopped on the bridge and was just starting up again. At the same time No. 95, the fast Toronto freight, was stationary on the adjoining track, having stopped for a hot-box. None of the cars attached to engine No. 893 left the track after colliding with the freight train ahead, but four or five cars of the latter train were derailed and knocked against No. 95 on the adjoining track, causing one car attached to the latter train to be knocked into the river. Robertson, the brakeman, who succumbed to his injuries, had both legs severed, and died before he could be brought to Montreal on a C. P. R. train.

Fireman William Meier of Montreal was caught between two cars, but is not thought to be fatally injured.

Half-Drunken Man Killed.

London, Ont., Sept. 19.—An unknown stranger, in a semi-intoxicated condition, met with fatal injuries here yesterday by falling down a flight of steps in the Bank of Toronto building. He suffered concussion of the brain, and doctors say he will die.

Fatal Accident at Stratford.

Stratford, Sept. 19.—J. J. Hamilton, a G. T. R. foreman, met very sudden death yesterday afternoon in the yard of the G. T. R. shops here. While stepping on the front of slowly moving engine, he fell and the front wheels passed over him.

COAL UP

Fuel Must be Bought Now To Save Money

THE PRICE WILL INCREASE

Eight Dollar Coal Possibility of the Near Future---Some of The Reasons For The Jump in Price

Eight dollar coal is a possibility of the not distant future. A dealer in that necessary commodity today discussed the question of coal prices in Peterborough this season, and, while he was not prepared to say that the price would actually go that high, he admitted that there was no doubt that coal was bound to be higher in the near future.

A Gradual Increase

Each month during the last few months coal has been increased a few cents each month, but it is anticipated that it will not be long before a substantial further increase is made.

The Causes

The causes that have contributed to this increase are various, dealers explain. In the first place, the cost to the shipper, owing to the scortage of labour bringing about a reduction in the output, has been considerably increased. There have also been reasons of a more local character that have contributed to the bringing about of the same result. The local dealer has been finding that it is costing him more to handle his coal than it did formerly. Hay is now $20 a ton, compared with $12 last year. Other feed stuffs have also increased in cost, and wages have gone up as well.

Of late years it has become more and more the custom to have coal delivered in bags, and the increased cost of delivery to the dealer has become a factor to be considered.

IMMORAL MINDS THINK OF IMMORAL THINGS

So Says Local Doctor, an Observer of Human Nature

"When a man's mind is centred upon some particular thing," remarked a well-known doctor, and an observer of human nature, to the Examiner this morning, "you will find that his character is greatly dependent upon the nature of that." To substantiate and explain his assertion, he told a true story, as medical men are liable to do, about a case which happened in Peterborough within the past ten days.

A citizen, he stated, walked into his office over a week ago, who, for about fifteen years past, was a heavy consumer of intoxicating liquor. The conversation in the office drifted to the liquor question in its various phases, during which time the visitor explained how long it had been since he had taken a drink.

On rising to leave, the man, in a humourous stram, walked to the door imitating a drunken man.

"I'll bet $100 to 100 cents that that man will be drunk inside of a week," the doctor had remarked to a friend who listered to the conversation. This was considered impossible by the latter, but nevertheless he did get intoxicated, and is intoxicated yet.

"His mind was in it," he said, "and that was a good indication that he would again go back to drink."

The doctor's remarks were due to a conversation about the alleged immoral posters, the subject of which was introduced recently by a minister in Peterborough.

The Fall Millinery Claims Ladies' Attention To-Day

Openings in the Headwear Department of City's Stores Attractions —Some Features of the Fall Openings

BROWNS TO DOMINATE

The weather for the millinery openings, which, in the majority of the city stores, are being held to-day, is propitious, and, as a consequence, the millinery departments are being thronged with lady shoppers, who are going into estacies over the new styles which are being shown in ladies" headwear this year.

There are many novelties, both in shape and colour for the fall season, the dominating colour being brown, and it is seen in nearly everything that the ladies will wear this fall.

In ladies hats the majority will be large shapes, though for those who object to the extra large headwear which will dominate, some pretty, smaller creations are shown. Plumes will be largely used for trimmings.

THE WORK IS COMMENCED ON THE NEW BANK OF OTTAWA OFFICES

Expansion is apparently the motto of the financial institutions of the city.

This morning work was commenced on the extension to the offices of the Bank of Ottawa, which when completed will embrace not only that at present occupied, but the store to the north, formerly occupied by the late Mr. P. Simons. The new portion will be fitted in the same style as the present office and the wall between the two will be removed, making one large suite of offices. It is understood that an additional teller's box will be given, and the extra room afforded by the enlargement will be occupied by the staff, which at present, even is too large for the accommodation in the office now being used.

Ground Hog Burrows Into Cellar at Anglers' Cottage

Obtained Good Supply of Eatables That Anglers Had Left Behind From Preceding Saturday

WILL BUILD NEW CELLAR

A ground hog at the C. G. E. Anglers" Cottage has the temporary cellar that was built for storing provisions, all to itself, and the supply of food will hold out for Mr. Woodchuck for some time. Some of the food taken down a week ago Saturday was supposed to be good the following Saturday, and of a kind that would keep in good condition for a week at least. When the Anglers went down last Saturday they found the food all covered with earth, a ground hog having covered it during the week. He also made a hole from the outside underneath the cottage, and extending from below up into the cellar, and thus reaching the food which it had confiscated.

Fortunately the men were not altogether depending on it for their meals, having brought plenty with them to do until Monday.

The ground hog, however, settled one thing, and that was that a good cellar is needed at the cottage, and the men have decided to build one to suit their needs, and cement the walls and floor.

Mother Steals Her Son Away From the Shelter

Mrs. Schwartz, Victoria Avenue, Takes Him Home, But He is brought Back Again

BOY LIKES THE SHELTER

The Children's Shelter yesterday lost one of its occupants for a brief space of time. Little Freddy Schwartz who was sent there by Magistrate Dumble some weeks ago was stolen away by his mother and taken home. Mrs. Schwartz is stated to have stealthily watched the Shelter until her son arrived home from school and hurriedly disappeared with him to her home on Victoria avenue.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, accompanied by P. C. Meharry went after him last night and it was only after a good deal of remonstrating that the mother allowed the youth to go.

Young Schwartz is only about 11 years of age. He likes living at the Shelter and is getting along well there under Mr. Henry's care.

Good boy wanted at Examiner Office.

MEETING OF THE COUNTY POST MASTERS IN THE CITY TO-DAY ; THE GENERAL SECRETARY HERE

Recent Schedule of Salaries Being Discussed by the Post Masters

TALK ON PRACTICAL WORK

A County Organization May Be Formed---Mr. Ira Stratton Here From Manitoba

An important meeting of the postmasters of Peterborough county is being held in the National Hotel this afternoon, which is presided over by Mr. Ira Stratton, general secretary of the Postmasters' Association for the Dominion of Canada. Mr. Stratton comes from Stonewall, Man., and is editor of the Stonewall Argos, as well as editor of the Postal Current, a paper published in the interests of the postmasters.

The meeting this afternoon will deal principally with the recently arranged schedule for salaries for the postmasters in the rural districts, which Mr. Stratton regards as not being sufficient to meet the circumstances. It was a step in the right direction, he informed the Examiner, and his position was to show the public that the services of the postoffice men deserved something more. The salary schedule will, therefore, be the important question before the county postmasters this afternoon at their meeting.

Another proposition to be considered this afternoon will be that of the formation of a County Postmasters' Association for the benefit of the postmasters in Peterborough county, with a view to a more concerted action. Mr. Stratton has had considerable to do with such organizations, and if one is formed he will be of great assistance to the county men in the formation. Besides these two questions, discussions will be held on practical postoffice work.

On September 3, the annual meeting of the Ontario Postmasters' Association was held in Toronto, which Mr. Stratton attended. He intimated that the conference there was of a most beneficial character towards the postmasters, and some good work, he said, had been accomplished.

HOW CITIZENS MAY FACILITATE WORK OF DELIVERING THEIR MAIL MATTER

In order to aid the letter carriers in the work, and incidentally benefit themselves and contribute to earlier delivery, citizens are urged to provide that their correspondence shall be addressed to their street number, and to provide receptacles — boxes inside their front doors to be reached from the outside. In some cities the slot in the door is only used, the mail matter falling upon the hall floor. There are three points to be observed: Have your friends or others address correspondence to the street number. See that the street number is in a conspicuous place, or if there is no number, see that one is supplied. Provide letter boxes inside your door or at least an opening in the door, and lastly, have patience; at first it will take a little time to get the new system in smooth working order.

Captain Wilbert Harris Meets With Serious Mishap

At the Wharf at Hale's Bridge Last Night When Steamer Monarch Was Steaming in for a Scow

A POPULAR BOATSMAN

As the steamer Monarch was drawing near the new wharf at Hales Bridge at an early hour this morning for the purpose of taking in tow a scow that was moored there, Captain Wilbert Harris met with an accident which might have resulted more seriously than was actually the case. Mr. Harris was standing out on the side of the steamer near the bow ready to jump on board the scow. When near enough, suddenly the Monarch swung in, when it was close to the scow, and Mr. Harris was severely squeesed and as the steamer continued to move he was rolled between the scow and boat three or four times.

The engineer heard someone moan "Oh-h" a couple of times but thought it was some one on the wharf intoxicated. However, when he heard his own name called he sprang out on the side and found Mr. Harris badly shaken up as a result of his experience. Beads of sweat were on his forehead, his face was blanched and his body was cold all over, showing that he had met with no slight accident.

He was carried to the cabin and with a stimulant was brought around and this morning was feeling fairly well. He refused to have a doctor, as he did not feel as though any of his bones were broken and decided to wait until he returned to Gores Landing this afternoon.

Capt. Harris' many friends in Peterborough will regret to learn that he has suffered this experience for his summer's work has been carried out without a mishap. It is sincerely hoped that he will soon be around again.

BOYS ARE TAKEN BACK TO SCHOOL

Sleep Out All Night and Live on a Five Cent Purchase

Truant Officer George Cochrane today conducted the two youths Moore and McCabe, of Division street, to school after their absence for the past day or so. The boys slept out the other night in some out-buildings in the north end of the city, but returned home yesterday. Their parents notified Mr. Cochrane of their return and this morning they were taken back to school.

During the night they were sustained by the food that a five cent piece could purchase, which one of them happened to possess.

On the return trip the party travelled by boat as far as Prescott.

Against W.H. Darcey for Selling Liquor

JACOBS NOT INDIAN

Magistrate Edmison Gives Judgement This Afternoon in Important Cases

Jno. Jacobs, according to the ruling of Magistrate Edmison, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, is not an Indian within the meaning of the Indian Act, and the charge against H. W. Darcey of Burleigh Falls, for selling liquor to an Indian was dismissed by him this afternoon. In reviewing the evidence he stated that his decision rested altogether on whether Jacobs was an Indian. This was answered by the evidence that he did not belong to a particular band, given by the man Jacobs himself, Dan Whetung, Jr., and Indian Agent Macfarlane.

In connection with the alleged offence against Jas. A. Lawless for selling liquor in Lakefield, the Magistrate held that Lawless was not in possession of the house at 6.25 p.m. on the 3rd of August, the time he was accused of making the sale. The lease was dated August 1st; Mr. Lawless took possession of the Rockland House on August 1st, and from the evidence it was shown that the agreement between Messrs. Lawless and Quinn was signed before the sale took place. This information was therefore dismissed also.

Mr. W. H. Moore, who prosecuted, was present when the judgments were given.

CANOE DISAPPEARS FROM COTTAGE

Two Havelock Men Accused of the Theft Trial Saturday

Magistrate Edmison will go to Havelock on Saturday to dispose of a case of theft alleged to have been committed on an island in Kashabogamog Lake, Methuen township a few weeks ago. The accused are two Havelock men named Post and Whitney, who are alleged to have stolen among other articles from the cottage a good canoe. The cottage is owned by a man named Kitchener.

CHANGING A SIGN CAUSES TROUBLE

Nearly a Mix-up Between Two Restaurant Keepers Last Night

There came near to being a riot last night between two of the local restaurant keepers, owing to a prank played by some mischievous small boys. John Caridimo, proprietor of the Olympia Restaurant on Charlotte street, has a large sign board on the outside of his store telling of the good things he had within. The boys confiscated this and placed it in front of the Dominion Chinese Cafe.

The proprietors of the latter did not appreciate the honour, and one of them, it is said, knocked it into the road, whereupon trouble threatened. The owner of the sign vowed vengeance on the Celestial, but finally the matter was smoothed over without bloodshed.

Hon. Rodolph Lemieux, Post Master-General of the Dominion, has given Peterborough free postal delivery and within a week or ten days mail matter will be delivered at the residences of our citizens—to some of them before breakfast.

Yesterday Mr. George Ross, Chief Post Office Superintendent of the Dominion, was in the city arranging for the details of the work and putting the completing touches to the preparations that have been conducted at the local post office the past few days. Mr. Ross has been charged by the Post Master-General with the duty of giving effect to his policy of extending free postal delivery to the minor cities and flourishing towns of the country. He has just returned from a tour of inspection and inauguration of the postal delivery system in several towns. The places which have, or will, in the immediate future, assume this boon, include Stratford, Berlin, Guelph, Calgary, Edmonton and others.

In a Few Days

Peterborough's turn has come and as stated, this city will have free delivery of mail matter within a few days. Mr. Ross came here to perfect details with a view of completing local organization, for beginning work early next week. He was specially commissioned by the Post Master-General to this special work, and the efforts of Mr. R. R. Hall M.P., have been successful in placing Peterborough in the front line of progressive cities in this regard.

The Citizens' Share

To make the system of delivery the greatest success and of the most value to our citizens, the latter are requested to co-operate with the postal authorities. If street numbers are not placed already, it is advisable to see that they are conspicuously displayed. It will also be advisable for householders to provide letter boxes to be reached through slots in front doors in which the letter carriers are to place letters and mail matter from the outside. This is in the interest of the citizens generally and of the success of the system. The letter carriers will call early; and late sleepers will avoid being aroused earlier than usual by the visit of the post man to deliver his mail matter. Each carrier is supposed to perform personal delivery of mail matter, the letter box, however, being considered an equivalent to what the bailiffs call "personal service." Peterborough is essentially a night post office, all the principal mails arriving in the evening or very early in the morning. It will therefore be necessary for the carriers to begin their work early. There will be for the present two daily deliveries. The carriers will start upon their first round at about 7.30, and upon the second about 1 o'clock, so that it will be necessary for residents to have their homes ready for mail matter shortly after that hour by providing letter boxes in their dwellings or having the houses open at a little after 7.30. The less delay the carriers are subjected to, the better will be the service. If, early on his rounds, he has two or three minutes' delay at each house

EXPLANATORY

Dr. Coughlin yesterday wired the Peterborough Examiner that he was not on the platform at Mr. Borden's meeting, as stated by that paepr. A diligent search of last night's Examiner fails to find any mention of the matter. It would appear that Mr. Stratton's paper denies Dr. Coughlin fair play.

If Dr. Coughlin wired the Examiner that he was not on the platform at Mr. Borden's Peterborough meeting, the Examiner never received the telegram. The Examiner has this to say in regard to the Intelligencer's statement, which is accepted as correct as regards Dr. Coughlin's absence on the occasion mentioned. It is true that in the Examiner's report, Dr. Coughlin's name appeared in the list of gentlemen on the platform at Mr. Borden's meeting, and was so recorded in perfect good faith. It was a case of mistaken identity. The reporter who reported the introductory part of the meeting believed that he recognized Dr. Coughlin as one of the gentlemen on the platform, and acted accordingly. The Examiner regrets that it was the innocent means of an injustice to Dr. Coughlin, a gentleman, whom, in common with the citizens of Peterborough, where he was well-known, it holds in high esteem.

Owing to the preparations for the opening of our new store, premises will be closed from 1 to 7 o'clock to-morrow, Friday.

THE LAW MUST REIGN

All persons in sympathy with the maintenance of law-abiding conditions in Canada will agree that the punishment inflicted by Mr. Chief Justice Mulock, in the case of the Wiarton rioters, was not excessive in severity. It will be remembered that a mob assailed the tent wherein two women, one of whom was Mrs. Agnes Thomas, had established themselves on the outskirts of the village, for, it was assumed, immoral purposes. The mob wrecked the tent and maltreated the women. Mrs. Thomas, in self defence, according to her own story, fired in the air several shots from a revolver. In the melee, one, Phillip Gilbert, was fatally shot. Mrs. Thomas was yesterday tried for manslaughter, and was acquitted. In connection with the same case, and by the same judge, three brothers named Lancaster were tried on a charge of unlawful assembly and rioting. They pleaded guilty and were each sentenced to eight months in jail. A peculiar feature of this case is the nature of the plea advanced by a deputation from Wiarton which waited on Chief Justice Mulock to request lenient dealing with the self-confessed law-breakers. It was stated that "every member of the deputation certified to the good character of the prisoners." The better their character, the greater their responsibility in connection with a most serious breach of law. If they had been hoodlums and persons of lawless inclinations and bad character, they would have been acting quite consistently in outraging the law. But persons of "good character" must have known and appreciated, as hoodlums could not do, the extent to which they were outraging the law by taking its functions into their own hands. We cannot afford, no matter how great the provocation, to work at recourse to mob law — first cousin to lynch law, which is the curse and disgrace of the country to the south of us. The influence of proximity has operated to the lasting disgrace of Canada in the mob violence recently perpetrated in British Columbia, in which the only saving element is the fact that men of the lowest class, few of them, perhaps, native Canadians, were concerned in the outrages. If the mob had been chiefly composed of men "of good character," like the Wiarton rioters were declared to be, the conditions would have been much more serious and portentious of evil.

LARDER LAKE INVESTORS ARE MAKING MONEY

Eminent engineers from England, Germany and France have recently made searching examinations of the Larder Lake gold fields, and without a single exception have endorsed the reports of United States and Canadian engineers and experts as to the Larder Lake district being the mining wonder of the world.

The fact that eminent English, German and French engineers, who are familiar with and have examined many mines in the great mining camps in South Africa, Australia, Siberia, and, in fact, all the mining districts of the world, report that the Larder Lake district outclasses them all, speaks wonders and promises much for Ontario and all capital invested there.

One of the most prominent engineers of London, who has just returned from Larder Lake, after making a six weeks' examination of the district in the interest of English bankers, stated that hundreds of millions of dollars had been made by the investing public of Great Britain in the shares of companies in the gold fields of South Africa during the past five years, but the prospects and opportunities were never so inviting or as safe and secure in Africa as they are at the present time at Larder Lake. Hundreds of millions will be realized by the investors in Larder Lake mines. It requires faith and patience on the part of investors and now is the proper time; several hundred dollars, or even less, invested now, will return thousands, and, as in England, thousands of investors of comparatively small amounts will become independent.

It is reported from London that engineers have gone to examine the Blue Bell and Lucky Boys mines at Larder Lake, and that well-known mining interests of England and France are to become strongly identified therein, and that a great plant is to be installed. The price at which these interests will become interested is reported to be considerably above par and is not from private holding but from the treasury stock of the companies. The shares of these companies were first placed upon the market during the past six months by Law & Co., brokers, of Toronto, at the price of 6 cents for Lucky Boys and 10 cents for Blue Bell. The development of the properties of these companies has been extensive. Many veins running in width from 4 feet to 140 feet have been developed, and it is estimated that the amount of ore in sight and available of these two companies now exceeds thirty millions of dollars, which only awaits the installation of machinery to be produced.

The large display advertisements of Law & Co., offering Blue Bell and Lucky Boys at 6 and 10 cents per share, will be remembered by the Canadian public. The outcome of these mines establish and stamp these brokers as reliable, and indicates that they know what they were about. Engineers and miners who have examined and are familiar with the properties claim the shares of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys will be worth ten dollars per share within the next year. — Toronto World, Sept. 16.

DEAN FARTHING THE PREACHER

AN EVIDENCE OF THEIR APPRECIATION

Miss Frances Manning's Friends in Charlotte Street Methodist Church Send Her Handsome Present

Following her removal to Brampton, further evidences of the fact that the services of Miss Frances Manning in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church were appreciated by the congregation was furnished yesterday, when a few of her friends in the church sent her a beautiful solid gold pendant, set with amythests and pearls.

The gift is intended to represent, in a measure, the appreciation of a few of her friends who, during the year that she has been a member of the choir, have enjoyed and have been benefitted by her singing.

He will also assist at the concert to be given at Bethany on Monday night.

TO-DAY'S SESSION OF THE POLICE COURT

Two Worthless Characters Were Told to Quietly Leave the City's Limits

CASE FOR FALL ASSIZES

The undesirable element of the population of the city was diminished to-day as the result of this morning's police court, when two drunks were told to turn their backs to the town clock, and by the time the sun should have disappeared on the western horizon their tired feet were to be hiking up the dust on the highways leading south, if they had not found other means of making good their disappearance from Peterborough.

Edward Shields was No. 1, drunk in a public place.

"Two dollars to be paid forthwith," His Worship curtly replied.

Shields did not have the money, and, leaving the prisoners' box, he asked the Magistrate to let him go this time and he would never be seen back again. Shields said he came from Cavan, a Blazer, as His Worship said, and would like to go back again.

"Will you leave the city if I let you off?"

"Yes, your Honour."

"How long will it take you to go?"

"I'll get out by to-night. I'll leave some time to-day."

And Shields left the room to go back to Cavan to work for Mr. Howden, his last employer. Shields still had a little shaky jag as he walked up the street.

A Bad Record

The following is the record of Wm. Ferguson, the man who was remanded from last week for stealing several auger-bits:

July 19, 1907—Drunk, and let go on suspended sentence.

Nov. 14, 1906—Drunk, six months in Cobourg jail with hard labour.

Nov. 8, 1906—Vagrancy, six months in Cobourg jail with hard labour.

Sept. 2, 1903 — Six months in Cobourg jail with hard labour.

Oct. 27, 1902—Drunk, six months in Cobourg jail with hard labour.

June 1, 1901—Drunk, six months in Cobourg jail.

Oct. 19, 1900—Drunk, six months in Central Prison with hard labour.

Nov. 12, 1898—Neglect of family, two months in Cobourg jail.

Aug. 30, 1897—Wife applied for an order of protection, which was granted.

After reading the above pedigree, His Worship concluded that Ferguson was not wanted any longer in this community.

"Have they no cat-o'-ninetails down in Cobourg? That is what you need on your bare back!" exclaimed the Magistrate.

It's Cobourg for Ferguson, the authorities decided, and his case was enlarged for a week, when, if he has disappeared, so much the better; if not, it will not be well for him.

Tried by Jury

"I'd like to be tried by a jury," answered John Barrie, when asked how he would elect to be tried on the charge of having stolen a gold watch from a young man on Parnell street. The incident was mentioned in yesterday's issue. Barrie was remanded for a week. The autumn Assizes begin on the 30th of September. Chief Roszel said that any one knowing of the whereabouts of this watch will do well to communicate with him.

AN OLD SAYING

Showing How Cause and Effect are Never Far Removed

It is an old saying, "Where there's honey there's bees"—not less true is one which science has coined more recently, "Where there's Dandruff there's germs"—and, to push the inference still further, we may truly say, "Where there's Dandruff cured, Newbro's Herpicide has been at work."

The reason of Herpicide's isolation as a genuine cure for Dandruff lies in the fact that it attacks and destroys the root of the whole trouble—a parasitic germ which feeds upon the material which nourishes the hair follicle.

Other so-called remedies are not directed at this true cause of the disease.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Sir — The health authorities had very little consideration for the young lady, who is ill with scarlet when they installed her in the old fire hall building as an isolation hospital. If the case was at all serious her chance for recovery could not have failed to be retarded by the noise which she has to endure all day. On the first floor there is a gang of carpenters hammering and sawing away, and on the roof there is another staff of men, adding to the confusion and noise. It is bad enough to have the scarlet fever, without having to fight the disease in a carpenter shop, as it were.

Nerves Gave Out, Almost in Despair

TWO SEVERE CASES OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION WITH WHICH DOCTORS COULD DO NOTHING CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Mr. Wm. Graham, Atwood, Ont., writes: "My wife had been ill for some time with nervous prostration, and we had two of the best doctors we could get, but neither of them did her any good. She gradually became worse and worse, could not sleep, and lost energy and interest in life. She was almost giving up in despair, when a friend advised a trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"From the first box of this preparation my wife used we noticed an improvement, and after using six boxes she is completely cured, and as well as ever she was—eats well and sleeps well, and feels fully restored. I cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine, and am satisfied that my wife owes her life to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food." This cure is certified to by Mr. C. H. McFarlane, druggist, Atwood, Ont.

Mrs. Abl. Stevens, Burgessville, Oxford County, writes: "Two years ago last November I was run down, and did not know what was wrong. I could not sleep nor eat, and at last my nervous system gave way entirely, and I had to go to bed. The doctor told me I had nervous prostration, and, though he doctored me for some weeks, I did not get any better.

"I then began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the time I had used six boxes I was entirely cured. People remarked how well I looked, and I said, 'Yes, and I feel well, that is the best of it, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did it.'"

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures diseases of the nerves in the only natural and effective way—by enriching the blood and creating new nerve force; 50c a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—4 visited it will result that persons living at a greater distance will experience a proportionate delay in reception of mail matter.

POSTAL DELIVERY SYSTEM INAUGURATED; CITY'S ADVANCE STEP

The Citizens' Further Part

It will also be necessary for citizens to arrange to have their correspondence addressed to the office or residence number. Letters or other mail matter will be delivered to its address and when only a general address is given, of course, mail matter will be served as at present, through post office call boxes or general delivery, at the post office. Thus is met the objection of a local professional gentleman who did not wish his domestic and professional mail matter delivered together. Mail matter will be delivered to its address either down town or in the outskirts.

After next week Peterborough will have three ways of securing mail matter—by letter carriers, by post office call boxes and by the general delivery wickets.

The new system will entail a little additional postage. Immediately on the adoption of a free postal delivery in a town or city, the rate on drop letters advances from one cent to two cents per ounce. That is the law at present, but it is stated that Hon. Mr. Lemieux contemplates the reduction in free delivery centres of the rates on drop letters to one cent each. This, however, cannot be done immediately — it will have to be the subject of legislation, probably at the next session of Parliament.

By Whom and how it is Done

For free postal delivery the city will be divided into seven districts, or beats, each served by a uniformed letter carrier, as detailed in another column.

The uniform of the letter carriers is decidedly military in character, and a well-set up letter carrier will present a very smart appearance. The uniform is of blue—tunic, trousers, and cap—with scarlet facings. The collar of the tunic, which is of military cut, and upright, of course, is of scarlet, and bears on one side the number of the carrier and, presumably, district. The cap, which is what is known as the "Buller Cap," bears on the front of its scarlet band, in gold, the letters, "C. P. O." — Canadian Post Office. There are two uniforms provided—one for summer and one for winter—and the equipment of the carrier includes everything from cap to boots.

In another place in this issue is to be found a detailed list of the complete "kit" of a letter carrier, which will be seen to be of a most comprehensive nature.

A letter carrier will not be badly remunerated. In addition to two complete suits, his pay is progressive, and will depend considerably upon his efficiency. He will begin at $1.25 per day, and this will be advanced by degrees, till at the end of three or four years, his pay will be $2.25 per day, and at the end of each year, if his work has been well done, he will receive a bonus of $20, something like the efficiency pay of the volunteer militia. Two weeks leave of absence will be granted each year to each carrier.

It will necessary be some little time before the new system will be in smooth running condition, but it is certain that the citizens will appreciate the service, when it is fairly established, as they will appreciate the efforts of the representative of the riding, and the progressive administration of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster General, to secure this important convenience of free postal delivery.

SERGT. MAJOR BRITTAIN GIVES FACTS

Has Neither Time Nor Inclination to Engage in Long Walks

To Sporting Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, — According to newspaper reports, at the time, Mr. Hartley is alleged to have walked from his house to Chemong Park and return, in 1 1-2 hours.

I presume he gave that information himself.

That works out, practically, 9 1-4 miles per hour, on a rough, hilly road.

The British record for one hour's walk is 8 miles 439 yards, Larner, 1904. American record, 7 miles 1318 yards, Clark, 1880, on a track.

Based on that proposition, Mr. Hartley is by far the fastest walker in the world, and I am certainly not in that class.

I thank "Pedestrian," whoever he may be, but at present I have neither time nor inclination to engage in contests, and if Mr Hartley can walk from Chemong Park I hope to the Post office in one hour, he can equal the best time I ever made, and anything less than that beats me.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space, which I did not wish to fill, as you have lots of more interesting things than walking exploits to give.

I am, yours very sincerely,
ALFRED E. BRITTAIN.

A Fast Run to Nassau and Return Last Night

There was a good turnout of members of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers' Club last night, and a run was held to Nassau and return, going up on the Smith side of the river, and returning by the Douro road. The eight miles was done easily, some of the runners going the distance in slightly over fifty minutes. The man are getting in good shape for the Exammer race, which this year promises to be even a greater success than that of last year.

LINDSAY ASKS IF "PRO" BASE BALL PAYS

Post Has Some Comments on the Midland League and the Championship

The Lindsay Post, under the heading "Does It Pay?" has the following to say of the Midland League: "Port Hope won the Midland League after a hard fight, from Peterborough. Both managements spared neither money nor pains ot secure players, and when the final game took place in Cobourg, each town was represented by nines composed mainly of pick-ups from the professional ranks, Port Hope was probably lucky in securing Hickey of Toronto to pitch. Otherwise they might have lost the game.

"This custom of hiring men for a game or so, which has been rife in Ontario supposedly amateur leagues this year, has a very bad effect on the game. While a team may win, it does not experience the real delight as when only well-known home brews play. Then a player who does the trick for one team may, in a week or so, be on the opposing side. The mercenaries, too, are not relied on by the public, whether unjustly so or not, is a question.

PORT HOPE TO PLAY THE WELLINGTONS

Arrangements Completed for Saturday's Game

Arrangements were completed this morning between President McCaffery of the Ball Club, and Geo. Carley, manager of the Wellingtons, champions of the City Amateur Baseball League, for the use of Diamond Park on Saturday next for a game between the Wellingtons and Port Hope for the inter-city championship.

The game will start at 3 o'clock. Bill Walsh will be asked to ampire. Port Hope will have on the same strong team that defeated Peterborough for the championship of the Midland League last Saturday, with the exception of Fred Hickey, who is a member of the Wellingtons.

An excursion will be run from Port Hope, and a big turnout of local fans is also looked for. — Toronto News.

The Peterborough Club will practice on the Riverside Park on Saturday and every player is asked to be out in uniform, as the first hard work out of the season will be on the bills.

The Karnots will practice at the Nicholls oval on Saturday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, and all those intending to play the game are asked to turn out.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages, and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei's medicated air soothes the inflammation, stops the cough, and relief soon becomes permanent, and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles, and is sold by Wm. Madill with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh, that is to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

VICTORIA ROAD FAIR A SUCCESS

Superintendent McClennan Was One of Those Who Spoke

Superintendent McClellan, of the Trent Canal, was among those who spoke at the fall fair of the North Victoria Agricultural Society, at Victoria Road yesterday. The party went up on the steamer Bob Hall, from Portage Road, through the new cut on Grassy Island, reaching Victoria Road at 2 o'clock, where they were met by the Woodville brass band, and a procession was formed to the fair grounds.

Among those who spoke in addition to Mr. McClellan, were Mr. R. J. McLaughlin and Mr. Thos. Stewart of Lindsay, Mr. C. E. Wicks, of Woodville; Mr. Grant, the reeve of Woodville, Mr. S. J. Fox, M. P. P., of Lindsay, and Mr. Taylor, president of the North Victoria Agricultural Society.

Mr. McClellan states that the fair was a great success, with 2000 people in attendance and a record entry list in all classes.

COMPLAINTS ARE STILL MADE

Residents in the south end of the city still continue to protest against the way their property has been assessed this year, and the complaints from that neighbourhood are loud and frequent. One south end resident informed the Examiner that the people of that section intend holding a meeting at an early date, to consider the matter and to protest against against their assessment, which they claimed to be excessively high.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Board of Works Makes A Tour of The Streets

Aldermen Spent Four Hours Yesterday in Inspecting The Work That Has Been Done This Year---The City Was Covered Pretty Thoroughly

The Board of Works, with a number of the city officials, spent four very profitable hours yesterday in inspecting the work that has been done on the streets this season, and contemplating other changes and improvements that will have to be made before very long. During the afternoon the party covered the city pretty thoroughly, and the outing was enjoyable as well as beneficial. Without such a tour the members would not be able to comprehend thoroughly all that has been done, that must be done, or has not been done on the streets, and the trip alone served to show the aldermen just where and what repairs are needed. On the whole the party, from their point of view, found the streets in good shape.

The party consisted of Ald. Duncan, chairman of the Board; the Mayor Ald. Johnston, Bradburn, Wilson, City Engineer Hay, City Clerk Armstrong, and Street Commissioner Harry Evans.

The first plac visited was the newly built up section between Park street and the boundary, where new streets have sprung up during the last two years.

The first stop was made at Maitland avenue, where the committee inspected the place where a sidewalk is to be built on the west side.

Passing on Margaret avenue was the next stop, and the committee decided that it would be necessary to cut down the southern end of the street to bring it somewhere near the level of King street,

While the party was in the neighbourhood, they took advantage of the opportunity to look at John street and Pearl avenue, both new streets, on which considerable work has been done.

Gilmour street was next visited, and the party inspected the western end of the street, where a sewer has just been constructed. One of the residents of the street is building a cement curb in front of his property for which no permission has been given by the council. The majority of the committee felt that the work was an improvement but that permission should have been asked, so that the engineer could lay the lines for the curb.

Homewood avenue was the next street visited, and the party had a discussion over the drain on the north side of the street, which has caused trouble in the past. It was decided that the drain should be thoroughly cleaned out which will, it is expected, remove the difficulty.

There had been a complaint from residents of the east end of the street that the grade was too high, on account of the gravel that had been put there. The city engineer was of the opinion that it would sink down enough to remove all cause of complaint.

It was decided to place some gravel at the corner of Weller and Park streets.

McDonel street, west of Park street, was found by the committee to be in very bad condition, and it will be put in shape, although it is doubtful if the appropriation of the committee will permit of anything being done this season, although the committee was a unit in declaring that repairs were very badly needed.

From this point the party drove to the corner of Dublin and Downie street, to inspect the diversion of the famous Downie street creek, about which so much has been heard. The bridge over the creek at London street has been rebuilt, and a new one constructed at Dublin street. The committee was enabled to see the new line which the creek will take, and spent some minutes at that point.

As they were preparing to climb into their bus again, there was a comical interruption from a gentleman of Irish extraction, who came along in a cart, which looked very much like a jaunting car.

"You ought to be ashamed of the streets out here!" he shouted in a rich brogue and in a voice that could be heard for blocks. "If a man builds a house in the south end he has all the improvements in no time. You may live out here for 35 years and then there would be nothing done. Git up!"

That the last was addressed to his horse, and not to the aldermen, it is needless to state.

The next stopping place was at the Normal school, where a sewer is to be built, and there was considerable discussion over the best means of reaching the school, and of the position of the man holes.

The party then crossed the river into East City, and visited the diversion of the drain, which runs through the village and which the council is diverting into the river by means of a tunnel the greater part of which has been built. The work at this point is being done under the direction of Mr. Roland Tivey. An invitation was extended to the aldermen to go through the tunnel as far as the river, but it was declined.

One of the best pieces of work done this season was that next visited, the extension of Hunter street east to the Lift Lock. A deep cut has been made through the hill in some places 15 feet deep, and the improvement is marvellous, as there is now an easy and smooth road with only a small grade to the Lift Lock, where formerly the road was decidedly rough and steep.

Foreman White's section of sewer on Rogers street was also inspected by the party when they were in East City. The work is going ahead nicely, although it has proved to be a very difficult undertaking. At Hunter street the excavation went down nineteen feet, and the blue clay encountered made the work very laborious.

The party then returned to the west side of the river, and went down to Romaine street, where the sewer was inspected. It was found to be running fairly, with the exception of the fact that there was some sand in the connection into the King Edward School.

The inspection of the crossings and sidewalk work done on Park street south ended the tour of inspection. The work done there was found to be in a very satisfactory condition to the aldermanic party.

THE PRICE OF HAY UPON THE PETERBOROUGH MARKET

A correspondent of the Review a day or two ago complained that the Examiner quoted hay as being $19 per ton, while it was quoted at $14 to $15 per ton in Toronto. If the writer in the Review will look again he will see in the evening Toronto papers Monday hay was quoted at $20 to $21 per ton wholesale, so that if the Examiner quoted hay at $19 per ton it was correct at the time to which the quotation applied. Hay is a commodity which at times rises and falls in price as quickly as stocks. It depends upon the supply and demand. A farmer may get an extra dollar or two a ton upon a day when there is little coming in to supply perhaps a brisk demand. Of course that figure is not quoted as a prevailing current price. Hay, however, is very likely to be hay this year. What the Examiner aims to give is the facts, as it did on the occasion instanced by the Review correspondent.

ONLY THIRTEEN INCHES OF SNOW FELL

Mr. McAllister's Statement With Respect to Snowfall

By an unfortunate error Mr. McAllister, in the report of his interview with the Examiner yesterday, was credited with saying that from twelve to thirty inches of snow fell in Calgary recently. This should have been "thirteen" inches, which, while it is not nearly as bad as the larger figure, is disastrous enough. If anyone imagined that there was no damage resulting from this fall of snow they are mistaken.

Music and Drama

THE SUMMER STOCK COMPANY

The twenty dramatic and vaudeville artists that compose the Summer Stock Company, which plays a week's engagement here at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday, September 24, includes some very clever people. Aside from Mr. Geo. H. Summers, and Miss Belle Stevenson, who are already famous as stock stars, there is Mr. Harry Waterhouse, who plays the leading business. This young man has for the last few years been the leading actor with the Mittenthal Bros.' productions. One of his notable successes was as "Ed Biddle" in "A Desperate Chance," in which he received the unanimous approval of both press and public. Possessed of a beautiful voice and strikingly handsome stage presence, he is particularly well fitted for the strong acting parts in Mr. Summers' repertoire. Among other notable achievements, he was particularly successful in Wm. A. Brady's great scenic production, "The Cotton King," in which he created the leading character part of "Pooder." Oliver Doud Byron engaged him for the character leads in all his fine melo-dramatic productions, and his wide experience stands him well in hand now in the portrayal of the wide range of characters he plays with Mr. Summers. He will make his appearance here as "Clarence Douglas" in "The Price of Silence." Opening production, "His Other Wife."

WINDOW DRESSING PAR EXCELLENCE

The Windows of Richard Hall and Son's Attract Much Attention

Perhaps no window dressing in Peterborough has attracted more attention or has been more worthy of attention than that which is being displayed in connection with the fall millinery openings in connection with the establishment of Richard Hall and Son. The display is both rich and artistic, exhibiting the latest fashions, and, while it is lavish, it is not gaudy or out of taste.

The upper window of the store contains a grape arbor made of branches of small trees, entwined with artificial grape vines and bunches of grapes. A fine showing of rose Axminster carpet, a new shade, with shadow taffeta draperies.

The next window south is decorated with autumn foliage and ribbons, and contains some very fine German mantles, personally selected by Mr. Hall in Germany.

The large window has a rich velour background with gold lattice work, intertwined with artificial grape vine and containing in the centre a large gilt-edged mirror. Among the most noteworthy millinery shown is a large picture hat trimmed with ermine and velvet, with a muff of the same material to match. The window contains some handsome dress goods material of the latest design and shade.

WEDDING BELLS

SCRIVER--ROGERS

The Toronto Star of last night had the following report of the wedding of Mr. T. E. Scriver, formerly editor and proprietor of the Hastings Star:

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Rogers on Salisbury avenue was the scene of a pretty wedding this afternoon when the marriage was solemnized of their daughter, Miss Lillian Eugenie Rogers, to Mr. T. E. Scriver, editor of the Worsley News, Worsley, Sask.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. W. Hill, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, under a wedding bell of white asters and ferns. To the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Mabel Johnson, of Stayner, the bride was led in and given away by her father. She was attired in white point d'esprit, mounted over silk with Irish point lace berthe, the gift of her aunt, Miss Rogers of Collingwood, and Brussels net embroidered veil caught with a chaplet of lilies of the valley. She carried white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Rogers, as bridesmaid, who was wearing soft cream voile with trimmings of point d'esprit and carrying a shower of pink carnations. The best man was Mr. Charles H. Stewart.

During the service Miss Styles sang the bridal hymn, "O Fair, O Sweet, O Holy." After the ceremony Mrs. Rogers held a reception when about twenty-five guests were present. She was wearing black silk and lace with touches of mauve.

Later in the evening the newly-married pair left to spend their honeymoon in Kingston and Peterborough en route to their home in Wolsley, Sask. The bride travelling in dark blue broadcloth with narrow stripe, smartly tailored, and hat with golden brown velvet, and roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold chain and pearl cross, to the bridesmaid a pearl ring, and to the best man a pearl tie pin.

IS THE PRACTICE GROWING?

Interesting Discussion on the Use Tobacco —Writer Asks Some Pertinent Questions on It

THE SMOKERS CHANCE

A letter from a gentleman in this city, one who stands high in his profession, and who is noted for his deep and practical interest in public affairs was received at this office today, and is published below.

It opens up a new line of inquiry, and in view of the fact that apparently the smoking habit is on the increase in Canada, as it certainly is in the United States, as a reference to the trade returns showing the amount of money spent each year on tobacco show, a discussion along the lines upon which he asks for information will, doubtless, prove interesting.

Contributions, written in the spirit which seems to have characterized the one whose letter is published today, are invited. The gentleman referred to says:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have before me a copy of an address delivered by Prof. Ely of Drake University, before the Iowa Mothers' Congress. He states: "It is a lamentable fact that most men who do not smoke are mentally a little unbalanced. They are usually eccentric and have habits which to the average person seems strange and idiotic." And although he acknowledges smoking to be a habit acquired in boyhood, usually after persistent efforts in the face of Nature's rebellion in nausea, headache, etc., he strives to prove that smoking is necessary to a sound normal brain.

This remarkable address following some recent experiences of mine, lead me to ask for information from the smokers and those who have to associate continually with such.

A few years ago it was a grave breach of conduct for a young man to smoke in the presence of ladies. At least this was the case among my associates. To-day it appears very different. The ladies do not seem to enter into the consideration in the least. The man enjoys his cigar with apparent indifference as to its effect upon his lady companion.

I do not enjoy tobacco smoke. My wife abhors it. Yet during a recent fortnight holiday trip of some 1,200 miles, we were forced to live almost continually in an atmosphere laden with tobacco fumes. Association with fellow passengers was under such conditions positively distasteful.

Now, what I would like to have answered, frankly and honestly by those are in the best position to know is as follows:—

1. Does smoking not destroy the finer instincts of gentlemanly conduct?
2. Does not smoking in time develop a spirit of selfishness which subordinates solicitude for the comfort of others?
3. Is smoking justifiable?
4. Does it assist the functions of the brain or the body to any appreciable extent?
5. Of the smokers, is not he who smokes exclusively at home or in seclusion best entitled to the epithet "gentleman?"

It is my opinion that Canadians do not look upon smoking as indicative of manliness or as an adjunct of a brilliant mind. Frank discussion of the matter among your many readers should throw some light upon the suggested phases.

Yours truly,
"NICE QUESTIONER."

REAL ESTATE BUSINESS NOT DECLINING

Local Real Estate Agent Says Reports to Contrary are Wrong

Mr. C. Blewett, real estate dealer, stated to the Examiner to-day that, contrary to a number of assertions that real estate business was decreasing, he considered that it had not been better for some time. Within the last two weeks he had "turned over" three farms in the county and three houses in the city, which record is pretty hard to beat at any time.

Property is in just as big demand now as it has been at any time during the past two years, he says, and so far as the talk of a poor season is concerned, Mr. Blewett cannot see it.

A NOVELIST'S OWN ROMANCE.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle; His Career and Approaching Marriage.

The approaching marriage of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle naturally suggests queries as to the personal and domestic side of the creator of Sherlock Holmes. The author is 48 and in full physical as well as mental vigor. He married at 27 Miss Louisa Hawkins of Minsterworth, Gloucester, and several children were born to them. Mrs. Doyle died several years ago. In September Sir Arthur will take as his second wife Miss Jean Lechie of Crowborough. The gifted writer, who, next to Kipling, is perhaps the best paid of any of the literary guild of to-day, has a house at Hindhead, in Surrey, which is filled with mementos of his adventures in almost all parts of the world and which is in many respects an ideal home for an author. Though so successful in the literary field now Dr. Doyle labored for many years to achieve recognition as a writer. As a young man he wrote more or less from time to time—indeed, he wrote and illustrated at the early age of six a precocious story of adventure—but it was only about fifteen years ago that his revenue from his writings became sufficient to enable him to devote his whole time to literature. He had practiced for a dozen years previous to that time as a physician. He has said that during the first ten years he wrote short stories for magazines he did not make from this source an average of $250 a year. Dr. Doyle served as a surgeon in the South African war and in 1902 was knighted in recognition of his literary and patriotic achievements.

HANGING ON LEDGE.

Thrilling Adventure of Father and Son at Isle of Wight.

A thrilling cliff incident was recently witnessed by hundreds of holiday-makers aboard the Solent pleasure steamers Duchess of Fife and Solent Queen, in Alum Bay, Isle of Wight. The cliffs where the occurrence took place are within half a mile of the Needles, and rise almost sheer from the sea for about 150 feet. They are composed of various colored sands and gravel beds. Here and there they are exceptionally dangerous, owing to the soft, yielding sand. A nondescript and his young son, about 10 years of age, were passing over one of these soft patches when it began to slide like an avalanche. The father, with commendable presence of mind, threw himself on his back, and held the child back as well. Within full view of the passengers on the steamers in the bay the pair were seen to slip over the cliff to what appeared certain death beneath. But, after falling some 20 or 30 feet, they came to a standstill on a narrow ledge covered with sand — the only possible hold on the face of the cliff, which descended nearly perpendicularly below to the water's edge. Here they remained for a quarter of an hour, out of the reach of would-be rescuers, and in imminent danger of the mass of sand and shingle breaking away under their combined weight. The captain and crew of the Duchess of Fife went ashore to effect a rescue, but meanwhile some bluejackets had obtained a stout clothes-rope, made a bight, and lowered it. The father passed the rope around the child's body, and the little one was hauled up, amid ringing cheers from the passengers on the boats. The sailors next hauled up the father. Neither was injured, but both were greatly unnerved by their experience.

SERVIAN PRINCE IN LONDON.

"Bad Boy of Europe" Enjoying Sights of English Metropolis.

London is at present entertaining one of the most interesting personalities in Europe—the crown prince of Servia, formerly known as the "Bad Boy of Europe," and "His Highness the Hooligan."

Prince George is traveling incognito, and since his arrival he has been sightseeing like an ordinary tourist.

Country cousins visiting the Tower of London recently, puzzled their heads over the identity of the enthusiastic foreign-looking youth with close-cropped hair, prominent nose and swarthy face, who wanted to see "everything as quickly as possible." He wore a panama hat, a lounge suit and brown boots, and he might have passed for an ordinary foreign tourist but for the fact that the three men who accompanied him showed him a certain deference.

Seeing the Sights.

Little did the visitors guess that he was the representative of that Karageorgevitch dynasty which again ascended the Servian throne after that terrible coup d'etat of June, 1903, when King Alexander of Servia and Queen Draga were ruthlessly murdered at Belgrade.

It was only natural that the crown prince, who is now 20 years of age, should visit the Earl's Court Exhibition. He has become more subdued of late, and although he took a childish delight in the water chute—which he declared should be twice as steep—and insisted on his suite being photographed with him on picture postcards, he made a very favorable impression on several Servian gentlemen who are not favorably disposed toward the present dynasty.

One of these said that the young prince had undoubtedly begun to recognize his responsibilities. Although as restless as King Alfonso of Spain, and still very excitable, he has a frank, simple manner and a capacity for enjoyment which arouse a certain amount of admiration.

Some of His Pranks.

Formerly he led his tutors an uneasy life—Major Levasseur, a French disciplinarian, who had the honor of "instructing" the prince for a time, was considerably damaged, mentally and physically, by the time he had finished with him.

On one occasion King Peter was so incensed over the gross insults which the unruly George had offered his tutor that he sentenced his son to ten days' imprisonment in a fortress. But the prince escaped by scaling a wall, and later on broke a bottle over his tutor's head.

The prince's escapades at music halls and theatres and his wild doings generally have caused many scandals in Belgrade, but every one is now agreed that he is turning over a new leaf.

There is no question of state in connection with the amiable young prince's visit to England.

The Cullinane Diamond.

Edward. It is the largest in the world, weighing 3,032 carats, and measuring 4 1-2 x 2 1-4 inches. It is valued at $1,000,000, and was mined by the Premier Diamond Mining Co. It is insured for $2,500,000.

A Rigid Examination.

Colonel Alexander Gardner, in his volume entitled "Soldier and Traveler," says that during a stay in Asia he was once suspected of being a Russian spy.

This was an accusation of great consequence, as Russians were very unpopular at the time, but the traveler was prostrate with fever and almost indifferent as to what might befall him.

Application was made to the khan of Khiva, and in a great state of anxiety as to the traveler's identity he deputed three learned men who had traveled over half the world to examine him. This was the abstruse and terrific examination with which they were satisfied:

"What are you?" asked they.

"An American," was the answer.

Still they were suspicious, and one man, a very enlightened scholar, offered as a crowning test this deep and conclusive geographical question:

"Could you go by land from America to England?"

"No," was the prompt reply, and the questioner, as much delighted at his own superior learning as at the traveler's integrity, declared that he was convinced. This was an American indeed.

"Listeners Seldom Hear," Etc.

Two elderly maiden sisters had long lived together—one gentle and sweet, the other acrid in temper and forbidding in appearance. The former was taken suddenly ill, and the other, anxious to know whether the doctors thought her sister would live—as she was desirous of acquiring the money she knew her gentle sister had willed her—hid behind a screen in the morning room, where the doctors soon after came down to consult.

"Well," asked Dr. Harris, "what do you think of her?"

"Think of her?" cried Dr. Brown. "Of all the antiquated, vinaigretted old hags ever created I think she is the very worst! What is Providence thinking of to inflict pain on that gentle soul upstairs and leave untouched a gaunt, withered caricature of humanity such as this other? Jump into my motor with me, and we'll chat about our patient as we go."

And they "goed," leaving the eavesdropper to come from her hiding place as they retreated.

"I don't see why you call him a remarkable young man. He has been only moderately successful."

"Well, that's remarkable in a rich man's son, isn't it?"

WORLD'S LARGEST WARSHIP.

Successful Launch of the New Battleship "Bellerophon."

Britain's newest and biggest battleship, H. M. S. Bellerophon, was successfully launched at Portsmouth recently by Princess Henry of Battenberg. As the vessel moved slowly and majestically into the water, the bands played the National Anthem and "Rule Britannia," and the spectators enthusiastically cheered. The Bellerophon, the largest warship in the world, is an improved Dreadnought. She is, however, 700 tons heavier, her displacement being 18,600 tons, to the Dreadnought's 17,900. Her length is 490 feet, maximum breadth 82 feet, lead draught 27 feet. The machinery is to be of 23,000 indicated horse-power, and the speed 21 knots, steam being supplied from water-tube boilers. The machinery is to be on the turbine principle, as the Admiralty are thoroughly satisfied with the results obtained by the Dreadnought's machinery during her long series of trials.

So far as the main armament is concerned, the Bellerophon will be similarly armed to the Dreadnought. She will carry 10 12-inch guns, which will be mounted in pairs in barbettes, three forward and two aft. The ship will have a right-ahead fire of six guns, but as the after of the two barbettes astern is to be raised to a higher level than the other, her astern fire will be eight guns, and the broadside fire eight guns. For resisting torpedo-boat attack the Bellerophon will have 4-inch guns instead of 12-pounders, as in the case of the Dreadnought. Internally, she is similar to the Dreadnought. She is divided into several watertight compartments, and below the waterline there is no opening in the bulkheads of any kind. The officers will live forward and amidships and the crew aft.

In the construction of the Bellerophon the same secrecy has been observed as in the case of the Dreadnought. She will really be the better vessel of the two for fighting purposes, as several features, which the trials of the Dreadnought suggested, have been introduced in the construction of her hull, one of which is the minimizing the force of torpedo and mine explosion on the hull. No description of the ship has been issued by the naval authorities. The Bellerophon's launching weight was seven thousand tons. She was commenced on Dec. 3 last, and is to be completed for sea within two years from that date.

ROYAL ARTISTS.

King Edward can not only boast that he has had a picture exhibited at Burlington House at an earlier age than the most precocious of our present Royal Academicians, says London Tit-Bits, but that his picture was purchased for a substantial sum before the public even set eyes on it.

This remarkable and little-known episode in His Majesty's life occurred more than half a century ago, when Queen Victoria's children contributed sketches to an exhibition which was held at Burlington House in aid of a fund for the soldiers wounded in the Crimean War. The record price in the exhibition was realized by a sketch entitled "The Battlefield," the work of the Princess Royal, which found a purchaser for the sum of 250 guineas. The Prince of Wales' sketch (he was only 13 at the time) was bought for 55 guineas; and drawings by the still younger princes and princesses fetched 30 guineas each.

There is, as a matter of fact, scarcely one of Queen Victoria's descendants who has not inherited in some degree her love of art. The late Empress Frederick was throughout her life passionately fond of painting and exhibited so much skill that the Berlin Academy of Arts enrolled her among its members in recognition of her "talent" as a composer and a draughtswoman."

Princess Henry of Battenberg is little less skillful with the brush, as is proved by the three beautiful landscapes which for so many years hung in Queen Victoria's sitting room at Osborne, and by many other pictures which have honored places in almost every royal palace in Great Britain. Princess Christian's talent takes the form of exquisite designs for the tapestry produced under her direction at the Royal School of Art Needlework, and Princess Victoria, her daughter, is one of the most skillful amateur painters of flowers in England.

But undoubtedly the best artist in our royal family is Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, who can produce with equal skill a beautiful picture or a life size statue which will compare not unfavorably with most professional work.

Accidental Success.

"In literature," said a publisher, "popular success frequently comes by accident. A remarkable case was that of J. H. Shorthouse. This man, a poor chemist, spent some years writing a book called 'John Inglesant.' But the publishers would have none of 'John Inglesant,' and finally Mr. Shorthouse printed 100 copies at his own expense.

"Only forty of these copies sold, one purchaser being a photographer. The photographer took Mr. Gladstone's picture some weeks later, and the old man chose a studious pose, sitting with a volume in his hand. He bent in absorption over the work, which happened accidentally to be 'John Inglesant,' and in the thousands of copies of the photograph that were sold by accident the book's name was plainly to be made out.

"Mr. Gladstone was regarded as a great critic, and the people thought he desired to recommend 'John Inglesant.' What was the result? Within the year 300,000 copies of 'John Inglesant' had been sold, and Shorthouse was a made man."

Plane Sailing.

All plain sailing. This term is so spelled even in nautical works of some age, but plane sailing is the correct form. Before Mercator invented the sea chart which goes by his name all charts were on a plane projection. In using these the ship's course was treated as an angle and the distance, difference of latitude and departure as the sides of a right angled triangle. There were very large errors in plane charts, yet all the world was charted on them and all the great voyages of discovery made before Mercator's projection came into use. Plane sailing was the simplest of all sailings, and thus came the present meaning of the term.

LARGER GUNS FOR THE NAVY.

Several 13.5 Weapons Now Being Constructed for British Ships.

For some times the question of constructing guns of greater effectiveness and greater calibre than the 12 inch has been occupying the minds of the responsible heads of the Admiralty, and many rumors have gained currency. Last week there was an intimation that the British Admiralty intended to adopt a heavier gun as their leading weapon, and this is confirmed by the fact that there are building at some of the largest gun factories in the country several 13.5 inch guns. This is a big advance, and will mean several important alterations in the designs of battleships. The mountings will have to be larger, and the ships themselves will probably be broader in order to accommodate guns of this size.

The new Dreadnought that carries these guns will have to be larger than those already built, and the firing of such heavy guns will necessitate very material strengthening of these ships. The 13.5 inch is nearly the size of the old 100 ton and 120 ton guns, but, of course, will be of much greater power and less weight. Few of the old ponderous weapons remain. Particularly in the mounting will the new gun be remarkable. In this important branch of gunwork there have been great improvements. There is increased rapidity of firing, the sighting is far more accurate, and the handling of the gun itself of little more trouble than the handling of a quick-firer, so beautifully is it balanced. The 13.5 inch, which, of course, will be experimented with considerably before being finally adopted, will be able, it is said, to sink any floating ship coming within its range.

This is in continuation of the policy of improvement inaugurated by Admiral Sir John Fisher, whose portrait is given.

LOST VAN DYCK FOUND.

Portrait of Charles I. Painted by a Great Master in 1640.

What is stated to be the long-lost portrait of King Charles I., painted by Van Dyck, is in the possession of a curio dealer in the Fulham road.

The history of the picture was related by its present owner, H. H. Hunn.

"The picture was in the possession of a Mrs. Glanville, at Topsham, Devon, in 1872," said Mr. Hunn, "she having received it under the will of her uncle, Mr. John Barstowe Taylor.

"Mrs. Glanville wished to sell the picture, and gave it to me—I was living in the village at the time—to pack and send to a well-known art dealer in London. I did so, but when the package arrived in London the picture had disappeared.

"Mrs. Glanville absolved me of any liability in the matter on condition that I give the vicar of the parish 25 guineas toward the funds for the restoration of his church. This I did, and Mrs. Glanville handed over to me all the documents relating to the picture. These are in my possession at the present time, as is also the receipt given me by the vicar.

"Nothing further was heard of the picture until 1902, when a Mr. Gill, who lived at Padnall's Corner, near Romford, in Essex, wrote to me offering me a picture for sale. I went and saw it, and recognized it as the identical one that was stolen."

Mr. Hunn is firmly of the opinion that it is the same picture that is now in his possession. It is of a large size, and bears the inscription, "Charles Rex—Van Dyck, 1640."

LADY GODIVA RIDES.

"La Milo" Personates Historic Character In Coventry Streets.

"Lady Godiva" has accomplished her great ride through the streets of Coventry. La Milo, who enacted the part of the beautiful lady of the legend, and who wore a long golden wig and white gauze drapery, rode out from the gates through which, in the year 1057 A. D., the legendary Saxon countess is said to have ridden forth in order to save the Coventry people from over-taxation. The pageant, was a complete success, but in some respects it was hardly in keeping with the age it was supposed to represent.

Of Lady Godiva herself it could not honestly be said that she looked real, but she certainly looked very pretty, and in her wonderful wig made a most effective figure on her fine white palfrey. As a matter of fact, the entire show resolved itself into Lady Godiva. La Milo was herself the procession. She was cheered all along the route. She was the only person who aroused any show of enthusiasm. Before she came all eyes were expectant, wondering when she would appear. After she had passed, the crowds began to break up and melt away. Of course, the liveried grooms who led the palfrey in cockaded silk hats rather detracted from the effect. But Coventry is not particular about anachronisms.

Everyone admired La Milo. The women especially were loud in her praise, which was a just tribute to her modest demeanor and the graciousness of her smile. And the old inhabitants agreed that there had never been a better Lady Godiva in any previous procession, though many of the earlier Godivas, even the one in 1892, had much less on.

Not a single remark was made in reprobation of the costume approved by the inspection committee. It was, indeed, as decorous as could be desired, leaving only the arms bare, and many people remarked that if the original Godiva had ridden like that Peeping Tom would have lost his eyesight for nothing. It must have been a trying ordeal, for the procession lasted a very long time, and at times the wind was searching and the air quite chilly. But her yards of hair and miles of chiffon protected La Milo from the cold, and after she had ridden her round she was still in good spirits. "It has been a great day," she said afterwards, "but I'm just as glad it's over as the real Lady Godiva was when she finished her ride."

A Mean Trick.

"I thought you said you were going to bring a friend home to dinner with you this evening?" snapped Mrs. Jates, as they seated themselves at a beautifully appointed table.

"He couldn't come," John answered quite calmly.

And then, with no little enjoyment, the clever fellow fell to upon the first decent meal he had sat down to for some weeks.

Post Masters in County May Form Association

Proposal is Discussed at Meeting Yesterday — Mr. Ira Stratton Gives His Views

IMPROVEMENTS IN SERVICE

There was not a very large attendance at the meeting for the County Postmasters yesterday afternoon at at the National Hotel, but those who were present gave a thorough consideration to the questions at issue. Mr. Ira Stratton, of Stonewall, Man., editor of the Postal Current, and a man well acquainted with all phases of post office work, presided.

The proposal to organize a county branch of the Ontario Postmasters Association was perhaps the chief question considered. The attendance, however, did not warrant the organization yesterday, but everything points to that end in the near future.

The benefits of such an organization to the Postmasters are manifold. They are then in a position to consider collectively the suggestions for the improvement of the service to the public and to present a weighty argument to the Government when necessary. Questions of schedule of salaries, improvement to the service and post office work in general are problems that come within the scope of the branches of the Association. Each county branch deals separately with any question at stake and sends delegates to the annual meeting of the Provincial Association, which body in then in a position to present to the Government the changes desired.

Mr. Stratton stated to the Examiner after the meeting that he was confident a branch would be formed here from the manner in which the introduction of the scheme appealed to those who heard it.

This morning Mr. Stratton left for Belleville on a similar mission as here. He has organized several branches on his eastern tour and reports a very successful journey in that regard.

Accuses The People of Irreverence in Worship

Rev. Dr. Farthing in an Excellent Sermon at St. Luke's Church Said That the People do Not Realize That They are in The House of God

ANNUAL HARVET HOME

"It would make the angels weep to see the vile irreverence that is in what is called Canadian spiritual Protestantism. The people do not seem to realize that they are in the House of the Lord, and in His very presence. If the veil were removed from their eyes, and they were to see God as did St. John they would humble themselves, even with their faces to the earth, confessing their sins and singing His glory and praises."

In the course of a most practical and earnest sermon at the Harvest Festival at St. Luke's church last night, Very Rev. Dean Farthing, of Kingston, spoke the above words, asking the people to be more reverent, humble and obedient in their conduct towards God, and to devote their whole lives to Him, in their family, in public, and while engaged in active business.

The Sermon

Very Rev. Dean Farthing chose his text from the 4th chapter of the Revelation of St. John the Divine, in which the disciple describes the throne of heaven. The third verse is as follows:

"And He that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardonyx stone; and there was a rainbow round about the throne in sight like unto an emerald. And round about the throne were four and twenty seats; and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders, sitting, clothed in white raiment, and they had on their heads crowns of gold."

In these words the Apostle tried to convey an idea of what the Lord appeared like to him. The speaker said that men should be thankful that God is our judge, and that we are not to be judged by one of our fellow men. If so he said, there would be but a small chance for us. It would be impossible for one of us to judge others fairly, for we do not know all the facts, nor the motives that lead to actions—in short we do not know the mental facts which God knows. He, the speaker, said, takes into consideration the temptations and struggles which men undergo, to lead a good life; and if, at times we fail, He is forgiving, understanding fully all the circumstances.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., Ph. B., Rector of St. Luke's Church, in Which the Harvest Festival Was Held Last Night

Symbol of Hope

The rainbow which St. John mentions as being about the throne is a sign of God's promise to mankind. It is a sign that His harvest will never fail, and as it has always been a pledge of God's word, and has ever been faithful, we may look forward with the firm knowledge that it will never fail in the future, and likewise His word will never fail. Dean Farthing referred to St. John looking through the door, and the resulting happiness that the disciple felt, said our trusting in Jesus, and turning towards Him, when in trouble or in doubt, will bring a divine and soothing peace to all. The speaker's description of the throne of God as a haven of rest for wearied and burdened souls, was beautiful. He likened the peace that is found emanating from Jesus, although beyond human description, to that experienced by a passenger on an ocean steamer on a calm day, when the large vessel seems to be moving on a sea of glass, so tranquil and quiet are the surroundings.

Ideal Worship

After giving an idea of heaven, as a whole, as a place where those who gain it will not remain in total idleness, Dean Farthing continued, dealing at length with what constituted an ideal worship of God. He referred to the four beasts that were near the throne, and which unceasingly gave glory to God that the great essentials of worship as represented in that of those beasts were reverence, obedience and humility. The speaker declared that the people of to-day are not whole-hearted in their worship, and do not fully realize that it is to Jesus they are praying and giving praises, or they would be more earnestly devout. The twenty-four elders about the throne fell on their faces, casting their crowns at the feet of the Almighty, thereby surrendering everything to Him. People must remember, said Dr. Farthing, that they are required to surrender themselves to God unconditionally, for they belong to Him, and, more than that, everything they possess they owe to His goodness. It does not matter whether the person is rich or poor, he is still a steward of the Lord, and should fulfil his duties for the purpose of pleasing the Master.

"The Compartment Life"

The speaker said that many people have one code of morals in their family life, another in public, and still another in their business sphere. He compared this mode of living to a ship divided into compartments, so that if a leak is sprung in one, the others may be closed and the ship saved, until the damaged part is repaired. Dr. Farthing used strong words in condemning this method of living. He said that there is no more iniquitous device of satan for the destruction of man than a life of that kind. Men close up the spiritual compartment, and the others become worse and worse. Instead of living for God every moment of our lives, we do not act the same in public and in business as in private. The speaker said that an account will have to be rendered for every moment of our lives, and the business and public compartments will be the perdition of the soul.

In conclusion, Dr. Farthing urged the people to consider how they are living, and to have one code of morals which will be used towards everyone, and to try to devote every moment to doing something for God, even although it is merely the daily routine of work.

The Decorations

The church was tastefully decorated with fruits of the season's harvest, the yellow grain being in evidence. The choir rendered excellent music, and the whole service was one which tended to remind people that the harvest if given us by God, and that we owe Him all our provisions in return.

The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, who was assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church; Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church, Belleville, and Mr. T. H. Perry, assistant to Dr. Langfeldt.

Miss Charlotte English officiated at the organ and rendered excellent music. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. R. A. Sutcliffe, acquitted itself very creditably, and manifested good training. The anthem was "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land." Miss Dawson and Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., took the solo parts. After the sermon Miss Ruth Dawson sang a sacred solo, "Harvest," in her usual fine style.

ABUNDANT MUSIC LAST NIGHT

Salvation Army and 57th Bands Held Forth on Same Corner at Same Time

There was a conflict of music last night. The Salvation Army Band was holding its usual open-air service at the corner of George and Simcoe streets, and in a few minutes after the appearance of the Salvationists, the 57th Band took up its stand in front of Richard Hall & Son's store, just around the corner. The spectators—and there were soon a good many—could take their choice of secular or sacred music, and at times there were both at once. The Army was not to be outdone, however, and finished its service, marching off in triumph, later, to the Barracks.

DON'T DIE AT 45

Cure the Indigestion Which is So Liable to Lead to Apoplexy

People who suffer with headache, giddiness, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, drowsiness, distress after eating and any of the other distressing results of indigestion, are in serious danger. Their digestive organs cannot care for the food properly, and hence the coats of the blood vessels in the brain get little nourishment, become brittle and finally yield to the fierce blood pressure, and one is then said to have a "shock," be paralysed, or die from apoplexy.

In all diseases of digestion and nutrition the prescription called Mi-o-na has proven itself of great value. It is relied upon to-day as a certainty to relieve the worst cases of indigestion and make a complete cure.

That Mi-o-na will cure the worst forms of stomach troubles, cancer excepted, and give quick relief in indigestion, is proven by the guarantee Wm. Madill gives with every 50 cent box to refund the money unless Mi-o-na cures. A guarantee like this must inspire confidence.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR IS APPOINTED

Mr. C. H. James, Late of India, to Succeed Mr. Dingman

The vacancy caused by the resignation a short time ago of Mr. E. Dingman, physical director of the Y. M.C.A., has been already filled. The committee appointed at the last meeting to secure a successor, reported last night at the special meeting of the directors, and its recommendation was accepted. The position will be next undertaken by Mr. C. H. James, late of a British regiment in India, but who has spent about a year and a half in the city. Mr. James is a nephew of Mr. Charles James of Sherbrooke street. He assumes his duties on October 1, and comes well recommended from the regiment of which he was a member, and from London, where he spent a number of years in gymnasium work.

The English Orphans

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Lena Rivers," "The Homestead on the Hill," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"No," said she, "I cannot tell her. She'll have tears enough to shed by and by, but I'll double my diligence and watch little Willie more closely." So night after night, when Mary was sleeping the deep sleep of childhood, Sally would steal noiselessly to her room, and bending over the little wasting figure at her side, would wipe the cold sweat from her face and whisper in the unconscious baby's ear messages of love for "the other little Willie, now waiting for her in heaven."

At last Mary could no longer be deceived, and one day when Alice lay gasping in Sally's lap she said, "Aunt Sally, isn't Alice growing worse? She doesn't play now, nor try to walk."

Sally laid her hand on Mary's face and replied, "Poor child, you'll soon be all alone, for Willie's going to find his mother."

There was no outcry—no sudden gush of tears, but nervously clasping her hands upon her heart, as if the shock had entered there, Mary sat down upon her bed, and burying her face in the pillow, sat there for a long time. But she said nothing, and a careless observer might have thought that she cared nothing, as it became each day more and more evident that Alice was dying. But these knew not of the long nights when with untiring love she sat by her sister's cradle, listening to her irregular breathing, pressing her clammy hands, and praying to be forgiven if ever, in thought or deed, she had wronged the little one now leaving her.

And all this time there came no kind word or message of love from Ella, who knew that Alice was dying, for Billy had told her so. "Oh, if she would only come and see her," said Mary, "it wouldn't seem half so bad."

"Write to her," said Sal; "peradventure that may bring her."

Mary had not thought of this before, and now tearing a leaf from her writing book, and taking her pen, she wrote hurriedly: "Ella, dear Ella, won't you come and see little Alice once before she dies. You used to love her, and you would now if you could see how white and beautiful she looks. Oh, do come. Mrs. Campbell will let you, I know."

This note, which was blurred and blotted with tears, was carried by Billy who was going to the village, and delivered to Mrs. Campbell herself. Perhaps the proud woman remembered the time when her own darling died, or it may be that conscience upbraided her for caring so much for one orphan and utterly neglecting the other two. Be that as it may, her tears fell upon the paper and mingled with Mary's as she replied, "Ella shall come this afternoon.

But before afternoon a drizzling shower came on and Mary watched and waited in vain, for Ella did not come. The next morning was bright and beautiful as April mornings often are, and at as early an hour as was consistent with Mrs. Campbell's habits her carriage was before the door, and herself and Ella seated within it. The little lady was not in the best of humors, for she and her maid had quarreled about her dress, Ella insisting upon a bright-blue merino and the maid proposing a plain delaine, which Ella declared she would not wear. Mrs. Campbell, to whom the matter was referred, decided upon the delaine, consequently Ella cried and pouted, saying she wouldn't go, wondering what Alice wanted to be sick for, or anyway why they should send for her.

Meanwhile in and around the poorhouse there was for once perfect silence. Sal Furbush had been invisible for hours—the girl with crooked feet trod softly as she passed up and down the stairs—Uncle Peter's fiddle was unstrung, and, securely locked in his fiddle box, was stowed away at the bottom of his old red chest—and twice that morning when no one saw her, Miss Grundy had stolen out to Patsy's grave. Mary was not called to wash the dishes, but up in her room she sat with her head resting upon the window sill, while the sweet, fresh air of the morning swept over her face, lifting the hair from her flushed brow. Billy Bender was standing near her, his arm thrown around her and his lips occasionally pressing her forehead.

Suddenly there was the sound of carriage wheels, and he whispered in her ear, "Ella is coming."

Hastily running down the stairs, Mary met her sister in the doorway, and throwing her arms around her neck, burst into tears. Ella would gladly have shaken her off, for she felt that her curls were in danger of being mussed, and she had besides hardly recovered from her pet. But Mary firmly held her hand, and led her on through the long hall, into a room which they usually denominated "the best room."

There, upon the table, lay a little stiffened form. The blue eyes were closed, and the long eyelashes rested upon the marble cheek, and in the waxen hands, folded so carefully one over the other, there was a snowdrop. No one knew who placed it here, or whence it came. Gently Mary laid back the thin muslin covering, saying as she did so, "Allie is dead. I've got no sister left but you!" and again her arms closed convulsively about Ella's neck.

"You kind of choke me!" said Ella, trying to get free; and it was not until Mrs. Campbell, thoroughly ashamed of her want of feeling, took her hand and placed it on Alice's cold cheek, asking her if she were not sorry her little sister was dead, that she manifested any emotion whatever. Then, as if something of her better nature was roused, her lip trembled for a moment, and she burst into a violent fit of weeping.

"It is hardly natural," said she, "that she should feel it as deeply as Mary," said Mrs. Campbell to Billy Bender, who was present.

He made no reply, but he never forgot the scene; and when years after he met with Ella on terms of perfect equality—when he saw her petted, flattered, and admired, he turned away from the fawning multitude, remembering only the April morning when she stood by the dead body of her sister.

During all this time no trace of Sal Furbush had been seen, and at last a strict search was instituted, but to no effect, until Billy, who chanced to be passing the dark closet under the garret stairs, heard her whispering to herself, "Yes, little Willie's dead, and Sally's got three in heaven now."

Entering the place he found her crouched in one corner her hair hanging down her back, and her eyes flashing with unusual brightness.

"Why, Sally," said he, "what are you here for?"

"To save the credit of the house," was her ready reply. "When the other Willie died, they chained me in this dungeon, and thinking they might do so again, I concluded to come here quietly, wishing to save all trouble and confusion, for the utmost decorum should be preserved in the house of death."

"Poor woman," said Billy kindly, "no one wishes you to stay here. Come with me," and he took her hand to lead her forth.

But she resisted him, saying, that "fasting and solitude were nature's great restoratives."

"She has showed her good sense for once," said Miss Grundy, on hearing of Sally's whereabouts, "but ain't the critter hungry?" and owing to some newly-touched chord of kindness, a slice of toast and a cup of hot tea ere long found entrance into the darksome cell.

Strange to say, too, the hand which brought it was not repulsed, though very demurely and in seeming earnestness was the question asked, "Mrs Grundy, haven't you met with a change?"

The next day was the funeral. At first there was some talk of burying the child in the same inclosure with Patsy; but Mary pleaded so earnestly to have her laid by her mother, that her request was granted, and that night when the young spring moon came out it looked quietly down upon the grave of little Alice, who by her mother's side was sweetly sleeping.

CHAPTER XII.

Three weeks had passed away since Alice's death, and affairs at the poorhouse were beginning to glide on as usual. Sal Furbush, having satisfied her own ideas of propriety by remaining secluded for two or three days, had once more appeared in society; but now that Alice was no longer there to be watched, time hung wearily upon her hands, and she was again seized with her old desire for authorship. Accordingly, a grammar was commenced, which she said would contain nine hundred and ninety-nine rules for speaking the English language correctly!

Mary, who had resumed her post as dish-washer in the kitchen, was almost daily expecting Jenny; and one day when Billy came in to dinner he gave her the joyful intelligence that Jenny had returned, and had been in the field to see him, bidding him tell Mary to meet her that afternoon in the woods by the brook.

"Oh, I do hope Miss Grundy will let me go," said Mary, "and I guess she will, for since Allie died she hasn't been near so cross."

"If she don't, I will," answered Mr. Parker, who chanced to be standing near, and who had learned to regard the little orphan girl with more than usual interest.

But Miss Grundy made no objections, and when the last dishcloth was wrung dry, and the last iron spoon put in its place, Mary bounded joyfully away to the woods, where she found Jenny, who embraced her in a manner which showed that she had not been forgotten.

"Oh," said she, "I've got so much to tell you, and so much to hear, though I know all about dear little Allie's death—didn't you feel dreadfully?"

Mary's tears were a sufficient answer, and Jenny, as if suddenly discovering something new, exclaimed, "Why, what have you been doing? Who pulled your teeth?"

Mary explained the circumstances of the tooth-pulling, and Jenny continued: "You look a great deal better, and if your cheeks were only a little fatter and your skin not quite so yellow, you'd be real handsome; but no matter about that. I saw George Moreland in Boston, and I wanted to tell him about you, but I'd promised not to; and then at first I felt afraid of him, for you can't think what a great big fellow he's got to be. Why, he's awful tall! and handsome, too. Rose likes him, and so do lots of the girls, but I don't believe he cares a bit for any of them except his cousin Ida, and I guess he does like her; anyway, he looks at her as though he did."

Mary wondered how he looked at her, and would perhaps have asked, had she not been prevented by the sudden appearance of Henry Lincoln, who directly in front of her leaped across the brook. He was evidently not much improved in his manners, for the moment he was safely landed on terra firma he approached her, and seizing her round the waist, exclaimed, "Halloo, little pauper! You're glad to see me back, I dare say."

Then drawing her head over so that he could look into her face, he continued, "Had your tusks out haven't you? Well, it's quite an improvement, so much so that I'll venture to kiss you."

Mary struggled, and Jenny scolded, while Henry said, "Don't kick and flounce so, my little beauty. If there's anything I hate, it's seeing girls make believe they're modest. That clodhopper Bill kisses you every day, I'll warrant."

Here Jenny's wrath exploded; and going up to her brother, she attempted to pull him away, until bethinking her of the brook, she commenced sprinkling him with water, but observing that more of it fell upon Mary than on her brother, she desisted, while Henry, having accommplished his purpose, began spitting and making wry faces, assuring Mary that "she needn't be afraid of his ever troubling her again, for her lips were musty, and tasted of the poorhouse!"

Meanwhile Tasso, who had become a great favorite with Mary, and on this occasion had accompanied her to the woods, was standing on the other side of the brook, eyeing Henry's movements, and apparently trying to make up his mind whether his interference was necessary or not. A low growl showed that he was evidently deciding the matter, when Henry desisted, and walked leisurely off.

Ere long, however, he returned, and called out, "See, girls, I've got an elegant necklace for you."

Looking up, they saw him advancing toward them with a small water snake, which he held in his hand; and readily divining his purpose, they started and ran, while he pursued them, threatening to wind the snake around the neck of the first one he caught. Jenny, who was too chubby to be very swift-footed, took refuge behind a clump of alder bushes, but Mary kept on, and just as she reached a point where the brook turned, Henry overtook her, and would perhaps have carried his threat into execution, had not help arrived from an unexpected quarter, Tasso, who had watched, and felt sure that this time all was not right, suddenly pounced upon Henry, throwing him down, and then planting himself upon his prostrate form in such a manner that he dared not move.

"Oh, good, good," said Jenny, coming out from her concealment; "make Tasso keep him there ever so long; and," she continued, patting the dog, "if you won't hurt him much you may shake him just a little."

"No, no," said Henry writhing with fear, "call him off, do call him off. Oh, mercy!" he added, as Tasso, who did not particularly care to have the case reasoned, showed two rows of very white teeth.

Mary could not help laughing at the figure which Henry cut; but thinking him sufficiently punished, she called off the dog, who obeyed rather unwillingly, and ever after manifested his dislike to Henry by growling angrily whenever he appeared.

One morning about two weeks afterward Mary was in the meadow gathering cowslips for dinner, when she heard some one calling her name; and looking up, she saw Jenny hurrying toward her, her sunbonnet hanging down her back as usual, and her cheeks flushed with violent exercise. As soon as she came up she began with, "Oh, my, ain't I hot and tired, and I can't stay a minute, either, for I ran away. But I had such good news to tell you, that I would come. You are going to have a great deal better home than this. You know where Rice Corner is, the district over east?"

Mary replied that she did, and Jenny continued: "We all went over there yesterday to see Mrs. Mason. She's a real nice lady, who used to live in Boston, and be intimate with ma, until three or four years ago, when Mr. Mason died. We didn't go there any more then, and I asked Rose what the reason was, and she said Mrs. Mason was poor now, and ma had 'cut her'; and when I asked her what she cut her with, she only laughed, and said she believed I didn't know anything. But since then I've learned what it means."

"What does it?" asked Mary, and Jenny replied:

"If a person dies and leaves no money, no matter how good his folks are, or how much you like them, you mustn't know them when you meet them in the street, or you must cross over the other side if you see them coming; and then when ladies call and speak about them, you must draw a great long breath, and wonder 'how the poor thing will get along, she was so dreadful extravagant.' I positively heard mother say those very words about Mrs. Mason; and what is so funny, the washwoman the same day spoke of her, and cried when she told how kind she was, and how she would go without things herself for the sake of giving to the poor. It's queer, isn't it?"

Ah, Jenny, Jenny, you've much of life yet to learn!

After a moment's pause Jenny proceeded: "This Mrs. Mason came into the country, and bought the prettiest little cottage you ever saw. She has lots of nice fruit, and for all mother pretends in Boston that she don't visit her, just as soon as the fruit is ripe she always goes there. Pa says it's real mean, and she should think Mrs. Mason would see through it."

"Did you go there for fruit yesterday?" asked Mary.

"Oh, no," returned Jenny. "Mother said she was tired to death with staying at home. Besides that, she heard something in Boston about a large estate in England, which possibly would fall to Mrs. Mason, and she thought it would be real kind to go and tell her. Mrs. Mason has poor health, and while we were there she asked mother if she knew of any good little girl she could get to come and live with her; 'one,' she said, 'who could be quiet when her head ached, and who would read to her and wait on her at other times.' Mother said she did not know of any, but when Mrs. Mason went out to get tea, I followed and told her of you, and the tears came into her eyes when I said your folks were all dead, and you were alone and sorry. She said right off that she would come round and see you soon, and if she liked you you should live with her. But I must run back, for I suppose you know mother brought our governess with us, and it's time I was turning my toes out and my elbows in. Ugh! how I do hate such works. If I ever have a house there shan't be a fashionable thing about it. I'll have it full of cats, dogs, and poor children, with a swing and a 'teeter' in every room, and Billy Bender shall live with me, and drive the horses!"

So saying, she ran off; and Mary, having gathered her cowslips, sat

It Made Me a Well Woman

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than doctors or medicines. I suffered for four months with suppression of monthly periods. Headaches were a daily occurrence. Pains in my back and limbs made it hard for me to attend to my domestic duties.

The medicines I had taken did not help me, and I was in misery and despair until one day I read an account of your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and I thank God that I did so, for it not only regulated my monthly periods, but made me a well woman.

blown to think of Mrs. Mason, and wonder if she should ever see her. Since Alice's death she had been in the daily habit of learning a short lesson, which she recited to Sally, and this afternoon, when the dishes were all washed, she had as usual stolen away to her books. She had not been long occupied ere Rind called her, saying Mr. Knight, who, it will be remembered, had brought her to the poorhouse, was downstairs and wanted to see her, and that there was a lady with him, too.

Mary readily guessed that the lady must be Mrs. Mason, and carefully brushing her hair, and tying on a clean apron, she descended to the kitchen, where she was met by Mr. Knight, who called out, "Halloo! my child, how do you do? 'Pears to me you've grown handsome. It agrees with you to live here, I reckon, but I'll venture you'll be glad enough to leave, and go and live with her, won't you?" pointing toward a lady who was just coming from Mrs. Parker's room and toward whom Mary's heart instantly warmed.

"You see," continued Mr. Knight, "one of the Lincoln girls has taken a mighty shine to you, and it's queer, too, for they're dreadful stuckup folks."

"If you please, sir," said Mary, interrupting him, "Jenny isn't a bit stuckup."

"Umph!" returned Mr. Knight. "She don't belong to the Lincoln race, then, I guess. I know them, root and branch. Lincoln's wife used to work in the factory at Southbridge, but she's forgot all about that, and holds her head dreadful high whenever she sees me. But that's neither here nor there. This woman wants you to live with her. Miss Mason, this is Mary, Mary, this is Miss Mason."

The introduction being thus happily over, Mrs. Mason proceeded to ask Mary a variety of questions, and ended by saying she thought she would take her, although she would rather not have her come for a few days, as she was going to be absent. Miss Grandy was now interrogated concerning her knowledge of work, and with quite a consequential air she replied, "Perhaps, ma'am, it looks too much like praising myself, considerin' that I've had the managin' of her mostly, but I must confess that she's lived with me so long, and got my ways so well, that she's as pleasant a mannered, good-tempered child, and will scour as bright a knife as you could wish to see!"

Mary saw that Mrs. Mason could hardly repress a smile as she replied, "I am glad about the temper and manners, but the scouring of knives is of little consequence, for Judith always does that."

Sal Furbush, who had courtesied herself into the room, now asked to say a word concerning Mary. "She is," said she, "the very apple of my eye, and can parse a sentence containing three double relatives, two subjunctive moods, and four nominatives absolute, perfectly easily."

"I see you are a favorite here," said Mrs. Mason, laying her hand gently on Mary's head, "and I think that in time you will be quite as much of a one with me, so one week from Saturday you may expect me."

There was something so very affectionate in Mrs. Mason's manner of speaking that Mary could not keep the tears back, and when Sally, chancing to be in a poetic mood, said to her, "Maiden, wherefore weepest thou?" she replied, "I can't help it. She speaks so kind, and makes me think of mother."

"Speaks so kindly, you mean," returned Sal, while Mrs. Mason, brushing a tear from her own eye, whispered to the little girl, "I will be a mother to you, my child;" then, as Mr. Knight had finished discussing the weather with Mr. Parker, she stepped into his buggy, and was driven away.

"That's what I call a thoroughly grammatical lady," said Sal, looking after her until a turn in the road hid her from view, "and I shall try to be resigned, though the vital spark leaves this house when Mary goes."

Not long after, Rind asked Miss Grundy if William Bender was going away.

"Not as I know on," answered Miss Grundy. "What made you think of that?"

"'Cause," returned Rind, "I heard Sal Furbush having over a mess of stuff about the sparks leaving when Mary did, and I thought mebby he was going, as you say he's her spark!"

The next afternoon Jenny, managing to elude the watchful eyes of her mother and governess, came over to the poorhouse.

"I'm so glad you are going," said she, when she heard of Mrs. Mason's visit. "I shall be lonesome without you, but you'll have such a happy home—and when you get there mayn't I tell George Moreland about you the next time I see him?"

"I'd rather you wouldn't," said Mary, "for I don't believe he remembers me at all."

"Perhaps not," returned Jenny, "and I guess you wouldn't know him; for besides being so tall he has begun to shave, and Ida think's he trying to raise whiskers!"

That night, when Mary was alone, she drew from its hiding-place the golden locket; but the charm was broken, and the pleasure she had before experienced in looking at it now faded away with Jenny's picture of a whiskered young man, six feet high! Very rapidly indeed did Mary's last week at the poorhouse pass away, and for some reason or other, everything went on, as Rind said, "wrong end up." Miss Grundy was crosser than usual, though all observed that her voice grew milder in its tone whenever she addressed Mary, and once she went so far as to say, by way of a general remark, that she never yet treated anybody, particularly a child, badly without feeling sorry for it."

Sal Furbush was uncommonly wild, dancing on her toes, making faces, repeating her nine hundred and ninety-nine rules of grammar, and quoting Scripture, especially the passage, "The Lord gave, and the Lord taketh away," etc. Uncle Peter, too, labored assiduously at "Delia's Dirge," which he intended playing as Mary was leaving the yard.

Saturday came at last, and long before the sun peeped over the eastern hills Mary was up and dressed. Just as she was ready to leave her room she heard Sally singing in a low tone, "Oh there'll be mourning—mourning—mourning—mourning; Oh, there'll be mourning when Mary's gone away."

Hastily opening her own door, she knocked at Sal's and was bidden to enter. She found her friend seated in the middle of the floor, while scattered around her were the entire contents of the old barrel and box which contained her wearing apparel.

"Good-morning, little dreary," said she, "I am looking over my somewhat limited wardrobe, in quest of something wherewith to make your heart happy, but my search is vain. I can find nothing except the original manuscript of my first novel. I do not need it now, for I shall make enough out of my grammar. So take it, and when you are rich and influential you'll have no trouble in getting it published—none at all."

So saying, she thrust into Mary's hand a large package, carefully wrapped in half a dozen newspaper, and the whole enveloped in a snuff-colored silk handkerchief, which Willie's father used to wear." Here Rind came up the stairs saying breakfast was ready, and after putting her present aside Mary descended to the kitchen, where she found the table arranged with more than usual care. An old red waiter, which was only used on special occasions, was placed near Miss Grundy, and on it stood the phenomenon of a hissing coffee-pot; and, what was stranger still, in the place of the tin basin from which Mary had recently been accustomed to eat her bread and milk, there was now a cup and saucer, which surely must have been intended for her. Her wonder was at its height when Miss Grundy entered from the back room, bearing a plate filled with snowy white biscuit, which she placed upon the table with an air of "There, what do you think of that?"—then seating herself, she skimmed all the cream from the bowl of milk, and preparing a delicious cup of coffee, passed it to Mary before helping the rest.

"Is the millennium about to be ushered in?" asked Sal in amazement; while Uncle Peter, reverently rising, said, "Fellow-citizens and ladies, for these extras let us thank the Lord, remembering to ask a continuation of the same!"

"Do let your victuals stop your mouth," said Miss Grundy, "and don't act as though we never had coffee and biscuit for breakfast before."

"My memory has failed wonderfully if we ever did," was Uncle Peter's reply.

Breakfast being over, Mary as usual commenced clearing the table, but Miss Grundy bade her "sit down and rest her," and Mary obeyed, wondering what she had done to tire herself. About nine o'clock Mr Knight drove up alone, Mrs. Mason being sick with nervous headache. "I should have been here sooner, said he, "but the roads is awful rough, and old Charlotte has got a stub or somethin' in her foot. But where's the gal? Ain't she ready?"

He was answered by Mary herself, who made her appearance, followed by Billy bearing the box. And now commenced the leave-takings.

"May I kiss you, Miss Grundy?" said Mary, while Sal exclaimed aside, "What! kiss those solèleather lips?" at the same time indicating by a guttural sound the probable effect such a process would have upon her stomach!

Miss Grundy bent down and received the child's kiss, and then darting off into the pantry, went to skimming pans of milk already skimmed! Rind and the pleasant-looking woman cried outright; and Uncle Peter between times kept ejaculating, "Oh, Lord! oh, massy sake!—oh, for land!" while he industriously plied his fiddle-bow in the execution of "Delia's Dirge," which really sounded unearthly and dirge-like enough. Billy knew it would be lonely without Mary, but he was glad to have her go to a better home, so he tried to be cheerful, telling her he would take good care of Tasso, and that whenever she chose she must claim her property.

Aside from him, Sally was the only composed one. It is true her eyes were very bright, and there was a compression about her mouth seldom seen, except just before one of her frenzied attacks. Occasionally, too, she pressed her hands upon her head, and walking to the sink, bathed it in water, as if to cool its inward heat; but she said nothing until Mary was about stepping into the buggy, when she whispered in her ear, "If that novel should have an unprecedented run, and of course it will, you would not mind sharing the profits with me, would you?"

CHAPTER XIII.

Very different this time was Mary's ride with Mr. Knight from what it had been some months before, and after brushing away a few natural tears, and sending back a few heart-sighs to the loved ones left behind her spirits rallied, and by the time they reached the borders of Rice Corner, there was such a look of quiet happiness on her face that even Mr. Knight noticed it.

"I'll be hanged if I know what to make of it," said he. "When you rid with me afore, I thought you was about as ugly-favored a child as I ever see, and now you look full as well as they'll average. What you been doin'?"

"Perhaps it's because I've had my teeth out," suggested Mary, and Mr. Knight, with another scrutinizing look in her face, replied, "Wall, I guess 'tis that. Teeth is good in their place, but when they got to achin', why, yank 'em out."

So saying, he again relapsed into silence, and commenced whipping at the thistle tops and dandelions. As they rode on Mary fancied that the country looked pleasanter and the houses better than in the region of the poorhouse; and when a sudden turn of the road brought into view a beautiful blue sheet of water, embosomed by bright green hills, her delight knew no bounds. Springing up and pointing toward it she exclaimed, "Oh! please stop a moment and look. Isn't it lovely! What is it?"

"That? Oh! that's nothing but 'Pordunk Pond,' or as folks most generally call 'em seein' ther's two North and South Pond."

"But it's big enough to be a lake, isn't it?" asked Mary.

"Why, yes," returned her companion, "It's better than five miles long, and a mile or so wide, and in York State I s'pose they'd call it a lake, but here in old Massachusetts we stick to fust principles and call all things by their right names."

"How far is the pond from Mrs. Mason's?" asked Mary, casting longing glances toward the distant sandy beach, and the graceful trees which drooped over the water's edge.

"It's farther back than 'tis there, 'cause it's uphill all the way," said Mr. Knight, "but here we be at Miss Mason's,—this house right here," and he pointed to a neat, handsome cottage, almost hidden from view by the dense foliage which surrounded it.

There was a long lawn in front, and into the carriage road on the right of it Mr. Knight turned, and driving up to a side door, said to Mary, "Come, jump down, for my foot is so lame I don't believe I'll get out. But there's your chest. You can't lift that. Halloo! Judith, come 'ere."

In answer to this call a fat, pleasant-looking colored woman appeared in the doorway, and as if fresh from the regions of cookdom wiped the drops of perspiration from her round, jolly face.

"Here, Judith," said Mr. Knight, "help this gal lift her traps out."

Judith complied, and then bidding old Charlotte to "get up," Mr. Knight drove away, leaving Mary standing by the kitchen door.

"Come in and sit down," said Judith, pushing a chair toward Mary with her foot. "It's as hot here as an oven, but I had crambry sass and ginger snaps, and massy knows what, to make this morning, and I got belated; but set down and make yourself to home."

Mary took the proffered seat, and then Judith left the room for a few moments, saying when she returned that as Mrs. Mason was still suffering from a headache she could not see Mary until after dinner. "And," continued Judith, "she told me to entertain you, but I don't know what to say nor do first. Harry died just a week to a day before we was to be married, and so I never had any little girls to talk to. Can't you think of something to talk about? What have you been used to doing?"

"Washing dishes," was Mary's reply, after glancing about the room, and making sure that on this occasion there were none to wash.

"Wall," answered Judith, "I guess you won't have that to do here for one night when some of the neighbors were in I heard Miss Mason tell 'em that she got you to read to her and wait on her. And then she said something about your not having an equal chance with your sister. You hain't but one, now t'other's dead, have you?"

Mary replied in the negative, and Judith continued: "Wall, now you've got over the first on't, I reckon you's glad the baby's dead, for she must have been kind of a bother, wasn't she?"

Instantly Mary's thoughts flew back to an empty cradle, and again a little golden head was pillowed upon her breast, as often in times past it had been, and as it would never be again Covering her face with her hands she sobbed, "Oh, Allie, Allie! I wish she hadn't died."

Judith looked on in amazement, and for want of something better to do placed a fresh stick of wood in the stove, muttering to herself, "Now I never! I might of knew I didn't know what to say. What a pity Harry died. I'll give her that big ginger snap the minute it's baked. See if I don't."

Accordingly when the snap was done Judith placed it in Mary's hands, bidding her eat it quick, and then go up and see the nice chamber Mrs. Mason had arranged for her.

"If you please," said Mary, rapidly shifting the hot cake from one hand to the other—"if you please, I had rather go up now, and eat the cake when it is cool."

"Come, then," said Judith; and leading the way she conducted Mary up the staircase, and through a light, airy hall to the door of a small room, which she opened saying, "Look, ain't it pretty?"

But Mary's heart was too full to speak, and for several minutes she stood silent. With the exception of her mother's pleasant parlor in old England, she had never before seen anything which seemed to her so cozy and cheerful as did that little room, with its single bed, snowy counterpane, muslin curtains, clean matting, convenient toilet table, and what to her was fairer than all the rest, upon the mantelpiece there stood two small vases, filled with sweet spring flowers, whose fragrance filled the apartment with delicious perfume. All this was so different from the bare walls, uncovered floors, and rickety furniture of the poorhouse that Mary trembled lest it should prove a dream from which ere long she would awake.

"Oh, why is Mrs. Mason so kind to me?" was her mental exclamation; and as some of our readers may ask the same question we will explain to them that Mrs. Mason was one of the few who "do to others as they would others should do to them."

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. M. Barrett, 602 Morgan St., Montreal, says:—"A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He was so fretful all day long that it made it very hard for me. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was one day advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. He gradually became more easy and able to sleep. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health. He has got fat and plump, weighs no less than 32 lbs., although only 7 months old, and is in first-class condition."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors, 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes for $2.50.

The Making of a Successful Wife

By CASPER S. YOST.

PAPA'S CONSENT.—It's All Right if William Loves You and You Love Him and He's Neither a Dead Beat Nor a Spendthrift, but Has a Good Job and a Little Cash on Hand.

[Copyright, 1906, by Casper S. Yost.]

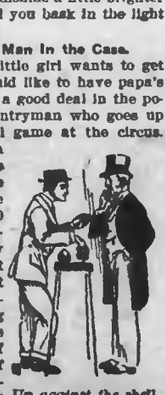
MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL—I am simply consumed with astonishment. The idea of my daughter, my little sweetheart, thinking of marriage comes to me like a blow from a pile driver, and you know, my dear, that pile drivers hit a pretty hard lick, especially when you aren't looking. I'm away from home so much that it's mighty hard to realize that you are not my baby any more; that it is no longer proper nor dignified to dandle you on my knee—not for me, at least; that your dresses have lengthened downward until they curl around your dainty ankles, and the golden hair that used to hang down your back like a streak of woven sunshine is now done up in a fashionable something or other on top of your head. I forget that you are a young lady, a graduate from a swell seminary, can hammer the piano to make a Paderewski (I'm not sure whether I spell that right or not) sit up and take notice; can embroider dinky little flowers so faithfully that the honeybees come into the windows to suck the corner drug store perfume from their silken centers; can quote Virgil and Tennyson and Browning and other people that I don't understand and don't care to, but am mighty proud that you do; can write and read such erudite papers on the whitherness of the wherefore at the women's club that all the bearers, I am told, are filled with wonder that so much knowledge could be brought together under such a pretty hat. In short, my dear, I forget that my daughter as an up to date young lady is strictly it.

Can hammer the piano.

La me, child, it seems only yesterday that I was reading you fairy stories from a yellow covered linen book and showing you how A was differentiated from B by certain peculiarities of architecture. Don't you remember how you used to hide behind the rosebush by the walk and jump out and frighten me half to death by hollering "Boo!" when I came home in the evening? Don't you remember how you used to climb up into the haymow and slide down with a cry of alarm at the start and a shout of delight at the finish when you landed safely in my arms? Don't you remember—but, pshaw! Of course you don't. You haven't reached the age of memories yet. In your imagination all the beauty and brightness and glory of life are just ahead of you, and you look that way. I pray God that you may always look that way, always see the sunshine a little brighter just beyond until you bask in the light supernal.

The Young Man in the Case.

And now my little girl wants to get married and would like to have papa's consent. Papa's a good deal in the position of the countryman who goes up against the shell game at the circus. The young man in the case is working the shells, and the chances are 100 to 1 against papa. I'm mighty sorry that I don't know him. At least, I don't remember having met him unless he was one of that string of dough faced popinjays that danced around you all the time I was at home last trip and kept me from seeing you when I wanted you all alone. Of all the high collared, turned up trousers dudes I ever saw that bunch was the worst. But, there; maybe he was one of them, and, come to think of it, my judgment was based on the mass.



Up against the shell game.

You say he's the dearest, sweetest, bestest—but, my dear little girl, if Mr. William Jackson Rollins is all that you say he is the morning papers in heaven must be running display advertisements asking for information as to the whereabouts of a lost, strayed or stolen angel. If William fits your description he's got no business down here. His proper job is flitting around the pearly gates shooing away us old sinners who want to break in. But I'm willing to make allowances for superlatives of rhetoric and enthusiasm and consider your prospectus on a 1 per cent basis. Besides, your mother assures me that William is all wool and the proper width, and forty years' experience has taught me that your mother's judgment can be relied on.

Personally I don't think any man that walks—or any that rides in an automobile, for that matter—is good enough for my little girl, but your old daddy's got sense enough to know it's the way of woman to let some good for nothing cuss in trousers carry her off, just as I did your mother, though for the life of me I never could understand what she could see in this bundle of bones to hanker after. The Lord did a mighty good job when he made woman, but it seems to me he might have improved upon Adam a little.

I don't expect to find perfection in William. If he's got a sufficient quantity of good, everyday sense, if he's honest and upright, if he doesn't jump backward when anybody says work, and if he really and truly loves you, I reckon that's all that I can reasonably expect.

He Must Be Saving.

I'm not particular about the size of his bank deposit. Just as an evidence of backbone I hope he's out of debt and has a little money laid by. I would hate to see you married to a deadbeat or a spendthrift. One is a moral and the other is a mental delinquent, and you wouldn't be likely to find happiness with either. But given industry and a disposition to spend a little less than is made and comparative poverty in youth is no great drawback. When I married your mother I had a stout heart, a steady job, my trousseau and $200 in cash. That was all my capital. I have more than that now in cash, but I don't feel as rich as I did then, nor was I in reality. That is a good enough foundation for any youngster to begin married life with, provided, of course, the girl in the case is contented to start with that and he satisfied with what he can provide for her without overstepping his income. So I say that if William is as well fixed as I was I shall have no objection to him on the financial score. But it is mighty important that he have this start. It's mighty embarrassing to a bride to find the tailor's unreceipted bill in the inside pocket of her hubby's wedding coat, and if you discover that William is a little backward in money matters you'd better postpone the joyous ceremony until he can get a move on himself and get ahead of the pay wagon.

Embarrassing to a bride.

On the other hand, my dear, if he has a roll as big as a telegraph pole I wouldn't consider it an insurmountable obstacle. Money is a mighty good thing to have lying around, and I don't know that I would consider it advisable to put a limit on the amount, provided it doesn't pile up around a man's legs so that he can't work. I have taken it for granted, little girl, that you love each other. I don't know why I should, for I am well aware that love is getting to be unfashionable, but I am one of those old fashioned fellows who believe that love is quite essential to happiness in married life and have no patience with those people who hold that mutual esteem is a satisfying substitute. There are lots of men and lots of women that I highly esteem, but I'd hate mighty bad to have to make a contract to live with any one of them indefinitely. Love is an entirely different proposition. It comes to the normal man or woman but once—once at a time, at any rate—and it's the feeling which the good Lord meant should be a prelude to and a necessary accompaniment of the relations between man and wife. It's the real divine fire, little girl, and there are no substitutes that are of as much value as a cocklebur in a sack of oats by comparison. But young folks are sometimes mistaken in the feeling.

The Genuine Article.

Do you remember how you broke out with the hives at the same time Nannie Jones was down with the smallpox over in the next block and how desperately scared your poor mother was? Lots of people make the same mistake about love. They think they have a very serious attack of the real thing when it's only a case of hives, figuratively speaking. I hope you and William have caught the genuine article. None but the genuine will last; none but the genuine will carry you through the storms and land you safely in the blessed haven. Your mother and I have passed forty happy years together. There have been trials and troubles a-many, God knows, but we braved and breasted and surmounted them together upheld by love. That's the main thing, honey. Do you love him, really love him? Does he love you? Money and position and brains are of small importance when compared with love. It doesn't insure happiness. There are circumstances under which love is unhappy, miserably unhappy sometimes, but you certainly can't be happy long without it.

Yes, my little girl, you have my consent full and free. I wish I had more light. I wish that my judgment could be based more upon personal observation than in my confidence in your mother's good sense, strong as that is, and in your own well tried discretion. I would like much to see and know the man of your choice before I handed you over to his keeping, but I am so situated that I cannot do as I wish. I must go it blind, my dear, and perhaps it is just as well. If I were at home I would doubtless do just as your mother and yourself desired me to do, and whether we know or whether we don't we must still to a certain extent go it blind in this matter of matrimony. We have to take a good deal on trust anyhow, and we can only hope and pray that your married life may be as happy, as free from care, as your mother and I have tried to make your childhood days; that your husband may be, and always be, all that you now believe him to be, and that as wife and mother you may reach as near to perfection as the dear one who gave you birth.

And now, little one, as to your wedding. I don't believe in long engagements, but don't be in a hurry. The engagement is a period of trial that is a mighty valuable preliminary to marriage. It gives you a chance to get better acquainted with one another, to get a closer view of the other's qualities, to find out whether you are really fitted for life together. There's no rush about it. The parson isn't going to leave town. And whatever you do, honey, don't sneak out the back door and get married by a justice of the peace with a deputy constable as the witness. That isn't a real marriage. It's just a going through some legal forms that enable you to live together without being interfered with by the sheriff. Her wedding should be the greatest event of a girl's life—something that will be full of pleasant memories for her in after years; a memory of pretty dresses and a prettier bride, a memory of joyous music and glorious flowers, with the odor of orange blossoms hovering over all and scenting the years like a breath from the blessed land, and, above all, a memory of solemn ceremony and of holy vows so impressed upon young hearts by the beauty and sublimity of the surroundings and the service that time cannot efface them.

You Are Worth Waiting For.

You can't afford to miss the material pleasures of the preparation; the hours of shopping with your mother, the making of plans and specifications for the bridal gown, the building of weird and wonderful garments immersed in oceans of ruffles and laces and ribbons, the delightful little pernuptial social events with which your friends honor you—you mustn't skip all these just because William is impatient. Give him to understand that anything worth having is worth waiting for as well as working for, and if my little girl isn't worth having I don't know anything on this green earth that is. No, sweetheart, take your time and get married right. I haven't any use for these impromptu weddings. "Let's go out and get an ice cream soda, and while we're about it we might as well tie up." That's the kind of stuff that fills the divorce courts and the newspapers with harrowing tales of unhappiness. Don't do that, dearie; it doesn't pay. Besides, I want to have you for my own a little longer, and when you do get married your old daddy wants to be there to be permitted to walk down the aisle of the church with you on his arm and to give you away while pride and sorrow and joy are rolling over one another in his heart. Yes, little girl, you have my consent, and may God ever bless you. Your affectionate father,

Your old daddy wants to walk down the aisle with you on his arm.

JOHN SNEED.

P. S.—I have just received a manly, sensible, modest letter from William—just the kind of letter I should want to get from my future son-in-law. It gives me the impression that his friends call him Bill, and I like that. If his name had been Reginald or Algernon I should have felt compelled to go home on the first train to look him over. J. S.

His Query.

Wilfred was taken to the lake, which was entirely frozen over, and the smooth ice glittered in the sunlight. It was the first time the little fellow had seen this body of water covered with ice, and, after viewing it for a few minutes, he turned to his mother and asked innocently:

"Say, mamma, who put the lid on the lake?"—Circle.

CANADA, BE GLAD.

(The opening of the King Edward Sanitarium for Consumptives, near Weston, Aug. 28, 1907.)

O Canada, be glad, be glad!
Behold yon light—
A radiance tender draweth nigh,
A glory stealeth o'er the sky,
Dispelling night.

Dark, dark and long hath been the night
O'er all the land,
To many daughters dear to thee.
Pale-veiled in wasting mystery
None understand.

A sweet girl graces yonder home,
Her cheek health-red;
The pale king comes and silent stoops,
He breathes on her, the fair rose droops,
And she is dead.

Ten thousand homes the blight inhale
Of his chill breath;
Remorseless breathed as he goes by,
And joy and hope hoar-frosted lie
In withered death.

O Canada! hope, hope thou still—
The dawn has come,
A ray of gold has reached the sky,
A radiance healing draweth nigh
To every home.

On darkness dense the wasting plague
Shall prey no more,
The light to simple life has come,
The hopeless find a hopeful home,
As ne'er before.

God bless, thrice bless, the open hand—
Thy praise we sing;
And blessing be, with deathless fame,
On him that lends his gracious name—
God bless our King.

PLEA FOR INDIVIDUALITY.

President Falconer of Toronto on the Maritime Provinces.

In his recent address to the Canadian Club of St. John, N. B., Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, said: Individuality in countries, towns and persons is disappearing so fast that the interests and richness of life are probably less than they were. Let me urge you not to be over anxious to reproduce here the same type of living which is found elsewhere. These provinces, if they live their own simple and yet busy life, will enrich the total life of the Dominion more than by seeking to follow the example of large and wealthier provinces. The very variety of life here gives it character. Here there is no monotony of landscape, and you have the sounding sea running far and wide and bringing ships from foreign ports close to your own homes. You have the breadth and mystery of the ocean, here no one industry prevails over all others. You have farmers, miners, lumbermen, those who follow the sea, each with his way of looking at life, and as they co-mingle, each adding interest to the whole. You have many who by education and travel are able to impart their refinement to the community, making their influence the more sensible as their are no cities large enough to dissipate the culture of the few. In the towns and cities there are numbers of thoughtful, quiet people whose interest in the higher side of life extends far more widely than they imagine. The provinces would be distinctly the poorer were these people to be gathered out of the towns and centred in large and rapidly-growing cities. If anything has distinguished the Maritime Provinces in the past it has assuredly been their reputation for intelligence. Few countries of the new world have had a higher average of thoughtful competent citizenship. For generations the rights of the people have been understood, as also the necessity for intelligence in order that the privileges of a democracy may be exercised. This has partly arisen through the contest for political justice. In the Maritime Provinces it may not have been so violent as elsewhere, but it was very real. Our fathers understood what they wanted, and they learned to govern themselves.

Canada's Hunt For Trade.

The people and politicians of the United States should take care lest they underestimate our neighbor on the north. The Canadian people are displaying a remarkable spirit of enterprise and are reaching around us for trade through the south that should naturally come to us. This friendship of Canada has been met halfway by the Mexican Government, and a subsidized Pacific coast steamship line has been established as a result. Ships of this line are not permitted to call for freight at any port in the United States, but must carry only between Canadian and Mexican ports. For this they receive a subsidy from both countries. The enterprise may not be an unqualified success, but it is significant and calls for careful attention on the part of the American people and of their representatives in congress.—Van Norden's Magazine.

Pleased With the West.

A delegation of farmers from Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois and Minnesota arrived at Winnipeg recently and were taken out to the irrigation lands east of the city. They were so pleased with the country that they have purchased over 8,000 acres of land from the C. P. R. Colonization & Irrigation Co. In conversation Mr. R. L. Janes of Blue Island, Ill., the leader of the party, stated that they were all practical farmers, and on their drive out to the country saw all the grain looking so splendid they could not resist buying. They consider it the best country they have ever seen for growing small grains and sugar beets and for raising hogs and horses. These people are representatives of large tracts of farming country in the western States, and say that they will return home to preach the gospel of western Canada.

Didn't Fire Him.

A kind old gentleman, seeing a small boy who was carrying a lot of newspapers under his arm, said, "Don't all those papers make you tired, my boy?"

"Naw, I don't read 'em," replied the lad.

KIDNAPPED BY MOTHER.

Journalist Attempts to Recover His Child by Force.

Campbellton, N. B., Sept. 20.—In a case which promises to be one of the greatest sensations ever heard in a Restigouche court, the marital troubles of W. H. Stewart, an American journalist and his wife, will be heard at Dalhousie in the near future.

The case is one in which Mr. Stewart seeks to have returned to his custody his 14-year-old daughter, Winnie, now in the care of Rev. Mr. Bate, rector of the Episcopal Church at Dalhousie.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, who were married about 15 years ago in Ontario, lived happily during the greater part of their union, but a little over two years ago were divorced, he being granted the care of the children. The couple were then living in New York, where the husband was on the staff of a paper. Stewart went to Los Angeles and engaged in magazine writing.

One day while at his office the children were kidnapped by Mrs. Stewart. He succeeded in getting the youngest, and after a weary search located the other child in Dalhousie. The minister, however, refused to give her up and ordered Stewart from the house. The latter engaged counsel, who are now working on the case. The minister also entered a charge against Stewart for trespass.

Stewart is tired out as a result of his anxious search. He was at one time on the staff of The Montreal Star. Mrs. Stewart is a native of Toronto, where her mother lives. After kidnapping the children she took them to her mother's home for a while, and it was there the husband found the younger girl.

WAR ON JAP TROOPS.

Roving Bands of Koreans Commit Atrocities In Revenge.

Tokio, Sept. 20.—Roving bands of Koreans, under the leadership of former soldiers, are operating in all sections of the country, killing the Japanese police, the Japanese railroad and telegraph operators and civilians, and all Koreans suspected of friendship for the Japanese. These bands scatter in the mountains upon the approach of the Japanese troops.

Following the policy promulgated by Gen. Hasegaw, many villages are being wiped out by the Japanese troops as a punishment for some of the inhabitants joining the insurgents. Both sides are charged with atrocities. An expedition sent against the pirates at Hokdo was completely annihilated.

Treaty Signed.

Paris, Sept. 20.—(C. A. P.)—The Franco-Canadian treaty was signed yesterday at the Foreign Office by the British ambassador, Messrs. Fielding, Brodeur and Pichon; Cailiaux, Doumergue and Ruan. Hon. Messrs. Brodeur and Fielding go to London this week and will sail on the Victorian for Canada.

The same secrecy observed throughout the negotiations is still maintained regarding the provisions of the Franco-Canadian treaty, which, it is intended, will not be made known until officially communicated to the Canadian Parliament. If the negotiations have been unusually protracted, it is not owing to any particular divergence of views so much as to the minute attention of the Canadian representatives to details and precautions they had taken to prevent any chance of a future misunderstanding or misinterpretation.

Both Canadian and French delegates are much pleased at the result, which is hailed as a commercial success.

Saw Mills Burn.

Quebec, Sept. 20.—News reached town Wednesday of a destructive and serious fire. The saw mills situated at Barachois, Gaspe County, and known as the Albert Mills, were totally destroyed by fire, as well as the wharf and all the buildings connected with the mills.

About five million feet of lumber also went up.

The mills are owned by the Messrs. Calhouns of Calhoun, N. B. There is some insurance.

Smallpox at Oakville.

Oakville, Sept. 20.—There are five cases of smallpox in town, but all have been quarantined in a tent on the outskirts, and thanks to the prompt action of Dr. Williams, medical health officer, further cases are not expected.

The patients are an Indian, a milkman named Kelly, two children named Johnson, and a child named Holland.

The source of the outbreak is not known.

Mangled by Engine.

Brockville, Sept. 20.—While working under a crippled car at Norwood Village, John McCarthy, aged 63, a car inspector, was fatally mangled by a shifting engine striking the car beneath which he was sitting, shoving it over him and cutting off both legs. He died from shock.

EMBRACED IN DEATH.

Father and Son Drowned Together at Clark's Harbor, N. S.

Clark's Harbor, N. S., Sept. 20.—Wednesday evening Jason Nickerson and his 10-year-old son were drowned by the capsizing of a boat in this harbor.

Nickerson, who was employed in building the Government wharf there, went after supper to the wharf in his skiff to get some log ends and took his little boy with him. Not returning in the morning, search began, and in a short time both bodies were discovered in about five feet of water. Father and son were brought to the surface clasped so tightly in each other's arms that it took quite an effort to separate them.

It is supposed the boat tipped over while taking in log ends alongside the wharf.

The material inspected at the Belair yards is estimated at fully 9,000 tons, all of which was inspected and all found satisfactory.

Drowned by Cloudburst.

Durango, Cal., Sept. 20.—The three young daughters of Samuel Cook were drowned by a cloudburst which filled a gulch in which they had taken refuge.

The girls entered a cave for shelter, and the gulch became filled with water, which rushed into the cave.

The water caused the roof of the cave to fall and bury the children.

PRISONER SAYS THAT HE BURNED BARNS

Man Confesses to Crime Committed Four Years Ago.

POLICE DID NOT BELIEVE

Daniel Glass Under Arrest In Washington—Attempted to Murder His Cousin Near Roxham, Quebec—Escaped and Enlisted in U. S. Army — Conscience Troubled Him—To Return for Trial.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 20.—Daniel Glass, a former resident of Canada and member of the United States Hospital Corps, who was locked up on Monday by Detective Weedon and Detective Fortney, after he had confessed that he burned two barns belonging to his cousin, Frank Miller, and had attempted to murder him, while living near Roxham, Que., was re-arrested Wednesday night upon the request of the police. Additional messages from Canadian authorities had been received, requesting that he be taken into custody.

The story told by Glass of his crimes near Roxham, Quebec, and of his subsequent escape from jail at St. Johns four years ago, was not credited by the police. They believed the young man, who had suffered from attacks of nervousness, imagined he had committed the crimes alleged, but a message from Canadian officials give information that he had told the truth. The same message also stated that the authorities would not stand the expense of returning him there for trial, and he was released.

The Canadian authorities, however, seem to have changed their minds in the matter of his return, two messages received by Inspector Boardman Wednesday night indicating that he is wanted there, and that an officer will come for him.

Upon receipt of the messages, Inspector Boardman sent word to the barracks to have the military authorities detain him. Capt. Ashford had arranged for the formal discharge of the Canadian, saying he wanted nobody in his command who was under such charges, but the discharge papers had not arrived, and Glass was still in the service. It was expected that Glass would be turned over to the police authorities yesterday, but when Detective Weeden went to get him he was informed that an enlisted man could not be extradited until he had been discharged. He will be given his discharge in about a week or ten days, and the police will then take him into custody. Meanwhile he is being kept under guard at the barracks.

REID IS TO SERVE A SENTENCE

Engineer Responsible For Gourock Wreck Gets Nine Months.

DISREGARDS THOMPSON CASE

Judge Anglin Gives Reason for Sentence—Had Intended to Make the Sentence One Year — Determined to Protect the Public—Will Not Mix With Criminals — Early Release on Parole Expected.

Guelph, Sept. 20.—Engineer Mark B. Reid, who was in the collision at Gourock, where three men were killed, was found guilty on the charge of breaking the rules of the G. T. R. and was sentenced to nine months in prison.

Justice Anglin expressed regret at having to deliver judgment, but it was a duty imposed upon him, and he could not escape it.

He originally intended to sentence him to one year, but, taking into consideration that the accused had already suffered mentally and physically, and had lost his position, he had decided to reduce the sentence by three months, and he would see if he could not be confined to the county jail instead of being sent to the Central and herded with criminals, amongst whom the prisoner certainly did not belong.

Reid was visibly affected.

Thompson, the conductor, sentenced to three years, was released from the penitentiary after serving nine weeks, and it is expected Reid will also be paroled before long.

Reid, who lives in Hamilton, has served six years on the Grand Trunk, three years as an engineer on the middle division.

In summing up the case, Mr. Guthrie, who appeared for the defence, said there had clearly been no criminal intent. The defendant had not been over the road for a year. His engine was not satisfactory, and he was acting under the control of a conductor who was asleep.

Mr. Guthrie contended that the orders must have been wrong. The defendant had been doing his best, and had been forced to stay too long on duty.

"In making my decision," said his lordship, "the Thompson case and the decision rendered there has been disregarded."

In order to keep him clear of criminal association the term was not made in Central Prison.

The Hague, Sept. 20.—The heads of the various delegations present at the International Peace Conference yesterday adopted this resolution:

Killed Waitress; Shot Himself.

New York, Sept. 20.—Johanna Haefer, aged 22 years, a waitress in a Tenth avenue bakery, yesterday was shot and instantly killed by John Fischner, a former employe of the store, because she had refused to marry him. Fischner then shot himself and was removed to a hospital in a dying condition.

AYLESWORTH SCORES MR. BORDEN

Minister of Justice Discusses Halifax Election Petition.

STEADY FIRE OF CRITICISM

Tory Leader Is In Peril—His Disqualification May Follow—Hon. Mr. Aylesworth Assumes the Aggressive—Conservative Charges Are Flimsy — Condemns Policy of Detraction and Abuse.

Windsor, Sept. 20.—The feature of the joint picnic of the South and North Essex Liberal Association, held at Barber's Grove yesterday afternoon, was the militant speech of Hon. A. B. Aylesworth. The Minister of Justice was merciless in his steady fire of criticism of the methods of political warfare to which Mr. R. L. Borden and his touring supporters have resorted. From first to last Mr. Aylesworth was unreserved, frank, and unhesitating in his handling of the Conservative campaigners and their tactics. He carried the war into the enemy's lines; he turned all the weapons at his command upon them, and he showed to all who followed him how flimsy were the fortifications behind which the foe sought refuge, and how poor the ammunition the enemy has been using. As it was with Mr. Aylesworth, so it was with all the other speakers; aggressiveness, in fact, was the keynote of the whole meeting.

Next to Mr. Aylesworth there was considerable interest in the appearance of Mr. A. G. MacKay, M. P. P., who was several times referred to as the prospective leader of the Provincial Opposition, and who delivered a short address.

Mr. Aylesworth's Speech.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, after a graceful acknowledgment of the greeting accorded him, entered almost at once upon a discussion of the scandal campaign being conducted by the Conservative leaders and press. One material influence in this campaign undoubtedly was that of the seventy Conservative members in the House of Commons, forty-seven were from the Province of Ontario. These men hoped to win the country to their side by just the same campaign of vilification that was waged in the last provincial elections. A year ago, he proceeded, the Liberals had redemmed North Bruce, and only on Wednesday last Hon. Dr. Pugsley had been returned by acclamation in the County and City of St. John, N. B., where at the last elections there had been a Conservative majority of over 800. In spite of the plea of their leader made in the city of St. John a month ago, and the slander campaign since, the Conservatives of the riding, knowing that if they had opposed Hon. Dr. Pugsley they would have gone down to ignominious defeat, had run away without even nominating a candidate.

Deliberate Policy of Abuse.

The consistent policy of detraction, abuse, unmerited slander and scandal that had apparently been deliberately adopted by the Conservatives, he went on, was, unless all signs failed, to be carried on not only throughout the country, but at the next session of Parliament. If that was to be the case the Liberals were ready to meet their antagonists upon that ground, low as it was, and they had nothing to fear as to the result.

Mr. Aylesworth took up one or two of the charges made by the Conservatives, showing on how flimsy a foundation they were based. These charges, he declared, were made simply because the Conservatives knew that the Government administration and legislative record was absolutely impregnable. Then he turned his attention to Mr. Borden. During the last few weeks, if never before, the Opposition leader had lent himself, apparently with a willing heart, to the task of mud-throwing and general abuse.

Ready to Meet Him.

"Last week at a public meeting in the town of Dundas I read an extract from Mr. Borden's speech, and I had a word or two to say by way of answer. Since then the newspapers of this province have been profuse in their accounts of challenges to wordy war and combat from Mr. Borden to myself. I was waited upon not long ago by the representative of a Toronto newspaper, who wanted to know where I would meet Mr. Borden. I had no other answer to make than that I had met him before on the floor of the House of Commons and would meet him there again. Mr. Borden will be welcome if he comes to any meeting where I happen to be present. I shall be pleased to see him. But it is a vain and idle thing that he as champion of the Conservative party should be issuing vilifications throughout the country and challenging his opponents to meet him. Does he think I am going to follow him? I am here, let him come.

In a Glass House.

"I said before, in referring to Mr. Borden, that he had better look to his own case. I said what I am prepared to uphold anywhere and before any tribunal in this country, that certain statements of what the petitioners in the Halifax election case said they could prove with regard to Mr Borden's own connection with corrupt practices at the late Dominion general elections had been submitted to me, and I expressed my opinion on those statements, as any lawyer might. I said what I repeat to-day, that if these things were established at the trial Mr. R. L. Borden would stand disqualified for eight years from the House of Commons in Canada."

HIGH SPEED WAS CAUSE.

Inspector Makes Report on Caledon Wreck—Must Straighten Curve.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—The Railway Commission inspector, John McCall, has made a report upon the Caledon disaster.

He says the accident was caused by the high rate of speed at which the train was running on a sharp curve.

If this curve is not straightened out then the board will likely order a change in route.

Irish Face on U. S. Coins.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 20.—The Independent Order of Americans in annual session here has adopted a protest against the proposed placing of the face of Miss Mary Cunningham, an Irish born girl, upon the United States gold coins, and has authorized the state councillor to forward the protest to the United States Government at Washington.

The new coins were designed by St. Gaudens, who modeled the face thereon from Miss Cunningham, a pretty Irish waitress.

New Monster Battleship.

Portsmouth, Eng., Sept. 20.—The plans of the Admiralty for a new and larger vessel of the Dreadnought class have been received at the construction department here, accompanied by orders to commence building the warship immediately. The displacement of the new vessel will be 19,300 tons. The ship here will be launched before the one to be built at Devonport, orders for the construction of which were announced Sept. 16.

LABOR CONGRESS ANGRY.

Do Not Like Sir Wilfrid's Silence on Jap Question.

Winnipeg, Sept. 20.—The refusal of Premier Laurier to answer the urgent memorial of the Labor Congress on the question of having the Japanese treaty abrogated has stirred the labor delegates now assembled in Winnipeg.

While the convention understands that it is a matter for Imperial authority alone, they feel that the situation is so critical in the Canadian west that Sir Wilfrid could at least forecast "sympathetic" discussion. His silence has mystified the delegates and they are displaying their resentment by placing an order for to-day's executive session for the consideration of united political action by labor interests.

This means, possible the formation of a third party and is of special interest in view of the fact that a Dominion election is approaching.

The convention yesterday by 31 to 18 endorsed the Lemieux Industrial Disputes' Act.

Cannot Abrogate Treaty.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—"They cannot do it That treaty was not to be abrogated for four years," emphatically said T. Nosse, the Japanese consul-general, yesterday, commenting on the Trades Congress requisition. The treaty was signed about a year ago and cannot become inoperative for three years. It would mean the reducing of Canada's trade with Japan.

Boy Swallows Pin.

London, Sept. 20.—The young son of Richard Christopher, accidentally swallowed a hat pin a few days ago which became lodged in the throat and has remained there since.

The child's condition has gradually grown worse and the doctors being unable to locate the pin it will be necessary to resort to an operation under the X-rays in order to locate it.

Only one operation similar has ever been attempted before in the city, but the young woman in that case succumbed to the operation.

THE WORST EARTHQUAKE IN SIX YEARS RECORDED AT REDLANDS, CAL., LAST NIGHT

Examiner Special.

Redands, California, Sept. 20—A sharp earthquake was felt here at 5:45 o'clock, last evening. No damage is reported though the shock was the heavi lest in six years.

In connection with the disturbance recorded in the above despatch, Rev. Dr. Marsh informed the Examiner this afternoon that this morning he was made aware by his instruments, which were fourteen minutes out, that an earthquake had taken place, though, of course, he was unable to locate it.

FALL OF HIGH VOLTAGE WIRE BADLY SCARES SOUND SLUMBERERS

DAMP EARTH IS SCORCHED

A Tangle in Wires—A Commercial Traveller Scents Danger and Loses Some Hours Sleep

Awakened by a loud explosion about two o'clock this morning, at the corner of Water and Charlotte streets, the residents in that vicinity were startled at seeing a spectacular complication among the light and power wires. So terrific was the explosion that most of those residing on Water street jumped from their downy beds of ease, in a startled condition and it was some minutes before they became composed again.

One of the travellers at the National was awakened in the midst of a sound sleep only to see a bright light shining in his room. He hurriedly dressed himself, believing that the danger lurked somewhere near, and spent the remainder of his sleeping hours on the lower floor.

The trouble appears to have arisen over the falling of one of the Peterborough Light and Power Company's power wires, carrying about 500 volts. It fell across some of the Otonabee Power Company's light wires, causing the explosion, and burning those it touched, in two pieces. The extra charge on the electric light wires burnt out the lights in several houses connected with the near-by transformer, and persons awakened were forced to grope in the darkness.

The ground where the wire fell, could this morning be seen exhaustively burned, as well as a piece of leather strap, which was smouldering at daylight. The spot was certainly a dangerous one for a few minutes and from all appearances it was lucky that no person touched the wires on the ground.

Mr. William Green, 326 Water street, was amongst the first to notice the complication and notified the police. Soon after representatives of the two power companies were on the scene and the wires were replaced, with the exception of the power wire that fell.

A BIG JOB

Messrs. Bogue and Buchanan Get Contract

ERECT A POWER HOUSE

$60,000 Contract in Campbellford Comes to Local Firm—Will Commence Work at Once

The contract for the erection of a new power house at Campbellford, has been let to a firm of Peterborough contractors, Messrs. Bogue & Buchanan, being the successful tenderers on the job, which, it is understood, will cost about $60,000.

Work on the power house will be carried on simultaneously with the construction of the new dam, which Messrs. Brown & Aylmer have the contract to erect as a part of the Trent Canal. The power house will secure the means of its operations from the dam now under construction.

The contract has been awarded by the municipality of Campbellford, the power house being erected as a municipal enterprise to supply power to manufacturers and other power-users in the town, and also to generate electricity for street lighting.

The plant will be a modern one in every respect, and will be placed in operation at as early a date as possible.

THE LINDSAY FAIR IS A SUCCESS

Mr. Gillespie Surprised at Good Quality of Dairy Products Shown There

Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who was in Lindsay yesterday judging the dairy products at the Fair stated to-day to the Examiner that the fair gives promise of being the success which it usually is. There are a large number of exhibits in the different classes, and those in charge of the fair are confident that with fine weather the attendance will exceed that of previous years.

Speaking of the quality of the dairy products on exhibition Mr. Gillespie stated that it was excellent in fact he was surprised that Victoria County could produce such good quality of cheese as he saw there. It was no easy matter to judge the cheese, the quality was so uniform.

This morning a large number of persons from this city left to attend the fair.

Hon. A. G. Mackay Chosen To Lead The Opposition In The Legislature

Member For North Gray was Elected by Liberal Members to Lead Opposition in Ontario House

HE IS A GIFTED LEADER

Examiner Special.

Toronto, September 20. — Hon. A. G. McKay, M.P.P., for North Grey, was elected leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, at the meeting of Liberal members of the Legislature MacKay was the only name mentioned, and he accepted on condition that his selection should go to the country organizations for approval. There was a large attendance of members.

Mr. Alex. Grant MacKay, one of the fighting band of Liberals in the Ontario Legislature, was born in Sydenham township, Grey township, in 1860, of Highland-Scotch parents. In his oratory and method of thought he is as purely Celtic as his forbears were. He was educated at the Owen Sound Collegiate and at the University of Toronto, graduating in 1883. For four years he was the principal of the Port Rowan High School, and during the next four years he studied law. Mr. MacKay was called to the bar in 1891, after a brilliant course and so speedily did he make himself known as a pleader that in 1894 he was appointed Crown Attorney for Grey, an office held by him until 1901, when he resigned to enter politics. Mr. MacKay was first returned to the Legislature in May, 1902, and in November, 1904, joined the Ross Administration, as Commissioner of Crown Lands. During his short term in office he was a most efficient administrator. In Opposition he has been a keen and unsparing critic of the Whitney Government.

THE "QUEER" DOINGS OF A "QUEER" COUNCIL; CITIZEN CANNOT GET A NEW WALK

He Tells of the Variety of Excuses Offered by Different Members of the Council for Not Constructing Walk

A PETITION PRESENTED

Early in Spring, but Nothing Done Yet To-wards Construction of New Walk—Many Excuses Offered

"That's a queer Council we have this year," said a gentleman to the Examiner to-day. The remark was not a new one, and the newspaper man told him that he had heard the same remark passed before. He proceeded to recount his trouble. He was interested, he said, in a petition for a granolithic walk in the north-east portion of the city. This petition was presented to the Council early in the year — the people there were anxious for a walk, and thought that it was a case of the early bird getting the worm, since there were so many sections of the city in which walks were needed. In this instance, however, this rule did not apply, apparently, for, while applications which were presented subsequent to this one have resulted in walks being laid, the persons whom this was designed to serve have still to put up with the old wooden walk or go through the mud.

Inquiry of different members of the Council elicited a variety of replies—as many different reasons for its non-completion being given as there were aldermen spoken to. One said that the petitions were taken up in their turn, another remarked that the work in each locality was done at the one time, an excuse which does not suit this particular case because it is stated that a walk was laid recently within 200 yards of the locality in which the petition was presented from. The chairman of the Board of Works is represented to have said that it would be done in three weeks, and yesterday, after a tour of the city, another alderman informed the person that the walk would not be laid this autumn. There you are. Take your choose. One alderman says you'll get the walk; another says there's no chance.

"THE MAKING OF A SUCCESSFUL WIFE" INTERESTING LETTERS

The series of letters, published in the Examiner a few months ago on "The Making of a Successful Husband" created considerable interest, so much in fact, that when it was learned that there was to be a companion series of letters on "The Making of a Successful Wife" by the same author, arrangements were at once made to secure the right to publish them in Peterborough.

These letters are written in a humourous vein, but they contain some good wholesome advice; advice which is too often in domestic relations, ignored. The first of the letters is published to-day, and they will be given at intervals of a few days until the whole series has been disposed of.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ERNEST CARVETH

Examiner Special.

McCracken's Landing, Sept. 20.—After an illness extending over a period of several months, the death occurred yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, of Mrs. Ernest Carveth, at the age of twenty-three years. The deceased had been ill for some time, but had recovered and it was hoped that her improvement indicated a return to perfect health. Recently, however, she suffered a relapse which caused her death. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McCracken, and was married four years ago to her sorrowing husband, who is one of the proprietors of the Victoria House. She leaves, in addition to her husband, her father and mother, the former just recovering from a severe illness, and two sisters, Mrs. John Freeman, also of McCracken's Landing, and Maggie, who lives at home. The late Mrs. Carveth was born in Dummer and had lived in that township all her life. She was well known and most highly respected. The funeral will take place on Saturday and interment will be in St. Mark's cemetery, at Warsaw.

Y.M.C.A. Secretary Resigns To Leave for Fort William

Mr. Geo. H. Williamson Accepts Position as General Secretary of Fort William Association—Leaves in a Month

BEEN A FAITHFUL WORKER

Another resignation has been handed in to the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A., and another change has been made in the officers of that institution. This time, Mr. G. H. Williamson, ten years secretary of the Y.M.C.A., has decided to seek other fields of labour, and his resignation yesterday afternoon came unexpectedly to the directors. Mr. Williamson was offered and has accepted the position of first general secretary of a new Y.M.C.A. in the city of Fort William, Ont. A special meeting of the directors was immediately called and last night was the first intimation they had of his decision. The resignation was accepted, and Mr. Williamson leaves in a month's time for Fort William, where he assumes his new duties.

The retiring secretary accepted the position here in May, 1897, so that he has completed a term of ten years and four months as secretary of the local Association. His decision to leave Peterborough will meet with general regret from his many friends in the city. He has been a faithful worker not only in the interests of the Young Men's Christian Association, but also in the George Street Methodist Church, to which he belonged.

The acceptance of his resignation by the Board last night was, therefore, coupled with an expression of confidence in Mr. Williamson and appreciation of the ten years' diligent service he has rendered the Association while here. The directors felt that he had been a noble worker in the cause of the young men, and many are the instances when he has assisted them in trouble. In the estimation of all who know Mr. Williamson and who have been interested with him in association and church work, the Y.M.C.A. is losing a valuable secretary, whose vacancy it will not be easy to fill.

Mr. Williamson was also offered a position by the Pennsylvania State Board to go there, and they have been awaiting his decision for some time. But he has decided to stay in the land of his birth, and accepted the offer to go to Fort William. A telegram from that city asking him to go as soon as possible caused him to send in his resignation to the Board so unexpectedly. One month from yesterday he leaves Peterborough to assume his new duties as the first general secretary of the Fort William Young Men's Christian Association.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. R. E. Harding, president; G. M. Roger, J. J. Howden and Jas. Connal, was appointed to secure a successor to Mr. Williamson. The other directors present were Messrs. V. Eastwood, G. Galley, Wm. Madill and J. C. Shook.

BRIGHT PETERBOROUGH BOY WON A VALUED SCHOLARSHIP

A particularly good record has been made by a former pupil of the Central School here. In his examination for entrance into Trinity College School, Port Hope, Master Jack Dennistoun, a son of Mr. R. M. Dennistoun of Winnipeg, and formerly of this city, won the Scholarship offered for boys under 13 years of age on entering the school. Master Jack made a splendid showing, taking, in one subject, at least, the full complement of marks possible, while in all subjects he did remarkably well, so well, in fact, that his standing was a surprise to the examiners, who were not prepared to see a boy of his age pass what was an unusually stiff examination with such a high percentage. He was prepared in the Central School, the teachers in which may take considerable credit for the excellent showing this young representative of that institution has made.

Temper From a Bad Liver

Caryle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

THE DEATH ROLL IN PETERBOROUGH FOR SEPTEMBER IS VERY SMALL

The first twelve days of September have been characterized by an almost total absence of deaths, so far as Peterborough is concerned. Not in a number of years has there been a September in which there have been so few deaths recorded, the majority of the deaths occurring during this month so far being confined to children.

The doctors and undertakers are being given a rest this month, and it is an encouraging sign that, with the autumn coming on, the health of the residents of Peterborough is generally so good.

A MILD CALAMITY; THE RESIGNATION OF BOARD OF HEALTH

RETIRING SECRETARY OF PETERBOROUGH Y.M.C.A. GOING WEST

Mr. G. H. Williamson, Leaving In a Month to Open New Association At Fort William

Dr. Bingham Expresses his Opinion on the Reported Determination of Board to Resign in a Body

HE EXPLAINS HIS POSITION

With Respect to the Scarlet Fever Patient — Whole Responsibility Was Thrown Upon his Shoulders

The prospect of the Board of Health resigning in a body does not look to Dr. Bingham, the Medical Health Officer, like a calamity. At any rate, he thinks it would be the "mildest calamity that ever struck Peterborough," and says so in a letter to the Examiner to-day, in which he explains his position with reference to the scarlet fever patient. Dr. Bingham's letter is as follows:

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Some people have asked me to explain why the scarlet fever patient was placed in the city buildings. It was in this wise: The Board of Health was forced to remove the patient immediately. That was on Saturday, the 14th inst. Not one member of the Board of Health turned out to assist me, except the chairman, and he did his best to find a suitable place for a tent, but no such place could be found. The Sanitary Inspector and myself had already tried to get a place where a tent might be erected, but we also failed. At this point, a gentleman present suggested the rooms on the third floor of the city buildings. The rooms were examined, and it was agreed that they would suit in our present extremity. The chairman himself said that the rooms were far better than a tent, but it is only justice to the chairman to say that he changed his mind and declined to be responsible in this matter. Then in the presence of the chairman, and with the generous approval of the Mayor, I assumed all responsibility that no infection would spread from those rooms. I am well aware that the location in question, under ordinary circumstances, could not be justified, but ours was an extreme case, for upon our immediate action depended the life of the patient. Now, in civilized communities all over the world where human life is at stake, the unwritten law of humanity and charity become supreme, and for the time being, municipal law is in abeyance. Glad would I have been had the Board of Health given its assistance, for I have no desire to monopolize its work, but the life of the patient was in our hands, and I had to act at once. The patient is recovering, and in a short time will be gone, and nobody hurt. It is rumoured that the Board of Health talks about resigning. It is hoped that that erudite body will take no rash step. But, even if we should all resign in a bunch it would be the mildest calamity that ever struck Peterborough.

An Equinoctial (?) Gale Sweeps Newfoundland

Worst Storm in Forty Years Raging—Much Damage is Reported in it's work

A QUESTION RAISED

Scientists Believe That Sun Crossing Equator is not the Cause of September Storms

Examiner Special.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 20. — The heaviest equinoctial gale recorded here in forty years swept the Newfoundland coast yesterday. Reports thus far show that five lives were lost. Eleven schooners and a couple were driven ashore at various points or foundered at their moorings.

Some doubt has been cast by scientists as to the correctness of the assumption that the storms which occur about this time of the year are attributable to the fact that the sun is crossing the equator. As a matter of fact, that body will "cross the line" on Tuesday, September 24, or, to be more intelligible, at six minutes and 2½ seconds after midnight on Monday night.

Rev. Dr. Marsh is one of those who do not believe that the sun crossing the equator causes what are popularly called equinoctial storms, though it may be that at this particular time of the year there are some severe storms. This may be accounted for by the fact that as the sun goes south the cold currents of air sweeping against the warmer air causes disturbances.

THE WIZARD'S WARNING

Brookville Recordor.

From the meeting of the Canadian Electricians' Association, recently held in Montreal, the following message was sent to that electrical wizard, Thos. Edison:

"Intercolonial Railway of Canada exhibitors at great electrical show here extend hearty congratulations via Marconi station."

The message was no doubt sent to atone in a measure for the neglect in not inviting "The Wizard" to the show. But the significance of the reply is what startles one:

Orange, N.J., Sept. 12, 1907.
No-Conniff, Electrical Show, Montreal:

Thanks for message, trust that exhibition will be a great success; don't let the Yankees absorb your immense water power resources as they did the Cobalt mines. Coal and minerals have an end, but the water power goes on forever. EDISON.

What does this mean? The answer should not be difficult. Time and again the Recorder has warned the public that the same men who form that gigantic trust, the Standard Oil Company, on which was recently imposed the biggest fine ever inflicted, were getting a grasp on the wealth of Newer Ontario, that the people would realize later on.

When it was proposed by the late Liberal Government in Ontario that the great Soo industries should be given a chance to get on their feet and thus save the good name of the Province, and retain this great industry Mr. Whitney and every man behind him did their utmost to prevent the aid being given. The strongest speeches made against it by members of the Conservative party contained the identical arguments used by interested parties across the line to prevent capitalists advancing the money. There was a determined effort in the United States to strangle this Ontario industry, and the Conservative party in the Legislature devoted all their energies to the same end. Why?

It transpired later on that the great U. S. Steel Trust (the same thing as the Standard Oil) wanted to get possession of the Soo proposition, and hoped to do so if the present company were wiped out.

The Standard Oil Company had warm friends in the Ontario Legislature, and to-day they have warm friends in some members of the Ontario Government, one at least of whom has been, if he is not now, in the employ of the Canadian branch of the great octopus. The effort of this great trust to get control of one of Ontario's great industries and either make it part of the combine or close it up, was well planned, and only the heroic courage of the late Government frustrated the scheme and saved the Soo industries to Ontario.

But having failed in capturing the Soo industries the Standard Oil turned their attention elsewhere, and to-day some of the best Cobalt propositions are theirs. How have they been treated by the Ontario Government? O'Brien, a Canadian, had a property, and the Government attacked the title. They settled by O'Brien giving them 25 per cent. of the gross output. If O'Brien's title is good, then the Government of this Province is practically stealing 25 per cent. of his property. If his title is not good, then the Government of this great Province has compounded a felony and taking as its share of the plunder 25 per cent. of the swag.

What about the Standard Oil (and when the words Standard Oil are used they mean the same capitalists who form that company, for they dare not use that title in their mining deals) and how was it treated by its friends, the Ontario Government?

They, too, had a proposition, the title of which was being attacked by the Government. But what became of the attack? It fizzled in a few days and the people of whom the wizard, Edison, knows so well, are enjoying the full benefits of their property.

The people of Ontario ought to know just now that the Standard Oil has a very strong and powerful friend in the Ontario Government, and another warm friend in the chairman of the Ontario Government's Railway Commission, that is managing, and constructing through this rich country, the T. & N. O. Railway.

Edison's warning is from the outside, and the late leader of the Ontario Opposition, (Hon. G. P. Graham,) warned the country from the inside of the same condition of affairs, in his first speech as leader, when he laid down in his platform a plank which reads:

"For the rational capitalization and limitation of the powers of such corporations as the Standard Oil and other companies," etc.

UNDESIRABLE CONDITIONS

There is no more important interest in a community, than the interest of public health, as affected by sanitary administration. To the majority of people their health is their only capital, while, to all, health is the indispensable condition of the enjoyment of life and satisfactory fulfilment of the obligations of citizenship. In this connection the indifference of our aldermanic representatives, and health authorities — jointly or severally, one or both — to the health welfare of our citizens, is a proper subject for condemnation. For months the question of building an isolation hospital has been regarded as settled and decided upon. The Board of Health modified the plans it had procured for such a building to the figure demanded by the council, and yet nothing has been done. As a result of this neglect we have the spectacle of a scarlet fever patient being immured in a building under re-construction, under conditions, and surroundings contrary to both the law of humanity, and the law of the land. The room selected is in an upper story of the city buildings, which are being subjected to repairs and alterations. Consequently, the patient has not only to fight with the disease, but to be stunned with the noise of carpentry operations on the story beneath, and the noise of other workmen working upon the roof, and, as the sick room is only about ten feet—across a corridor — from the practice room of a band of 35 or 40 pieces, the patient has the benefit of the resultant noise, if the band should practice, which it has a right to do, if it should run the risk of infection. No more unsuitable site for a sick chamber could have been selected, except the second story of a boiler shop. These conditions are plainly contrary to the law of humanity. The law of the land requires that such a patient should be isolated in some structure one hundred and fifty yards distant from any other dwelling, which has not been done, for there are not a few persons dwelling much within this prescribed distance, not to speak of scores of persons in banks and offices and shops, employed during the day, within the forbidden distance. This is an intolerable condition of affairs, not so much on account of the case of the present patient, the attack being a mild one, but as illustrating the indifference, of those responsible for the preservation of public health, to the prevention of contagion, and to the salutary requirements of the Health Act. It is well known that there is a state of friction fatal to any efficiency of health service, between the City Council and the Board of Health. Some one should direct the attention of the Provincial Board of Health to the conditions referred to, which cannot be regarded as having been presented in an exaggerated form.

ANOTHER ADVANCE

This is truly the electric age, and the Dominion Government is acting in concert. Arrangements are being completed for the operation of every lock on the Welland Canal next year by electricity. One hundred 5 h.p. motors are under construction, to be used in operating the lock gates mechanism throughout the entire stretch of canal. The installation of the motors begins to-morrow. This advance will mean much to the immense traffic passing through the Welland Canal. Under the electric system, a gate will be opened and closed in thirty-five seconds. The twenty minutes required at present for the lockage of a vessel will be reduced to ten, a saving of ten minutes, or twenty-four locks means a gain of time of four hours—a very important matter in these swift times. With the canal lighted with six hundred electric lamps, and electric operation of locks, the Welland Canal is, in these respects, as in all others, the greatest canal on the continent, and one of the greatest canals in the world. It began as a ditch eighty years ago, and it is now an equivalent of a mighty expansion of Lake Erie, the most important link in the chain of transcontinental and transoceanic travel.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The election of the two new Dominion Cabinet ministers, by acclamation, is an evidence of their personal acceptability, and of the courtesy of their local political opponents. All the same if these same courteous political opponents had seen the ghost of a chance of electing a candidate, courtesy would have promptly given way to business considerations.

It is stated that there is a combine on the part of the United States paper makers to enhance prices by unduly limiting the output. The American Newspaper Publishing Association is demanding that the duty of $6 per ton on news print, as well as the duty on news pulp be removed. Would there have been a combine without the help of a tall tariff?

WRITER BLAMES THE LIVERYMEN

Should Not Give Reckless Youths Horses Although Paid For

Dear Sir, — I would like to call the attention of the authorities to an evil which has been often spoken of in the past, and which seems to be becoming worse—that is furious driving by young men, apparently the worse of liquor on the principal streets, after dark. I have noticed them now on several nights of late and the hooligans that were in the rig deserved a good horse-whipping. I saw two rigs on Rubidge street after 11 o'clock at night, some time ago, in a furious race. There were three people in each rig and the swearing and vile language, that could be heard a block away, was disgraceful. The poor dumb brutes that were receiving such ill-treatment were running along as fast as they could, and yet blows fell on them unceasingly. Coming to the hill at St. Peter's cathedral the horses were driven at a gallop, until they disappeared on one of the side-streets. Last night I saw a repetition of this dastardly work, only there was only one buggy.

I think, Mr. Editor, that the authorities should get after the livery men who let their horses to young men whom they know to be reckless, and heartless, and make an example of them. If some one could find out the names of the young fellows who do the reckless driving they should also be severely punished.

I would like to see some steps taken to stop this pernicious practice, and it would be well if more people were as practically charitable as Mr. Hughes Charles showed himself to be and report those whom they find cruelly beating a horse.

Thanking, you, Mr. Editor,
I am, etc.,
R. I. A.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

WANTS TEMPTATION REMOVED

Citizen Advocates Enforcing Law Relating to Exposure of Fruit on the Sidewalk

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In a recent press report it was stated that some boys were being tried in the police court for having stolen fruit from a fruit store, and the thing having become prevalent, the question was asked, "What shall be done with the boys?" The frequency of the crime is owing in the main to the laxity of our police in not enforcing the by-law respecting the placing of fruit on the sidewalks by fruit dealers, thus affording the boys the very opportunity they are seeking to indulge in their evil propensities. Mr. Oke is a praiseworthy exception to the rule, and voluntarily observes the law literally. Now what warrant have the others for disregarding law and decency? They have the same privilege of doing what is right, and if they do not, what is the use of the police? It is our duty to remove the temptation from boys of tender years, especially when we know that their environments at home is anything but conducive to morality.

Yours truly,
"CITIZEN."

MR. D. HARTLEY MAKES CORRECTION

Says Sergt.-major Brittain Misrepresented His Walk to Bridgenorth

Sporting Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Since Sergt. Major Brittain has decided that, when there is some one to contest with him, he has neither the time nor inclination to walk from Chemong to Peterborough against me, I will consider his excuse as final. However, I cannot understand why "Pedestrian" should have thrown down the gauntlet in behalf of the officer if he (Sergt. Major) had no intention of competing with me.

Before allowing the matter to pass I wish to correct a statement in the letter in your issue of yesterday in which Sergeant Major Brittain says that I gave this information that I walked from my home to Chemong Park and return in one hour and a half. I stated, as you know, Mr. Editor, that I walked from Udy's store, Bridgenorth, to the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, in one hour, and I am confident that I can do it again.

Mr. Brittain's sarcasm gained him nothing in trying to make me a world beater, which I have never claimed to be. I have my daily work to do, but although not an army officer I still claim to have a little sport of the Canadian calibre in my make up.

I thank you Mr. Editor, for your kindness, and I am, as ever yours,

DAVID HARTLEY.

WILL PLACE VALVES UNDER GROUND

In Order to Allow Street Watering Late in The Fall

Mayor McWilliams and Ald. Duncan, chairman of the Board of Works, held a conference with the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon to ascertain whether or not some arrangements could be made for street watering late in the fall. There has been difficulty in other years over this matter as it was impossible to water the streets in the cold weather on account of the stand pipes freezing up. It was decided yesterday to try the experiment of fitting up a number of stand pipes in the centre of the city with under ground valves. It is believed that this will remove the difficulty.

NEW BEAUTY INSTRUMENTS.

Femininity Much Excited Over a New Face Flapper.

Fair woman's outfit for the preservation of her beauty is growing so large and all important that it will presently be necessary for her to have a separate dressing room or beauty surgical office in which to store these very valuable instruments. There are more of these aids to beauty invented every day, and many women keep as keen an outlook for the new things in this line as on new fashions in frocks.

Just now femininity is much excited over a new face flapper, with which the face is gently tapped with a view to restoring the contour and bracing up the muscles. The face flapper has a long handle and a disk at one end for flapping purposes.

There are new nasal champs and masks much in use for the young daughters of faithful mothers who go about improving the shape of their offspring's nose in this manner as systematically as if they were proceeding with the education or moral training of the young person. Women who wish their faces to be smaller find hands for the purpose at all the beauty parlors, while women whose double chins are the troublesome point in their appearance are provided with chin straps which have holes for the ears, which keep the strap in place. All these masks, straps, nose clamps, etc., are made of rubber, which does no harm to the skin and is not uncomfortable.

ARRANGING FLOWERS.

The Japanese Can Teach Us Much In This Art.

Among the many arts and graces which we Americans have yet to learn is the arrangement of flowers so as to display them to the best advantage. We bring in from the fields or from the florist's the most exquisite blossoms and then ruin them and condemn them to an untimely end by crushing them into a vase entirely too small for their bulk or by allowing them practically to drown in a sea of unnecessary water.

It would do us, then, no harm to take a few lessons on the subject and to learn from some more favored nation the proper relation between flowers and their receptacles.

The Japanese, most expert people in this line, would tell us, for instance, that the fewer flowers in a vase the better the effect, so that they be not overwhelmed by its size.

The tall vase of roses illustrates this dictum admirably. It is actual cruelty, as well as a crime against taste, to cut rose stems so as to accommodate them to some small and stocky vase. This style of receptacle would be particularly good in opalescent glass, being thus adapted to all the varied hues of the roses.

Uric Acid Stones In the Kidneys

CAUSED EXCRUCIATING PAIN—CURE EFFECTED SIX YEARS AGO BY

The passing of stones or gravel, as the uric acid formation is called, from the kidneys through the ureters to the bladder probably produces the most terrible pain that human being was ever called upon to bear.

Mrs. Walter Hornbrook, Coddy's, Queen's county, N.B., writes:—"I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, which the doctor described as the uric acid stones passing from the kidneys to the bladder, I heard of similar cases being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and sent for some. Altogether I used seven boxes and was completely cured. That was six years ago and I have never had a pain in my kidneys since. We are never without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house."

Mr. Daniel Brown, English River, Ont., writes:—"For three years I suffered with urinary troubles, partaking of the nature of stones in the bladder or gravel, and the pain which I endured can scarcely be described. I was unable to do any work, and frequently discharged blood. Though I spent hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills I received no relief, and at last decided that I would never be able to work again.

"While in this condition I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and though I had no faith in them or in anything else, I decided to give them a fair trial. After using one box I felt a decided change for the better, and after taking five boxes I feel like a new man. I am entirely out of pain, and have no more discharge of blood. I can honestly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to any fellow-sufferer, and will cheerfully verify this statement to anyone writing me."

There could scarcely be a more severe test of any treatment for the Kidneys and when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prove successful in such cases as this they can surely be depended upon in less severe kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ANCIENT EDINBURGH HOUSE.

Lord Rosebery Presents Scottish Capital With Historic Mansion.

Edinburgh has had a grand gift in the shape of the fine old mansion known as Lady Stair's House, which stands in Lady Stair's Close. The gift was made by Lord Rosebery, who believes the mansion will be the best possible building in which to house the Municipal Museum.

Lady Stair's House was erected in 1622, and bears over its moulded doorway the arms and initials of the original proprietor, Sir William Gray of Pittendrum, and Geida, his wife, together with the motto: "Feare the Lord and Depart from Evil."

The connection of Lord Rosebery with the old house, which he took under his protection some twelve years ago, is an historic one. Sir Archibald Primrose, clerk to the Privy Council in the time of Charles I., and a Lord of Session, married Agnes, daughter of Sir William Gray, of Pittendrum, the builder of the house. This lady became the mother of Archibald, first Earl of Rosebery.

When her husband died, after having attained to the rank of a viscount, Lady Primrose married John, the second Earl of Stair, famous as a military officer under Marlborough, and twelve years after his death took up her residence in the old house, and gave her name to the close it stands in.

She had lived there previously when she was Lady Primrose, and made a sensational escape from a window to avoid her husband's violence. The incident is the base of Sir Walter Scott's story "My Aunt Margaret's Mirror," the name in the romance being changed to Lady Falconer. Lady Stair was considered the leader of society in Edinburgh in her day, and was the first person of quality there who kept a black servant.

The house, which was restored by Lord Rosebery in 1897, is at present occupied as the temporary offices of the United Free Church, and will probably remain so until the new Church offices erected in George street, Edinburgh, are ready for use.

THE FIFTH TEMERAIRE.

Will Cost Over $5,000,000 Exclusive of Her Armament.

The battleship Temeraire, third of the Dreadnought class, was successfully launched at the dockyard here last week. The ceremony was performed by Countess Fortescue, and was witnessed by thousands of persons, including many notables.

The new battleship, which was laid down at the close of last year, is in a forward state. She will cost considerably over $5,000,000, exclusive of her armament, and is the fifth Temeraire to be possessed by the British navy. The name entered the service attached to a warship captured from the French in 1694, and her successor was secured in the same manner sixty-five years later. Then came the fighting Temeraire, which took part in the battle of Trafalgar, and was immortalized by Turner in his masterpiece of pathos. The fourth Temeraire was an iron-clad built in 1876, and was the first British vessel to have guns mounted according to the disappearing principle. Part of her mechanism is now used at the naval school here.

The battleship recently launched will be bigger than the Dreadnought as regards tonnage, though of the same dimensions. Her displacement will be 18,600 tons, 700 more than the Dreadnought, while her draught will be half a foot more. Among her other improvements are two additional guns to fire astern, a change from twenty-seven twelve-pounders to the same number of four-inch guns and twenty-five-pounders, and a simplification of the handling of the propelling machinery.

Passing Them Around.

In some parts of France there is a bonus for babies—that is, the family that has a certain number gets out of paying certain taxes on the theory that they are otherwise contributing to the state.

If in France, as in all other places, it is considered an act of virtue to beat the tax collector, we may expect schemers to rent out orphan asylums to the common people just before the assessor comes around.

The man with a large family might do quite a thriving business by slipping his children around the back way to a neighbor just after the assessor had called and enumerated them.

If we hear that all of a sudden there has grown up a surprising number of large families in France we need not wonder, but there will be no law against one looking wise.

Summer Savory.

There's a haze upon the hills—
There's a warmth that stirs the sands;
Loudly wail the whippoorwills
In the distant forest lands.

Chirp the crickets in the hedge,
Stir the birdlings in the nest;
Softly curls the storm cloud's edge,
Dyed to crimson in the west.

Sway the clover's tossing heads
In the stretching, wind-swept field—
Billows vast of greens and reds
That to busy workers yield.

Insect, bird and field and wood,
Water, sand and loving sky
Softly murmur "God is good."
Softly whisper "Sweet July."

An Insinuation.

"What time is it by your watch?"
"Just 3 o'clock."
"H'm. What do you guess is the right time?"

CHINA HALL'S NEW PREMISES, 394 GEORGE ST.

Two Tall Ones.

"Eagles and hyenas, if they are starving, will eat themselves," said a nature fakir.

"Oh, of course."

"It's the truth. Pliny mentions it in his natural history, and I have proved it by experiment. I starved an eagle three days, and he began to tear chunks out of his thigh and eat them. The thing was so sickening to me that I only permitted it to go on a day. I got two good photographs of it for my last book, then I restored the eagle's rations again. The poor fellow had made a hole in his thigh as big as your fist, and to this day he walks lame.

"And the hyena? The hyena was worse still. At first he was obstinate and refused to touch himself; but one night I heard angry growls from his cage and, going down with a lantern, I found him eating his hind leg. He had made great progress. He had got away with about three pounds. I believe if I hadn't come down in time he'd have devoured himself completely."—Exchange.

Strained the Jar.

A little old woman with a sharp nose and sharper tongue was in the country grocery store buying supplies. Among other things she brought in from her cart was a battle scarred jug, which she ordered to be filled with treacle.

At last, when her purchases were completed, she began looking over the account, item by item, before paying.

"What's this?" she exclaimed. "You have charged me for two gallons and a half of treacle."

"Yes, ma'am."

"But that jug holds only two gallons."

"You must be mistaken. I measured the treacle carefully, and it took two gallons and a half to fill it."

"Well," said the old woman with a sigh, "I don't so much mind having to pay for the treacle, but I do object to having the old jug strained by your putting in half a gallon more than it will hold."—Strand Magazine.

Kills Wife; Commits Suicide.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 20.—Robert McDonald, 33 years old, a chemist, who recently came here from London, Eng., on Wednesday, cut the throat of his wife, Mrs. Bessie Smith McDonald, causing her almost instant death, and then drank six ounces of laudanum.

Twenty Sentenced to Die.

Riga, Russia, Sept. 20.—Twenty-two out of fifty-eight men, who have been under court-martial here, charged with participation in the revolt in the Baltic Provinces in 1905, have been condemned to death.

Not Guilty of Forgery.

Lindsay, Sept. 20.—The charge against Stephen Oliver of this town of forging a ten-dollar note was yesterday dismissed by County Magistrate Moore. Masson Campbell Co. of Berlin were the prosecutors.

Another Aeronaut Killed.

Troy, O., Sept. 20.—Edward Richards of Dayton, an aeronaut, dropped 2,000 feet to death at the Miami County Fair grounds.

Several ropes of his parachute broke.

The Whippoorwill.

Probably few boys and girls have ever seen the little night bird called whippoorwill. That's a queer name for a bird, isn't it? It is called that because its note sounds like the word. One is rarely seen in the daytime, for it seldom appears until after the swallows have gone to their roosts, when it skims along the surface of the ground, seeking moths and other soft bodied insects, of which it is very fond. Sometimes it appears also between daybreak and sunrise, and its low notes are heard then as in the evening. Strange to say, it does not build a nest, but lays its eggs, generally two, of a greenish white spotted with blue and light brown, in a sort of haphazard fashion, on fallen leaves. One peculiarity of the bird is the formation of its mouth, which shows how nature adapts living things to their necessities and surroundings. The mouth is wide and gaping and has stiff bristles at the base of the bill to keep insects from escaping after they are caught.

The Basket Fish.

There's a queer looking animal on the sea floor of the Pacific ocean called the basket fish, because it looks like a basket or coarse network upside down. Little fishes come swimming into the holes and the animal's long arms that make the side of the basket grab the little fishes and draw them up into the greedy stomach.

Counting the Stars.

I tried so hard to count the stars
And got as far as three,
When many others slyly peeped
And, smiling, blinked at me.

So I began it o'er again
And got as far as nine,
When all at once I seemed to see
A thousand others shine.

Then came so many in the sky
I would not try again.
For all the counting that I know
Is only up to ten.

WORLD'S BEAUTY QUEEN

ENGLAND AND EUROPE CHALLENGE AMERICA'S CLAIM.

Unique Contest Now Started—Try to Beat Uncle Sam's Fairest Daughters—How Competition Began—Jury of Famous Artists—England is Aroused—No Theatrical Performer Eligible.

The Daily Mirror has started a contest for the most beautiful woman in the world, and premises its announcement by asking: Is there a more beautiful woman in the world than Miss Marguerite Frey, of Colorado, whose photograph appeared in The Daily Mirror on Aug. 2?

She was chosen from over 200,000 other beautiful Americans, and the United States has challenged the world to find her equal.

The Daily Mirror has taken up this challenge on behalf of Englishwomen. Its example has been followed by leading newspapers in Australia, Argentina, Denmark, France, Japan, Mexico, Norway, Scotland, Spain and Sweden, on behalf of the womanhood of those countries.

A competition, which started a few months ago in a friendly wager between a New York and Chicago man as to which city possessed the most beautiful woman, has spread until now it is a great international contest.

Out of this first wager, made in December last year, grew a contest to find the most beautiful woman in the United States. She was found in Miss Frey.

Then America challenged the world to find a more beautiful woman, and the world has accepted that challenge.

The jury is composed of ten famous painters, whose names and whose works are well known. They are: John Lavery, R.S.A.; Arthur Hacker, A.R.A.; George Henry, A.R.A.; Sir James Linton, R.I.; A. Carruthers Gould, R.B.A.; Richard Jack, G. P. Jacomb-Hood, R.I.; John Hassall, R.I.; Miss Maud Porter, Charles Lewis.

Owing to a stipulation made by the United States in issuing the challenge, no professional theatrical performer or model is eligible.

According to The Daily Mirror, not only towns, but the rural districts are up in arms against the American challenge. Some of the photographs already sent in come from remote parts of the west of England, where live some of the most perfect types of Englishwomen—fair country girls, the descendants of a long line of sturdy countryfolk, to whom the fresh air is life.

When the most beautiful woman has been found The Daily Mirror proposes to pay her the highest tribute that can be paid to any mortal—to perpetuate her name and beauty.

The women judged by the committee to be the fairest in England shall have her portrait painted by a well-known British artist. This portrait will be offered to the most important picture gallery in the neighborhood in which the lady lives as a permanent record of the most beautiful English woman in 1907.

The Daily Mirror is championing the cause of England. In this week's issue of the People's Friend, of Dundee, the cause of Scotland's fair daughters is being taken up.

Immortalized by Dickens.

Another London landmark will shortly disappear, the Old Curiosity Shop, which suggested to Charles Dickens his famous novel bearing that name, which has delighted so many thousands of readers.

The old building has been the scene of many pilgrimages by those desiring to see the place, for ever associated in their minds with little Nell and her grandfather.

The exigencies of modern life demand its demolition to make room for a more substantial building.

Witty Lord Longford.

One of the wittiest of peers is Lord Longford, and he has also earned the reputation of being one of the worst-dressed, in spite of the fact that for twenty years he has been in the 2nd Life Guards. The story goes that a friend once met him in Ireland garbed in a pair of continuations which were not on speaking terms with his boots, and chaffed him mercilessly about the "lucid interval" that occurred between them. But "Tommy," as Lord Longford is known to his intimates, in no wise disconcerted, blandly explained that it was really a matter of high politics. "You see, my dear fellow, the breeches were made by a tailor who is a rampant Orangeman, while the boots are the achievement of a Fenian cobbler, so how can you expect 'em to meet?"

Stammer? You're Kind Hearted.

Stammering arises from a weak nerve in the brain. Strengthen that nerve and the stammerer is cured. But it so happens that this particular nerve is never weak in the case of people who are mean or hard or utterly selfish.

I do not pretend to say that only stammerers have gentle, sensitive, sympathetic natures, but I do claim that a person who stammers slightly will generally be found to be trustworthy, diffident, kind hearted and nine times out of ten possessed of much mental ability.

King's Hopes For Ireland.

The Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has received the following message, which King Edward desired conveyed to the Irish people after his recent visit:

"His Majesty has had long and happy experience of the kindness which has been uniformly shown him by Irish people of all classes, and it was a pleasant thing to find once more, on his passage through the streets of the capital of Ireland, such evident proof of loyal feeling toward the Crown.

"Their Majesties greatly admired the grounds and buildings of the Irish exhibition and the many objects of interest shown in its various sections. Especially were they struck with the large representation of native industries in Ireland, and they hope that the exhibition may prove a very useful help and encouragement to the development of the native crafts and industries of Ireland."

Famous Medical Man Ill.

Montreal, Sept. 20.—Sir Lauder Brunton, the famous London medical man, who arrived here after a tour in Canada Wednesday night, and intended sailing for home on the steamship Corsican, which leaves port today, was taken seriously ill and will be unable to travel further.

A BIRTHDAY TO BE REMEMBERED

A. W. Cressman Invites His Friends to Visit his New Store To-Night and Help Him Celebrate

MANY NEW ADDITIONS

The birthday of a business is always an event of importance where its creator is a man of cheerful and optimistic temperament. There is sentiment in most men, no matter how successful they may be.

Every year A. W. Cressman has marked the coming of his Business Birthday in Peterborough by some new achievement. Some distinct mark has been made as each mile post was passed.

On his Ninth Anniversary there were so many new things to be told of, so many good things to be seen, that Mr. Cressman decided to devote a whole evening to it, in order that his friends and patrons might join with him in the rejoicing.

At the end of the business day, this evening, when there is no thought of trading, of buying or of selling, when everyone can come and leisurely survey the new and enlarged store, Mr. Cressman will be glad to see as many as can come. His business colleagues are especially invitvited. Refitted throughout, and enlarged by an additional store, the store arrangement is well worth while.

So many new features are to be seen that one can but mention a few. The Dolly Varden Boot Shop on the second floor, and the Foot-Rite Shoe Rooms in the Semi-Ready Tailoring Department, on the first floor—these are additions.

A "Rest Room" for ladies is close beside the Dolly Varden Bootshop on the second floor, and this will become the meeting place for the ladies of Peterborough. "Meet me at Cressman's Rest Room' will be the message that goes over the telephone, to those who want to meet their friends.

CELEBRATED A CHINA WEDDING

Mrs. Russell of This City was a Guest at Pleasant Function in Port Hope This Week

Mrs. Frances Russell, of this city was a guest at an interesting function held in Port Hope recently, when Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Russell celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary. The Port Hope Times, referring to the event says:—

Mr. and Mrs. W A Russell, John street, entertained 58 friends and relatives on Monday evening, it being the 20th anniversary of their wedding. Their home was artistically decorated with roses, dahlias and asters. The first part of the evening was given over to games and music. Those giving selections were Mr. and Mrs. J H Renwick, Mrs. Charles Massie, Miss Thorndyke, Messrs. George Nicol, Bailey Thompson and Burney Skitch. At 11 o'clock the guests repaired to the Queen's Hotel, where a sumptuous repast had been prepared. At the conclusion of the supper the merry party crossed over to the house, where the festivities were continued.

DAWN BRINGS LIMESTONE FROM CLEAR LAKE

Is Stored by Mr. Sheehy on his Recently Acquired City Ground

Yesterday evening the steam tug "Dawn" belonging to Mr. Richard Sheehy arrived in port at the Wolfe street wharf with a scow load of limestone blocks from his quarry at the head of Clear Lake. The load contained 25 cords of building stone and to-day was unloaded on the strip of territory north of the C. P. R. bridge which Mr. Sheehy recently acquired from the city for storage purposes.

The scow containing the stone was pulled up underneath the bridge so that the stone could the more easily be unloaded.

ALTERATIONS TO THE BANK

Bank of Ottawa Premises to be Greatly Improved and Enlarged

The changes that are being made in the Bank of Ottawa building, will result in a transformation of the structure, and will make it one of the most handsome bank premises in the city. The plans include the taking down of the wall between the present premises and the removal of the present fronts, which will be rebuilt in brick and stone. The door will be placed in the centre, and the exterior of the structure will be very much changed by these improvements. New floors will be laid down inside and other changes made there. The exterior of the building will be painted to the roof.

The cost of the work is estimated at $2000, and it is thought that the work will be finished by October 31st.

Thomas Rutherford has the contract for the carpenter work, and Fred Cook, for the painting.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT COSTS MONEY

Hugh Gibbs is Fined Six Dollars For Causing a Disturbance

The uproarious life that Hugh Gibbs, and the rest of the household, at the corner of George and Sherbrooke street, have been living during the past three months, has been tolerated by the other families living nearby until this morning, when Hugh appeared before the court, charged with disorderly conduct on Tuesday, the 17th. There are three or four people in the house, which is merely a shell, having been badly scorched by fire some time ago. The roof is gone and only a small part is habitable.

The complainant this morning said he had put up with the noise and bad language because he did not wish to come to court, but on Tuesday at supper time, he heard a racket going on in which there was loud talk of "ripping open" and knocking brains out, until finally he heard some one fall, and thinking that something serious had happened he called the police.

His worship said, "Whisky! I suppose?" and his surmise was correct. He imposed a fine of two dollars and costs, amounting to $6.40, with some time to pay it in. He warned Gibbs not to be guilty of the offence again.

SATURDAY LIFT-LOCK TRIP

MR. MERCER MAKES A SUCCESS

Of the Shoe Business in Toronto. A Former Peterborough Man has Record Sales

A tremendous success always attends an article introduced to supply a long felt want. For years ladies who wished for dainty shoes, the kind that have artistic and cultured grace, combined with good fitting qualities, felt that they had to pay high prices when they bought American shoes. The dealers exacted from $1 to $2 more for American shoes simply because they had to pay that much in duty.

The Dolly Varden shoe had all the qualities which appeal to ladies who dress well—and the cost is just the same in Canada as in the United States and Great Britain—exactly the the same.

In nearly all the important centres of commerce there are Dolly Varden shoe stores. In Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, where big shoe stores devote most of their energy to the presentation of Dolly Varden and Foot-Rite shoes, the success has been marked.

Stepping right into the field where the old-line shoe stores were doing business, the Foot-Rite and Dolly Varden converted every trial customer into a walking testimony of goodness. Their business grew and grew. Envious rivals called the stores a "front," for they could not know that the foundation of a prosperous business must be laid in cemented friendships gained by quality and good value. Quietly at first these stores grew, but to-day they are a huge success. To-morrow will come the imitators who jeered at first.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT THE FAIR

Mr. Hetherington's Fat Steer Weighing Nearly Two Ton

A special attraction at the Peterborough Industrial Fair this year will be a steer, the property of Mr. Hetherington, who claims that it is the largest of its kind in the world. He does not give its weight, but it is understood that it will tip the scales at about two tons. Side by side in the same tent with the steer there will be a 300-pound Jersey cow, giving milk.

LINDSAY BARBERS ARE IN DANGER

They are Raising The Prices and May Affiliate With the Peterboro' Union

The Lindsay barbers have raised the price of hair cutting to twenty cents. The Lindsay barbers are also said to be thinking of affiliating with the Peterborough Barbers' Union. The Lindsay barbers had better be very careful, or they will be fined $29,000,000, same as the Standard Oil Company.—Watchman-Warder.

The Board of Works' High-Handed Action is Severely Condemned

Ladies Who Claim They Have Been Unfairly Dealt With Voice Their Complaints

DISCOURAGE ENTERPRISE

And when Money is Spent by Private Parties to Improve Street Assessment is Increased

A lady living on Gilmour street enters a complaint against the Board of Works in a matter upon which she feels strongly. Her husband recently purchased a residence with large grounds, on that street, and she is looking after the improvements. The plans, now being carried out, include important improvements and additions to the residence, grounds and surroundings. Concrete boundary walls, between her place and the adjoining properties, have been erected, and a concrete approach from the street to the drive erected in connection with the placing of a fine curb and water-table in front of the property. On Friday, the Board of Works, in the course of its tour of street inspection, passed this place. Objection was made by the Board to the work having been done without a permit being secured, and it is stated that the nominal chairman of the Board went so far, either jocularly or otherwise, as to suggest that the curb and water-table be torn out. The City Engineer objected on the grounds that a permit should have been asked and a proper grade struck.

The lady interested, who is new to the wonderful ways of our street authorities, feels greatly aggrieved. She is doing her best, by the expenditure of a large sum of money, to beautify her premises, and incidentally contribute to the beauty of the city. A considerable part of her expenditure is placed on the street, to the relief of municipal expenditure, with the result of a vast improvement of the appearance of the street in that quarter.

What is her reward? She is publicly berated by the Board of Works, and not only is she not thanked, but reproached for having done work in the public interest at her own expense, but, in addition, the assessment on her property has been advanced $1,100 at a jump by the prodigal assessment that is creating such universal protest and calling down so many anathems upon the assessor, or the source from which he received his instructions.

This lady is greatly displeased with what she considers the petty tyranny to which she has been subjected, and says that if it is a sample of Peterborough's welcome to new citizens, who are willing to spend money liberally to improve the city, she will be forced to "go back to a free country"—the Canadian West.

There seems to be something sublime in the suggestion of the City Engineer that he should have been allowed to strike the grade of the curb. The very property on whose front the unlicensed curb is placed, is a comment on his grade - striking. The walk in front of the property is hoisted between two and three feet above the lawn level, and it will take between 100 and 150 loads of soil to fill the cavity created by elevating the walk two or three feet above the original walk, by which the lawn was originally graded.

The suggestion that a permit should have been asked to erect the curb is absurdly ironical. Here is a lady expending scores of dollars of money to improve the street, and she is reproved for having the temerity to do it without permission. Yet the Board of Works permits any person who chooses, to dig up the streets for sewer services, etc, and leave them in a condition of hideous disrepair, a destruction of the prime purpose of streets—to afford comfortable transportation for vehicles. What encouragement have citizens under such conditions to loyally strive to contribute to making Peterborough, as respects her streets and public places, as it actually is in other respects, the City Beautiful? It would seem, from the experience of the lady mentioned, that (the only time the Board of Works are progressive is when they are making a progress through our streets in a livery 'bus.

CITY SHOULD ABATE; TRAINS NOISE NUISANCE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I was recently forced to spend some weeks at the Nicholls Hospital, and I, as well as many other patients, had reason to complain bitterly of the noise of the trains and the whistling of the engines passing by the hospital, and I think that the City Council should see that something was done. From about McDonel street, trains make a race with all the speed and force that they can put on the engine, to make the grade, commencing somewhere about Dublin street, and extending to the Barnardo Home, and if they have five or six cars of clay, or four or five large box cars of coal, it requires all the puffing, and pounding, and noise of the whole power of the engine to bring them up the grade, and it is certainly a relief to the patients in the hospital when they make it.

Would it not be a good thing for the Council to see that the railways provide a proper grade within the city limits? And is it not a menace to the health of hospital patients, not to speak of its being an intolerable public nuisance, to have seven or eight trains a day wasting the energy, and pounding to make a grade that is out of all reason, and should not be maintained?

Yours truly,
RECENT PATIENT
at Nicholls Hospital.

A CREAMERY FOR HAVELOCK

Proposal Made to Establish One in that Village in Near Future

Havelock, September 20. — A gentleman who is very prominent in dairy matters in this district, has informed the Standard that there is probability of a modern creamery being built here this year, and that a meeting will be held in the course of a couple of weeks or so to discuss the contemplated project with the farmers and others interested. The need of a creamery in Havelock has long been evident and since the Melrose cheese factory was burned, the idea has grown in favour with the farmers of this vicinity, so that in all probability a creamery will be in operation here in the near future.

NEWSPAPER PRINTED IN 1800 REFERS NAPOLEONIC WAR

Mr. John Williams Has Returned From the Old Country After Two Months' Holday There—Has an Interesting Relic of the Last Century

HE VISITED ALSO IN WALES

Mr. John Williams, Bolivar street, has returned to Peterborough with his wife and youngest daughter from a two months' sojourn in England and his native land, Wales, has many interesting incidents to relate about the trip. Of greatest interest is an old newspaper that was given him by a friend as a relic. It is dated 1800 and, although over 100 years old, is in good condition and contains legible accounts of several phases of the Napoleonic war, in which England was involved at that time. It refers to a message sent by Napoleon regarding a small fleet of ships and also gives the latest dispatches that had been received from the continent, where operations were being carried on. There are many things of interest in the paper, which is a curious sheet from the style of type and general makeup. Mr. Williams highly prizes it and will preserve it as a relic which is not often duplicated.

Speaking of the condition found in the Old Country Mr. Williams speaks highly of the thoroughness which is featured on all sides. He stated that the streets of Manchester might be taken as a model for those of the other cities of the world, and says that the Peterborough aldermen and gentlemen of the public works should pay a visit to several of the cities where they would gain the best of experience. Mr. Williams is looking in the best of health and has derived many benefits from his visit to the home of his ancestors and his youth.

No Mistakes Have Been Made Says the Market Clerk

It is stated in market society circles to-day that the market clerk has secured a new position. Yesterday he was seen going northward driving a handsome horse attached to a delivery wagon which has been used for "Liquors and Groceries," Whether he is establishing a liquor store in Lakefield or not hasn't yet been made public, but that is the impression of the market frequenters.

PORT HOPE MAN REFUSES TO ENTER RACE WITH MR. HARTLEY

Jimmy Reynolds, the Port Hope walker will not take on a race with aDvid Hartley, the local pedestrian. In response to the challenge issued by Mr. Hartley, the Port Hope man, speaking to a reporter of the Port Hope Times, said that since Hartley could run as well as walk he would not take a race with him.

Reynolds does not pretend to be able to run, and therefore declines a match with Hartley. But Reynolds says that he is perfectly willing to wager $300 against $600 that he can walk to Toronto and return in 34 hours. He ascribes his failure in June to the intense heat.

A full practice of the Peterborough rugby club is called for to-morrow afternoon at Riverside Park and every player, senior and junior, is asked to be out in uniform as it is important that the team should take full advantage of the Saturday afternoon practices.

The membership tickets are selling well. Those who have not bought one yet should do so at once and help to put the club on a good financial footing.

There are only 200 tickets for sale on the drawing competition for the pair of trousers so kindly donated by Mr. Ed. Huff, and judging by the way in which the tickets are going there are not many chances left. Twenty-five cents may win you the trousers and will, at any rate, help the club along.

THE TURF

Several Peterborough men who follow the ponies wore a broad smile last night and it is still in sight to-day. The reason for their happy expression is not hard to find if one glances at the Woodbine form chart for yesterda's races. Muck-Rake, a rank outsider in theb etting and selling as long as 40 to 1, won the Brant Purse in the first race yesterday and several local men were in on the good thing. One man had a ten spot on Muck-Rake and cashed in $400 on the race while a modest one case note won $40 for another; hence the smiles.

Several of the Peterborough horses are taking part in the races at the Lindsay Fair to-day. Among the string are Hazel Bell, Lady Gothard, Brown Gyp and Harry Direct.

Divisions of The Mail Routes Decided Upon

The Sections Into Which the City Will be Divided for Delivery of Mail Matter

SEVEN DISTRICTS NAMED

Mr. Robt. Durston, who has been in the city making a division and deciding on the boundaries for the seven mail routes, has completed his work, and the results of his labours are announced to-day. It will be seen by consulting the routes, as indicated below, that the city has been covered thoroughly, and the routes are sufficiently compact to ensure an efficient service.

In some cases two deliveries and two collections each day will be made, while in others but one. In every case it is anticipated that the service will be immeasurably superior to that being given at the present time, with the accommodation in the office entirely inadequate to the needs of the city.

People of Present Age Should be Thankful

This is The Opinion of Rev. Canon Spragge Who Preached at The Harvest Festival in All Saint's Church Last Evening---Reasons Why Canadians Should be Grateful.

With the true spirit of thankfulness that should characterise such an occasion, the Harvest Festival of All Saints' church was held last night, with the edifice adorned wotth fruits and vegetables emblematic of the season while streamers of grain hung over the heads of the congregation.

The special preacher was Rev. Canon Spragge, of Cobourg, whose forcible sermon was an admonition to his hearers to give thanksgiving unto God and many reasons were given why this was necessary and desirable.

Rev. Canon Spragge spoke from the text, Psalms 50, 14; "Offer unto God thanksgiving."

From the passage the speaker said that the lesson was plainly taught that the Almighty did not desire a mere outward service or the simple office of sacrifice. He wished for the offering of an earnest and sincere heart.

When he looked at the flowers and grain the speaker remarked that it seemed unnecessary to speak of thanksgiving as he felt that he was speaking to a thankful people and he felt no doubt that they had already learned what the church taught. He asked why people came to church and gave as reason; first, because they assembled to render thanks for great benefits received; they come to give something, not to get something. Secondly, to praise God's holy name. Thirdly, to hear His Holy Word, and fourthly, to ask for something, to pray for what is necessary for body as well as for soul.

Rev. Canon Spragge passed on to discuss the many things that people of the present day have to be thankful for. He spoke of the marvellous progress and advancement that has been made in the past 200 years and more particularly in the last century in invention and in the development of natural resources, the extension of commerce and the advancement of science. People should be thankful that they were living in the life and vigor of the age. It was all God's Word and all Gods' world.

There was a danger to be avoided, however, and the speaker warned his hearers to be aware of worldliness, the commercial spirit of self interest. If people were thankful and offered up thanksgiving to God, all this materialism, this worldly spirit would disappear.

On the prosperity of the country in general and of this city in particular, there was much to be thankful for. Reference was made to the growth and progress of Peterborough and the speaker pointed out that the church was equal to the occasion and did not lag behind in the march of progress. There was reason to be thankful for the peace and prosperity of the country and for the comforts and luxuries which the people of the present age enjoyed, so different from the time in which their forefathers lived.

Greater than these reasons for being thankful was the spiritual blessing all around, the humanity of Jesus Christ as well as His divinity, His wonderful love, His self sacrifices and the fact that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us.

In conclusion the speaker once more emphasized the necessity for thanksgiving, saying that it was not merely thanks praying, or thanks-singing, but really-thanksgiving.

Rev. Canon Davidson, of St. John's church assisted in the service by by reading prayers.

Young Men Benefitted By a Canadian Club

Some Good Reasons Advanced why They Should Become Members of the Club to be Formed Here

A GREAT MOVEMENT

Some reasons why young men, especially, should become identified with the Canadian Club movement are given in a letter which the Examiner to-day received from a member of the Toronto Canadian Club, but who at present is living in Peterborough. This gentleman is deeply interested in the proposal to form a club in Peterborough, and is taking an active part in the organization plans. He has been associated with the club in the past, and is therefore in a position to speak with authority as to the good results following its institution. His letter in as follows:—

The Canadian Club movement, which to-day girdles the earth and links Canadians in every zone, was originated by Mr. Charles McCullough of Hamilton. Prophet and founder though he is, little could he foresee the magnitude or power the institution was destined to attain. Already, Canada owes to "The Father of the Canadian Club" a debt that can never be paid.

Why has the Canadian Club achieved such brilliant success? Why is it growing so rapidly in influence? Why should ambitious young men become members, in Peterborough, or anywhere else?

Because the institution is patriotic. Its fundamental purpose is to further the interests of Canada. From its birth there has throbbed in it a sense of the greatness of our country's destiny. Every man touched with its idea feels that it is worth while. It looks far ahead and seeks to give shape and worth to what is to be. Canada's greatness is its constant aim. What can be done to make out native land first in all that is enduring. That is its thought. Not material development is the first consideration. Commercial and industrial interests, railways, waterways, finance, insurance, mining, lumber, stock, cheese, and everything else that touches the natural resources of the country are considered; but these things are not all, nor chief. What stands first? Always the higher interests; the educational development, and moral fibre of the citizen; i.e., the type of manhood that our country needs.

This brings us to a second reason why young men should join the club and stick to it. It is a great educational institution. Its speakers deal with innumerable subjects. Always brightly. That is part of the interest. Always intelligently. Only able men are invited. The meetings are short. The speakers experts. The "lessons" are easy to take. And because related to the living interests of the day they become strongly formative in one's character and thinking. Religion, like politics, is supposed to be excluded, yet bishops and archbishops, and the greatest politicians of the world address our clubs.

Another reason is the personal factor. No man can develop personality without contact with men. The most potent power in the shaping and toning of manhood is the impression of a man. One strong man, who stands a type of attractive character, is worth very much to a community. Put him in bank or school, pulpit, office or workshop, and he "helps" men. To come under the power of one great personality often gives uplift and direction and momentum to life.

In the Canadian Club, this type of influence will be found in two different ways. In the prominent men who come as speakers, and also by association with fellow members. Everywhere the club has appealed to the leaders of men, drawing into its membership the most distinguished men in our cities. By joining the club, one has contact with the living forces of the day; and forms friendships which must be of lasting worth.

No ambitious young man can afford to ignore the Canadian Club.

AN AGE OF REASON.

The days of mystery have passed. There must be a reason for everything, and we demand to be shown the whys and the wherefores. Secret or patent medicines must go with the other mysteries. King Palmetto Compound is not a secret remedy,—the formula is printed on the label, and you can get expert advice from your physician, who will tell you that it is the most useful prescription ever prepared. Saw Palmetto for the kidneys, Cascara Sagrada for the bowels, Couch Grass, Corn Silk, for the bladder, Golden Seal and Compound Kerunfel,—a perfect combination. The cause of ill-health is not a mystery either, and we know we should apply our reason to our daily habits, but we do not do so. The modern struggle is too much for us. The result is a clogged liver, and a generally disordered condition of the stomach, liver, nerves, and kidneys. These things lead to very serious results, and render the body an easy prey to germ diseases, such as Typhus, Typhoid, and Consumption. The reasonable solution is to begin taking King Palmetto Compound to-day. One dose a day, and the cure begins with the first dose. It will renovate your entire system, cure constipation and indigestion, and purify the blood. Give it a trial. Write for a free sample bottle to the King Palmetto Company, Bridgeburg, Ontario.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

I was in a dilemma. I knew she was M. Etienne's chosen lady and therefore deserving of all fealty from me; yet at the same time I could not answer her question. It was sheer embarrassment and no intent of rudeness that caused my short answer:

"About his own concerns, mademoiselle."

"The young puppy begins to growl!" exclaimed the thick-set soldierly fellow who had bespoken me before, whose hostile gaze had never left my face. "I'll have him flogged, mademoiselle, for this insolence."

"M. de Brie"——she began at the same moment that I cried out to her:

"I meant no insolence; I crave mademoiselle's pardon." I added, in my haste floundering deeper into the mire: "Mademoiselle sees for herself that I cannot tell about M. le Comte's affairs in this house."

Brie had me by the collar.

"So that is what has become of Mar!" he cried triumphantly. "I thought as much. If Mar's affairs are to be a secret from this house, then, nom de Dieu, they are no secret."

He shook me back and forth as if to shake the truth out of me till my teeth rattled together; I could not have spoken if I would. But he cried on, his voice rising with excitement:

"It has been no secret where St. Quentin stands and what he has been about. He came into Paris smooth and smiling, his own man, forsooth—neither ours nor the heretic's! Mordieu! he was Henry's, fast and sure, save that he was not man enough to say so. I told Mayenne last month we ought to settle with M. de St. Quentin; I asked nothing better than to attend to him. But the general would not, but let him alone, free and unmolested in his work of stirring up sedition. And Mar, too"——

He stopped in the middle of a word. All the company who had been pressing around us halted still. I knew that behind me some one had entered the room.

M. de Brie dragged me back from where we were blocking the passage. I turned in his grasp to face the newcomer.

He was a tall, stout man, deep-chested, thick-necked, heavy jowled. His wavy hair, brushed up from a high forehead, was lightest brown, while his brows, mustachios and beard were dark. His eyes were dark also, his full lips red and smiling. He had the beauty and presence of all the Guises; it needed not the star on his breast to tell me that this was Mayenne himself.

He advanced into the room, returning the salutes of the company, but his glance traveling straight to me and my captor.

"What have we here, Francois?"

"This is a fellow of Etienne de Mar's, M. le Duc." Brie answered. "He came here with messages for Mlle. de Montluc. I am getting out of him what Mar has been up to since he disappeared a month back."

"You are at unnecessary pains, my dear Francois; I already know Mar's whereabouts and doings rather better than he knows them himself."

Brie dropped his hand from my collar, looking by no means at ease. I perceived that this was the way with Mayenne: you knew what he said, but you did not know what he thought. His somewhat heavy face varied little; what went on in his mind behind the smiling mask was matter for anxiety. If he asked pleasantly after your health you fancied he might be thinking how well you would grace the gallows.

M. de Brie said nothing and the duke continued:

"Yes, I have kept watch over him these five weeks. You are late, Francois. You little boys are fools; you think because you do not know a thing I do not know it. Was I cruel to keep my information from you, ma belle Lorance?"

The attack was absolutely sudden; he had not seemed to observe her. Mademoiselle colored and made no instant reply. His voice was neither loud nor rough; he was smiling upon her.

"Or did you need no information, mademoiselle?"

She met his look unflinching.

"I have not been sighing for tidings of the Comte de Mar, monsieur."

"Because you have had tidings, mademoiselle?"

"No, monsieur, I have had no communication with M. de Mar since May—until to-night."

"And what has happened to-night?"

"To-night—Paul appeared."

"Paul!" ejaculated the duke, startled momentarily out of his phlegm. "Paul here?"

"He was, monsieur, an hour ago. He has since gone forth again, I know not whither or for what."

Mayenne ruminated over this, pulling off his gloves slowly.

"Well? What has this to do with Mar?"

She had no choice, though in evident fear of his displeasure, but to go through again the tale of the wager and letter. She was moistening her dry lips as she finished, her eyes on his face wide with apprehension. But he answered amiably, half absently, as if the whole affair were a triviality:

"Never mind; I will give you a pair of gloves, Lorance."

He stood smiling upon us as if amused for an idle moment over our childish games. The color came back to her cheeks; she made him a curtsey, laughing lightly.

"Then my grief is indeed cured, monsieur. A new bit of finery is the best of balms for wounded self-esteem, is it not, Blanche? I confess I am piqued; I had dared to imagine that my squire might remember me still after a month of absence. I should have known it too much to ask of mortal man. Not till the rivers run up hill will you keep our meuories green for more than a week, messieurs."

"She turns it off well," cried the little demoiselle in blue, Mlle Blanche de Tavanne; "you would not guess that she will be awake the night long, weeping over M. de Mar's defection."

"I!" exclaimed Mlle. de Montluc; "I weep over his recreancy? It is a far-fetched jest, my Blanche; can you invent no better? The Comte de Mar—behold him!"

She snatched a card from a tossed-down hand, holding it up aloft for us all to see. It was by chance the knave of diamonds; the pictured face with its yellow hair bore, in my fancy at least, a suggestion of M. Etienne.

"Behold M. de Mar—behold his fate!" With a twinkling of her white fingers she had torn the luckless knave into a dozen pieces and sent them whirling over her head to fall far and wide among the company.

"Summary measures, mademoiselle!" quoth a grizzled warrior with a laugh. "Mordieu! have we your good permission to deal likewise with the flesh-and-blood Mar when we go to arrest him for conspiring against the Holy League?"

But Mlle. de Tavanne's quick tongue robbed him of his answer.

"Marry, you are severe on him, Lorance. To be sure he does not come himself, but he sends so gallant a messenger!"

Mademoiselle glanced at me with hard blue eyes.

"That is the greatest insult of all," she said. "I could forgive—and forget—his absence, but I do not forgive his despatching me his horseboy."

Thus far I had choked down my swelling rage at her faithlessness, her vanity, her despiteful entreatment of my master's plight. I knew it was sheer madness for me to attempt his defense before this hostile company; nay, there was no object in defending him; there was not one here who cared to hear good of him. But at her last insult to him my blood boiled so hot that I lost all command of myself and I burst out:

"If I were a horse-boy—which I am not—I were twenty times too good to be carrying messages hither. You need not rail at his poverty, mademoiselle; it was you brought him to it. It was for you he was turned out of his father's house. But for you he would not now be lying in a garret, penniless and dishonored. Whatever ills he suffers, it is you and your false house have brought them."

Brie had me by the throat. Mayenne interfered without excitement.

"Don't strangle him, Francois; I may need him later. Let him be flogged and locked in the oratory."

He turned away as one bored over a trifling matter. And as the lackeys dragged me back to the door I heard Mlle. de Montluc saying:

"Oh, M. de Latour, what have I done in destroying your knave of diamonds! Ma foi, you lend a quatorse!"

"Here, Pierre!" M. de Brie called to the head lackey, "here's a candidate for a hiding. This is a cub of that fellow Mar's. He reckoned wrong when he brought his insolence into this house. Lay on well, boys; make him howl."

Brie would have liked well enough, I fancy, to come along and see the fun, but he conceived that his duty lay in the salon. Pierre, the same who had conducted me to Mlle. de Montluc, now led the way into a long oak-panelled parlor. Opposite the entrance was a huge chimney carved with the arms of Lorraine; at one end a door led into a little oratory where tapers burned before the image of the Virgin; at the other, before the two narrow windows, stood a long table with writing materials. Chests and cupboards nearly filled the walls. I took this to be a sort of council-room of my lord Mayenne.

Pierre sent one of his men for a cane and to the other suggested that he should quench the Virgin's candles.

"For I don't see why this rascal should have the comfort of a light in there," he said. "As for Madonna Mary she will not mind; she has a million others to see by."

I was left alone with him and I promised myself the joy of one good blow at his face, no matter how deep they flayed me for it. But as I gathered myself for the rush he spoke to me low and cautiously:

"Now howl your loudest, lad, and I'll not lay on too hard."

My clinched fist dropped to my side.

"You never did me any harm," he muttered. "Howl till they think you half killed, and I'll manage.

I gaped at him, not knowing what to make of it. But this is the way of the world; if there is much cruelty in it there is much kindness too.

"Here's the cane, nom d'un chien!" Pierre exclaimed boisterously. "Give it here, Jean; there'll not be much of it left when I get through."

"You'll strip his coat off?" said the second lackey from the oratory.

CHAPTER XIV.

"My faith! no; I should kill him if I did, and the duke wants him," Pierre retorted. So without more ado the two men tied my wrists in front of me, and Jean held me by the knot while Pierre laid on. And he, good fellow, grasping my collar, contrived to pull my loose jerkin away from my back, so that he dusted it down without greatly incommoding me. Some hard whacks I did get, but they were nothing to what a strong man could have given in grim earnest.

I trust I could have taken a real flogging with as close lips as anybody, but if my kind succorer wanted howls, howls he should have. I yelled and cowered and dodged about, to the roaring delight of Jean and his mate. Indeed, I had drawn a crowd of grinning varlets to the door before my performance was over. But at length, when I thought I had done enough for their pleasure and that of the nobles in the salon, I dropped down on the floor and lay quiet with shut eyes.

"He has had his fill, I trow; we must not spoil him for the master," Pierre said.

"Oh, he'll come to in a minute," another answered. "Why, you have not even drawn blood, Pierre!" He laid his hand on my back, whereat I groaned my hollowest.

"It will be many a day before he cares to have his back touched," laughed Pierre. "Here, men, lend a hand. Pardieu! I wonder what Our Lady thinks of some of the devotees we bring her?"

As they lifted me he took my hand with an inquiring squeeze; and I squeezed back, grateful if ever a boy was. They flung me down on the oratory floor and left me there a prisoner.

I spent the next hour or so trying to undo the knot of my handcuff with my teeth, and failing that, to chew the stout rope in two. I was minded to [illegible] worked of Lucas and his bonds, and wondered whether he had managed to rid himself of their inconvenience. He went straightway, doubtless, to some confederate who cut them for him, and even now was planning fresh evil against the St. Quentins. I remembered his face as he cried to M. le Comte that they should meet again; and I thought that M. Etienne was likely to have his hands full with Lucas, without this unlucky tanglement with Mlle. de Montluc. In the darkness and solitude I called down a murrain on his folly. Why could he not leave the girl alone? There were other blue eyes in the world. And it would be hard on humanity if there were none kindlier.

He had been at it three years too. For three long years this girl's fair face had stood between him and his home, between him and action, between him and happiness. It was a fair face, truly, yet, in my opinion, neither it nor any maid's was worth such pains. If she had loved him it had not been worth it, but this girl spurned and flouted him. Why, in the name of heaven, could he not put the jade out of his mind and turn merrily to St. Denis and the road to glory? When I got back to him and told him how she had mocked him, hang me but he should, though!

Ah, but when was I to get back to him? That rested not with me but with my dangerous host, the League's Lieutenant-General, dark-minded Mayenne. What he wanted with me he had not revealed; nor was it a pleasant subject for speculation. He meant me, of course, to tell him all I knew of the St. Quentins; well, that was soon done; belike he understood more than I of the day's work. But after he had questioned me, what?

Would he consider with his servant, Pierre, that I had never done him any harm? Or would he—I wondered if they flung me out stark into some alley's gutter whether M. le Comte would search for me and claim my carcass? Or would he too have fallen by the blades of the League?

I was shuddering as I waited there in the darkness. Never, not even this morning in the closet of the Rue Coupejarrets, had I been in such mortal dread. I had walked out of that closet to find M. Etienne; but I was not likely to happen on succor here. Pierre, for all his kind heart, could not save me from the Duke of Mayenne.

Then when my hope was at its nadir I remembered who was with me in the little room. I groped my way to Our Lady's feet and prayed her to save me, and if she might not, then to stand by me during the hard moment of dying and receive my seeking soul. Comforted now and deeming I could pass, if it came to that, with a steady face, I laid me down, my head on the prie-dieu cushion, and presently went to sleep.

I was waked by a light in my face, and, all a-quiver, sprang up to meet my doom. But it was not the duke nor any of his hirelings who bent over me, candle in hand; it was Mlle. de Montluc.

"Oh, my boy, my poor boy!" she cried pitifully. "I could not save you the flogging; on my honor I could not. It would have availed you nothing had I pleaded for you on my bended knees."

With bewilderment I observed that the tears were brimming over her lashes and splashing down into the candle flame. I stared, too confused for speech, while she, putting down the shaking candlestick on the altar, as she crossed herself, covered her face with her hands, sobbing.

"Mademoiselle," I stammered, "it is not worth mademoiselle's tears! The man Pierre he told me to scream, so they would think he was half flaying me. But in truth he did not strike very hard. He did not hurt so much."

She struggled to check the rising tempest of her tears, and presently dropped her hands and looked at me earnestly from out her shining wet eyes.

"Is that true? Are you not flayed?" And to make sure she laid her hand delicately on my back.

"They have whacked your coat to ribbons, but, thank St. Genevieve, they have not brought the blood. I saw a man flogged once"—— She shut her eyes, shuddering, and her mouth quivered anew.

"But I am not much hurt, mademoiselle," I answered her.

She took out her film of a handkerchief to wipe her wet cheeks, her hand still trembling. I could think of nothing but to repeat:

"I am not in the least hurt, mademoiselle."

"Ah, but if they have spared you the flogging to take your life!" she breathed.

It was not a heartening suggestion. To my astonishment suddenly I found myself, frightened victim, striving to comfort this noblewamon for my death.

"Nay, I am not afraid. Since mademoiselle weeps over me I can die happily."

She sprang toward me as if to protect me with her body from some menacing thrust.

"They shall not kill you!" she cried, her eyes flashing blue fire. "They shall not! Mon dieu! is Lorance de Montluc so feeble a thing that she cannot save a serving boy?"

She fell back a pace, pressing her hands to her temples as if to stifle their throbbing.

"I was my fault," she cried—"it was all my fault. It was my vanity and silliness brought you to this. I should never have written that letter—a three years child would have known better. But I had not seen M. de Mar for five weeks—I did not know, what I readily guess now, that he had taken sides against us. M. de Lorraine played on my pique."

"Mademoiselle," I said, "the worst has not followed, since M. Etienne did not come himself."

"You are glad for that?"

"Why, of course, mademoiselle. Was it not a trap for him?"

She caught her breath as if in pain.

"I knew that as soon as I saw that my cousin Mayenne was not angry. When I told what I had done and he smiled at me and said I should have my gloves, why, then I thought my heart would stop beating. I saw what I had accomplished—mon Dieu, I was sick with repentance of it!"

I had to tell her I had not thought it.

"No," she answered; "I had got you into this by my foolishness; I must needs try to get you out by my wits. Brie, the one who took you by the throat—there has been bad blood between him and your lord this twelvemonth; only last May M. le Comte ran him through the wrist. Had I interfered for you," she said, coloring a little, "M. de Brie would have inferred interest in the master from that in the man, and he had seen to your beating himself."

It suddenly dawned on me that this M. de Brie was the "little cheese" of guard-room gossip. And I thought that the gentleman would hardly display so much venom against M. Etienne unless he were a serious obstacle to his hopes. Nor would mademoiselle be here at midnight, weeping over a serving lad, if she cared nothing for the master. If she had not worn her heart on her sleeve before the laughing salon mayhap she would show it to me.

"Mademoiselle," I cried, "when the billet was brought him M. Etienne rose from his bed at once to come. But he was faint from fatigue and loss of blood; he could not walk across the room. But he bade me try to make mademoiselle believe his absence was no fault of his. He wrote her a month ago; he found to-day the letter was never delivered."

"Is he hurt dangerously?"

"No." I admitted reluctantly; "no, I think not. He was wounded in the right forearm and again pinked in the shoulder; but he will recover."

"You said," she went on, the tears standing in her eyes, "that he was penniless. I have not much, but what I have is freely his."

She advanced upon me, holding out her silken purse which she had taken from her bosom; but I retreated.

"No, no, mademoiselle," I cried, ashamed of my hot words; "we are not penniless—or if we are we get on very well sans le sou. They do everything for monsieur at the Trois Lanternes, and he has only to return to the Hotel St. Quentin to get all the gold pieces he can spend. Oh, no; we are in no want, mademoiselle. I was angry when I said it; I did not mean it. I cry mademoiselle's pardon."

She looked at me a little hesitatingly.

"You are telling me true?"

"Why, yes, mademoiselle; if my monsieur needed money, indeed, indeed, I would not refuse it."

"Then if you cannot take it for him you can take it for yourself. It will be strange if in all Paris you cannot find something you like as a token from me." With her own white fingers she slipped some tinkling coins into my pouch and cut short my thanks with the little wailing cry:

"Oh, your poor, bound hands! I have my poniard in my dress. I could free them in a second. But if they knew I had been here with you they never will let you go."

"If mademoiselle is running into danger staying here I pray her to go back to bed. M. Etienne did not send me hither to bring her grief and trouble."

"Who are you?" she asked me abruptly. "You have never been here before on monsieur's errands?"

"No, mademoiselle; I came up only yesterday from Picardie. I belong on the St. Quentin estate. My name is Felix Broux."

"Alack, you have chosen a bad time to visit Paris!"

"I came up to see life," I said, "and mordieu! I am seeing it."

"I pray God you may not see death too," she answered soberly.

She stood looking at me helplessly.

"I am in my lord's black books," she said slowly as if to herself; "but I might weep Francois de Brie's rough heart to softness. Then it is a question whether he could turn Mayenne. I wish I knew whether the duke himself or only Paul de Lorraine has planned this move to-night. That is," she added, blushing, but speaking out candidly, "whether they attack M. de Mar as the League's enemy or as my lover."

"This M. Paul de Lorraine," said I, speaking as respectfully as I knew how, but eager to find out all I could for M. Etienne—"this M. de Lorraine is mademoiselle's lover too?"

She shrugged her shoulders, neither assenting nor denying. "We are all pawns in the game for M. de Mayenne to push about as he chooses. For a time M. de Mar was high in his favor. Then my cousin Paul came back after a two years' disappearance, and straightway he was up and M. de Mar was down. And then Paul vanished again as suddenly as he had come, and it became the turn of M. de Brie. Now to-night Paul walked in as suddenly as he had left and at once played on me to write that unlucky letter. And what it bodes for him I know not.

She spoke with amazing frankness; yet, much as she had told me, the fact of her telling it told me even more. I saw that she was as lonely in this great house as I had been at St. Quentin. She would have talked delightedly to M. le Comte's dog.

"Mademoiselle," I said, "I would like well to tell you what has been happening to my M. Etienne this last month if you are not afraid to stay long enough to hear it."

"Oh, every one is asleep long ago; it is past 2 o'clock. Yes, you may tell me if you wish."

Will be continued next Saturday.

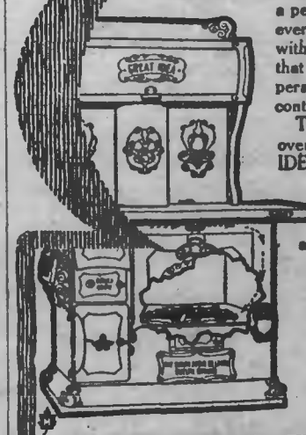
THE TEMPERATURE NEVER VARIES



The draft construction of the GREAT IDEA steel range insures a perfect regularity of heat—every GREAT IDEA is fitted with an oven thermometer that will prove this. The temperature is always in exact control.

The baffle plates fitted to all oven bottoms in the GREAT IDEA, and the quarter-inch air space between the cast iron oven top and the steel oven top insures an even distribution of heat. The flues throughout—even the flues under the oven—are protected with three thicknesses, one of asbestos and two of steel, thus preventing escape of heat from the range body.

The One Opportunity of a Life-time

Once in a life-time "OPPORTUNITY" knocks at the door of every human being, and if not at once grasped, passes on. Some, with commendable foresight, open the door and seize that opportunity to their future advancement and delight; others carelessly, thoughtlessly or indifferently, allow it to pass by and it becomes a life-long regret.

Business Systems Commercial School, strictly the first school, decidedly the only school giving a complete course of Modern Loose Leaf Accounting, now opens the "Door of Opportunity" to you. Loose Leaf Accounting is the system of to-day, and from present prospects will be the system of the future. Every young man, every young woman of business should therefore have a thorough knowledge of it.

Business Systems Commercial School has outlined a superior course in both Business and Shorthand Departments. We want this fact to become known. Newspaper advertising, while good in its place, is not the only kind. We want to send out within a year a large number of walking and talking advertisements in the person of graduates whose success during their course and in their subsequent positions will commend this school to their brothers, their sisters, their relatives and friends.

OUR PROPOSITION

In our new rooms in the new Systems Building we can at once accommodate two hundred energetic, ambitious students. Ours is a new school—we know it. We are human beings and know how suspiciously new things are looked upon until they have been tested. Our testing time has come. We do not fear results. We will meet you half-way. To the next two hundred who register we will give a bonus as follows:

To those who register for six months day classes, paying fees in full therefor, according to our regular schedule, we will give as a bonus three months tuition extra, or nine months in all. To those who register for three months day classes, paying fees therefor, we will give as a bonus one month tuition extra, or four months in all.

The English Orphans

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Lena Rivers," "The Homestead on the Hill," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

Years before our story opens, she, too, was a lonely orphan, weeping in a dreary garret, as oftimes Mary had wept in the poorhouse, and it was the memory of those dark hours which so softened her heart toward the little girl she had taken under her charge. Of Miss Jenny we have learned something of her history. Once a happy, loving wife, surrounded by wealth and friends, she had thought the world all bright and beautiful. But a change came over the spirit of her dream. Her noble husband died—and the day succeeding his burial she was told that their fortune, too, was gone. One by one, all misfortune came upon her, did her fashionable friends desert her, until she was left alone, with none to lean upon except the God of the widow and fatherless, and in Him she found a strong help for her dark hour of need. Bravely she withstood the storm, and when it was over retired with the small remnant of her once large fortune to the obscure neighborhood of Rice Corner, where with careful economy she managed to live comfortably, besides saving a pittance for the poor and destitute. She had taken a particular fancy to Mary, and in giving her a home she had thought more of the good she could do the child than of any benefit she would receive from her services as waiting-maid. She had fully intended to go for Mary herself; but as we already know, was prevented by a severe headache, and it was not until three o'clock in the afternoon that she was even able to see her at all. Then, calling Judith, she bade her bring the little girl to her room, and leave them alone.

Judith obeyed, charging Mary to "tread on tiptoe, and keep as still as a mouse, for Miss Mason's head ached fit to split."

This caution was unnecessary, for Mary had been so much accustomed to sick persons that she knew intuitively just what to do and when to do it, and her step was so light, her voice so low, and the hand which bathed the aching head so soft and gentle in its touch that Mrs. Mason involuntarily drew her to her bosom, and kissing her lips called her her child, and said she should never leave her; then, laying back in her easy chair, she remained perfectly still, while Mary alternately fixed her hair and smoothed her forehead, until she fell into a quiet slumber, from which she did not awake until Judith rang the bell for supper, which was neatly laid out in a little dining-parlor, opening into the flower garden. There was something so very social and cheering in the appearance of the room, and the arrangement of the table, with its glossy white cloth, and dishes of the same hue, that Mary felt almost as much like weeping as she did on the night of her arrival at the poorhouse. But Mrs. Mason seemed to know exactly how to entertain her; and by the time that first tea was over there was hardly a happier child in the world than was Mary.

As soon as Mrs. Mason arose from the table, she, too, sprang up, and taking hold of the dishes removed them to the kitchen in a much shorter space of time than was usually occupied by Judith. "Git away now," said that lady as she saw Mary making preparations to wash the cups and saucers. "I never want anybody puttern' round under my feet. I always wash and wipe and scour my own things, and then I know they are done."

Accordingly she returned to Mrs. Mason, who wishing to retire early, soon dismissed her to her own room, where she for some time amused herself with watching the daylight as it gradually disappeared from the hills which lay beyond the pond. Then when it all was gone, and the stars began to come out, she turned her eyes toward one which had always seemed to her to be her mother's soul, looking down upon her from the windows of heaven. Now to-night there shone beside it a smaller, feebler one, and in the fleecy cloud which floated around it she fancied she could define the face of her baby sister. Involuntarily stretching out her hands she cried, "Oh, mother! Allie! I am so happy now," and to the child's imagination the stars smiled lovingly upon her, while the evening wind, as it gently moved the boughs of the tall elm trees, seemed like the rustle of angels' wings. Who shall say the mother's spirit was not there to rejoice with her daughter over the glad future opening so brightly before her?

CHAPTER XIV.

The Tuesday following Mary's arrival at Mrs. Mason's there was a social gathering at the house of Mr. Knight. This gathering could hardly be called a tea party, but came more directly under the head of an "afternoon's visit," for by two o'clock every guest had arrived, and the "north room" was filled with ladies, whose tongues, like their hands, were in full play. Leathern reticules, delicate embroidery, and gold thimbles were not then in vogue in Rice Corner; but, on the contrary, some of Mrs. Knight's visitors brought with them large, old-fashioned workbags, from which the ends of the polished knitting needles were discernible; while another apologized for the magnitude of her work, saying that "her man had fretted about his trousers until she herself began to think it was time to finish them: and so when she found Miss Mason wasn't to be there she had just brought them along."

In spite of her uniform kindness Mrs. Mason was regarded by some of her neighbors as a bugbear, and this allusion to her immediately turned the conversation in that direction.

"No, do tell," said Widow Perkins, vigorously rapping her snuff-box and passing it around. "Now, do tell if it's true that Miss Mason has took a girl from the townhouse?"

On being assured that such was the fact, she continued, "Now, I will give up. Plagued as she is for things, what could have possessed her?"

"I was not aware that she was very much troubled to live," said Mrs. Knight, whose way of thinking, and manner of expressing herself, were entirely unlike Mrs. Perkins'.

"Wall, she is," was Mrs. Perkins' reply; and then hitching her chair closer to the group near her, and sinking her voice to a whisper, she added, "You musn't speak of it on any account, for I wouldn't have it go from me, but my Sally Ann was over there t'other day, and neither Miss Mason nor Judy was to home. Sally Ann has a sight of curiosity—I don't know nothing under the sun where she gets it, for I hain't a mite—Wall, as I was tellin' you, there was nobody to home, and Sally Ann she slips down cellar and peeks into the pork barrel, and as true as you live, there warn't a piece there. Now, when country folks get out of salt pork, they are what I call middlin' poor."

And Mrs. Perkins finished her speech with the largest pinch of maccaboy she could possibly hold between her thumb and forefinger.

"Miss Perkins," said an old lady who was famous for occasionally rubbing the widow down, "that's just as folks think. It's no worse to be out of pork than 'tis to eat codfish the whole durin' time."

This was a home thrust for Mrs. Perkins, who always kept one or two boarders, and among them the schoolteacher, was notorious for feeding them on codfish.

Bridling up in a twinkling, her little gray eyes flashed fire as she replied, "I s'pose it's me you mean, Miss Bates, but I guess I've a right to eat what I'm a mind to. I only ask a dollar and ninepence a week for boarding the schoolmarm——"

"And makes money at that," whispered a rosy-cheeked, girlish-looking woman, who the summer before had been the "schoolmarm," and who now bore the name of a thrifty young farmer.

Mrs. Perkins, however, did not notice this interruption, but proceeded with, "Yes, a dollar and ninepence is all I ever ask, and if I kept them so dreadful slim, I guess the committeeman wouldn't always come to me the first one."

"Mrs. Perkins here's the pint," said Mrs. Bates, dropping a stitch in her zeal to explain matters; "you see, the cheaper they get the schoolma'am boarded, the further the money goes, and the longer school they have. Don't you understand it?"

Mrs. Knight, fancying that affairs were assuming altogether too formidable an aspect, adroitly turned the conversation upon the heroine of our story, saying how glad she was that Mary had at last found so good a home.

"So am I," said Mrs. Bates; "for we all know that Mrs. Mason will take just as good care of her as though she were her own; and she's had a mighty hard time of it knocked around there at the poorhouse under Polly Grundy's thumb."

"They do say," said Mrs. Perkins, whose anger had somewhat cooled, "they do say that Miss Grundy is mowing a wide swath over there, and really expects to have Mr. Parker, if his wife happens to die."

In her girlhood Mrs. Perkins had herself fancied Mr. Parker, and now in her widowhood, she felt an unusual interest in the failing health of his wife. No one replied to her remark and Mrs. Bates continued: "It really used to make my heart ache to see the little forlorn thing sit there in the gallery, fixed up so old and fussy, and then to see her sister prinked out like a milliner's show window, a puckerin' and twistin', and if she happens to catch her sister's eye, I have actually seen her turn up her nose at her—so—" and Mrs. Bates' nasal organ went up toward her eyebrows in imitation of the look which Ella sometimes gave Mary. "It's wicked in me, perhaps," said Mrs. Bates, but pride must have a fall, and I do hope I shall live to see the day when Ella Campbell won't be half as well off as her sister."

"I think Mrs. Campbell is answerable for some of Ella's conduct," said Mrs. Knight, "for I believe she suffered her to visit the poorhouse but once while Mary was there."

"I guess she'll come oftener now she's living with a city bug," rejoined Mrs. Perkins.

Just then there was the sound of carriage wheels, and a woman near the door exclaimed, "If you'll believe, it, there she is now, going right straight into Mrs. Mason's yard."

"Well, if that don't beat me," said Mrs. Perkins, "Seems to me I'd have waited a little longer for looks' sake. Can you see what she's got on from here?" and the lady made a rush for the window to ascertain, if possible, that important fact.

Meantime the carriage steps were let down and Mrs. Campbell alighted. As Mrs. Knight's guests had surmised, she was far more ready to visit Mary now than heretofore. Ella, too, had been duly informed by her waiting-maid that she needn't mind denying that she had a sister to the Boston girls who were spending a summer in Chicopee.

"To be sure," said Sarah, "she'll never be a fine lady like you and live in the city; but then, Mrs. Mason is a very respectable woman, and will no doubt put her to a trade, which is better than being a town pauper; so you mustn't feel above her any more, for it's wicked, and Mrs. Campbell wouldn't like it, for you know she and I are trying to bring you up in the fear of the Lord."

Accordingly Ella was prepared to greet her sister more cordially than she had done before in a long time, and Mary that day took her first lesson in learning that too often friends come and go with prosperity. But she did not think of it then. She only knew that her sister's arm was around her neck, and her sister's kiss upon her cheek. With a cry of joy she exclaimed, "Oh, Ella, I knew you'd be glad to find me so happy!"

But Ella wasn't particularly glad. She was too thoroughly heartless to care for any one except herself, and her reception of her sister was more the result of Sarah's lesson, and of a wish expressed by Mrs. Campbell, that she would "try and behave as well as she could toward Mary." Mrs. Campbell, too, kissed the little girl, and expressed her pleasure at finding her so pleasantly situated; and then dropping languidly upon the sofa, asked for Mrs. Mason, who soon appeared, and received her visitor with her accustomed politeness.

"And so you, too, have cared for the orphan," said Mrs. Campbell. "Well, you will find it a task to rear her as she should be reared, but a consciousness of doing right makes everything seem easy. My dear (speaking to Ella), run out and play awhile with your sister, I wish to see Mrs. Mason alone."

"You may go into the garden," said Mrs. Mason to Mary, who arose to obey; but Ella hung back, saying she "didn't want to go—the garden was all nasty, and she should dirty her clothes."

"But, my child," said Mrs. Campbell, "I wish to have you go and you love to obey me, do you not?"

Still Ella hesitated, and when Mary took hold of her hand she jerked it away, saying, "Let me be."

At last she was persuaded to leave the room, but on reaching the hall she stopped, and to Mary's amazement applied her ear to the keyhole.

"I guess I know how to cheat her," said she in a whisper. "I've been sent off before, but I listened and heard her talk about me."

"Talk about you!" repeated Mary. "What did she say?"

"Oh, 'set me up,' as Sarah says," returned Ella; and Mary, who had never had the advantage of a waiting-maid, and who consequently was not so well posted on "slang terms," asked what "setting up" meant.

"Why," returned Ella, "she tells them how handsome and smart I am, and repeats some cunning thing I've said or done; and sometimes she tells it right before me, and that's why I didn't want to come out."

This time, however, Mrs. Campbell's conversation related more particularly to Mary.

"My dear Mrs. Mason," she began, "you do not know how great a load you have removed from my mind by taking Mary from the poorhouse."

"I can readily understand," said Mrs. Mason, "why you should feel more than a passing interest in the sister of your adopted daughter, and I assure you I shall endeavor to treat her just as I would wish a child of mine treated were it thrown upon the wide world."

"Of course you will," returned Mrs. Campbell, "and I only wish you had it in your power to do more for her, and in this perhaps I am selfish. I felt badly about her being in the poorhouse, but truth compels me to say that it was more on Ella's account than her own. I shall give Ella every advantage which money can purchase, and I am excusable, I think, for saying that she is admirably fitted to adorn any station in life; therefore it cannot but be exceedingly mortifying to her to know that one sister died a pauper and the other was one for a length of time. This, however, cannot be helped, and now, as I said before, I only wish it were in your power to do more for Mary. I, of course, know that you are poor, but I do not think less of you for that——"

Mrs. Mason's body became slightly more erect, but she made no reply, and Mrs. Campbell continued:

"Still, I hope you'll make every exertion in your power to educate and polish Mary as much as possible, so that if by chance Ella in after years should come in contact with her, she would not feel—ahem—would not—would not be——"

"Ashamed to own her sister, I suppose you would say," interrupted Mrs. Mason. "Ashamed to acknowledge that the same blood flowed in her veins, that the same roof once sheltered them, and that the same mother bent lovingly over their pillows, calling them her children."

"Why, not exactly that," said Mrs. Campbell, fidgeting in her chair, and growing very red. "I think there is a difference between feeling mortified and ashamed. Now you must know that Ella would not be particularly pleased to have a homely, stupid, rawboned country girl pointed out as her sister to a circle of fashionable acquaintances in Boston, where I intend taking her as soon as her education is finished; and I think it well enough for Mary to understand that with the best you can do for her there will still be a great difference between her own and her sister's position."

"Excuse me, madam," again interrupted Mrs. Mason, "a stupid, awkward country girl Mary is not and never will be. In point of intellect she is far superior to her sister, and possesses more graceful and ladylike manners. Instead of Ella's being ashamed of her, I fancy it will be just the reverse, unless your daughter's foolish vanity and utter selfishness is soon checked. Pardon me for being thus plain, but in the short time Mary has been with me I have learned to love her, and my heart already warms toward her as toward a daughter, and I cannot calmly hear her spoken of so contemptuously."

During this conversation Ella had remained listening at the keynote, and as the voices grew louder and more earnest, Mary, too, distinguished what they said. She was too young to appreciate it fully, but she understood enough to wound her deeply; and as she just then heard Ella say there was a carriage coming, she sprang up the stairs, and entering her own room threw herself upon the bed and burst into tears. Ere long a little chubby face looked in at the door, and a voice which went to Mary's heart exclaimed, "Why-ee—Mary—crying the first time I come to see you!"

It was Jenny, and in a moment the girls were in each other's arms.

"Rose has gone to the garden with Ella," said Jenny, "but she told me where to find you, and I came right up here. Oh, what a nice little room, so different from mine, with my things scattered everywhere. But what is the matter? Don't you like to live with Mrs. Mason?"

"Yes, very much," answered Mary. "It isn't that," and then she told what she had overheard.

"It's perfectly ridiculous and out of character for Mrs. Campbell to talk so," said Jenny, looking very wise. "And it's all false, too. You are not stupid, nor awkward, nor very homely either; Billy Bender says so, and he knows. I saw him this morning, and he talked ever so much about you. Next fall he's going to Wilbraham to study Latin, and Chinese too, I believe, I don't know though. Henry laughs and says, 'a plough-jogger study Latin!' But I guess Billy will some day be a bigger man than Henry, don't you?"

Mary was sure of it; and then Jenny proceeded to open her budget of news concerning the inmates of the poorhouse. "Sal Furbush," said she, "is raving crazy now you are gone, and they had to shut her up, but yesterday she broke away and came over to our house. Tasso was with her, and growled so at Henry that he ran up to the garret, and then, like a great hateful, threw bricks at the dog. I told Sally I was coming to see you, and she said, 'Ask her if she has taken the first step toward the publication of my novel. Tell her, too, that the Glory of Isreal has departed, and that I would drown myself if it were not for my clothes, which I fear Mrs. Grundy would wear out!'"

= BUY = HIGHLAND MARY

Several months ago we offered Two Million Five Hundred Thousand shares of Blue Bell at 10 cents per share. It was quickly over-subscribed, and thousands of dollars were returned to disappointed applicants. Soon after we placed Lucky Boys upon the market, and offered One Million Shares at 6 cents per share. Applications were received for three times the amount offered, and we were again compelled to disappoint many clients.

The fortunate purchasers of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys have already witnessed an advance in these shares of fifteen times the purchase price of Lucky Boys and ten times the purchase price of Blue Bell. These advances are insignificant, however, in comparison to the advances that are still to take place in these shares. We are in close touch with the development, and are advised by our engineers that there are now thousands of tons of rich ore in sight amounting to millions of dollars. We strongly advise every shareholder of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys to keep what they have. Within the next year or so ten times the present value will be reached.

Gold Mines Limited, or Larder Lake AT 10 Cents Per Share

Why have the investing public so eagerly subscribed for the flotations recommended by Law & Co., Limited?

The answer is this: Law & Co., Limited, have established themselves with the investing public as to their Responsibility, Reliability and Trustworthiness. They have not abused the confidence placed in them by investors. They will not offer a single share to the public unless they have first made exhaustive and thorough examinations of the properties involved through their own engineers and assayers. The properties must be first-class mining properties—not prospects. The titles must be perfect and clear of indebtedness. They do not mislead the public by misleading statements. The public appreciate Truth, Frankness and Fairness.

Never in the history of mining has such an opportunity for making money been presented as is now offered in the Larder Lake gold district, and especially in the wonderful Highland Mary properties.

Put your money in The Highland Mary Gold Mines, Limited. One of the greatest opportunities that have ever been offered for investment in a gold mining company. The Larder Lake district will be the wonder of the world, and Highland Mary is in the heart of it.

Miners and prospectors from all parts of the world are flocking to Larder Lake. Mining men with millions at their disposal are sending their representatives and mining engineers into the field, and are rapidly snapping up everything that can be purchased.

The time for investors to get in on the rock bottom is NOW—THE PRESENT TIMES.

The opportunity offered in Highland Mary will probably never occur again in this district. Investors should accept this opportunity and buy in one of the greatest mining companies that will be known in this new Eldorado at the present rock-bottom prices of 10 cents per share.

We have gone to great expense, and have used every method available to learn and know the exact situation in the Larder Lake district. We have sent a number of reliable mining men in different directions and to different locations. We have established our own assaying office on the ground at Larder Lake, putting in charge of it mining engineers of known ability and reputation. We have not taken over a single claim that has not shown actual merit; that is to say, with free, visible gold in quantities most remarkable. We are informed by our engineers that there has never been a gold district known that has shown the wonderful width of quartz veins containing free, visible gold as now actually exists in the Larder Lake district. We have quartz veins assaying gold from $200 to as high as $42,000 to the ton, that vary in width from 6 feet to 160 feet.

The Highland Mary properties consist of 1,280 acres, being 30 well-selected 40-acre gold claims, undoubtedly and unquestionably the choicest of the district at the present time.

Now, we want to make this comparison. In the gold fields of Nevada, where the gold camps have gained renowned reputation—in camps as well known as Tonopah, Goldfield, Wonder, Sourdough—and other camps where millions upon millions have been made from claims varying in size from 10 to 20 acres. Just think of it! Ten or twenty acres running into values as high as from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 each. Mining men we have in the Larder Lake district who are well acquainted with the Nevada camps claim that the Larder Lake district is so far ahead of the mining camps in Nevada that there is no comparison whatever. Even the Rand in Africa, it is believed, will not come up to the wonderful gold district of Larder Lake.

We have received in our office in the past week many samples taken from every claim owned by the Highland Mary Company. Out of these we have had a great number of assays made by our own assayer on the ground. These assays run all the way around $200—the lowest—to $20,000—the highest. Our assayers on the ground, of course, cannot obtain as high assays as in laboratories in Toronto, where we have obtained the highest assays, running from $27,000 to $42,000 to the ton. Therefore, it is safe for us to estimate that the assays made by our own engineers on the ground are considerably under what we would actually receive were the stamp mills that the Company will install on the property in actual operation, together with the cyaniding process, by the use of which every particle of gold produced will be saved.

Could every investor come to our office and see the wonderful quartz samples, with gold showing in every portion, they would need no further urging or any further argument to convince them what Larder Lake is and what it is bound to be.

Investors who do not take advantage of this wonderful opportunity will, in a year from to-day, see and realize the great opportunities that they had to invest their money with great profit. We are in a position to judge, and we feel that we are judging rightly when we say to these investors: "Put your money into Highland Mary now. Every hundred dollars that you invest at the present time will, in a year from to-day, bring you many times that amount." This may seem to be a broad assertion, but consider well the great amount of territory, and consider well the millions that are made from properties consisting of but 10 to 20 acres of territory that never showed as rich as Highland Mary properties do to-day. It will only take a few months to place this property on a very big dividend-paying basis. Here is a legitimate opportunity for investors to make a real profit of 100 per cent. on your money by and through an early advance to $1.00. The Highland Mary shares will be selling in the open market at $2.00 in the near future, and it will not be long before investors will look back and realize how really cheap Highland Mary stock was at 10 cents. Such a chance to realize enormous returns on your money could seldom be possible except through the medium of legitimate mining investments, and through and by the discovery of such wonderful gold districts as Larder Lake. Remember, these opportunities will only present themselves once in a lifetime. This is the accepted time—this is the golden opportunity. The conditions surrounding the Highland Mary GUARANTEE to investors not only big profits, but also absolute safety. We have a property aggregating 1,200 acres in these wonderful Larder Lake gold fields—the new Eldorado—every acre of which is as rich in gold as the Rand or the famous gold districts of Nevada where millions upon millions are being taken out. The Larder Lake gold district will be familiar to every schoolboy almost the world over within a year or two. The titles are clear—there are no encumbrances whatever—not a dollar of indebtedness. To us there is not one single element of uncertainty as to the outcome. Investors at the present price of shares—ten cents—will realize the most wonderful profits that have ever been known in any mining district in the world.

We feel so positive regarding this, as we have had every reason to make us believe so. Our own engineers, whom we know, and our own prospectors and miners, with years of experience, whom we have every confidence in, demonstrate to us these facts. We have no other method of demonstrating to the investing public than through our advertisements, which we endeavor to make honest and straightforward. We are investing our own money, and are not advising the investing public to do anything that we are not doing ourselves.

We want to state further and impress upon our clients and the investing public that those of you who join us in this proposition should understand that we are also in this proposition with you. We are backing our faith with our money, and we are asking you to join us in this proposition, which we find after thorough and exhaustive investigation to be an absolutely secure and safe investment, and one that will yield returns that will make unprecedented profits for all concerned. We have no fear whatever regarding our investment, and we wish to make it clear to you that WE cannot take a dollar of profit out of this proposition as offered to you in the Highland Mary Company unless you yourselves receive the same returns in proportion to your interests therein. We say to you we are offering you one of the fairest, squarest and most honorable propositions that could be presented.

We pride ourselves upon the enviable reputation and standing we have earned and established with the investing public throughout Canada and the United States as brokers and financial agents. We are endeavoring to further build up, instead of tearing down, this reputation, which could only have been established by legitimate business methods. We would not make the strong assertions as to the Highland Mary properties and investment there in these advertisements, were we not satisfied beyond any question as to the ultimate outcome of the investment which we herein advise.

It hardly seems necessary at this time, but we are glad that we are able to refer any investor to any bank, financial institution or commercial agencies in the City of Toronto or throughout Canada and the United States as to our standing and reliability.

We wish to state further that every recommendation or assertion made in any of our advertisements or letters of advice WILL BE STRICTLY CARRIED OUT, and that any investor may invest his money with the full assurance that his money will be placed for the purposes and in the manner indicated, and that LAW & COMPANY will fulfill their pledges in every way.

We wish to express our appreciation to the many investors who have shown their confidence in our recommendations, and we desire again to pledge loyalty to their interests, having no fear whatever as to the future, knowing full well that it will demonstrate that their confidence in us has not been misplaced.

Concluded from page three.

Here Rose called to her sister to come down, and accordingly the two girls descended together to the parlor, where they found Mrs. Lincoln. She was riding out, she said, and had just stopped a moment to inquire after Mrs. Mason's health, and to ask for a very few flowers—they did look so tempting! She was of course perfectly delighted to meet Mrs. Campbell, and Mrs. Campbell was perfectly delighted to meet her; and drawing their chairs together they conversed for a long time about Mrs. So-and-so, who either had come or was coming from Boston to spend the summer.

"I am so glad," said Mrs. Lincoln, "for we need something to keep us alive. I don't see, Mrs. Campbell, how you manage to live here through the winter—no society nor anything."

Here Mrs. Mason ventured to ask if there were not some very pleasant and intelligent ladies in the village.

"Oh! ye-es," said Mrs. Lincoln, with a peculiar twist to her mouth, which Jenny said she always used when she was "putting on." "They are well enough, but they are not the kind of folks we would recognize at home. At least they don't belong to 'our set,'" speaking to Mrs. Campbell, who replied:

"Oh! certainly not." It was plain even to a casual observer that Mrs. Lincoln was the ruling spirit to which Mrs. Campbell readily yielded, thinking that so perfect a model of gentility could not err. Mr. Knight possibly might have enlightened her a little with regard to her friend's pedigree, but he was not present, and for half an hour more the two ladies talked together of their city acquaintances, without once seeming to remember that Mrs. Mason, too, had formerly known them all intimately. At last Mrs. Lincoln arose, saying she must go, as she had already stopped much longer than she intended.

"But when I get with you," said she, turning to Mrs. Campbell, "I never know when to leave."

Mrs. Mason invited her to remain to tea, saying it was nearly ready. Mrs. Campbell, who had also arisen, waited for Mrs. Lincoln to decide, which she soon did by reseating herself and saying laughingly, "I don't know but I'll stay for a taste of those delicious-looking strawberries I saw your servant carry past the window."

Ere long the little tea bell rang, and Mrs. Lincoln, who had not before spoken to Mary, now turned haughtily toward her, requesting her to watch while they were at supper and see if the coachman did not drive off with the horses as he sometimes did. Mary could not trust herself to reply, for she had agreed to sit next Jenny at table, and had in her own mind decided to give her little friend her share of berries. She glanced once at Mrs. Mason, who apparently did not notice her, and then gulping down her tears, took her station by the window where she could see the coachman, who, instead of meditating a drive around the neighborhood, was fast asleep upon the box. Jenny did not miss her companion until she was sitting down to table, and then noticing an empty plate between herself and her mother, who managed to take up as much room as possible, she rather impolitely called out, "Here, mother, sit along and make room for Mary. That's her place. Why, where is she? Mrs. Mason, may I call her?"

Mrs. Mason, who had seen and heard more than Mary fancied, and who in seating her guests had contrived to bring Mary's plate next to Mrs. Lincoln's, nodded, and Jenny, springing up, ran to the parlor, where Mary stood counting flies, looking up at the ceiling. Seizing both her hands Jenny almost dragged her into the dining-room, where she found it rather difficult squeezing in between her mother and Rose, whose elbows took up much more room than was necessary. A timely pinch, however, duly administered, sent the young lady along an inch or so, and Jenny and Mary were at last fairly seated.

Mrs. Lincoln reddened—Mrs. Campbell looked concerned—Mrs. Mason amused—Rose angry—Mary mortified—while Ella, who was not quick enough to understand, did not look at all except at her strawberries, which disappeared rapidly. Then, in order to attract attention, she scraped her saucer as loudly as possibly; but for once Mrs. Mason was very obtuse, not even taking the hint when Mrs. Campbell removed a portion of her own fruit to the plate of the pouting child, bidding her "eat something besides berries."

After a time Mrs. Lincoln thought proper to break the silence which she had preserved, and taking up her fork said, "You have been buying some new silver, haven't you?"

"They were a present to me from my friend, Miss Martha Selden," was Mrs. Mason's reply.

"Possible!" said Mrs. Campbell.

"Indeed!" said Mrs. Lincoln, and again closely examining the fork, she continued, "Aunt Martha is really getting liberal in her old age. But then, I suppose she thinks Ida is provided for, and there'll be no particular need of her money in that quarter."

"Provided for? How?" asked Mrs. Mason, and Mrs. Lincoln answered, "Why, didn't you know that Mr. Selden's orphan nephew, George Moreland, had come over from England to live with them? He is heir to a large fortune, and it is said that both Mr. Selden and Aunt Martha are straining every nerve to eventually bring about a match between George and Ida."

There was no reason why Mary should blush at the mention of George Moreland, still she did do so, while Jenny slyly stepped upon her toes. But her embarrassment was unobserved, for what did she, a pauper girl, know or care about one whose future destiny, and wife, too, were even then the subject of more than one scheming mother's speculations. Mrs. Mason smiled, and said she thought it very much like child's play, for if she remembered rightly, Ida couldn't be more than thirteen or fourteen.

"About that," returned Mrs. Lincoln; "but the young man is older—eighteen or nineteen, I think."

"No, mother," interrupted Jenny, who was as good at keeping ages as some old women, "he isn't but seventeen."

"Really," rejoined Mrs. Campbell; "I wouldn't wonder if our little Jenny had some designs on him herself, she is so anxious to make him out young."

"Oh, fie!" returned Jenny. "He can't begin with Billy Bender!"

Mrs. Lincoln frowned, and turning to her daughter said, "I have repeatedly requested, and now I command you not to bring up Billy Bender in comparison with everything and everybody."

"And pray, who is Billy Bender?" asked Mrs. Mason, and Mrs. Lincoln replied:

"Why, he's a great rough, overgrown country boy, who used to work for Mr. Lincoln, and now he's on the town farm, I believe."

"But he's working there," said Jenny, "and he's going to get money enough to go to school next fall at Wilbraham, and I heard father say he deserved a great deal of credit for it, and that men that made themselves, or else men that didn't, I forgot which, were always the smartest."

Here the older portion of the company laughed, and Mrs. Lincoln, bidding her daughter not to try to tell anything unless she could get it straight, again resumed the subject of the silver forks, saying to Mrs. Mason, "I should think you'd be glad. For my part, I'm perfectly wedded to a silver fork, and positively I could not eat without one."

"But, mother," interrupted Jenny, "Grandma Howland hasn't any, and I don't believe she ever had, for once when we were there and you carried yours to eat with, don't you remember she showed you a little two tined one, and asked if the victuals didn't taste just as good when you lived at home and worked in the—that great big noisy building—I forgot the name of it."

It was fortunate for Jenny's after-happiness that Mrs. Campbell was just then listening intently for something which Ella was whispering in her ear, consequently she did not hear the remark, which possibly might have enlightened her a little with regard to her friend's early days. Tea being over, the ladies announced their intention of leaving, and Mrs. Mason, recollecting Mrs. Lincoln's request for flowers, invited them into the garden, where she bade them help themselves. It required, however, almost a martyr's patience for her to stand quietly by, while her choicest flowers were torn from their stalks, and it was with a sigh of relief that she finally listened to the roll of the wheels which bore her guests away.

Could she have listened to their remarks, as on a piece of wide road their carriages kept side by side for a mile or more, she would probably have felt amply repaid for her flowers and trouble, too.

"Dear me," said Mrs. Campbell, "I never could live in such a lonely out-of-the-way place."

"Nor I either," returned Mrs. Lincoln; "but I think Mrs. Mason appears more at home here than in the city. I suppose you know she was a poor girl when Mr. Mason married her, and such people almost always show their breeding. Still, she is a good sort of a woman, and it is well enough to have some nice place to visit and get fruit. Weren't those delicious berries, and ain't these splendid rosebuds?"

"I guess, though," said Jenny, glancing at her mother's huge bouquet, "Mrs. Mason didn't expect you to gather quite so many. And Rose, too, trampled down a beautiful lily without ever apologizing."

"And what if I did?" retorted Rose. "She and that girl have nothing to do but fix it up."

This allusion to Mary reminded Mrs. Campbell of her conversation with Mrs. Mason, and laughingly she repeated it. "I never knew before, said she, "that Mrs. Mason had so much spirit. Why, she really seemed quite angry, and tried hard to make Mary out beautiful, and graceful, and all that."

"And," chimed in Ella, who was angry at Mrs. Mason for defendinfi her sister, and angry at her sister for being defended, "don't you think, she said that Mary ought to be ashamed of me."

"Is it possible she was so impudent!" said Mrs. Lincoln. "I wish I had been present; I would have spoken my mind freely, but so much one gets for patronizing such creatures."

Here the road became narrow, and as the western sky showed indications of a storm, the coachmen were told to drive home as soon as possible.

Mrs. Campbell's advice with regard to Mary made no difference whatever with Mrs. Mason's plans. She had always intended doing for her whatever she could, and knowing that a good education was of far more value than money, she determined to give her every advantage which lay in her power. There was that summer a most excellent school in Rice Corner, and as Mrs. Mason had fortunately no prejudices against a district school, where so many of our best and greatest men have been educated, she resolved to send her little protege, as soon as her wardrobe should be in a suitable condition. Accordingly, in a few days Mary became a regular attendant at the old brown schoolhouse, where for a time we will leave her, and passing silently over a period of several years, again in another chapter open the scene in the metropolis of the "Old Bay State."

CHAPTER XV.

It was beginning to be daylight in the city of Boston, and as the gray east gradually brightened and grew red in the coming of day, a young man looked out upon the busy world around him, with that feeling of utter loneliness which one so often feels in a great city where all is new and strange to him. Scarcely four weeks had passed since the notes of a tolling bell had fallen sadly upon his ear, and he had looked into a grave where they laid his mother to her last dreamless rest. A prevailing fever had effected what the fancied ailments of years had failed to do, and Billy Bender was now an orphan, and alone in the wide world. He knew that he had his own fortune to make, and after settling his mother's affairs and finding there was nothing left for him, he had come to the city, and on the morning which we have mentioned went forth alone to look for employment, with no other recommendation than the frank, honest expression of his handsome face. It was rather discouraging, wearisome work, and Billy's heart began to misgive him as one after another refused his request.

"It was foolish in me to attempt it," thought he, as he stopped once more in front of a large wholesale establishment on M—— Street.

Just then his eye caught the sign on which was lettered, "R. J. Selden & Co." The name sounded familiar, and something whispered to him to enter. He did so, and meeting in the doorway a tall, elegant-looking young man, he asked for Mr. Selden.

"My uncle," returned the gentleman, who was none other than George Moreland, "has not yet come down, but perhaps I can answer your purpose just as well. Do you wish to purchase goods?"

Billy, thinking that every one must know his poverty, fancied there was something satirical in the question, but he was mistaken; the manner was natural to the speaker, who, as Billy made no direct reply, again asked, "What would you like, sir?"

"Something to do, for I have neither money nor home," was Billy's prompt answer.

"Will you give me your name?" asked George.

Billy complied, and when he spoke of his native town George repeated it after him, saying, "I have some acquaintances who spend the summer in Chicopee; but you probably have never known them."

Immediately Billy thought of the Lincolns, and now knew why the name of Selden seemed so familiar. He had heard Jenny speak of Ida, and felt certain that R. J. Selden was her father.

For a moment George regarded him intently, and then said, "We seldom employ strangers without a recommendation; still, I do not believe you need any. My uncle is wanting a young man, but the work may hardly suit you," he added, naming the duties he would be expected to perform, which certainly were rather menial. Still, as the wages were liberal, and he would have considerable leisure, Billy for want of a better accepted the situation, and was immediately introduced to his business. For some time he only saw George at a distance, but was told by one of the clerks that he was just graduated at Yale, and was now a junior partner in his uncle's establishment.

"We all like him very much," said the clerk, "he is so pleasant and kind, though a little proud, I guess."

This was all that Billy knew of him until he had been in Mr. Selden's employment nearly three weeks; then, as he was one day poring over a volume of Horace which he had brought with him, George, who chanced to pass by, looked over his shoulder, exclaiming, "Why, Bender, can you read Latin? Really this is a novelty. Are you fond of books?"

"Yes, very," said Billy, "though I have but a few of my own."

"Fortunately, then, I can accommodate you," returned George, "for I have a tolerably good library, to which you can at any time have access. Suppose you come round to my uncle's to-night. Never mind about thanking me," he added, as he saw Billy about to speak; "I hate to be thanked, so to-night at eight o'clock I shall expect you."

Accordingly, that evening Billy started for Mr. Selden's. George, who wished to save him from any embarrassment, answered his ring himself, and immediately conducted him to his room, where for an hour or so they discussed their favorite books and authors. At last, George, astonished at Billy's general knowledge of men and things, exclaimed, "Why, Bender, I do believe you are almost as good a scholar as I, who have been through college. Pray, how does it happen?"

In a few words Billy explained that he had been in the habit of working summers, and going to school at Wilbraham winters; and then, as it was nearly ten, he hastily gathered up the books which George had kindly loaned him, and took his leave. As he was descending the broad stairway he met a young girl fashionably dressed, who stared at him in some surprise, and then passed on, wondering no doubt how one of his evident caste came to be in the front part of the house. In the upper hall she encountered George, and asked of him who the stranger was.

PANDORA RANGE

Pandora Ventilated Oven is a Real Success

That the Pandora oven is ventilated in reality you can prove for your own satisfaction beyond a shadow of a doubt. Just moisten your finger and place it in close proximity to the three small vents between oven and fire-pot doors. You can then feel quite distinctly the current of air being drawn towards and through the vents. Try this little experiment on your neighbor's Pandora.

So scientifically perfect is the Pandora system of ventilation that the air in the oven is constantly being renewed with fresh air and the cooking fumes carried out through another set of vents in back end of oven and from there to smoke pipe.

The arrows in illustration show how the fresh air is distributed throughout the oven and the way the odors escape from the oven.

No indiscriminate mixing and re-mixing of cooking odors in the Pandora oven, consequently there is positively no chance for one article to be tainted with the flavor of another. Rather, the delicious natural flavor of every article is retained to the fullest extent.

The Pandora ventilated oven is a real success. When you open the door, the oven never smells close and stuffy, as do the great majority of range ovens.

Food cooked in the Pandora is more healthful, as well as more appetizing and satisfying.

The Making of a Successful Wife

By CASPER S. YOST.

STARTING RIGHT.—Settling Down the Most Important Part of the Business—Happiness Is Made, Not Found. Don't Start Wrong by Making an Expensive Bridal Tour.

[Copyright, 1906, by Casper S. Yost.]

MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL—I have just received your delightful letter telling me all about the preparations for your wedding. It carries me back to the time, some forty years ago, when your dear mother was making similar arrangements and I was doing a little stunt in the same line myself. In those days the fashions in joyous apparel for men were not so rigidly fixed as now. All your William will have to do is to raise the price. In my day it was different. To be sure, the cut of a man's coat and trousers and hat for such occasions didn't admit of much variation, but he had more latitude in the matter of color and goods, and as to waistcoasts, shirts and ties, he could go as far as he pleased without fracturing any rules bad enough to shock society. I vividly remember what a deuce of a time I had trying to decide between a bright yellow waistcoat covered with little blue flowers and a white one with black dots on it. I finally had to ask your mother's advice about it, and she favored the white one. Of course her preference settled the business, but my memory still lingers fondly on that yellow vest. I wore a ruffled shirt that it took my old colored mammy a whole day to iron and a blue necktie that made the little stars twinkle, it was so brilliant. Ah, my little girl, you can't imagine what a swell your daddy was when he was a youngster. Did I ever tell you about the time I had getting my bridal suit? I don't believe I ever did, and this is a most appropriate time to reveal to you one of the dark chapters of my life.

What a swell your daddy was.

There was only one tailor in our town, and he wasn't much of a tailor. Besides, he had a habit of looking on the wine, or its Missouri equivalent, when it was most inconvenient for his customers. His name was Johnson, but he wasn't Andy. He resembled Andy in his affection for certain brands of corn juice, but that was as far as the likeness went. Well, I had given Johnson pretty free range and oodles of time in the matter of my outfit, and I made it a point to call on him every day and give him a mild lecture on the evils of intemperance, particularly when wedding clothes were involved. I held him up pretty well, and he was getting along fine with the job until the day before the great one, when an old pal of his from Kentucky blew into town. Then Johnson fell, and so did my hopes. I was going home that night, with my feet in the tall grass and my head up in the solar system somewhere, as happy as a honeybee in June, when I met the tailor and the Kentuckian coming up the road. They were arm in arm, and the Appian way wouldn't have been wide enough for them to navigate without butting into the fences. They were vainly endeavoring to sing "We won't go home till morning," and I knew Johnson well enough to be satisfied that they wouldn't, nor the next day either, unless I got a move on myself. I changed my mind about going home. Instead I rounded up my best man elect, and together we started out on the trail. We found them still undecided as to whether the north or the south side of the road was the better for traveling, and we persuaded them to keep in the middle of it. It might shock you if I told you how we did it, but you must remember, my dear, that we were young and hot blooded and the situation warranted extreme measures. At any rate, we thought so, and we carried Johnson home on the soft side of a pine board. Lord, what a heavy man he was! My arms ache yet when I think of it. We left him to the willing and active ministrations of his wife, and before he could get out of bed the next morning we were with him again. Maybe we didn't stay with him that day, and maybe we didn't watch every stitch that his nervous fingers put into that suit! Two or three times he tried to break loose, but every time we forced him back to work. Even at that it was dark and one sleeve of my coat was only basted in when I rushed frantically to my room to dress. I got to your mother's home ten minutes late, and all during the ceremony I was in mortal terror of that coat sleeve pulling out.

Handing Down Advice.

But that was a long time ago, sweetheart, a long time ago, and it doesn't interest you much no doubt, because your dear little head is so full of your own happiness that your daddy's bygones pass you by, like the summer winds, unheard. Besides, that wasn't what I intended to write to you about when I sat down at this faraway desk. There are a great many things I want to say to you. I've learned a heap, little girl, since I had that tussle with Johnson forty years ago, and maybe some of the things I've learned may help you to find happiness when you have crossed over the line that separates the girl from the matron. Maybe it will and maybe it won't. It is hard for youth to see with the eyes of age, and all the wisdom of all the ages won't alter the fact that most of us learn by hard experience the lessons others would have taught us. Nevertheless us old fellows will keep on handing down advice to the end of the chapter, just hoping that perhaps a little of it will stick and do some good.

Now, my dear, you are going to get married to William Jackson Rollins with all the frills that I can afford to throw around the ceremony. That's right. That's what I like. Then you are going away on a bridal "tower," as they used to say down where I was raised, and after you've ripped around the country a few weeks and squandered more money than William can make again in six months you will come back home to settle down and "live happy ever after." That, I am pretty sure, is as far into the future as you've got, and I guess it's far enough, but I wish you'd take a little time from laces and ruffles and such entrancing fixings and give a little consideration, you and William together, to that business of settling down. Did you ever notice, when I've taken you to see a horse race, how much trouble and time are taken to get the horses lined up for a right start? That's the most important part of the business, getting a right start, and it's a good deal more important for young folks just starting in married life.

Drifts down the stream.

How to Be "Happy Ever After."

I want to see you get a right start, little girl, one that will land you and Bill at the post safe winners, and you'd better not have any mistaken notions about that "happy ever after" business. It's there, all right. You just bet it is. I've had forty years of it, and I know I know; but it doesn't come of itself, little girl—doesn't come just as a matter of course. Happiness is a manufactured product and every couple have to make their own stock. I want you to get that stuck deep into your little noggin the very first thing. Happiness isn't found; it's made. And sometimes there's a whole lot of toil and a whole lot of trouble in the making, but as a rule the more the toil and the more the trouble the better and sweeter the product. That's another point that's worth remembering. You've got to get rid of a lot of fool notions before you can get started right. It takes most people years to get rid of them, but I'd like to have you go into this business with your eyes wide open, with the full knowledge that you are not going to drift down the stream in an open boat with silken and perfumed sails and nothing to do but watch the landscape. There's something to do, my dear, something for you as well as for William. Married life isn't a simple speed trial on a straightaway course. It's a hurdle race with handicaps, and you stand a better chance in the running if you know what the weights are and something about the hurdles. So if your old daddy bothers you with information about the track don't get out of patience. He only wants to put you wise and save you as much of life's worries and tears as possible. He can't tell you everything; he can't know all that the future has in store for you, nor warn you against the unknown, but what the years have taught him he wants to give to you, and just remember that he does it not because he is just old and garrulous, but because he loves you better than anything else on earth except your mother and wants above all things to see you happy.

This Bridal Tour Business.

I don't take much stock in this bridal tour business. I wouldn't advise you to cut it out. It's the fashion, and folks will say mean things if you don't do what everybody else does. But don't overdo it; don't splurge too much; don't let William feed his money to the dicky birds that will hang around you going and coming. Too many young couples put their future in pawn in order to cut a wide swath on their wedding journey. They come [illegible] quiet and purse-worn out bodily by the rushing here and yonder trying to cover as much ground in a given period as their legs will stand and getting peevish, bad tempered and broke in the process. It's a bad way to start, my dear. It stocks a weight on you that it may take years to unload, and too often it's the basis of bickerings that lead to permanent unhappiness. I don't know whether you remember Nellie Anderson or not, but she was a mighty fine girl, and when she married Tom everybody said it was an ideal match, whatever that may be. They went off on a bridal trip with the announced intention of making things hum. And they did. Tom had to send home for more money to get back on, and when they did strike the town again they were so knocked out by worry and fatigue and indigestion that they were spatting at each other like a couple of cats on the back yard fence. And the worst of it is that they never got over it, for the last time I heard of them they were fighting yet. No, little girl, don't try to break any records on your bridal trip. Don't try to see how many different kinds of posters you can get on your suit cases. Just pick out some nice, quiet spot, where you can stay for a few weeks at a cost that will come within the limits that your husband can afford, and there pass the time together as sweetly and happily as you may, forgetting for the moment that there is anybody else on the face of this green earth or any other time but the present. That's the way to spend a honeymoon. That's what a honeymoon is for—to get away from the world for a spell, not to get into the thick of it. Then you may—understand me, I say may, not will—come back at peace in mind and heart, knowing one another better and loving one another better, ready to get down to the serious business of married life in the proper spirit.

That kind of wedding trip is pretty near as good as none at all. When your mother and I were married her horse was saddled after the ceremony and together we rode through the green bordered lanes to the little home I had prepared for her. That was all there was to it. It's the best way, I think, and yet I can't advise you to do the same. Times change and customs change with them, and what was strictly proper forty years ago won't do now. The trouble with even the kind of wedding trip I have suggested is that too much sweetness is likely to pall. I remember once that you got mighty sick on chocolate drops and you wouldn't look at chocolate drops for a year. Yet it was the finest kind of candy. There's an old saying that you can't get too much of a good thing, but it's wrong, very wrong. There's nothing finer on earth than the society of husband and wife, but neither at the beginning of married life nor afterward is it best to have too much of it. It's got to be modified by the diversions of everyday occupation before it will keep well. So I say don't string out your trip too long, even if you spend it in some sequestered nook.

Preliminary Stock Taking.

And, short as you may make it, my dear, don't put in all of it billing and cooing. It's a good time for a little preliminary stock taking, a little figuring on joint assets, mental as well as financial; a little pondering over plans. Don't get too all fired material; don't take yourselves or your future too seriously—not just yet. Just build air castles for the moment and get yourselves in shape to start life right when you get back home; to start it as partners wholly devoted to each other's good; to start it with no fool notions in your heads about each other's perfections; to start it with the firm determination to take each other as you are and to build on that foundation a castle not of air, but of love, of labor, of mutual joys and mutual troubles that shall last till death do part.

Waiting for her to dress.

This isn't all I started out to say, but I guess it's about all you'll want to digest this trip. I can imagine Bill is walking up and down the next room with his hands in his pockets, wondering why in the world it takes a woman so long to dress. That's one of the things he'll never find out, but when you go down you can tell him it was just a love letter from your next best fellow that you were reading. That will relieve his mind about the toilet and at the same time give him something else to worry about. Bill's all right, but I can't help but feel a little sore at him still for stealing my little girl's heart away from me. So I'll leave him and you to your devotions until I go home again to play a little part in the great drama of your lives. Goodby, little girl, until then. Your affectionate father,

JOHN SNEED.

Beer, brewed abroad, is not one bit better because it costs twice as much in Canada as it does at home.

DEATH OF T. C. PATTESON.

Was Postmaster of Toronto For Nearly Thirty Years.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Thomas C. Patteson, postmaster of Toronto since February, 1879, died shortly after midnight, after a few days' illness, from pneumonia. It was not until yesterday morning that fears were entertained that he would not recover. He sank steadily throughout the day.

The late Mr. Patteson was born at Patney, Wiltshire, Eng., on Oct. 5, 1836. He was a King's scholar and captain of his division at Eton. Proceeding to Merton College, Oxford, where he won an open scholarship and graduated in honors in 1858.

In 1871 Mr. Patteson became first managing editor of The Mail, established in that year as a Conservative paper, and prior to that held several minor appointments under the Government. He was appointed postmaster of Toronto by Sir John A Macdonald.

Mr. Patteson was much interested in thoroughbred horses, and a recognized authority on pedigrees. To him was largely due the formation of the Ontario Jockey Club and the inauguration of racing at the Woodbine track. At one time he owned several racehorses himself.

M'GILL COLLEGE MUST WAIT.

Tenant on Site Required for Medical Building Refuses to Quit.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—At a meeting of the governors of McGill College held yesterday it was found that the college could not go on with the erection of the new medical building owing to the fact that the present tenant refused to leave until his lease expired.

Lord Strathcona has formally conveyed the site to the college, but until the tenant is met in some way, the college will have to do without the new building. It was also arranged on a report from the new Macdonald Agricultural College that the school for teachers should open on Oct. 15, that of household science on the 17th and the school for agriculture on the 22nd. Already so many applications have been received that the women's residence will be taxed to its full capacity, while the men's residence will be more than half filled.

OUTRAGE BY MOORS.

Stopped and Ill-Used Couriers—Rifled Mail of French Legation.

Tangier, Sept. 21.—Eighteen of the mounted Moors belonging to the force gathered around Raisuli recently stopped couriers of the diplomatic corps, who were on their way from Fez to Larache, and after maltreating them, released the couriers of the British and German legations. The mail bag belonging to the French legation was rifled.

Armistice Extended.

Casablanca, Sept. 21.—The hostile Moorish chiefs, who have been negotiating for peace, did not appear before Gen. Drude yesterday afternoon, and the armistice was extended until to-day.

Sultan Dismisses Ministry.

Tangier, Sept. 21.—The Sultan, Abdel Aziz, dismissed his Ministry.

LABOR MEN ELECT OFFICERS.

Alphonse Verville Again President of Trades and Labor Congress.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—Alphonse Verville was re-elected president of the Trades and Labor Congress yesterday. Robt. Hungeriord of Toronto was also nominated, but withdrew. James Simpson was re-elected vice-president, and P. M. Draper, secretary; W. H. Trotter was elected fraternal delegate to the American Federation of Labor; J. C. Walters, Victoria, vice-president, British Columbia; J. H. Lehaney Coleman, vice-president, Alberta; W. J. Bartles, Winnipeg, vice-president, Manitoba; Fred Bancroft, Toronto, vice-president, Ontario; J. T. Joy, Halifax, vice-president, Nova Scotia; Gustave Francq, Quebec, vice-president, Quebec.

HINDOOS PROTECTED.

Reports of Bellingham Outbreak Greatly Exaggerated.

Portland, Ore, Sept. 21.—A despatch from Olympia says that the disorders at Bellingham several days ago, which caused an exodus of Hindoos from that place, has been brought to the attention of the State Department at Washington by the British ambassador.

Enquiry through official channels resulted in telegrams from the mayors at Bellingham and Everett, stating that no force had ever been used, and that press reports were much exaggerated. No trouble was anticipated under present conditions.

Rockefeller's Stake In Oil.

New York, Sept. 21.—A record of the present stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, part of which was placed in evidence yesterday in the federal suit against the oil combine, disclosed that John D. Rockefeller owns 247,642 shares of stock, and that his holdings are almost five times larger than those of any other individual interest. The record shows that since the dissolution of the Standard Oil trust Mr. Rockefeller has disposed of nearly 10,000 shares. Based on the present market value of $440 for Standard Oil stock, Mr. Rockefeller's interest in the company is valued at about $19,000,000.

Burglars Were Foiled.

Delhi, Sept. 21.—Burglars secured an entrance to the postoffice Thursday night, but before securing anything they were surprised by George Molson.

One man fired at Mr. Molson, the bullet passing through his hat. Several shots were exchanged, and the men got away.

Put Arsenic In Coffee.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Because Frank Keroyaki, aged 40 years, refused to obey his wife's order to leave her, she poisoned him with arsenic.

The widow, according to the coroner's officials, was in love with her sister's husband.

HON. A. G. MACKAY LEADER.

Chosen by Ontario Liberals to Succeed Hon. Geo. P. Graham.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—The Hon. A. G. MacKay was the unanimous choice of the representatives of the Liberal party in the Provincial Legislature yesterday at the office of the Reform Association of Ontario, to elect a successor to the Hon. George P. Graham, as leader of the party in Ontario.

Mr. Graham, in tendering his resignation, expressed his regret at the necessity for the action, but he had felt that Sir Wilfred Laurier's call was one that could not be denied. Though he was leaving the provincial House, he would still be in the party, and hoped to be able to render good services to the party.

The nomination having been enthusiastically tendered to him, the Hon. A. G. Mackay accepted it. He said that he was aware that whoever undertook to lead the Liberal party in Ontario would have to give up his whole life to it and the interests of the party, and this he hoped, within a few weeks, to be in a position to do.

Mr. MacKay also said he wished it to be understood that while he recognized the right, according to constitutional practice, for the members of the Legislature to elect their own leader, he accepted on the condition that the choice of the members of the Legislature should be approved by the entire Liberal party of the province, either in convention assembled or otherwise.

WILL SUPPRESS ANARCHY.

Russia May Occupy North Persia With That Object.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—Russia has made immediate use of the free hand given her under the terms of the Anglo-Russian treaty. The Russia yesterday confirmed the reports that M. Dehartwig, the Russian Minister at Teheran, has not only drawn the attention of the Persian Government to the increase of anarchy in the districts adjoining Russian territory, but had conveyed a direct threat to the national assembly of a Russian occupation of North Persia.

Blinded by Explosion.

Cobalt, Sept. 21.—While working underground Thursday at the Cobalt Central Mine, James O'Donnell of Ottawa was engaged in picking loose rock off the walls of the drift. One of his blows struck a blind hole that had missed fire and an explosion followed that cost him his eyesight. One piece of rock penetrated his eye and is was impossible for the doctor to remove it. Slight injuries were inflicted on the face, but no wounds sustained on the body. He was removed to the hospital in Ottawa.

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy E. Leduc of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says:—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

FRANCO-CANADIAN TREATY.

Provides For Reciprocal Arrangement on Many Commodities.

Paris, Sept. 21.—The Franco-Canadian commercial treaty was signed at the Foreign Office on Thursday.

The Associated Press learns that this treaty not only provides for a reciprocal agreement on a large number of commodities, but also commits itself to a general reciprocal doctrine designed to cover possible concrete contingencies in the future.

Canada is unable to give France a more favorable duty on champagne than was allowed in 1895, but she grants a special tariff on silks, and in return gets a minimum tariff on certain farm and forest products.

The fact that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy called upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier during his recent visit to Montreal and remained for a considerable time with him gave rise to the rumor that the all-red route was the subject of their conversation.

Sir Thomas was seen in regard to this, and was asked if he had anything to say about the all-red route.

"No," was his reply. "I am not prepared to go upon official record in regard to the all-red route scheme, but no doubt the time will come when I can speak to you about it. The C.P.R. has never been disposed to give serious regard to any scheme from which the commercial element was eliminated."

"It has been stated that the wish of Lord Strathcona is that the C.P.R. should build three twenty-five-knot steamers for the Atlantic trade, and put the Empress' steamers upon the Pacific route in connection with this scheme?" was added, but to this Sir Thomas replied:

"The C.P.R. is looking for commercial returns in respect of all things to which it puts its hand, but in regard to this particular matter there may be a statement to be issued later on; certainly not now. We have come to no decision in the matter at present, but there may have been discussion."

To All the Women Who Suffer Pe-ru-na Is Earnestly Commended

Mrs. Geo. C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes:

"I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments.

"I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for pelvic troubles.

"I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Cold Developed Into Catarrh.

Mrs. N. P. Lawler, 423½ N. Broadway, Pittsburg, Kas., writes:

"Peruna is a sovereign remedy for catarrh. Last spring I caught a severe cold which developed into a serious case of catarrh. I felt weak and sick and could neither eat nor sleep well.

"A friend who had been cured of catarrh through the use of Peruna advised me to try it and I did so at once. I expected help, but nothing like the wonderful change for the better I observed almost as soon as I started taking it.

"In three days I felt much better and within a week I was well. I continued taking the entire bottle and within two weeks I was in fine health. Peruna is a wonderful medicine."

Catarrh of the Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1332 North St., Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me; I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"If anyone wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

Pains in the Side.

Mrs. Julia Braxton, Apollo, Pa., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of heart trouble and pains in the side.

"A year ago I was expected to die at any time, and the doctor was sometimes called at two o'clock in the morning. But I am thankful to say that I do not not have to send for a doctor now.

"Since I have used your Peruna as you advised me, I am well and able to do all my housework.

"I have all the faith in the world in Peruna as it cured me and I know that it will cure others.

"I cannot praise Peruna enough for what it has done for me."

Stomach Trouble.

Miss Anna Carsten, Clayton, Ill., writes:

"Your Peruna did me so much good.

"I am feeling so well now and have no trouble with my stomach."

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 21, Westfield, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now. I would recommend Peruna and Manalin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Stomach Catarrh.

Miss Julia Butler, R. R. 4, Appleton, Wis., writes:

"For the past six years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, causing loss of sleep and appetite, with frequent severe pains after eating.

"My sister advised me to try Peruna.

"I took your treatment and my appetite returned speedily.

"I gained strength and flesh and am in perfect health.

"I am so thankful your medicine has done me so much good."

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for any one else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

FLAMES WORK HUVOC AT CHATTAM

Big Blaze at Chatham Destroys Drader's Planing Mill.

FIREMEN WERE KEPT BUSY

Sparks Set Fire to Seven Smaller Buildings—Workers' Lives In Danger—Several Narrow Escapes—Damage Will Total $8,000—Three Horses Cremated in a Stable—Negatives Burned.

Chatham, Sept. 21.—One big blaze doing an estimated damage of about $8,000 with many narrow escapes from injury and suffocation, a wind that blew 20 miles an hour, which spread the sparks over a great portion of the city, setting seven other places on fire, was the record yesterday morning of the biggest day that the local fire department ever experienced.

The fire started in the planing mill of W. M. Drader, Queen street, shortly after 9 o'clock, and a few hours later the whole mill, which employs a considerable number of hands, was entirely destroyed. In the meantime sparks had set fire to T. H. Taylor's flour and woolen mills, but this was extinguished after only a half hour's strenuous work. At the same time six other places, including several barns and the roof of a church, caught fire and were put out by garden hose and water buckets.

The first fire of the day started in the K. King store at 8.50 o'clock, and this had hardly been quenched when the big Drader fire started. The insurance on the Drader building is $11,000 which covers the loss.

17,000 Negatives Destroyed.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Seventeen thousand negatives, the collection of twenty years, were, it is feared, destroyed as the result of a small blaze in "The Dutch Studio," here yesterday.

One of the men in the gallery was startled by a sudden reflection, and found the darkroom in flames. A still alarm brought a very quick response from the Yonge street hose and chemical companies and the Bay street hook and ladder truck. The chemical was sufficient to stop the fire, but the moisture got into the negatives.

Livery Stable Burned.

Mount Forest, Sept. 21.—The livery stable of R. J. Burns was completely destroyed by fire yesterday. Three horses were cremated. No insurance on the building.

Twine Makers Fined.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—J. L. Haycock, Dominion inspector of binder twine, has made a report to the Department of Trade and Commerce upon the results of a trip to the west. During his absence he imposed fines amounting to $3,600 for short twine. One American firm, which was fined $1,475, really had to pay up to the extent of over $12,000 for its crooked business methods.

Freight Cars Derailed.

Stratford, Sept. 21.—A bad freight wreck occurred on the main line of the G.T.R. between Stratford and Toronto last evening. It was about three miles from the city. Five cars were thrown from the track.

The Stratford auxiliary is at the wreck.

No one was hurt.

EFFORTS TO DRIVE OUT THE DEVIL

Aged Woman Tortured to Death in Zion City.

FIVE PERSONS ARRESTED

Were Members of Palemite Sect—Son and Daughter Thought Their Mother Possessed of Evil Spirit—Determined to Exorcise the Demon—Victim Succumbed to Barbarous Treatment.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Five persons, members of the sect of parhamites, are under arrest in Zion City, accused of torturing to death Mrs. Letitia Greenhaulgh, 64 years old. They are Walter and Jennie Greenhaulgh, son and daughter of the woman; Harold Mitchell, Mrs. Harold Mitchell, and Mrs. Smith. All of them are accused of manslaughter.

Mrs. Greenhaulgh had been for twenty years an invalid, suffering from paralysis and rheumatism. Her condition convinced the five persons mentioned that she must be possessed of the devil, and they determined to exorcise the evil spirit. The five knelt by the bedside, and after prayers, jerked and twisted Mrs. Greenhaulgh's rheumatic arms and neck until the victim screamed in agony.

She died shortly afterward, whereupon an attempt was made to resurrect her.

QUAKE IN CALIFORNIA.

Shock Was Severe and Gave Residents a Bad Scare.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 21.—An earthquake shock that brought residents of this city into the streets in alarm and caused a general shake up in the arrangements of many households was experienced here Thursday evening.

In the mountains the shock was most severe, causing great trees to sway, as if whipped by a mighty tempest. No serious damage was reported.

NEWLY-WEDDED COUPLE KILLED

Struck by Train at Level Crossing Near Hespeler.

Galt, Sept. 21.—Frederick Reed, aged 28, and his newly-wed wife, formerly Miss MacDowall, aged 25, both of Goderich, were killed at the level crossing three miles north of Hespeler, about noon yesterday.

They were driving from Guelph to Galt, and were struck by the 11.15 train, being unable to hear its approach owing to an exceptionally high wind.

Attacked by Angry Bull.

East Toronto, Sept. 21.—Attacked by an angry bull, which he went to feed Thursday night, Louis Smith, employed as a hostler at Crew's Hotel, lies in the General Hospital in a semi-conscious condition.

About 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon Smith was directed by Mr. Crews to feed the animal, when the brute broke the chain with which he was fastened and turned upon him, knocking him down and frightfully goring him. Attracted by cries, a number of men who saw the attack ran to the spot and drove the infuriated animal away.

MEN WERE NERVOUS AT THEIR WORK

Disaster at Quebec Was Anticipated For Weeks.

FEARS WERE LAUGHED AT

Inspector Gives Sensational Evidence—Could Not Say Any of the Chords Were Straight—Ribs Were Bent In Many Places—Lace Work of Chord Sounded High When Struck With a Hammer.

Quebec, Sept. 21.—Very important indeed and quite sensational was the evidence given by Mr. Kinloch yesterday as to the defects in the Quebec bridge, just prior to the collapse, showing that trouble was anticipated by some of the practical officials, though those who expressed them, and some who laughed at their fears, are now among the dead of the disaster.

He said that he could not swear that any chord in the bridge was absolutely straight. He knew of no carelessness, however, and of none of the defects mentioned by the witnesses Ouimet and Lafrance. He knew of the defects in the chords, and, having taken up the bands in chords 1, 2 and 3, with Mr. McLure, who decided that they were of no importance, he subsequently passed without attention similar defects in others. No. 9 chord of the anchor arm had been repaired in the yard in July, 1905.

Defect Not Rectified.

In the afternoon Mr. Kinloch, continuing his evidence, said a supposed defect in the bottom of the east centre rim was brought to his attention four or five weeks before the accident. He and Mr. McLure discussed the matter, which was referred to Mr. Cooper. That gentleman apparently misunderstood the matter, as it was never rectified.

On Aug. 20 he found some distortion of the ribs of chord No. 9 of the cantilever. Chords Nos. 8 and 10 were also damaged, and the damage to the plate between chords 8 and 9 was considerable. It was fully riveted.

The deflection in chord No. 8 considerably worried him, because he was positive it was straight when riveted up, and it was later on that chord 9L, in the anchor arm, showed similar deflection. He was in doubt as to whether the bands in question were shop bends or not. The chords in question had been in the bridge since 1906. It was not uncommon for ribs not to meet at once, and then they had to be packed. In this case the 25-ton Morton jack was used to get them into line. In only one instance did the chords in this bridge line at the bottom. In his second inspection of chord 8 he thought that the bend had increased. All the ribs in the chord were bent, the bend being almost in the shape of an "S." On Tuesday, the 27th, he discovered a bend in chord E, 9L, in the anchor arm. On the previous Saturday he had not noticed it.

Was Quite Alarming.

Mr. Birks and Mr. Yanser were down below on chord 10 and witness said that he called them up, adding: "It was apparently quite alarming." Mr. Yenser said it was quite new, and that he had been over it too often not to have seen it if it had been there before. He also said he would put up no more metal. Mr. Birks laughed at Yenser, telling him he must be more careful and make a further investigation before talking as he was, since his condemnation of these chords meant a condemnation of the whole bridge. Mr. McLure reported the matter to Mr. Hoare, who came to the bridge next day and ordered a thorough examination. On Wednesday, the day before the accident, Birks said that they, and especially he himself, had made fools of themselves for the bend run up to the field splice. Nevertheless, witness went on to detail how the small traveler was again moved further out and how another piece of metal had been placed in position only 15 minutes before the accident.

Everybody Was Nervous.

He said that Mr. McLure was in New York at the time to consult Mr. Cooper. He made his last inspection about 4 o'clock on the day of the collapse, and met Mr. Birks on the approach to the bridge, who said, "It's all right, we have just received word from Phoenixville that chord 9 was bent before it left there." Witness said he simply laughed and passed on.

Mr Hoare had told him to keep a close watch, especially lateral joints, and he noticed that the lacework of chord 9L sounded high when struck with the hammer, showing a strain. He said many of the workers on the bridge knew of the chord deflections, but were more alarmed at the defects in the cantilever than at those in the anchor arm.

Witness identified certain photographs of wrecked members of the bridge taken by him. His evidence created a sensation.

Brockville, Sept. 21.—A little daughter of Rufus Garner of Watertown, aged five years, was accidentally shot in the head by a playmate who had a rifle which he did not know was loaded. The bullet entered the head at the right temple, coming out close to the ear. The skull was not fractured, and recovery is expected.

Lods, Russian Poland, Sept. 21.—Troops and police made a sudden descent yesterday upon the large cotton mills here owned by Marcus Silberstein, who was murdered by his employes Sept. 13, because he refused to pay them for the time they were out on strike. Under the new law he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for the offence, which might have cost life to passengers.

Dead Done by Parisian Gardener as Act of Vengeance.

Paris, Sept. 21.—The public indignation at the appalling growth of crimes and violence, which manifested itself over the commutation of the death sentence passed upon Soleilland for the atrocious murder of a little girl has been aroused again by the revolting crime of a drunken gardener, who, to avenge himself on his wife for refusing to live with him, drowned his two children in the moat of the fortifications.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—John M. Wiles, 66 years old, was confronted in the Central Police Station by his son, J. Burr Wiles, 35 years old, whom he had not seen for 34 years.

The father was a prisoner on complaint of his son, who had constituted himself his nemesis in revenge for the desertion of his mother and three children, two of whom are dead, in Binghamton, N. Y., 34 years ago. The son had traced him the last few years until, convinced he could convict him of a statutory offence involving a woman who was acting as his housekeeper, he caused his arrest.

EVOLUTION OF POSTAL FACILITIES IS TOLD BY AN OLD RESIDENT

Mr. Jas. Stevenson Relates The Changes From the Beginning—Suicide of the First Post Master

MAILS WERE IRREGULAR

First Post Office, an Old Log Building Where Now Stands Market Square—Ancient History of The Post Office

The passing of time makes many changes. This old adage is just as true in the present as it was in the days of the ancient Grreks and Romans, and will be so until the end of the ages. It is therefore true in the evolution of Peterborough's post office, and postal facilities, which have but recently undergone an important advance, placing the city on an equal footing with the largest and most influential in the land.

From one mail every other day, to free delivery, is an experience which comes within the mind of one of our most respected citizens Mr. Jas. Stevenson, a man who has watched with pride Peterborough grow from its babyhood days.

An Examiner representative, in conversation with Mr. Stevenson, this morning heard some interesting facts which possibly are not known by any other resident of the city.

He told of the time when the post office service was carried on in an old log house, of the time when one mail every other day reached Peterborough, and of the sensational suicide of the first postmaster.

Mail by Stage

Mr. Stevenson came to Peterborough in the year 1843, just 64 years ago. At that time a mail every other day came here by stage, drawn by two horses, from Port Hope, and driven by a man named Bletcher. Towards the end of '43 the postal facilities were raised to one mail a day. This also came from Port Hope, by a stage driven by Mr. Weller, father of Judge Weller, but, instead of two horses, he used four.

A few years later the mail began to arrive by boat from Rice Lake being brought to a point on the southern shore by stage. But this method was so uncertain, said Mr. Stevenson, that it was soon again changed, and in the year 1857 it was brought via Millbrook, by train, and much the same way as at the present time. About the following year a two-mail-a-day service was instituted, and has gradually increased until at presene a mail arrives by almost every train, to be exact one mail an hour for the twenty-four hours, or twenty-four in a day, by train and stage coach.

Post Office Changes

But the evolution of Peterborough's post office and public service is possibly more interesting. Mr. Stevenson has a thorough knowledge of the changes in the 64 years he has been a resident here and his memory recalls them as if they occurred but yesterday.

In 1843 the business letters and the billet doux, though scanty in number, were received from outside points and mailed at a little old log building located where now stands the market square. The structure was built about 1820, to shelter the immigrants on their first arrival in Peterborough; its ceiling was very low, in fact it was not much more than six feet in height, and tall persons were forced to bend their heads.

Suicide of Sanford

A man named Sanford was the first postmaster in Peterborough, and a suicide is always connected with his memory by those who remember. Sanford kept the log postoffice on the market, and lived at a hotel where now stands the Canadian Express office. One day he was found with his throat cut, and a new postmaster, of course, had to be appointed.

He was succeeded by a Mr. Carver, father of the Carvers, of North Monaghan, and about 30 years ago he was followed by Col. H. C. Rogers, who still has charge of the Peterborough postoffice. Mr. Carver was clerk for Mr. Sanford while the latter lived, and was therefore well acquainted with the work when the first postmaster died.

Building Changes

When the log postoffice on the market square became inadequate to meet the wants of the citizens, a building at the corner of Queen and Simcoe streets, near the present gas house, was obtained. This was utilized for a number of years, when the business situation was changed to the spot where the Cavanaugh Hotel now stands.

The third spot was in a wooden building on Water street, near where the present office is located, and following that, the office work was done in a building at the corner of George and Brock streets, where the Matthews Company now operates a meat market.

Then in the year 1888 the new and present postoffice was erected, although not quite so complete as it now is. The windows at first were small, and there was no clock installed. Mr. Stevenson, however, while at Ottawa, as member for West Peterborough, secured the clock which cost $6,000, and had the windows enlarged.

MAN, BUT CLAY IN THE WOMAN,S HANDS. JOHN SNEED'S BELIEF

"A man is just a piece of clay in a woman's hands, and whether he ranks A1 or double naught as a husband depends a good deal on how she handles him." This is one of the philosophies of John Sneed, who writes the letters on "The making of a successful wife", the series now running in the Examiner. To-day the second letter in the series, in which John tells his daughter a few things about starting right in the matrimonial course. Happiness he says, is made, not found. He advises, too, against an expensive wedding tour. In addition to being full of interest, these letters contain good sense—the kind that young people need—and their perusal will not be without interest to those who are no longer young. Read the second letter on page five to-day.

GREAT ATTRACTION FOR THE EXHIBITION

Lady May, With a 2.04 1-2 Mark, Fastest Mare in Canada Coming

One of the finest attractions at the Industrial Exhibition this year will be the fastest horse in the Dominion. President Leary has arranged with Burns & Shepherd, the proprietors of the big horse repository in Toronto, to have brought here Lady May, the mare with the 2.04 1-2 mark to give an exhibition of speed and to break the track record in Peterborough.

Lady May is the fastest mare in Canada and will certainly be something worth while seeing on the list of the attractions before the grand stand.

DEAD POSTMASTER WAS KNOWN HERE

Late Mr. Patteson of Toronto Was a Walker of Some Fame

The death of Postmaster Patterson of Toronto recalls to the memory of many Peterborough persons the fact that the late Mr. Patteson, in his early days, was a walker of some notoriety, and on one occasion walked from Toronto, his destination being Buckhorn, and on his way to that village he was given a demonstration as he passed through Peterborough.

BIG CROWD HEAR BAND CONCERT

At The Roller Rink Last Night—A Popular Pastime

One of the largest crowds of the season was at the roller rink, Charlotte street, last night, when a band concert was given. A splendid programme was rendered by a section of the 57th Band, and the three hundred skaters gave evidence of their thorough appreciation of the evening's entertainment provided.

SOME CHANGES IN SPEED CONTESTS

Will Meet With Popular Favour From The Grand Stand

Some more changes have been made in the speeding in the ring events at the Exhibition which will undoubtedly meet with popular favour. The 2.30 class mentioned in the prize list will be changed to a 2.40 for half mile heats; the 2.24 will be 2.25 for mile heats; the 2.18 class will be mile heats and the 2.30 will be half mile heats.

The speeding events promise to catch the popular eye as the best horses in the district will be there.

THE WHITE MINERS OBJECT

To Presence of Asiatic Labourers and Destitute Japanese are Sent Back Towards Vancouver

Examiner Special.

Portland, Oregon, September 21.—A despatch from Seattle says that 79 Japanese miners arriving at Atlin, B.C., on Thursday night, to work in the mines, were escorted to the river steamer Gleamer by 300 whites yesterday morning, and started back towards Vancouver.

The white miners served notice on the Japanese that if they did not stay away violence would be shown in protecting the diggings against Asiatic labour. The Japanese are almost destitute and will be turned loose in Skagway, Alaska.

SINKING OF SHAFT SHOWS 125 FEET OF VALUABLE IRON ORE

Peterborough Man Tells of Operations at The Blairton Mines—There This Week

ACTIVITY IN THE VILLAGE

During the past week a Peterborough gentleman visited the village of Blairton in the discharge of his duties for the county, and he tells of the rapid progress being made with the re-opening of the iron mines there. Prospectors are now working at the mines, and, according to the man's statements, they have struck something rich.

A shaft has recently been sunk to a distance of 185 feet some rods from where the old one was, and the deposit of iron ore is exceptional. The deposit was struck sixty feet below the surface, and continues down to 185 feet below the surface. The bottom has not yet been reached, so that it is believed the mine is going to be extra good.

The operators intend sinking another shaft a few rods from where the old shaft was, and hope to obtain similar results. When the mines were first operated in Blairton, the iron ore was merely a surface exposure, so that if the new discoveries prove as valuable as the first appears the mines will become popular. The sinking of the second shaft is being done for the purpose of finding the extent of the deposits.

As a result of these recent discoveries, real estate around Blairton is becoming more valuable. The citizens are expecting a revival of the former activity of their village, and they believe it to be coming in the not distant future. The Examiner's informant, who, although not interested in any way in the mines, knows considerable about the products, and he considers the prospects bright for Blairton.

Junior Road Race Will Be A Feature Of Thanksgiving Day

Examiner Decides to Hold Two Road Races That Day—One For Boys Seventeen Years of Age And Under

THREE MEDALS OFFERED

Course Will be Five Miles, And the Finish Will be on George Street Opposite Examiner Office

In connection with the Thanksgiving Day Road Race of the Examiner, a decision has been reached which will, it is believed, be appreciated by a number of young runners, who have been training, and who give promise of qualifying later for the senior races.

A race for boys, seventeen years and under, will be run on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, the course to be five miles, starting in the neighbourhood of Nassau, at the same time as the seniors start from Lakefield, and finishing in front of the Examiner office.

For this race three prizes will be given gold, silver and bronze medals, for the three boys who finish first, second and third.

Entries, with age qualifications, may be made at this office, and in the course of a few days entry forms will be given in this paper, and more detailed information concerning the event, which, it is believed, will prove very popular with a great many of the young athletes of the city.

New County Directory Is Now Being Published

Mr. W. H. Morrey of Union Publishing Company of Ingersoll in the City—Got Many Subscribers Here

AN INTERESTING STORY

During the past week, Mr. W. H. Morrey has been in the city, in the interests of the compilation of a county directory, which is being published by the Union Publishing Co., of Ingersoll. On Monday next he will have completed his work here, which, he states, has been more than usually successful.

The county directory is being gotten up by the same company as the city directories, and they contain a great deal of valuable information. The county directory will contain the names of the farmers and other residents of not only Peterborough county, but Victoria, Ontario, Haliburton and parts of Durham and Northumberland.

The publishing company have agents in every locality to look after this portion of the work.

Mr. Morrey, however, has been canvassing the city with a view to obtaining subscribers and advertising. He states that he has sold more county directories this year than ever—principally to the business men of the city—and that he is greatly pleased with his week's labour in that respect.

On Monday he leaves for Millbrook, and next week he will visit Lakefield, Omemee and Lindsay.

Mr. Morrey has some amusing stories to tell about the receptions sometimes given to the employees of the company by the feminine sex when calling at the various residences for the necessary directory information. He tells of one occasion where the woman of the house became so suspicious that she actually telephoned for the police. The blue-coated men happened to be absent so that the directory man was compelled to leave without the information desired.

The new directories will be distributed to the subscribers about the beginning of the new year.

WHAT INTRODUCTION OF A NEW STYLE OF WOMEN'S HEADWEAR INVOLVES; CHANGES HAIR-DRESSING

The introduction of a new style of hat means much more than the average unitiated man unversed in matters of fashion has any conception of. The new hats which the ladies will wear this fall, however, will, it is stated, by those who know, effect a revolution in the style of hair-dressing. The wide hats now in vogue, necessitate the hair being "done up" in a fluffy, puffed style, and those who are fortunate enough to have a new hat this fall are spending their evenings now becoming proficient in dressing their hair to accommodate the hat. There are likely to be some revelations when the new hats and the remodelled heads make their appearance on the streets. The general shape of the new hats, is, to the masculine eye, that of an inverted coal scuttle, ornamented with bunches of cinders.

TWO NEW TRAINS FOR C. P. R. TO RELIEVE GREAT INCREASE IN THE TRAFFIC

New Train Would Pass Through For East About 4 O'Clock And Going West at 8 p. m.---Would Prove a Convenience---May be Put on Soon.

The heavy increase in traffic between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal on the C.P.R. during the last few months is said to have resulted in the decision on the part of that company to place two extra trains on the run. The train running east would reach Peterborough about 3.30 or 4 o'clock p.m., and would reach Ottawa about 9 o'clock the same evening. Running in the westerly direction, it is understood that the intention is to have the train leave Montreal about the same time that the one running east leaves Toronto, 1.30 or 2 o'clock, passing through Peterborough about 8 o'clock.

For months the C.P.R. has been obliged to run its night and morning trains in two sections, and it is hoped that the addition of the two trains will make this unnecessary.

When Nelson Fought The French Under Napoleon

Extracts From an English Paper Printed April 13th, 1800. An Example of the Progress of Journalism During The Past Century

IT IS AN ANCIENT RELIC

It will be remembered that in yesterday's issue of the Examiner a reference was made to the return of Mr. John Williams, with his wife and youngest daughter, from a visit to the Old Country, and that he had brought back an old newspaper that was 107 years old. Since then Mr. Williams kindly showed a reporter the paper, which is a copy of the Observer, dated April 13, 1800. It is in good condition and every page is legible. The type is a little different from that used to-day, but the change is only slight. It is composed of one page doubled, presenting thus four printed surfaces. The first striking feature is that there are practically no headings to the articles, many of which are in letter form, bearing continental news from some correspondent. Every mail, therefore, is mentioned, and as one reads down a column he finds almost every separate short article a sensation, which would be treated to-day by heavy type headings, and an American paper would undoubtedly print it in red ink or blue. The movements of Nelson, Napoleon, and the great war that was then in progress, are described in little, short nuggets that are given no prominence at all, and, indeed, found alongside ordinary news. The great papers of to-day would have several extra editions out in an hour if they had the important news that is found almost hidden in the quiet little sheet that was printed over 107 years ago.

News From Nelson

The following is a little extract from the sheet:—

"A letter received from Leghorne, March 7, says the 'William Tell' was at La Valetta, which Lord Nelson was closely blockading." Under the simple heading of "Old Bailey," this is found:—"R. Field was capitally convicted of stealing nine sheep from Smithfield." This means that stealing sheep was punished with death, a law which was wisely changed in later years. The paper gives a list of all those who were sentenced to death, most of them being for felony. It would surprise people of to-day to learn that crime was most severely punished in those days, and public whippings were of daily occurrence.

Another article is a clipping from the London Gazette, dated April 12, as follows:—

"The Hamburg mail due Wednesday, arrived yesterday. The Campaign had not on the 30th ult., the date of the last letters from Frankfort, commenced on the Rhine and in Italy, excepting some petty predatory excursions of the French nothing had on the 26th been undertaken by either army."

There are a few of the news articles, short but pithy and giving but the bare account of the events. Mrs. Williams is going to take extra precautions to preserve this antique sheet, which has law if may like it.

The Walls of Chester

Mr. Williams gave a vivid account of his visit to his native land, Wales and the scenes which he revisited. He mentioned in particular the old town of Chester, which is still walled and moated as it was when the Romans built it in the remote B.C.'s and when the Stuarts flourished and fell. The wall is well preserved and along the broad walk on top the town can be seen to best advantage. There are still two towers along it one, the water tower, like the other the Phoenix Tower, or as it is commonly known King Charles' Tower. It received this name from the fact that in the year 1645 King Charles I. was watching a battle between his troops and those of the [illegible] ton Moor and when his cavaliers broke before their sturdy opponents he fled down the steps to the wall and hastened to Denbigh Castle. This historic pile is now in ruins, but is one of the most picturesque and grand castles in the Kingdom. Within the walls is the house where Stanley, the great African explorer, was born and lived as a child.

Mr. Williams has many other interesting incidents historical and otherwise, but in this article they cannot be all mentioned.

Correspondence

A local correspondent evolves a new theory of handwriting and its relation to character. He signs himself O.R.F.U., and sends the following letter:—

"They say handwriting is an index of character, but handwriting is simply the brains' action working through the muscles. If the muscles are well under the control of the brain it is likely to be good; if not, the reverse will probably be true. Athletes with practice however small, should be good writers."

Several letters have been received this week from correspondents who ask for definitions, some of them evidently looking upon the offer as a joke, one who signs himself "Percelene" being one of them. This writer's sense of humour does not seem to have reached a very high state of development. His indiscriminate use of capitals in his writing is an indication of his self appreciation as, indeed are other characteristics of his writing, judging by the specimen submitted, which, however, is not written in his usual style. Percelene gives evidence of the possession of the faculty of observation, developed to a fairly high degree.

J.I.T.—This young lady, for the handwriting is feminine, though there is nothing in the contents of the letter to indicate it, outside of this fact, is mathematical and very thorough. She gives evidence of being very careful, and makes few errors of judgment, the s's troubled slightly at the present time, but it seems reasonable to believe that her good sense and her sense of fairness will come to her rescue, and that affairs will work out to her satisfaction.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scaly head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

The action of the Horticultural Society in abandoning an exhibition where with dreary repetition the same prizes, as a general rule, went to the same competitors—some first one year then another—through the small series of exhibitors and competitors, seems to have been a wise one. The competition at these exhibitions did not represent the people generally—only a few experts who could easily excel and a few enthusiasts with sufficient means to give their enthusiasm effect. The general public were as effectively debarred, by the force of circumstances, as if they had been excluded by a rigidly enforced law.

If the object of such exhibitions was to develop and improve public taste in the culture of flowers and the general cult of beauty, they certainly failed of this object. The directors, wisely it would seem, decided to more nearly reach the object, by substituting gifts of bulbs, plants, etc., as an equivalent of membership, and by establishing a competition, into which — theoretically — all might enter, for the best kept lawns and premises. This has been tried faithfully with varying success; but it is losing its effect and the conditions that prevailed with the old time exhibitions of the Society are re-appearing. The names of the same persons have appeared opposite first, second and third prizes—varying in order, but not in person or premises, like the waters of Niagara, always changing in identity of volume, but everlastingly the same in form.

This applies especially to prizes for lawns and premises cared for by professional, or semi-professional gardeners. It will be remembered that in the last award for lawns, the successful winners were the same as in other years, with a change in order from last year, which was itself a change in order from the previous year. It was evidently not the intention of the Society—nor is it in the interest of the objects aimed at, that the judges should be forced to give these lawns prizes year after year. Instead of promoting, it discourages, competition. If the owners of these lawns or premises wished to do so they could by a little extra expenditure of money in the form of expensive flowers and shrubs and extra care, continue to monopolize the prizes. Would it not be wiser and fairer to provide that these habitual prize winners should withdraw for a few years at least and give a chance to others not so well situated by reason of the possession of ample grounds and ample means? These prizes would be "kept up" anyway, prizes or no prizes; the owners have had their share of glory—the value of the prize need not be considered—and they could very gracefully ask the Society to permit them to drop out. Such action might be regarded as an exhibition of public spirit, which win public applause, and we are sure we can answer for some of them being willing to retire, and change the field of competition.

Some similar principle might be applied to the other classes of competitions, with the general object of widening as greatly as possible the area of rivalry. As the Examiner has frequently pointed out, Peterborough has exceptionally great natural and other capabilities for being made one of the most beautiful cities in the Dominion. It is generally a well built city. The buildings in both the business and residential districts are of a superior character as compared to other cities and towns—generally neat and worthy of tasteful surroundings. But mere piles of brick and mortar are not all—there must be tasteful environments—neat lawns where lawns are possible, and, of course, flowers, which are always possible in some form or to some extent. But mere piles of brick and mortar and lawns and flowers, however neat or beautiful, are not all. A fine jewel is worthy of a fine setting. If the streets abutting upon these lawns and flowers are not neatly and cleanily kept, the harmony of the whole is marred by unkempt and rough or absent boulevards and rough and rutty streets.

The aim of the society should be to make beautification of premises general, if not universal—and rather universal than general—especially upon the same street. Take any street of the city, and, we find a beautifully kept lawn and boulevard flanked by a scraggy lawn and a frowsy boulevard in about as neat a condition as a north country roadside. These conditions destroy the beauty of a street or section, no matter how beautiful are the abutting grounds, lawns and residence. They harmonize about as well with beautiful places as a navvy's working boots would do with a dress suit.

The greatest foe to the maintenance of the beauty of the city is the City Council, as represented by the Board of Works. Almost universally, wherever their street employees do street work, they leave behind a disgraceful litter of rough earth, rotting planks and timbers, scrap heaps of gravel, loose stones, etc., etc. No matter how much time and expense a citizen has placed upon his boulevard and the street adjoining, the city workmen break it up if it serves their purpose, without ruth, and not the slightest attempt is made to restore the original conditions. The Horticultural Society should bring its influence to bear upon the city fathers and shame them into cooperating with citizens in promoting and maintaining the beauty of our city. Scores of citizens are discouraged by the apathy and positive hostility of the city authorities to the attempt to promote and maintain the beauty of the city, and to impress its desirability as a place of residence upon outsiders seeking a home.

It is all very well to give prizes for beautiful lawns and grounds, but how much more important it seems to be to have street after street of lawns of modest merit, with neat and clean streets adjoining, than a few splendid show places, a few stretches of clean, tidy streets!

We sympathize with, and are glad to support, the aims and objects of the Horticultural Society, but we should like to have them widen their influence and aim to develop, as far as may be done by effort, an universal spirit of good taste and appreciation of beauty and extended harmony of surroundings. By all concerned, city authorities and citizens, co-operating, we can, without any considerable expense or labour, but by simply doing it, create the conditions which will justify the application to Peterborough of the title—The City Beautiful.

THE NEW LIBERAL LEADER

In the advancement of Hon. A. G. MacKay, M. P. P., North Grey, to the position of leader of the Ontario Liberal Opposition, the expected has happened and the loss sustained by the elevation of Hon. G. P. Graham, late leader, to a Cabinet position has been very largely repaired. An excellent choice has been made. Mr. MacKay is in the prime of physical and intellectual vigour, the latter of a very high quality. He has a fair grasp of public questions, and is a strong debater, an effective platform speaker, and a particularly effective impromptu speaker. He is vigilant and a close observer of events in the Legislature, and particularly fitted for keen analysis of legislation in progress. He has performed the functions of an opposition watchman and critic so admirably as a private member that he will certainly "make good" as leader. His watchfulness, his keenness of insight, his knowledge of law, and his wide knowledge of public questions, his soundness of policy brought to bear in opposition, have greatly assisted in modifying crude legislative proposals, and converting them into effective enactment. It is largely due to his untiring vigilance, industry and suggestion, that much of the law placed upon the statute book since he came into opposition, has assumed as good a shape as it has done. No member of the House did more valuable work in this respect, last session, than Mr. MacKay. If he is a good man as a leader in the House, he is also good as a party leader. He is genial, affable, and readily commands personal popularity. He is of Highland stock, is a born fighter, and in his hands an aggressive Liberal policy, in provincial politics, will be sure to be practiced. The confidence of his fellow legislators, which Mr. MacKay enjoys, will speedily be developed in the Liberal party at large, when opportunity presents, of his showing the metal he is made of.

EDITORIAL NOTES

One of the worst of the minor troubles of the Intercolonial Railway, would, says the PulpWood Magazine, be amended, by any great restriction of the exporation of pulp-wood from Canada. New Brunswick and Quebec both ship large quantities of wood across the borders, and this heavy freight is carried on cars of the Intercolonial, which then become devoted to the use of American lines, as there is, generally speaking, no immediate return cargo. They are in this manner sometimes lost sight of for weeks together, which is a source of considerable annoyance to the officials of the road. If the mills were on the Canadian side, the I. C. R. would reap the benefit three times over, hauling the wood and other supplies to the mills, the transportation of food and other articles for the use of the community which would spring up around the mills, and the hauling away of the finished product.

PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY IN THE UNITED STATES

The United States Census Bureau has now issued in bulletin 89, under W. M. Steuart, chief statistician of manufactures, a very complete synopsis of the paper and pulp wood industries in that country. In 1905, the value of the products was $188,715,189, and the industry gave employment to 65,964 wage earners, the capital invested in it being $277,444,471. In 1900 the value of products was $127,326,162; the number of wage earners, 49,646, and the investment of capital $167,507,713. In 1890 these items were as follows: Value of products, $78,937,184; number of wage earners, 31,050; capital, $89,829,548.

The growth in the five years between 1900 and 1905, surpassed the growth in the preceding ten years. Thus the value of product, which increased by $48,388,978 between 1890 and 1900, increased by $61,389,027 between 1900 and 1905; the capital employed, which increased by $77,678,165 in the ten year period preceding 1900, increased by $109,936,758 in the next five years. The number of wage earners, however, did not grow in quite equal proportions.

The modern tendency to concentrate industry into a smaller number of larger plants is indicated by the fact that in spite of the growth in other respects, the number of manufacturing establishments remains practically the same in 1905 as in 1900.

The total value of product in 1905 was $188,715,189, of which news represented $35,906,460; book, $37,403,500; fine paper, $22,248,170; wrapping, $30,435,592; boards, $16,959,559; tissue, $5,056,438; blotting, $1,046,790; building and roofing papers, $4,845,628; wall paper, $3,013,464. Production of news increased by $15,814,586 from 1900 to 1905, or 78 3-4 per cent.

The value of materials used in 1905 was $111,251,478. Of which $27,033,164, represented the wood pulp and fibre purchased. The figures indicate a growing tendency to combine the manufacture of wood pulp and the finished product. The principal raw materials used in the paper industry are wood, usually spruce or poplar, rags, (used for finer paper,) old or waste paper, manilla stock, jute bagging, rope, straw, sulphur, clay, etc. The most important of all these, measured by quantity and cost, is wood. In the paper and wood pulp industry, over 3,000,000 cords of wood, having a total value of over $20,000,000 were used in the year covered by the census of 1905.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

Mr. "Dan" Derbyshire, who surrendered his seat in Parliament in favour of Hon. Geo. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, is well known in Peterborough and is recognized to be as shrewd a politician as he is a shrewd cheese buyer as well as openhearted, bluff, wholesome type of man. It is not often that "Dan" is bested, but recently he got a Rowland for an Oliver in a mild sort of way, but he come out of it on top, for he "took the cake." Mr. Derbyshire and Mr. Donovan, the Conservative candidate in the Ontario bye-election, were both disinterested, (of couse) assistants at an Engish church picnic near Brockville a day or two ago. After the multitude had been filled there remained not twelve baskets, but one cake. It was decided to sell this by auction to increase the church funds. Mr. Derbyshire acted as auctioneer and his political opponent opened the bidding at one dollar. There were actually no other biddars, but the amateur auctioneer, in the interests of the cause, pretended to receive bids and promptly knocked down the cake to Mr. Donovan at $5, who, of course, met the bid and paid the bill. He did not want the cake, but not to be outdone, in the interests of the cause, proceeded to re-sell it by auction. Of course Mr. Derbyshire promptly bid a dollar and as promptly received the benefit of his own process, for Mr. Donovan by fictitious bids advanced the price to five dollars, at which figure he knocked the cake down to Mr. Derbyshire, who gracefully paid the bill. In the little game of diamond cut diamond, or, rather, Donovan cut Darbyshire, the church funds were increased by $10, indicating that there are occasions when it seems justifiable to do evil that good may come. Mr. Derbyshire is to big a man to feel "cut up" over a matter like this and enjoyed the joke as well as anybody, looking forward for compensation to the contemplation of the Liberal majority (on polling day. He is satisfied with his bargain, the cake was September make, well ripened, full weight and inspected at the factory.

ENGLAND

A pathetic story of a boy's devotion to his little brother was told at Tottenham, London, recently, when Harry and Charles Lewis were charged with sleeping out. A policeman said he found the boys lying asleep side by side, under the shelter of a cart. He took them to their mother's house, but she refused to receive them. Harry, the older boy, who is 15 years of age, said that on the night before the policeman found they had slept in a lodging house. "I got tenpence from a butcher for whom I worked," he stated, "and I paid fivepence for two beds. When I get some work to do I pay for my brother's lodgings and give him food." he continued. "When I can't get any work we sleep out. Mother has not let us sleep at home since I was 11 years old."

The seven stages of drunkenness were set forth at Marylebone Police Court, London, recently, by Dr. Williams for the edification of the presiding magistrate. The charge was against a Maida Vale woman, whom the doctor said he found in a mellow, comfortable state of drunkenness, recovering from irritation. The magistrate:—am I to understand that a person who gets drunk must first of all be irritable and then mellow?—There is always an irritable state, and that is succeeded by the mellow, comfortable, happy state. And what is that succeeded by?—The pugnacious state. And what is the next state?—They become affectionate after that. Then they become crying drunk. What's next? — Collapse, incapable, sleepy. And after that, nothing, I suppose? If you give them a little more — death.

Much indignation was aroused during a funeral at Langynyd churchyard, near Maesteg, Glamorganshire, recently, by the discover that a grave in which a body had been interred a week previously, had been left unfilled, and was half full of rain water. The distress of relatives was increased by the fact that a number of weeds and dead flowers had been thoughtlessly thrown into the neglected grave. The vicar and sexton (were angrily interviewed. The sexton gave the excuse that the heavy rains had stopped his work. The grave was in a low-lying part of the churchyard, and he had intended to bale out the water and shovel back the earth after Wednesday's funeral. The relatives would not leave the churchyard until they had seen the grave re-filled.

The Wirral, Cheshire, Rural District Council is at its wits' end to know what to do with Robert Lee, a labourer with a very large family. Lee lives in a house rented at 2s. a week, and he has 12 children. The council's inspector reported that there was great overcrowding, and Lee was summoned and fined 9s. 6d. Lee refused to pay the fine, declaring that he could not afford more than 5s. a week for rent, and there was no house in the district to be had at that price. The council investigated, and found that Lee was right, and, moreover, that no landlord could be found who would let a house to a man with 12 children. It has remitted the fine and instructed its inspector to try to arrange to have some of Lee's children boarded out.

Remarkable behaviour on the part of Arthur Forester, a carpenter, was related in Lambeth, London, recently. A police constable stated that about 8 o'clock on the previous night he found prisoner, who was drunk, standing on the tramcar track in High street, Peckham. He refused to get off the metals, and as the result of his conduct, between 20 and 30 cars were "held up." It took three officers to pull the prisoner out of the way. The latter said he was annoyed by the rude way in which the conductor spoke to a passenger, and he got in front of the car to compel the driver to stop whilst a constable adjusted the difference between the passenger and conductor.

Before the Bath county magistrates recently, John Hobbs, of the village of Weston, Somerset, was charged with "bleeding" the growing vegetables of a man named Lye, a successful exhibitor. A few days after this year's show, Mrs. Lye, on cutting up some beans, discovered a needle stuck lengthwise in one. Examination revealed that other needles had been thrust into beans, onions, cabbages, and marrows growing on the allotment. It was said that the needles would cause "bleeding," and stop the vegetables growing. Hobbs pleaded guilty, and his solicitor said that Hobbs had doubted whether Lye showed his own produce, and the silly intention was to find out by means of the needles.

IRELAND

An extraordinary story comes from Youghal, County Cork. A young man named O'Donnell, who had been an inmate in a charitable institution there, died a short time ago, and arrangements were made for his interment at Ferrypoint Co. Waterford. A coffin was ordered, and forwarded to the institution. Next morning the relatives removed it to the young man's former residence, carrying it all the way on their shoulders. Remarks were frequent from the pall bearers about the lightness of the coffin, but as the young man's illness was protracted it was concluded that he had wasted away. Some hours after the coffin had been deposited at the house a relative who had seen him for several years expressed a desire to see his face. The desire was opposed but in face of a persistent request, the lid of the coffin was allowed to be unscrewed. All attending the "wake" had gathered around to obtain a last view of the body, but to their astonishment a large quantity of shavings was all that was to be seen. As soon as the parties had recovered from their shock, the empty coffin was taken back to Youghal, and in the institution from which it had been taken the corpse still lay. The funeral party returned with the body in the early hours of the following morning and encountered on its way revellers returning from Queenstown Regatta. The spectacle gave the superstitious peasantry a shock, and they fled from the road to the nearest farm house.

An extraordinary affair, culminating in a tragic death, occurred in the village of Baggart, County Dublin recently. At two o'clock in the afternoon a young woman, Minnie Hunt was seen to enter the tower of the Roman Catholic church, and a few minutes later appeared on the roof, 150 feet above the ground. A large crowd gathered at the foot of the tower and attempts were made to rescue her, but she had locked the door behind her, and also threatened to fling herself down, if anyone came near her. The Rev. Father Seaver, however, succeeded in reaching the top of the tower, and came within a few yards of the girl. Each time he approached her she rushed to the parapet. He then knelt down and prayed, holding up a crucifix, which he implored the girl to take hold of. Her only reply was, "We shall meet on the ground." The Father continued to pray for three hours, when the girl suddenly gave a loud cry, threw up her arms and fell to the ground. She received terrible injuries, which caused her death, and a verdict to this effect was returned at the inquest.

A sensational attempt to wreck a special train with 900 excursionists, belonging to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, returning from spending Lady Day at Warren Point, was recently brought under the notice of the County Down Constabulary. It is stated that the train was attacked near Bambridge, at a place called Mather's Crossing, and that volleys of stones were thrown which smashed the windows of the carriages, and struck a number of the passengers, including women and children. Nine carriages were damaged, sixteen of the windows being broken. Large stones were found placed on the line, which at this point is built on an embankment and is also sharply curved. On the outer rail were found seven large stones weighing from four to seven pounds each. Fortunately, they were pushed off by the iron guards on the locomotive.

SCOTLAND

The inhabitants of Lochmaben recently asserted an ancient right by netting the lochs surrounding the royal borough for fish called vendaces, which are peculiar to the Lochmaben lochs. In former times, and still in the memory of the present generation, "vendace day" was considered a fete day by the inhabitants, the fishing being patronised by the presence of the leading county families. A good number of years ago the custom fell into abeyance, and its celebration was abandoned. At a public meeting the ancient custom was revived three years ago, and was last year put upon a proper footing by the formation of a club to be known as "Lochmaben Vendace Fishing Club." This fish is greatly prized by epicures, and in bygone days the function was wound up by a dinner, the inhabitants feasting upon the rare delicacy. The vendace, it may be interesting to know, resembles a herring, and has a distinct mark of a blood red heart on the top of the head, has small scales, is very graceful in shape, and clear as a bright silver coin. The fish is supposed to have been imported into the lochs of the burgh in ova or some other form by Queen Mary. Only two other lochs in the world, besides the Lochmaben ones, possess these royal fish. The habits and mode of life of the vendace are strange, ignoring the angler with his artificial fly or worm, and content to live on what nature provides in the way of vegetable matter. They can only be procured by a suitable net. The fishing on the opening day resulted in sixty-seven vendace being caught in the Castle loch.

An extraordinary story was unfolded at Glasgow Western Police Court recently, when a man named Patrick Dillon, describing himself as a fishhawker, was charged with betting on Clyde street. Constable Band stated that accused had pretended that he was a fish merchant, and stood with a barrow outside the close. He and another constable went into an empty shop near at hand at five o'clock in the morning in order to escape the scouts who were placed in the vicinity by the accused to watch for any sign of the police. Some of the accused's friends seemed to have got wind of the officers' presence, for they took great precaution to ascertain it the coast was clear. Between nine o'clock and 11 o'clock they took down some boarding from a saloon at the back of the shop and tried to look into the premises, then, to make assurances doubly sure, at half-past twelve they put cayenne pepper under the door and set fire to it. The constables lay down on the floor and managed to withstand the smoke. Feeling that all was safe the accused began operations. The officers saw him take slips from different people, three from women, and 13 from men. The lines were handed over to a woman who took them away. When he was arrested accused threw away several betting slips and some money on the pavements. The woman picked them up and ran off before the police could stop her.

Eczema's Itch Is Never Ending

EXCEPT BY ACTIVE AND PERSISTENT TREATMENT WITH THE GREAT ECZEMA CURE.

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, causing keen distress from itching and covering the body with sores that refuse to heal.

Even with careful treatment, eczema is obstinate in yielding to curative measures, but the regular and persistant use of Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most certain means known of overcoming this torturing disease.

Internal treatments for eczema have long since been discarded, except the use of medicines to regulate the bowels and enrich the blood, while local applications are used to relieve the itching and heal the sores.

It is the remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the cure of eczema which has given it world-wide recognition as the standard ointment for itching skin diseases.

Mrs. Robert Clendenning, Welland Station, Ont., writes:—

"For three years my dauthter, Fanny, was afflicted with eczema in an intense and persistent form, and for nine days she was totally blind. The burning, itching and disfigurement were horrible, her entire face being completely raw for months, and the distress so great that she could not sleep.

"The best efforts of two eminent physicians failed to even mitigate her awful suffering. One day when I was low-spirited over my daughter's condition Dr. Chase's Ointment was recommended to me and to our surprise Fanny was helped with the first box and she has since been entirely cured by this treatment.

"Her face is now as smooth as a baby's and she is in splendid health. The credit for this cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I cheerfully give you permission to state my daughter's case, hoping that it will lead many others to secure the same good results."

There are a score of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment, with its extraordinary soothing, healing properties, is useful in every home; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

BABY'S DANGER

More little lives are lost during the hot weather months than at any other time of the year. In the summer months little ones are the victims of diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentry and stomach troubles. These come suddenly and without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly, the short delay may mean death. During the hot weather months Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home, where there is a young child. An occasional dose of the tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles. Or if the troubles come unawares a prompt use of this medicine will bring the child through promptly. Mrs. J. Renard, New Glasgow, Que., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets. One of my children had a severe attack of diarrhoea, which the tablets promptly cured." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BANNER TORN TO SHREDS BY THE WIND

Squall Played Havoc With the Exhibition Advertisement

The squall which preceded yesterday's rain storm played havoc with the big banner at the corner of Hunter and George streets advertising the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. The first wild gust of wind broke the ropes holding the bottom of the banner in place and the streamer was badly torn almost simultaneously. Pieces of the canvas were scattered over the telegraph wires in the neighbourhood and are still there today. The sign has been taken down and will be replaced.

THOUSANDS ATTEND THE RE-OPENING

The Cressman Store, The Most Animated Spot in the City Last Evening

If there was ever any doubt as to the popularity of the A. W. Cressman store with the population of the city, it was certainly set aside by the thousands who wended their various ways through that handsome and extensive establishment last evening. As is well known, it was the occasion of the re-opening of "the store that never disappoints," after the remodelling during the past few months.

At 7 o'clock the doors were opened to the public, and within the subsequent three hours a host of the citizens of Peterborough passed through, and it was estimated that at least 5,000 persons inspected the handsome and modern interior of the four floors of the Cressman store. The elevator was, possibly, the most animated spot in the establishment, and there were few seconds during the opening that it was not laden with human freight.

The ladies' dressmaking and millinery department on the second floor was the centre of attraction, and at times it appeared as if the whole feminine population of the city was there. The opera house orchestra, consisting of six pieces, was in attendance, and a pleasing tone was added to the re-opening by its delightful music.

The artistic interior decorations were the striking features. The colour scheme in the displaying of the goods appealed to the aesthetic tastes of colour admirers, and the introduction of sprigs of autumn wheat was appropriately emblematic of the harvest season. In a word, the re-opening of the extensive Cressman store last evening was in every way a successful one, and consistent with the handsome interior, which Mr. Cressman has spared no pains or expense in making a credit to the progressive city of Peterborough.

A SUBSCRIPTION FROM LAKEFIELD

Towards Erection of the New Baptist Church Here—Ladies Help

A pleasant surprise was furnished the Building Committee of the Park Street Baptist Church last night, when a subscription was received from several ladies of Lakefield towards the new church to be erected in this city. This is an evidence of the interest being taken in the efforts of the local Baptists.

Health and Vitality for old People

As old age creeps on vitality is lowered, the heart beats more slowly, the blood becomes more thin, and watery, and the power of resistance is lessened. It is the old people, above all others, who require the new life and energy which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Thousands of old people depend on this treatment, because it calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood, builds up the system and instils new life and vigor into their shrivelled arteries.

The Men Who Are Helping To Build Up The City of Peterboro'

A Complete List of The Building Permits For The Year Compiled in Alphabetical Order For The Benefit of Examiner Readers---Record of Building Operations With Cost of The Work.

236 BUILDING PERMITS HAVE BEEN TAKEN OUT THIS YEAR

Total Expenditure of $650,000.00 is Represented---Many New Residences Going Up in all Parts of The City, especially in The West and South---Those Who Are Building.

An examination of the building permits issued at the City Clerk's office so far this season reveals the fact that in no previous year has there been so great an advance in all lines of building, residential, commercial and industrial, as this year. So far, 236 permits have been issued for new buildings, worth, in round numbers, $650,000, and representative of all kinds of buildings. Of this number, about 150 are for new residences, which is a sure gauge of the city's prosperity and progress. These range in price from below $1,000 to $4,000, and are well distributed in all parts of the city, although, of course, the south and west are the districts in which there is the greatest activity in building circles. The streets west of Park street and running east and west are being built up very rapidly, and a great change is being made in the appearance of these thoroughfares, the transformation that is being accomplished being so great that any one who had not seen the section for a couple of years would almost fail to recognize the streets.

There has been a steady and healthy growth throughout the city during the year, which is most satisfactory, and of which there is very likely to be a continuance during the future that are to come.

There are several large buildings being erected this season which will greatly improve the neighbourhood in which they are located. Among these are the Armouries, the new Collegiate Institute, the Normal School, the addition to the Canadian General Electric Works, and the addition to the North Ward School.

Below will be found the complete list of the building permits which have been issued this season, which shows the nature and location of the building and its cost. The Examiner has compiled in alphabetical order for the benefit of its readers:

A HALF CENTURY RESIDENT OF SMITH PASSES AWAY

A gentleman who has been a resident of the county of Peterborough for 57 years, and who, during that time, had become known as one of the best and most highly respected residents, passed away last night in the person of Mr. William Dougan, who died at the residence of his son, Mr. Thomas Dougan, 119 Smith street, after an illness of about five months from a general break-up of his system. The deceased was one of the earliest pioneers of Smith township, in which he settled on his arrival in Canada from Ireland, 57 years ago. Up to about a year ago he resided on his homestead, on the 10th concession of Smith. He was born in County Cavan, Ireland, and was married there to Mary Ann Martin, coming with her to Canada at the age of 26 years. Mrs. Dougan predeceased him 20 years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss four sons and one daughter, the sons being John R., on the homestead; William, Fenelon Falls; James, North Dakota, and Thomas of Peterborough, and the daughter, Mrs. J. Nugent, Fenelon Falls.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 1.30 from the residence of his son, Thomas, 119 Smith street, to Ray's cemetery, Lakefield, where the remains will be interred.

THE PRESIDENT VISITS LINDSAY

Attractions at Fair There Inferior To These Coming to Peterboro'

President Leary of the Peterborough Industrial Fair was in Lindsay yesterday to get some pointers from the exhibition there. He says that there was an immense crowd on the grounds but believes that it will be outnumbered by the throng that will be here at the Peterborough Industrial on Friday and Saturday. In the grand stand there were 2400 accommodated and 1000 more would have utilized it if it had been large enough.

The attractions, Mr. Leary considered, were not extra, and states that those in Peterborough will be 100 per cent. better.

Steady Flow of Water In Otonabee Assured

Superintendent McClellan States Sufficient Water is Stored to Give Satisfactory Flow all Winter

STONEY LAKE IS LOW

Superintendent McClellan of the Trent Canal has returned from a trip over a portion of the upper section, and he states that he was greatly pleased to find in the course of his trip an abundance of water in Balsam, Cameron, Sturgeon and Lovesick Lakes and in Deer Bay. The level there he stated, was higher than it had been for five years at this season. Stony Lake was lower, the reason he attributed being the fact that this year there was an unusually large number of logs brought through it, and the feeders to the lake were exhausted. At the present time, however, water is being run into the lake from Burleigh dam.

He is authority for the statement that there is, under the control of the dams on the Canal, sufficient water to ensure a steady and satisfactory flow of water from now until spring, even should there be no further rain.

The conditions here are in pleasing contrast to those prevailing on the Rideau Canal, where, because of low water navigation in one sections of the Canal is suspended for the season.

The manufacturers and others dependent upon the water for power purposes may congratulate themselves upon the fact that there is reason to believe, according to the statements of the Canal Superintendent, that there will be abundance of water during the coming winter.

MONEY JUGGLER LOSES HIS PAY ENVELOPE IN THE CREEK

Lost in the creek, was what happened to two weeks' wages of an employee of the Wm. Hamilton Foundry yesterday, and he had a difficult time in recovering the money. Sitting in on the sill of an upstairs window, the youth began tossing his pay envelope into the air and doing a few other stunts to amuse the bystanders at the close of day. Accidentally, the envelope fell into Patterson's creek, where the water is fairly deep, and wet, too.

No amount of groping could recover it, so the money juggler was forced to undress and take a dive for it, with the result that the cash came back.

YESTERDAY'S WIND BLEW HASTINGS BUILDING OVER

The wind of yesterday wrought havoc with the east wall of the new Coughlan building being erected in Hastings, to replace that destroyed by fire a short time ago. A portion of the wall, about 2,000 bricks, was blown over, and in the fall joists in the lower stories of the building were broken, pieces of timber, 2 by 12 inches, were smashed like matches by the bricks in their fall.

They did not turn any water on, but the water was turned on them, however, before they got back to the hall as they were caught in the rainstorm and the team came back on the gallop.

HEART FAILURE KILLS A HORSE

Drop Dead While Tramping Straw at Otonabee Threshing

An Otonabee horse died the other day from heart failure in a straw mow. Threshing operations were going on at the farm of Mr. Sidney Bennett, and, after one of the mows had been cleaned of grain the side carriers were turned. One of Mr. Bennett's horses was placed in the mow to tramp down the straw, but inside of five minutes it "had given up the ghost."

The animal was a valuable one, and Mr. Bennett says was worth over $100. The threshing was temporarily delayed until the funeral of the horse was fittingly observed.

DIRECTORS ARE BUSY WITH FAIR

Madame Victoria and Her Trained Dogs at the Vaudeville—The Midway Selected by Superintendent

ENTRIES COMING IN FAST

Every Exhibition Director in the city and county is working hard to-day. Reports come from every township that the farmers are preparing more extensively than ever to bring in entries. All are speaking of the fair and the biggest crowds in the history of Peterborough are in sight.

Trained Dogs

The attractions this year are superior to anything ever before in the city. One of the features of the vaudeville show is the trained dogs under the instruction of the great Madame Victoria of New York. These dogs are the finest in the world. They are trained to do anything attributed to human beings, so far as their strength will permit. They can scarcely speak the English language but can make known their wants nevertheless. The trained dogs alone with Madame Victoria are easily worth the price of admission.

The Midway

This morning Supt. J. J. Bennett accompanied by some of the overseers visited the grounds and located the midway. This year it will be situated between the building and the grand stand, and there are some unique features about it.

The spaces have also been laid out under the supervision of the superintendent and all arrangements may be made for them from Secretary Hall, or on the grounds after seven o'clock on Monday. The superintendent's office will be located inside the middle gate in which a telephone will be temporarily installed.

Many Entries

The entries came in at a rapid pace to-day and Secretary Hall at his downtown office in Storey & Leary's store was kept busy all day. There is no doubt in the minds of the officials of the fair that it will eclipse anything ever before held in the city.

SIX CANDIDATES WERE SUCCESSFUL

Six candidates wrote at the local Collegiate, and all of them have been successful, viz.: Part II. — Miss K. Burnett, and Miss J. Campbell. Part I. — Miss L. Elliott and Miss E. Pollock; and Messrs. F. Austin and F. Brown.

THE ARIZONA KICKER

Its Ever Watchful Editor Has to Use His Guns Again.

TROUBLE OVER AN ARTICLE.

How the Colonel Was Given a Much Needed Lesson—The Bad Man From Panhandle Meets His Waterloo at Last and Is Placed at Rest.

[Copyright, 1907, by Mary McKeon.]

One of the biggest cranks among our subscribers and one of the most notorious in the territory is Colonel Singleton of the Three Bar ranch. The colonel has subscribed for the Kicker and dropped it again about four times a year for the last five years. There is never any telling what will please or displease him, and the first thing we know he refuses his paper and sends us word that we are a f.. and a villain.

On such occasions, as soon as we can make it convenient, we buckle on our guns and ride over to the ranch. The colonel expects us. He begins shooting at us as soon as we come within range. We shoot back. After we have wasted fifty cartridges he gets scared and surrenders and then begs our pardon and resubscribes.

Last Tuesday Colonel Singleton played his usual game. We had an article in the Kicker stating that Christopher Columbus was a bowlegged man. We dug that fact out of an old Spanish manuscript secured by us in New Mexico and believed we had made a valuable contribution to history. The colonel took exception to the article, although he can't tell within a hundred years of when America was discovered, and sent us the usual word.

Wild Report Flying Around.

On Wednesday we rode out to give him the usual scare. He fortified himself in a stable with two guns and a hundred cartridges and announced that he would die game. We had no intention whatever of even wounding him, but in some unaccountable way we raked him across the skull with a bullet, and it will be a long four weeks before he is able to gather bouquets again on the smiling lea. He knows that we are sorry, and he has forgiven us. Whether he will hug the moral lesson to his soul and benefit by it we can't say. Just now he is suffering from a brain storm and is hugging his head, and we don't care to bother him with abstract questions. For two or three days there were wild reports flying around to the effect that we had shot the colonel from ambush and cut up his body for wolf bait, but the above is a true and faithful account of the affair.

The extra issued from this office Thursday afternoon contained the following:

"MORE SHOOTING.

"JIM HELLSO PLUNKS A STRANGER.

"The Said Stranger Draws and Fires the First Shot—He Had Sworn to Kill the Editor.

"This morning at 9 o'clock the stage brought into Giveadam Gulch a passenger who may prove to be Bill Taylor of Texas, though he is not fully identified yet. He was a middle aged man of fierce visage, and his fellow passengers sized him up as a bad man. He was several times heard to mutter to himself and was seen handling a revolver. Of Mr. James Snyder, a passenger, the bad man inquired if Jim Hellso was still editor of the Kicker and if we were in the habit of carrying a gun.

"After descending from the stage at the Royal hotel the stranger took two large drinks of whisky.

"Then he sat down to breakfast and ordered eggs, bear steaks and coffee.

"While waiting for his order he leaned his head on his hands and seemed to be thinking of something sad and far away.

"Then he ... with the holes in the

...cinction and swore under his breath.

"Then he called the waiter a son of a gun for saying that it was a fine day.

Taken For an Evangelist.

"Several persons took him for an evangelist. Several others didn't.

"He ate with a fairly good appetite, and the way he chewed his steak led people to believe that he was from the Panhandle.

"The genial host of the Royal tried to be genial with the stranger, but he would have none of it. He said that if he was obliged to run such a ranch as that he would blow his own head off.

"The genial host went to get a shotgun and kill him for the remark, but a bit for flour coming in just then caused him to forget his errand.

"When the stranger left the table he went into the barroom and took two more big drinks, and then, leaning on the bar, he said to Jimmie Sweetzer that he had come a great many miles to make a hero of himself. He wouldn't say just exactly how he was going to do it, but said that the district attorney of the county couldn't call him insane in one breath and then prosecute him for a sane man in another.

"He also displayed a revolver and boasted that he had killed seven men with it. Only three of them had had time to utter a prayer, and they were mighty brief prayers at that.

"When the stranger left the hotel he inquired of Joe Harkness the way to the Kicker office. Joe is a stutterer, as we all know, and he replied:

"'You—you g-go right d-down this s-street two b-blocks and then turn—turn—turn'—

"He was going to tell the rest of it if it took all the forenoon, but the stranger said he'd be hanged if he would wait. He further observed that if he had such a tongue on him he'd go and play with the coyotes.

"Ten minutes later the shadow of death crossed the threshold of the Kicker office, holding a gun ready to shoot.

"We sat in our sanctum writing a yellow journal editorial as to why mice loved cheese. It is really a scientific question and one that the magazines should pay more attention to, and we had become deeply interested when the shadow entered our room and a hoarse voice exclaimed:

A Fusillade of Bullets.

"'Prepare to meet the devil!'

"The words were followed by a fusillade. Bullets zipped past and all around us, and for a few seconds we were dazed. Only half an hour before that our horse editor had asked us to raise his salary to $8 a week, and we had refused because he couldn't tell us why a mule always raised his tail before he started to bray. We thought the young man had come back for revenge.

"Then we got a line on the stranger and reached for our gun, and two shots dropped him. We had to fire through a cloud of smoke, but both bullets went home. The stranger had emptied his gun, but we were not even grazed.

"The remains were removed to the town hall at once, and a coroner's jury was impaneled. A verdict of 'justifiable homicide' was reached in about ten minutes. From a letter found in one of the pockets it would appear that the man's name was Bill Taylor and that he was a resident of the Ollv State, but there is nothing certain about it. Why he came here to kill us will probably always remain a mystery. We had never heard of him in our life and certainly had never referred to him in our paper. It may be that he thought we had had enough of this cold world and needed a rest.

"The man, whoever he was, was buried yesterday. As usual, we personally bore the expense of the funeral and rode at the head of the procession. He was buried in our private graveyard, and within a month the roses will be climbing over his grave, and on his tombstone people will be reading that he was a just and upright man, a little eccentric perhaps, but preferring the narrow paths of virtue to the broader highways of vice. He will be labeled 'No. 19,' and he will sleep well. If he is not better off it is not our fault." M. QUAD.

Only Way Out of It.

The Prima Donna—I told you I wouldn't sing the role at the salary you named, and yet you have billed me in the part all over the city.

The Herr Director—I see only one way out of it now.

The P. D.—I am listening.

The H. D.—For your own sake it'll be best for you to appear. The understudy is in bad voice.

The P. D.—Never.

The H. D.—Then your reputation will be ruined, for every one will think it is you, and with bad criticisms about you I could never offer you another engagement.

Graduated Epithets.

Jones told the story of a fish,
The size of it was model.
His hearers smiled in sorrowful wise
And murmured, "Mollycoddle!"

He told the story once again,
But only roused their ire.
His friends, perceiving how it grew,
Ejaculated, "Liar!"

He added next a dozen pounds;
The story found no taker.
Instead his auditors upriseo
And dubbed him "nature faker."

Until he toughed the fact told size
He caused the weight to vary,
And then his friends contemptuous
Remarked, "Reactionary!"

THE END MAN.

He Starts the Ball Rolling at the Burnt Cork Show.

"Funny t'ing happened ter me las' night," remarked the end man when the tenor with the clear and liquid spring water voice had responded graciously to several encores.

"Why, Mr. Tambo," exclaimed the middleman, "surely you are not going to tell me that you refused a good cigar?"

"No, sah," returned Tambo decidedly. "Dat wouldn't be funny—dat would be serious. But as Ah wuz sayin', a funny t'ing happened. When Ah went ter bed de bed wuz in de room, an' when Ah wakes up it wuz in de mawnin'."

When the ushers stopped laughing the other end man swung around, hooked one arm over his chair and faced the middleman.

"Dat ain't nuffin' at all to a little f'nancial problem Ah hab," he said. "Ah had t'ree cents yesterday. Ah bought t'ree sticks ob candy at a penny a stick an' Ah had one cent."

"That's impossible, Mr. Bones," declared the middleman. "You simply cannot spend 3 cents and then have 1 cent when you only had 3 cents in the first place."

"Ah sho' kin," retorted the end man, "Ah did it dis way: Ah had t'ree cents. Ah bought t'ree sticks ob candy an' Ah had 1 cent"—

"But you couldn't have 1 cent," persisted the middleman.

"But Ah did!" shouted the end man. "Ah bought t'ree sticks, Ah took two sticks wif me an' Ah had one sent—to mah house."

"Our accomplished bass, Mr. Croakley, will now render that beautiful ballad of sentiment, 'Down, Down, Down and Out.'"—Perrine Lambert in Judge.

Judge and Doctor Too.

Lord Bramwell, a notable wit of the English bench, was once sitting in a case where the prisoner was accused of shoplifting.

"My lord, my client is not a common thief," urged the barrister for the defense. "He is suffering from kleptomania."

"That is exactly the disease I am here to cure," replied Lord Bramwell blandly.—Youth's Companion.

A Long Felt Want.

"You get right out of here!" snapped the vinegary faced female. "I don't need no book!"

"Yes, you do, madam," said the book agent as he went out and closed the gate. "You need two—a grammar and a book on etiquette. Good day." And he got out of hearing distance long before she had said all she wanted to.—Lippincott's.

Why They Objected.

"No," said the fireman who represented the truck company that had refused to work with a colored truckman, "there is no race prejudice in it. But we certainly hate to work with a man whose face will look just as clean on the way home after a long fire fight as it did when we started, while we other chaps all look smudgy."—Judge.

A Feminine Marvel.

"How so?" asked No. 2. "What has she done that is so wonderful?"

"She writes eight page letters and doesn't underscore a single word."—New York Press.

A Cruel Deception.

"So your fiancee deceived you?"

"Yes. She told me her father was a dealer in stocks."

"Isn't he?"

"Oh, yes. He makes these dinky little women's fancy collars."—Baltimore American.

KNEW HER GRAMMAR.

The Landlady Wrote Correctly and Was Not to Blame.

A London gentleman advertised for apartments at a fashionable watering place and received many replies. He pitched upon one chiefly because it mentioned a splendid "sea view," and, as it was not convenient for him to leave his business to see the apartments, he closed with the offer by post, sending a substantial deposit.

When the time came for him to take his holiday he duly arrived at his destination and was surprised to find that not a glimpse of the sea was obtainable from any window of his apartments.

"I thought you said there was a splendid sea view?" he said angrily to the landlady.

"So there is, sir," replied the landlady, drawing his attention to a picture on the wall, a really excellent painting of the sea.

"Why, you—er—er— What do you mean by such a swindle?" gasped the gentleman. "I meant a view of the real sea."

"Oh, did you, sir?" coolly said the landlady. "If you will refer to my letter you will see that I distinctly stated there was a splendid sea view 'in' the drawing room. Had I meant a view of the real sea I should have said there was a splendid sea view 'from' the drawing room. I cannot think how an educated gentleman, as you evidently are, could have made such an egregious error!"—London Tit-Bits.

WING SHOOTING.

It Cannot Be Taught to Hunters by Reading Books.

Wing shooting can no more be theoretically taught than can riding, skating, sailing a boat, milking a cow or playing the violin. Practice and perseverance in this, as in all field sports, can alone make perfect, while the most persistent effort even then often fails to make a "crack shot." Certain rules, however, must govern the beginner, which, if observed, will materially aid him in becoming an expert.

When a novice takes the field for game he is very apt to become flustered, or "rattled," at the critical moment when the bird is flushed, and then he will stare, open mouthed, and wonder how it happened. This often occurs in the field, and the tyro invariably has some plausible excuse to offer. His "gun was not cocked," he "stubbed his toe just as the bird rose" or some equally weak explanation is made, or else he lays all the blame on his dogs, whose thoughts, could they but express them, it would be interesting to interpret.

The best wing shooters do not close one eye in aiming, nor do they follow the bird in its flights with the muzzle of the gun, but closing one eye is admittedly better than tightly shutting both, as many young would be sportsmen have been known to do.—James W. Dixon in Recreation.

Wagner's Childlike Happiness.

While in London in 1855 Wagner took a walk every day in Regent's park. There, at the small bridge over the ornamental water, would he stand regularly and feed the ducks, having previously provided himself for the purpose with a number of French rolls, rolls ordered each day for the occasion. There was a swan, too, that came in for much of Wagner's affection. It was a regal bird and fit, as the master said, to draw the chariot of Lohengrin. The childlike happiness, full to overflowing, with which this innocent occupation filled Wagner was an impressive sight never to be forgotten. It was Wagner you saw before you, the natural man, affectionate, gentle and mirthful.—From Ferdinand Praeger's "Wagner as I Knew Him."

Huxley's Larger View.

James Hannay, once a member of the staff of the Pall Mall Gazette, was a typical man of letters. And Huxley, as everybody knows, was a typical scientific man. Hannay had been a midshipman when Huxley was a naval surgeon. Years after the two met each other on the steps of the British museum. "Huxley," said Hannay, "I care nothing for man except as a creature of historical traditions."

"Nor I," answered Huxley, "for him except as a compound of gas and water.

"But," he added, "if we were each of us better educated men than we are we should know how to respect each other's studies more."

Had to Take Him Down.

"Why does Mrs. Everson have her own baptismal names engraved upon her card instead of those of her husband? She isn't a widow, is she?"

"No, but I understand that she had a batch of cards engraved once upon which she styled herself 'Mrs. William Edgar Everson,' and he was so puffed up over it for two or three days that he actually seemed to think he was the head of the family. It is never safe to give some people too much leeway, you know."—Cleveland Leader.

Peterborough to Have Ten Pin League This Winter

Bowlers Will Organize One With Prospects of Ten or a Dozen Teams—Games will be Played Every Week Until April 1st

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Peterborough will have a Ten-pin Bowling League this season in all probability with at least ten or a dozen clubs. This has been decided upon by the bowlers of the city and on Thursday night a meeting will be held at the Majestic Alleys, Water street, for the purpose of electing a president and secretary for the new league.

It has been decided that the schedule will be opened on October 1st, and will conclude on April 1st. Games will be played on Tuesday and Friday nights of each week, and the team with the greatest number of wins by April 1st, will be given a valuable prize, the nature of which has not yet been decided upon. If there are eight teams in the league each team will play once a week. If there are twelve teams each team will have a game every ten days during the season.

Great interest will be shown in the proposed league, and there will be no difficulty in securing teams, as a number are already preparing for oraganizing. The High Lifes will likly have several teams, and among others will be the Merchants, Lawyers and Bankers.

A meeting was called for last night but there was a number of important games being roiled, and on this account it was deemed advisable to postpone the business to be transacted until Tuesday evening, when a large attendance of bowlers is looked for.

BERLIN ORGANIZES PRO. TEAM

German Town Out for Professional Hockey

Berlin stands for professional hockey. Communications will be had with Toronto, Peterborough, Belleville, Barrie, Guelph, Galt, Brantford London Goderich, Woodstock and other towns with a view of organizing a league.

PETERBOROUGH RUNNER AT LINDSAY

John Bennett Enters the 10 Mile Road Race There To-Day

John Bennet of the National Hotel staff familiarly known as "Longboat" left this morning for the Lindsay exhibition to contest the 10 mile road race. Bennett is recognized as a runner of ability, having won the 5-mile race at a recent meet of the Peterborough Turf Club in 29.30. This new "Longboat" will enter the Examiner road race on Thanksgiving Day so that local runners will watch with interest his progress in to-day's event at Lindsay.

AN INTERMEDIATE RUGBY LEAGUE

If Possible One Should be Formed Among Younger Players

The sporting element of the city is anxious to have a rugby league formed on the plans of the Intermediate Baseball Club. There are two teams already that will enter a league if another or more teams were to be formed. If the city will have good players they must be developed from youth, and the best vehicle for that purpose is junior players competing in regular games. If any other teams have the intention of organizing they should do so at once and inform the other teams so that a league may be got under way at once.

Wrinkles.

A small boy of an inquiring turn of mind, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, looked at his father earnestly and asked:

"Father, what are wrinkles?"

"Fretwork, my son—fretwork," replied paterfamilias confidently.

A Letter From Dad.

Dear wife, I cannot tell you how
I've missed you since you went away—
The home is very lonesome now.
Where did you put my suit of gray?

With none to greet me at the door,
With heavy heart I tread the floors
That homeward lead; I miss you more,
But, say, where did you hide my socks?

How still and dull the house appears!
I miss the sunlight of your eyes.
The weeks you've been away seem years.
What has become of all my ties?

I hope you will enjoy yourself,
But do not mingle with the flirts.
I've hunted every closet shelf—
Wherever do you keep my shirts?

And now I've told you all the news.
There's nothing more for me to write,
Except, where did you hide my shoes?
They are not anywhere in sight.

A Thoughtful Wife.

"I was cured of an annoying propensity to sleep at the wrong time in rather an original way," said Snoozer.

"Some time ago there were a number of nights when I could not sleep until just before it was time to rise in the morning. Then, of course, it was hard to wake me. My friends advised all sorts of remedies, but my wife set her wits to work and found the right one. The next night I fell into a light doze after I got into bed, but in less than twenty minutes I was as wide awake as ever, pitching and tossing and unable to close my eyes. Well, my wife got up, struck a match and pretended to look at her watch. Then she said:

"'I wouldn't try to go to sleep, dear, as it will soon be time for you to get up now.'

"That settled it. In three minutes I was asleep and slept like a log. This was repeated once or twice, and now I get my regular sleep every night. The best of it was that I didn't know for a number of days the little ruse that had been employed to send me to sleep."—Pearson's.

Cutting Both Ways.

A company promoter who advertised for an office boy received a hundred replies. Out of the hundred he selected ten, who were asked to call at the office for a personal interview. His final choice fell upon a bright looking youth. "My boy," said the promoter, "I like your appearance and your manner very much. I think you may do for the place. Did you bring a character?"

"No, sir," replied the boy. "I can go home and get it."

"Very well. Come back tomorrow morning with it, and if it is satisfactory I dare say I shall engage you."

Late that same afternoon the financier was surprised by the return of the candidate. "Well," he said cheerily, "have you got your character?"

"No," answered the boy, "but I've got yours, an' I ain't comin'!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Cure of the Eyes.

A great many of the mysterious headaches with which women are afflicted must be put down to over-strained eyes, and this kind of headache can only be cured by giving the eyes a thorough rest, and, when a cure has thus been effected, great care in the use of the eyes in future is indispensable. Reading, writing or sewing in a dim and flickering light must be given up, and the common practice of attempting to read in a jolting train or omnibus must also be discarded. The eyes should never be used too long at a time, and, when much eye work is necessary, brief rests and bathings in hot water should be resorted to if the dreaded headache is to be kept at a distance.

Either Way.

"If you do not take care of your money," said the ant to the grasshopper, "the world will simply sneer and ask what you did it with."

"Yes, and if I invest it and become rich the world will sneer and ask me where I got it."—Washington Star.

Skin Disease is Blood Disease

"Fruit-a-tives" clean the blood of all impurities and clear the Complexion.

Pimples and Blotches—Redness—Boils—Eczema and other inflammations of the skin—mean Impure Blood.

A person with a bad complexion always suffers from poor digestion — non-action of the bowels (or Constipation) and often the kidneys are weak.

"Fruit-a-tives" are a wonderful cure for Pimples and Blotches on the skin.

These unhealthy organs cannot rid the system of the waste matter. It is this waste—taken up by the blood and carried to the skin—that ruins the complexion.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure all skin troubles because they cure the kidneys and bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" cause the eliminating organs to do their proper share of the work of ridding the system of waste. This purifies the blood — and instantly the pimples and blotches disappear, and the complexion clears.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure skin troubles when everything else fails.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices, intensified, and combined with valuable tonics and antiseptics.

They are without doubt the greatest blood purifier in the world. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. At all druggists.

OFFICERS OF BOY'S CLUB INSTALLED

Knox Church Boy's Club is Now in a Flourishing Condition

The officers of the Knox church Boys' Club were duly installed at a meeting held in the church last night for that purpose. The installation ceremonies were conducted by Rev. W. W MacQuaig, of Montreal, and were of a very interesting nature. The first officers of the club are:—

President—W Perks.
Religion, Vice-Pres.—W Byers.
Missionary Vice-Pres.—W Taylor.
Literary Vice-Pres.—L Ingram.
Social Vice-Pres.—F Coleman.
Secretary—R Thompson.
Treasurer—W Shannon.

When each officer was installed he made a short speech outlining a policy that he would probably follow in his particular department.

Rev. W W MacQuaig also addressed the boys on the benefits of the club drawing lessons from the life of Daniel relating to it.

Mr. Runnett was present from All Saints Boys' Club and expressed a willingness to have both clubs cooperate especially in athletics and a field day may be held before long when the boys will unite in various contests.

These clubs have started the wheel arolling and it is suggested that if other churches would follow, greater results could be attained and the clubs made more interesting.

THE LITERARY SOCIETY'S NEW OFFICERS

Were Elected Last Night—T. A. S. Organization Commences Work With Good Prospects

Last evening a meeting of the Ladies' Literary Committee of St. Peter's T.A.S., was held in the Assembly Hall for the purpose of reorganization.

The same earnestness and enthusiasm, which have been the characteristic features of this society's work during the past seven years, and which have won for it the reputation of presenting such excellent literary programmes, was very much in evidence at last evening's meeting, when plans for the literary work of this fall were fully discussed. Many suggestions and new ideas were advanced and the members of the committee are without exception highly pleased with the prospects of the literary work for the coming season.

The business part of the evening was carried on with despatch, and the popular vote raised the following members to the position of officers for the ensuing year:

Director—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President — Miss L. Deannard.
Secretary — Miss L. L. Coleman.
Treasurer—Miss A. M. Cahill.
Executive Committee — Misses O'Connell, Deannard, Coleman, Cahill, McGrath and Holmes.
Musical Committee — Misses M. Coughlin, N. Coughlin, Desautel, Kane, McCarthy, O'Heron, Furman, Hurley and Tagney.

The literary season of the Society will be formally opened on Friday, evening, October 11th, when the members of the society will have the pleasure of hearing a very interesting and instructive address by their highly esteemed director, Rev. Dr. O'Brien. This lecture will be supplemented by an exceptionally bright musical programme.

A NEW ASSOCIATION FORMED

Young People of St. Luke's Church Form Society—Has Good Prospects

A most enthusiastic meeting was held last night at St. Luke's Church, attended by a large number of young people, to consider the formation of an Anglican Young People's Association. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt was chairman, and opened the meeting with prayer. He stated the object of the gathering, and explained the principles of the association. After some discussion, a vote was taken, the result of which was the unanimous wish to organize an A.Y.P.A. The meeting then proceeded to elect officers, with the following result:—

Patron—Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.
President—Mr. H. C. M. Potter.
Vice-Presidents—Miss Lizzie Stewart, Mrs. Chas. Crane.
Secretary—Miss Clara Adams.
Treasurer—Miss Mary Pratley.
Committee—Mr. T. Whittaker, Miss Eva Crane, Miss Lillian Rogers.

The meetings will be held every Friday, the first meeting to be on Friday, October 4. The Executive Committee is in charge of arranging for the social evening on October 4 Other committees will be elected then The charter members present last night will be presented with the badge of the A.Y.P.A., which is an enamelled shield bearing the letters "A.Y.P.A.," and the Greek letters, "Chi-Rho." The large number present, and the enthusiasm displayed, augurs well for the success of this new organization among the activities of St. Luke's Church.

The Stepping Stone to Success

EDUCATION

The Ladder of Progress

ARE YOU complaining about your position in life? What are you doing to improve it?

*

MONEY SAVED THE FEES are so reasonable that most young men would actually save money by attending the Night School. How many young men are there who do not spend much more in the same time but in a useless way?

MANY of decidedly less ability than you, get along much better. Why? Because they have the necessary education.

*

YOU HAVE often had the opportunity of taking a better position, but was compelled to refuse on account of lack of education.

OPPORTUNITIES

WE BELIEVE if the people in Peterborough knew of the opportunities provided by the Evening School

at the Business College, that scores of men and women would be glad to attend.

No matter how limited the education may be, anyone may enter without examination. The classes are held especially for those who have not as much education as they would like, and who cannot attend a Day School.

We are interested in every one who joins our classes. Individual instruction is given to all and good progress is made. Students usually attend two or three terms -- some are attending now for the third term.

AN INVESTMENT

There is no investment worth quite so much as an investment in a Business Education, and there is no better place to obtain it than at the

Peterboro' Business College

For particulars call at the College either during the day or evening.

WM. PRINGLE, Principal.

ONLY ESSENTIALS— NO FRILLS THE SUBJECTS taught are all of every day, practical value —money making, labor saving subjects.

MANY BOYS are compelled by force of circumstances, to leave school before they have obtained sufficient education. By attending the Night School this may be obtained.

GENERAL COURSE ARITHMETIC, WRITING, SPELLING AND LETTER-WRITING. A person without these is a slave.

Growth of Catholic Diocese During Past Twenty-Five Years

Celebration of the Silver Jubilee of the Installation of the First Bishop of the Diocese of Peterboro' at St. Peter's Cathedral Yesterday

TWO ELOQUENT SERMONS

Present Bishop Congratulated For Many Years Toil He Has Endured in Pursuit of His Duties

The silver jubilee of the Catholic diocese of Peterborough and the establishment of St. Peter's as the cathedral for Bishop Jamot and his successors was celebrated yesterday by a Pontifical High Mass at 10.30 a.m., and Pontifical Vespers in the evening. The occasion was quietly spent by the clergy and laity, and was merely a thanksgiving offered to God for His Graces and blessings in the past and a petition that they might be continued in the future. The High Mass was sung by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Rev. Archdeacon Casey, Rev. Father McColl and Rev. Father Kelly. Among the other clergy were Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Rev. Father Galvin, Rev. Dr. Teefey of Toronto, Rev. Father Lynch, one of the oldest priests in the parish, and in charge of St. Peter's before Bishop Jamot was installed, and Rev. Father O'Connell. After the sermon, His Lordship gave the Papal benediction.

The Sermon

The sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Teefey of Toronto, who has been heard with favour by the congregation of the cathedral on past occasions and who upheld his reputation for eloquence yesterday. His text was the sixth verse of the second Psalm—"But I am appointed king by Him, over Sion, His holy mountain, preaching His commandment." Rev. Dr. Teefey referred to the fact that St. Peter's Cathedral was built on a hill, and from it [illegible] the clergy preached God's commandments and the universal religion to which He promised to remain faithful to the end of time. The cathedral, he said, in its first years, did not promise great things, but, like that which was not, but now is, His Lordship and the people have great cause for rejoicing, and should earnestly pray for a continuance of God's favour.

Reminiscences

The speaker, recalling the past, said that there were many pioneers of the congregation present among the laity, and, of the clergy mentioned, Father Lynch laboured in Peterborough before the installation of Bishop Jamot, when this flourishing city was but a hamlet and the church boasted not of its fair proportions of the present day. Rev. Dr. Teefey went back to the institution of the church, when St. Peter and his companions commenced the teachings which Christ had commanded them, down through the ages of self-sacrifice and martyrdom, and the gradual growth of the church in Rome, France, England, Ireland, and the other countries, and finally to Canada, where the French missionaries spent their lives in implanting Catholic truths, and where many died for the cause. Slowly the country was developed, and the speaker came finally to the time when the late Bishop Jamot was placed in charge of the north part of the diocese of Toronto, there to struggle against all the trials of an unsettled country. His see was moved from Sault Ste. Marie to Pembroke, where he came to carry out more extensively what

Shunting Cars Crash Into Team of Horses And Waggon

Driver Jumps to Safety in Nick of Time—The Waggon is Almost Annihilated

ONE OF HORSES INJURED

A scared driver, an injured horse and a broken waggon were the results of an accident at the Peterborough Lumber Company's mills on Saturday. It was fortunate, too, that the damages were not greater for at one time it appeared as if the two horses would be run down by a number of empty cars being shunted over to the mill.

Some of the employees of the mill were unloading lumber with the horses and waggon on the siding. A shunting engine brought in a number of cars some of which had to be run down to the end of the siding beside the mill.

Suddenly the driver of the team noticed the cars almost upon him and jumped to safety. The waggon and horses, however, were not so fortunate. The end of the first car caught the waggon taking along with it the horses. Luckily the latter were forced off the track and by the breaking of the harness became separated from the waggon. One horse emerged from the shock with nothing on but the collar, while the other received some injuries on one of its legs.

The two wheels on one side the waggon were smashed into splinters. One of the tires became fastened to the car in the impact and it was with great difficulty that it was extracted. The vehicle as a whole, was rendered unfit for use unless extensive repairs are made.

Pickpocket After Mr. James' Coin is Put to Flight

Was Being Touched for His Money in Montreal When P. C. Newhall Interfered

AN INTERESTING EPISODE

Mr. Charles James arrived home from his journey to the Old Country yesterday morning, and to-day is meeting many of his old friends who are all glad to see him. This morning he was kept busy distributing some quaint looking clay pipes to a few of his acquaintances. The stems are wound around with pretty silk thread, and the name of the recipient is printed with letters made of beads.

In speaking to the Examiner today, Mr. James had some interesting stories to tell. He came home on the "Virginian," and spent some pleasant hours with General Booth, of the Salvation Army, whom he left at Rimouski.

One of the most unique of all his experiences, however, occurred in Canada in the city of Montreal. He and P. C. Newhall were standing on St. James street on Saturday evening about 9.30, when a pickpocket happened along. The latter, in the usual smooth-tongued language of the light-fingered gentry, accosted him in a familiar fashion and wanted to know if he had the price of a drink. Mr. James was averse to any such request, and the cool visitor soon had his hands around his vest pockets after the coin.

Mr. Newhall happened to be standing a few feet away and, of course, was just as much at home there as in Peterborough. The pickpocket was soon sprawling on the pavement, and as soon as he stood on his feet Mr. Newhall promptly knocked him down again. In two seconds, Mr. James states, the money-seeker was out of sight and he was molested no more.

Are Peterborough Boys Particularly Vicious?

Their Exploits During This Summer Would Lead to the Belief That They are Worse Than in Other Cities

SOME OF THE PROOF

Complaints are constantly being received of the conduct of the boys of this city. They are, it would seem, considerably more vicious than youngsters of a corresponding age in other towns. Proprietary rights do not appear to be given any consideration by a certain class of youths in Peterborough, and fruit is stolen with no compunction whatever. The residents of the north end of the city at the present time are complaining bitterly at the practice which seems to be very popular with the boys; that of throwing putty at the windows and on the verandahs, a practice which, it can be understood, is very annoying. They apparently steal it from the new North Ward School, mix it with a quantity of oil, and throw it indiscriminately around, to the intense annoyance of the unfortunate persons who are trying to keep their properties presentable.

A severe lesson is apparently needed before the vicious habits and increasingly vicious tendencies of the Peterborough boys will be checked. To be taken before the Police Magistrate, charged with an offence, which, if it were adequately punished, would land them in prison for a term, and to be let go with a warning, and threats of what will happen them if they appear again, has had the effect of breeding a contempt for the law. The boys get to feel that the threats will not be carried out, and, at the most, a fine imposed on the fathers, resulting in thrashing when they get home, is soon forgotten, and they are at their old, or worse, tricks again.

Observation leads to the belief that, for some unaccountable reason, the youths of a mischievous age in Peterborough are worse than they are in the majority of places. In a recent trip in Western Ontario towns were visited in which fruit trees were growing in orchards close to the streets, and unenclosed with fences, and, to the visitor, it was a remarkable discovery that, while the fruit was ripe and, apparently, delicious, it was unmolested by the boys, a condition which, in view of experiences in Peterborough, was almost incredible.

It would seem that some lesson will have to be taught before there will be an improvement in the conduct of the boys.

NEW BRANCHES WERE FORMED

Catholic Order of Foresters Visited Lakefield and Young's Point

The officers of the local Court of the Catholic Order of Foresters went to Lakefield and Young's Point yesterday, where they organized branches of the Order. They drove out in 'busses and were accompanied by Rev. Father Galvin, chaplain. The branch at Lakefield is known as St. Paul's branch No. 1545, and that at Young's Point as St. Mary's, No. 1546. Officers were elected at both places and installed by the officers from Peterborough. The two new branches have already fairly large memberships, and should soon be in a flourishing condition.

FORESTRY AND PULPWOOD

It is a pleasure to note that the new Faculty of Forestry, added to the University of Toronto, is being appreciation and is attracting a large number of prospective students who have enrolled. While Arts, Mathematics and Sciences may be, and are, important, they yield in importance to the study of Forestry, which involves the protection of the interests of our most important national asset. An article in the Globe states that the phlpwood supply of the United States has become so scarce that if an export duty from Canada were imposed, or if Canada in any way, should shut down the supply, the paper mills of the United States would have to shut down, and the newspapers shut up—cease publication. Our neighbours are already feeling the pinch of poverty of pulpwood. Canada has a large supply and we should make the most of it. Its prudent use, its preservation from wanton destruction and its perpetuation, are of the most vital importance. This consideration adds very emphatically to this significance of a scientific study of Forestry. The subject has been neglected too long, and should now be pursued with the greatest diligence and zeal.

PURE FOOD PREPARATION

In view of the rigid Government inspection of meats used and manufactured at packing houses, the proposal of Alderman Elliott, endorsed by Alderman Stevenson and others, to establish a public abattoir, or slaughter-house, where all animals intended for butcher meat, should be killed, under competent inspection, becomes an important one. The question of feasibility may be a matter of consideration, but the ooject of the proposal is entirely commendable—to protect the local consumers—it being reasonable that our people at home should have the benefit of wholesome meats, as well as the consumers across the sea. The local market for meats is insignificant, compared with the export market, but still it is plain that what we do buy at home should be as wholesome as that which is sent abroad. There will be danger, unless due precaution is taken, that animals, rejected as unfit for food by the Government inspector, may find their way to the local market, and it is desirable that this should be prevented, so that it seems that the inspection implied in the proposal for a public abattoir should be extended to the local market. This is not to say that the farmers, who supply the local market, would, as a class, show such disregard for the health of their patrons. But, while the great mass of farmers are to be regarded as straightforward, there are, as there are in every class in the community, individuals who will be, to say the least, careless of the use they make of meats declared improper for packing. And one or two animals, diseased or "high," sold on the market and distributed to the public, would be consumed by many persons, and if there were any ill results probable from use of such food, the area of injury might be pretty large. The abattoir proposal, in its general aim—to secure the killing and marketting of only wholesome meat—is very commendable in principle. The details of its adoption and application will require considerable research and thought. At any rate, as we live by eating, it is plain that what we eat should be of the best. The secretary of the Provincial Board of Health is after the canneries, where, it is alleged, sometimes, uncleanly processes are employed. Our milk supply is subject to inspection and test; the manufacture of our bread is conducted under the oversight of the Dryden law. Therefore, there seems no good reason why every item of food supply should not be the object of careful supervision and inspection. When one comes to consider the matter, it is self-evident that care in food preparation should, like charity, begin at home. While the Government goes to large expense to provide for the proper preparation of meat sent to the Old Country, it would seem inconsistent that the food we use at home should, as seems possible, suffer through the use of the very precautions adopted to provide pure food for outsiders, and be exposed to the risk of being placed on the market in a tainted, or otherwise unwholesome, condition.

ORGANIZED LABOUR AND THE LENIEUX ACT

It is significant that Organized Labour, at the first opportunity which has presented itself since the passage of the legislation, has cordially endorsed the Lemieux Act.

The following reference to it is made in the report of the executive committee, presented at the congress of the Dominion Trades and Labour congress, which has just concluded its labours in Winnipeg:

"Your executive, after careful consideration, gave its hearty endorsement to the principle of the bill. Organized Labour does not want to strike to enforce its demands if the consideration of them can be obtained without recourse to that remedy. The strike has been our last resort, and as the bill conceded our right to strike, but assured the fair hearing of the demands of the workers, there was nothing to do but to give our support. Nor is Organized Labour blind to the fact that in every great industrial struggle, the public have a large interest as well in the result as in the means adopted to reach that result. The least the public are entitled to is a knowledge of the merits of the dispute. This knowledge was given to them under the proposal outlined in the bill.

"Your executive believe it will be a happy day when every labour dispute can be settled by the parties meeting together in the presence of an impartial tribunal to discuss their differences. One great difficulty in the past has been that we could not get a hearing. The Act has been tested already in the case of the machinists and the Grand Trunk Railway Company, and no better trioute could be paid to it than the settlement arrived at in that case, which has proven to be highly satisfactory to all parties concerned. The arbitration lasted three days, thus meeting the objections of those who, not unnaturally, thought that the delay possible under the bill might be too great to make its provisions of any avail."

There is nothing drastic in the Lemieux Act, save that it serves notice both upon Capital and Labour that the general public has certain rights which both are bound to respect. In other words, that the operation of any public utility cannot be interfered with as the result of any industrial dispute without an opportunity for the impartial investigation of the matter at issue has first been afforded. It ought not to be necessary to make any assertion of popular rights in such a case, but in the past they have been entirely ignored, and it is well that recognition should at last have been compelled. Had the Act gone further, and required compulsory arbitration, it would not have gone too far in principle, but probably too far in expediency.

In any event, Public Opinion is usually the supreme arbiter in the case of strikes, and the Lemieux Act gives Public Opinion a chance to operate. There are, doubtless, difficulties in the way of its enforcement, because it is not easy to force men to work if they do not wish to do so, but the success which the Act has already met with has abundantly justified its adoption.

Labour knows what it wants, and, moreover, it has learned from the practical operation of the Act that the measure is a sincere attempt to solve one of the great social problems which are before us. — Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES

One by one the liberties of the subject are curtailed. A Chicago business man has placed the ban upon the use of chewing gum and schoolgirl hair ribbons, by lady stenographers. This seems to be positive cruelty — the use of a typewriter necessarily limits the use of speech, and the mastication of gum keeps the jaw in training. Russia couldn't be much more tyrannical.

A Canadian peer, Lord Mountstephen, has made a princely gift of $175,000, to the Aberdour orphanage in the old country. While this is a noble use of money the suggestion comes that it would have been more fitting that some Canadian interest should have been promoted by a gift of money coming from the exploitation of Canada's resources. Lord Mountstephen made his money in Canada, as mentioned, out of Canadian resources, and it would be grateful to recognize the fact. We do not envy the Aberdour orphanage the benefits to be derived from Canadian money, but fair play suggests that the interests of this country should not be ignored.

WIFE HAS RIGHT TO A MAN'S MONEY

An Opinion Expressed by Rev. Elmer Harris in George Street Methodist Church Yesterday

That a wife has a right to her share—and a good big share—of the money her husband earns was the opinion expressed last night by Rev. Elmore Harris, of Toronto, who preached in the George street Methodist church. He did not think the husband had any right to ask how she spent the money, either, if she was the right kind of a wife she would be as careful and use as good, judgment as the husband, and in many cases, a good deal better. Mr. Harris' sermon was much enjoyed.

To-night the regular meeting of the Epworth League will be held and on Wednesday night the prayer meeting. Mrs. Morrow's class will be resumed on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

SERVICES WERE WELL ATTENDED

There Were Large Congregations at The Murray Street Baptist Church Yesterday

Yesterday morning Rev. Elmore Harris of Toronto preached in the Murray Street Baptist Church to a large congregation, his subject being "The Riches of the Christian's Inheritance." At the evening service, when there was again a very large number in attendance, the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, spoke on "Sin and Death." To-night there will be a meeting of the trustees of the church, and the Young People's Society will also hold a meeting. This meeting will be led by Miss Kathleen Martin.

The Reason Why

Zutoo

Is Used by Thousands.

It would probably surprise you to know how many thousands of people are using Zutoo Tablets who had never before used a headache cure.

This is due to three facts.
They tried the tablets.
The tablets cured their headache.
The tablets did not hurt them.

Like sensible people, they do not suffer from headache any more. They either let Zutoo ward off the headache—nip it in the bud—or assist nature in stopping it.

Which do you do? Do you suffer from a headache or do you take Zutoo?

CHAMPION FISHERMAN QUESTION IS SATISFACTORILY DISPOSED OF

The piscatorial exploits of the staff in the Brass Department of the Canadian General Electric Company's works during the present season have formed a never-failing subject of discussion, and there has been considerable good-natured rivalry between the disciples of Izaak Walton. On Saturday Mr. W J Devlin, Hunter street, made a catch, however, which he thinks entitles him to the first place. He was visiting, with a friend, also from the brass department, at Mr. McAuliffe's in the Gore of Emily, near the Pigeon River, and during the afternoon he went fishing in the river. His efforts were crowned with success, three lunge and a bass—the latter his particular pride—being the result of a few hours work. The bass, which was hooked on a trawling line weighed five pounds and a quarter, measured nineteen inches long and had a girth of fourteen inches. An interesting feature of the return trip after having caught the fish was the fact that their canoe grounded on a log and the fishermen declare that it was the extra weight of the bass which caused it.

seemed in the best interests of the church, and to be in a better position to attend to this portion of the diocese.

The Diocese Formed

Finally, on July 11, twenty-five years ago, Peterborough was made a cathedral city, and to the northern part of the diocese of Toronto, Bishop Jamot's old field, was added from Bishop Jamot's old field, were added four counties of the diocese of Kingston, and he was placed in charge of the new diocese, with his chair in the cathedral in Peterborough. In 1882, then, Bishop Jamot had under his care 30,000 souls; he was assisted by 25 priests, and had only 47 churches. The result of the continued labours during the past 25 years is that the population of the lay members of the diocese is 59,200, attending 117 churches, and in charge of 71 priests.

After four years of strenuous administration Bishop Jamot died in May, 1886, and was succeeded the next year by Bishop Dowling, who, in 1889, was placed over the diocese of Hamilton, where he still rules. Continuing, Rev. Dr. Teefey referred to the present bishop, Richard Alphonsus O'Connor, who, for 16 years, has been with his flock in this diocese. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to his ability, his perseverance and industry, and his quiet disposition, which has made him so beloved by all who know him. Until 1905, Bishop O'Connor had the whole diocese to attend to, but so rapidly had the northern part grown that the duties had become too arduous for one, thus Bishop Scollard was ordained, and to his care was entrusted the northern portion. Rev. Dr. Teefey expressed the hope that God would preserve Bishop O'Connor for years to come, and that at least he would have the opportunity of celebrating his own silver jubilee.

Conclusion

The speaker compared the local see with Sion as described in the 20th and 21st verses of the 33rd chapter of Isaias. He next dealt at length with the establishment of the church of Jesus Christ from its infancy and how our Lord entrusted it to His apostles and their successors, and the importance of the position of bishop, who, the speaker said, was divinely appointed to preach the teachings of Jesus, and to continue on the altars the sacrifice which He had instituted, and of which He was the very victim.

Bishop's Address

At the conclusion of the mass, His Lordship addressed a few words to the congregation. He spoke of the goodness of God and His divine aid during the past years, and asked the people to unite in praying for a continuance of His grace and blessing. His Lordship also asked that earnest prayers be offered that religion may make even greater strides in the future. He thanked the people and asked them to pray that God will forgive us our sins. He also thanked Rev. Dr. Teefey, who had delivered such an eloquent address, and for his kind, personal words, which His Lordship thought, he did not entirely deserve. He concluded by earnestly asking the people to remain staunch and fervent in their duties to God for His greater glory, and their own spiritual welfare.

Evening Service

In the evening Pontifical Vespers were sung by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Enniskmore, and Rev. Father Kelly, with the other members of the clergy present. There was a large number of the congregation present at the beautiful service, the altar being pleasingly adorned, the work being done by the Sisters of St. Joseph. The choir rendered special music, and, in fact their work at both services, was exceptionally good. In the morning the music was from Wiegand's Festival Mass, with solos by Misses Lavina Halligham, A. Simons, N. Simons, J. Delaire and A. Primeau; and Messrs. Jas. Weir, H. Brady, E. Koen, F. Pope.

At the offertory Lambilotte's "Quid Retribuam," was sung by Misses L. Halligham, J. Delaire and Messrs. E. Koen and F. Pope. Musical Vespers were sung in the evening. At the Benediction, a duet was sung by Messrs. Koen and Brady, and the "Tantum Ergo" by Miss L. Halligham and Mr. J. Weir, assisted by the full choir.

The Sermon

At Vespers the sermon was preached by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, at one time rector of the Cathedral, but now of Lindsay. While in this city he won many friends among the general public, and with his congregation he was always esteemed and beloved. His address last night was in his usual finished style, and was a vivid portrayal of the life of Christ so far as the establishment of His church was concerned, and the means He took of teaching His truths to the apostles, and of ensuring that the faith would be safeguarded through all time. Ven. Archdeacon Casey spoke from the 21st verse of the 20th chapter of St. John, —"Peace be with you; as My Father hath sent Me, so also I send you."

Twenty-five years ago, he began, the late Right Rev. John Francis Jamot came to this city, to rule as Bishop, the city of Peterborough, as the representative of St. Peter, to whom Christ had said, "Thou are Peter, and upon this rock I shall build My church, and the gates of hell will not prevail against it." Then the Catholic people of Peterborough promised obedience and help to their Bishop, and to him, as to his several successors, they had always shown the deepest devotion and zeal in their religious duties and had gladdened the hearts of the clergy by their continued assistance in temporal as well as spiritual affairs. Ven. Archdeacon Casey, referring to the successful work that had been done in the diocese, said it was mostly due to the efforts of the present Bishop, whom he congratulated on the celebration of such an important ecclesiastical event. The speaker added to the eulogistic words that Rev. Dr. Teefy has said of his Lordship. He said that Bishop O'Connor's name was held in esteem throughout the city, and to many as a benediction, especially in the diocese where he was intimately associated with the members of his own flock. Ven. Archdeacon Casey expressed the prayer that his Lordship would be long spared to minister to his people, and that his efforts would be even more fruitful in the future.

Universal Advance

The speaker then delved into the real subject of his discourse. The work done by the Church in this city is but similar to that which is recorded in all parts of the world. It is the work, he said, which Christ commenced, and which He commanded His apostles to teach to every nation. To carry out His teachings, after the apostles would have passed away, He instituted His church, invested it with all the power that had been given Him by His Heavenly Father, and left it strong enough to endure to the end of time, and to spread through every people as it has successfully done through the past twenty centuries, and by God's grace will continue to do until the consummation of the ages.

Man by original sin, continued Rev. Archdeacon Casey, lost the grace of God, and though he did not lose his free will, he was left by that will prone to sin, and to seek every passing pleasure. By His redemption alone He could not save man. To enable man to enter heaven, the graces gained by the redemption of His blood must be applied must be applied to each individual soul, and this was, the speaker said, the mission of the Catholic Church. The apostles were with Jesus during His public life, when by teaching and example He prepared them to go forth into the world, and when they set forth, strengthened by the Holy Ghost, who was to abide with them, they had the power of casting out unclean spirits, the power to anoint with oil, and the power to accomplish the other things which Christ had seen would be necessary for the institution of His religion. But to receive the graces which His church offers man must co-operate. St. Paul, speaking to the Philippians, exhorts them to work out their own salvation with fear and trembling, which, the speaker said, can be done through Christ alone, and through the medium of the Catholic church, which he appointed for the salvation of mankind.

Conclusion

Ven. Archdeacon Casey continued dealing with the institution of the sacraments by our Saviour, of His appointing successors to continue the work which He had commenced, and of the position of Pope Pius the Tenth, as the successor of St. Peter and the viceroy of God upon earth. He said that no man can save his soul by his own means and asked the people to pray fervently that those without the fold might enter through the sacrament of baptism, the church which Jesus had founded and given to His apostles and their successors, the Catholic Church.

Put New Blood Into the Arteries
AND THE FEELING OF WEAKNESS AND FATIGUE WILL GIVE WAY TO HEALTH AND VIGOR

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

At this time of year nothing is of such great value to the human system as new rich red blood. Feelings of languor and depression, headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, impaired digestion, nervousness — these all tell of thin, watery blood and a run down system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all else a blood building restorative which puts new blood into the arteries and by so doing lays the foundation for health and vigour.

It sharpens up the appetite, and strengthens the nerves, which control the flow of digestive fluids, forms new firm flesh and tissues, and gives vigour to these vital organs of the body.

Mr. Fred H. Gould, Purdy, Hastings Co., Ont., writes: "I was troubled with nervous headaches, which at times were very painful and caused much suffering. It has been thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can recommend this treatment most highly and believe that as a general system builder it has no equal.

Mrs. W. Chappel, Barrie, Ont., writes, "I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the nervous system and of improving the health generally and I have also found it a good remedy for female troubles.

"We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for all kinds of sores and cuts and think it is a splendid ointment."

You can be sure that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you good because each dose goes to the formation of a certain amount of pure, rich, red, blood. It cures by the building up process, and its cures are, therefore, thorough and lasting; 50 cents a box; 6 for $2.50, at all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HONORED ON COMING TO CITY

Presentations and Address to Springbrook Family Now Residing on Downie Street

PURCHASED A NEW HOUSE

The population of the city was made three greater on Saturday, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGee, and son, Willie of Springbrook, Ont., moved here to reside in future. Mr. McGee has purchased a house at 590 Dowaie street recently, and has arrived with his household effects. Before leaving Springbrook, presentations were made to Mr. and Mrs. McGee, and their son, as mementoes of the esteem in which they were held by their neighbours. Accompany the presentation was the following address:—

To Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGee, and Master Willie:

Dear Friends, — We, a few of your friends and neighbours, have gathered here to-night to spend a social evening with you, and to bid you good bye before you leave us to take up your residence in Peterborough. We regret very much the loss our neighbourhood will sustain by your removal from us, and we wish to express our appreciation of the many worthy qualities which you possess.

You are seeking for yourself a permanent residence in Peterborough and we hope and trust that your life there may be filled with the sunshine of prosperity, and that by industry and honesty, and by your many sterling qualities, you may be able to take a noble part in the building up of your home.

We would ask Mrs. McGee to accept this rocker, Mr. McGee this chair and Master Willie this Bible, as a slight token of our friendship and esteem for you all; and we wish to assure you that as you go from us you take with you our best wishes for your good health and prosperity in your new home.

Signed on behalf of your friends.
Mrs. C. H. Boardman,
Mrs. D. W. Roblin.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists, 75 cents.

CELEBRATED SEVENTY-SECOND BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Sherin of Bowmanville were Honoured by Friends—Are Related in This City

Many friends in Peterborough, of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sherin, of Bowmanville, Mrs. Frank Mason's parents, will be interested in the following reference in the Bowmanville Statesman, to a celebration of Mrs. Sherin's birthday:

A dozen friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sherin on Monday evening to congratulate Mrs. Sherin on attaining her 72nd birthday. The gathering was a surprise to her, but she soon had her unexpected guests comfortably seated. Mr. Sherin had provided the accessories for a repast at a neighbour's, and music, song and social conversation made the evening a most most pleasant one. A letter of congratulation, accompanied by a substantial check, was read from her son, Mr. Geo. Sherin, Dresden.

TUMBLES OFF SCOW INTO LITTLE LAKE

Narrow Escape for a Little Boy on Saturday at the Wharf

Saturday afternoon almost witnessed another drowning in the waters of Little Lake. A little boy about eight years of age was amusing himself on a scow that lay along side the Wolfe street wharf when accidently he slipped off in the deep water. An employee of the Matthewso Packing House heard the splash and in a few seconds had jumped over the fence to the rescue.

Shoving a canoe into the water he was soon at the little fellow's side when he pulled him in just as he was going down for the third time.

The escape was certainly a narrow one and due solely to the alacrity of the rescuer.

SAW CUTS BOLT CAUSING $150 DAMAGES

Iron Bolt Breaks From Carriage and Runs Into Revolting Machine

The breaking of a bolt in the carriage of a circular saw at Kelly's sawmill, Bridgenorth, caused damage to the extent of over $125 the other day.

The head sawyer in the mill being absent for a few minutes left his work in charge of a substitute and either through an accident or inexperience of the man in charge, a bolt broke, and was allowed to run into the revolving saw.

The direction the latter was turning took the bolt downwards with damaging results. The startling noise as the two metals met frightened the employees of the mill but what was more unfortunate the saw and parts of its mechanism were badly damaged. It is estimated that repairs will cost $150.

SIS IN NEW YORK

"Sis in New York" the offering at the Grand on Saturday afternoon and evening is styled on the programme, "A comedy of Indiana rural life," and while the representation might not be accurate it was at least amusing and thoroughly pleased the large houses that welcomed it to Peterborough. The situations are humourous and some of them new and the pranks of Sis, the country girl, and John Henry, the hired man, brought forth considerable laughter. The action for the most part is laid in the country although the characters do find themselves in New York and have a lively time. Bessie Delmore was an amusing "Sis" and the other parts were in good hands. Enjoyable specialties were given by a number of members of the company.

BEGIN ERECTING TENTS TO-DAY

So Many Have Applied for Space at The Exhibition Grounds. Bright Prospects

Fresh assurance is to-day given that the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will be a success. There have been so many demands for tents for special exhibits, that Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons were forced to begin to erect them this morning. The space in the building has all been taken up already and some of the finest exhibits ever seen in Peterborough will be there.

The Grounds Committee were busy all day staking out the allotments, for those applying for space, and the superintendent says that the number of outdoor exhibits this year will surpass anything in the past history of the fair.

Entries are coming in rapidly. Secretary Hall, who is stationed at Storey & Leary's office, this week, is a busy man. This morning over a dozen called before 8.30 to leave their entries and they have been coming in rapid succession all day long.

The special bread making contest is a very popular number. There were this morning twelve entries in. The picture postal card exhibit also promises to be very interesting. On Saturday there were nine entries, and many more are expected from the young folks.

There will no dearth of palmists at the fair. Seven or eight have already applied for admittance, and the masculine population will be please dto learn that they all belong to the fair sex.

MUSICAL SERVICES WERE ENJOYED

Excellent Work of Choir and Soloists in Charlotte Street Methodist Church Yesterday

In the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday an enjoyable feature incident to thhe services, was the excellent character of the music rendered by ne choir, which, after the holidays, is now up to full strength. In the morning the anthem was "The Splendour of Thy Glory, Lord," which was sung with vigour and spirit. Following the sermon Miss Clara Bellegham gave a splendid rendering of "O Holy Father," by Teresa Del Reigo. At the evening service the choir sang "Lo! 'Tis Night," by Beethoven, the solo being effectively taken by Miss Olive Howell, and the offertory number was a solo by Mr. James Browne, Faure's "Palms," in which he excelled himself.

OPENING RALLY WAS A SUCCESS

Rev. Dr. Harris of Toronto the Special Speaker at Bible Study Rally at The Y.W.C.A

THE FIRST OF THE SEASON

The Bible Study rally at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday was very well attended, nearly two hundred being present to listen to Dr. Harris' helpful address on "Bible Study." He reminded those present that most of the great statesmen had been diligent Bible students; that in the works of John Ruskin there were no less than 900 Bible references, and in Tennyson's works there were 500.

He spoke of the Bible as the most wonderful and interesting book in the world. It had taken 1,500 years to write it; it purified the life; it was a mirror which reflected the life of Jesus Christ. After suggesting various ways in which the Bible could be studied advantageously, he spoke for a few minutes on the epistle to the Ephesians, as this book has been chosen for study this winter by most of the associations in the Dominion.

Mrs. (Dr.) Scott presided, and Miss Sanderson rendered a solo owhich was very much appreciated. Special reference was made to Mrs. Williamson's leaving the city, as she has been our most faithful Bible class teacher for some years.

The Sunday afternoon meetings will be continued next Sunday, and those in charge are especially anxious to see at this service the young women who cannot get out in time for Sunday school.

RIVER DRIVERS WORK IN THE COLD WATER

Stand Breast Deep Rolling Along The Straggling Timbers

The life of the river driver on some occasions does not appeal to the city-bred folks, however alluring it may be at other times. This morning a dozen or more of these hardy workmen could be seen standing breast deep in the bay below the Riverside Park, tailing up the straggling logs. A job of this nature at 7 o'clock this morning would scarcely be inviting to the average man, yet these lovers of nature appeared quite at home rolling the big timbers with their cant hooks, off the stoals.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOSEPH BARNARD

The late Mrs. Barnard, whose maiden name was Caroline Tate, was born in South Monaghan 74 years ago, and had lived in South and North Monaghan and in Peterborough all her life of almost three quarters of a century. She had been ailing for more than two years, when she suffered from a severe attack of pneumonia, from which she never fully recovered. She had been confined o t the house ever since.

The late Mrs. Barnard was a daughter of the late Thomas Tate, and was born in South Monaghan. She was married to her now bereft husband, and lived in that township until 27 years ago, when they removed to North Monaghan, coming to this city three years ago, where they had since resided.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss two sons and four daughters, the sons being W. A. of Grimsby and Joseph Albert of North Monaghan, and the daughters are Mrs. W. Bell, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. H. Rightmeyer and Mrs. John Arthur, all of this city. One sister, Mrs. Sarah Leach, of Baldwin, Kansas, also survives.

Back to His Beat After Visit to His Former Home

P. C. Newhall Tells of His Voyage Across the Atlantic—Sees Old London Again

DISTINGUISHED PASSENGERS

P. C. Newhall Who Has Returned From England Atfer Visiting The Haunts Of His Youth

The centre of attraction at the police station to-day were the interesting stories told by Mr. Samuel Newhall, police officer, who just returned yesterday morning from a six weeks' journey to the land of his birth. He probably answered the familiar questions, "When did you get back?" and "What kind of a time did you have?" every minute in the day, and shook hands about as often. The policeman is looking well after his voyage, and his visit to his old home at Great Budworth, Cheshire, about 28 miles from Liverpool, Eng., and this morning re-commenced his duties in search of the law-breakers.

While in England, P. C. Newhall visited many of his former "pals" on the London police force and the numberless haunts he was once accustomed to visit on his daily beat. He expresses himself as having had a "great" time, and has returned satisfied with his journey.

The voyage across was a pleasant one. The Atlantic was as calm as the Otonabee until the Irish Sea was reached. A storm was raging there, but the captain was made aware of this by a wireless message from the ship ahead. Returning home, he came on the turbine "Virginian," which landed 1,500 passengers at Quebec and Montreal. The voyage was rather rough, and on several occasions he unwillingly felt his bunk.

Among the passengers were such celebrities as General Booth, who landed at Rimouski to go south to begin his campaign in Nova Scotia, Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy; Senator Gibson, a couple of celebrated Russian singers, and a number of American millionaires. On Wednesday night there was a select programme on board the steamer, with Signor Marconi as chairman. Addresses were given by him, General Booth and the senator.

P. C. Newhall stated that the immigrants on board were the finest class that came abroad this year. They were a sturdy lot of men, women and children, but most of them were bound for Western Canada. Mr. Newhall says that the better class of immigrants, those who can afford extra railway transportation, seek homes in the West, while very few of them remain in Ontario.

The Government, he states, takes especial care that no immigrant afflicted with any disease is allowed to enter Canada. A doctor boarded the turbine below Quebec and inspected every third-class passenger, with the result that a family of five, one of whom had the measles, was taken ashore and quarantined. They will be forwarded when the measles disappear.

The Marconi telegraph was probably the chief attraction on the steamer, and messages from other ships frequently came in. The happenings of the outside world were on the bulletin every day. Marconi told the passengers that he soon expected to be able to send a message to one particular ship without any of the others receiving it. His description of the work of discovery proved very interesting to those who heard it.

P. C. Newhall has again begun his duties, and will be able to tell the "weary Willies" he meets some tales of the lives of those following a similar occupation in "Ole Lunnon."

RALLY SUNDAY AT PARK STREET

Interesting Services Were Held Yesterday —Children Presented Program

The Park street Baptist church which is now being moved across the street, was packed to the doors yesterday, and the services were much enjoyed, the unique conditions under which they were held, adding to their interest. The Sunday School rally in the afternoon was a gratifying success, 143 being present and $9.00 was collected for Foreign Missions. The children joined heartily in the responses on the programme arranged. The Rally Song by three little girls was an enjoyable feature. Addresses were given by the superintendent, assistant superintendent and the pastor.

GREEKS TO CLAIM DAMAGES

For Alleged damage Done to Sign by George Thomas, of Chinese Restraunt

A claim for damages made against Geo. Thomas, the restaurateur, for alleged damage to a sign belonging to the Greek establishment across the street, was the basis for a letter which was a mystery to the one who received it, and incidentally furnished an additional reason for the establishment of the free delivery system. Joseph Thomas, a conductor on the Radial Railway received a letter this morning from the solicitors of the Greek Resatuarant, intended for George Thomas, in which a request was made for payment of damages said to have inflicted upon the sign, reference to the incident connected with which was made a few days ago.

Until the truth dawned upon him that he had received a letter not intended for him.

NO MEETING OF BOARD OF HEALTH TO-DAY

Sitting Called Off Indefinitely—Lively Session Expected

There was no meeting of the Board of Health this morning, as expected. The notices calling for a meeting had been prepared, but before they were sent out to the different members of the board it was decided for some reason to postpone the sitting, which would, no doubt, have been a picturesque one in more ways than one. Just when the board will meet is uncertain.

VANCOUVER VISITOR IN THE CITY

Mr. Jas. Weir, Constable for C.P.R. Tells About Conditions There

IN CHARGE OF 80 CHINESE

"The Vancouver riots were not as bad as they were painted," is the statement made to the Examiner today by Mr. Jas. Weir, formerly of Keene, but who has spent the past 19 years in the employ of the C. P. R., at Vancouver. Mr. Weir has not been home for five years, and therefore knows pretty well the conditions existing in the western city, and the circumstances leading up to the present troubles. The riot, he states, was instig d by the riff-raff of Vancouver, and not by any responsible citizens. The extent of it was a number of broken windows. The boys were principally blamed for this, but Mr. Weir says, they had no connection with the damages.

Mr. Weir is a constable for the C. P. R., over all Oriental arrivals in the city, who are compelled to pay for their admittance. He came east in charge of ninety Chinamen to Montreal, who are on their way to Jamaica, and other West India islands. He had to watch them closely all the way, so that none might escape; "for," said he, "everyone of those Chinamen was worth $500.00 to the C.P.R., and if I had lost one the company would have been out that amount."

When the Chinamen, Hindoos, or any other of the Oriental races arrive, who are assessed by the Government, they are stored away in large cages and watched like wild animals, till their admission fees are paid. In a little over one hour Mr. Weir collected a little over $19,000 for the company on the arrival of the Chinamen.

Teh Hindoos, he states, are peculiar men. Not long ago a shipload arrived at Vancouver many of whom have had to be carefully watched until they were sent back. The Hindoos refuse to eat anything a white man will cook, and have other peculiarities.

Mr. Weir is visiting his son, Ormand, of the Toronto Loan and Savings Co., but to-morrow will go to Keene. He expects to remain here a couple of months before going back to the Coast.

THE REV. CANON DAVIDSON'S ADDRESS

Helpful Words on the Ideal Worship of God, at Evening Service

The evening service in St. John's church was well attended, especially by men, and very hearty, Rev. Canon Davidson's address was on the importance or regularity in the worship of the Almighty. The text was, "Thou shalt be missed and they seat will be empty. 1st Sam. 20: 18

The men who were missed in life were those who by faithfulness had made themselves a place. All men were given such a place in the Kingdom of Heaven, and it was for them by persevering effort to make that place their own.

There was no man living, whatever his position, who by simple faithfulness to duty could not make for himself a place of usefulness and privilege in the Kingdom and be missed by fellow workers when he went elsewhere. On the other hand the place of privilege might be lost by carelessness without a man's perceiving what his loss really was. In the family and the workshop pressure was brought to bear which helped men to do their duty, but this help was lacking in religion.

Hence, a situation which was really appalling to-day. Multitudes of Christian men were out of contact with the church and worship, the concrete practical means by which God would keep men connected with Himself and in the path of blessing. One or two misconceptions in regard to worship were pointed out. It was not demanded as a kind of tax, but as an act of loving duty. What earthly father would be at all satisfied if his children were to live simply moral or industrious lives without being in loving fellowship with him?

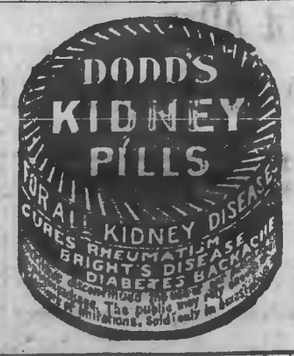
Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.



This fellowship found its natural and divinely commanded connection in worship, in which there was a proper combination of fear and love. The act of worship, moreover, placed men at the proper angle for receiving blessings from God, and a steady course of heartfelt worship was bound to result in increased moral strength, broader sympathies and a greater richness of life, which would be felt not only by the individual but by the family and community to which he belonged.

C.P.R. Train Is Responsible For Death of 3 Cattle

Three cattle were killed outright on the C.P.R. east of Peterborough, and another had its legs broken by being run into by a freight train.

A herd of five about five miles east of here made their way past the cattle guard at a crossing and did not know enough to get off the track. Two were instantly killed, one died shortly after, while the legs of a fourth were broken. The fifth managed to escape unhurt.

It could not be learned up to this afternoon who owned them and how they were allowed to walk into danger.

Crown Attorney Wood and Mr. Geo. Sherry, of Norwood acted as prosecutors while Mr. F. D. Kerr defended the men.

APPLE FREAK IS SHOWN AT THE MUNRO HOUSE

Two Singular Specimens In Mr. Joye' Possession

Mr. Jno. Joyes at the Munro House is interesting a large number with a couple of apple freaks in his possession. One of them is an apple with a "wart" growing near the top of it, while the other might be appropriately called a pear, although an apple. Two apples have grown together both of which indicate perfect growth each being as large as any ordinary specimen. The two stems are prominent—something which does not often occur.

PAINFUL RESULTS OF A FALL

Thos. Kent Struck his Head on Granolythic Walk—Sent to Hospital

On Saturday afternoon an elderly man, Thomas Kent, had a rather serious fall on the granolithic walk on Aylmer street, near the corner of Simcoe street. He slipped, falling heavily, and struck his head on the edge of the walk, with such force that he was rendered unconscious. A hurry ambulance call was sent in and the unfortunate man was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his injuries were attended to. He will be out again in a few days.

A RUGGED ROBBER REPORTED

Two Valuable Rugs Stolen From Verandah of Residence on Park Street

The example of the city in attempting, according to some persons, to steal the property of the citizens through the assessor is infectious. Some time during last Saturday night—certainly after 11.30, some enterprising thieves stole two verandah rugs from the verandah of the residence of Mr. A. H. Stratton, 307 Park street, they were large, heavy rugs too. If the guilty persons do not bring back the stolen articles there is certain to be a very big heap of trouble for somebody.

The Big Bridge Was Unsafe

Disaster at Quebec Was Due to Deflected Chord.

EXPERTS GIVE EVIDENCE

Chief Engineer Says Calamity Was Caused by This Defect—Pillars May Have Collapsed—No Fault In Riveting — No Danger Was Anticipated—Although Precautionary Telegram Was Sent.

Quebec, Sept. 23.—Saturday's evidence before the Royal Commission investigating the Quebec bridge collapse is important as indicating that some bridge experts at all events attribute the disaster to the deflection in chord No. 9 of the anchor arm.

Mr. Hoare, the chief engineer of the Quebec Bridge Co., gave it as his opinion, when pressed by the commission, that the disaster was due to this defect, although he hesitated at first to hazard the opinion, because his investigation on the site had not enable him to definitely ascertain the cause.

The vertical pillars might either of them have given way, though it was his opinion that No. 9 chord was at fault. These pillars either collapsed first or received the worst treatment in the fall, for there was evidence of almost complete destruction of the main post and bottom chords.

Rivetting Was Good.

On the other hand there was nothing in the tension braces or general connections to indicate the cause of the disaster, and the rivetting, with a few exceptions, was still good.

Mr. Hoare was instructed to prepare plans of the present condition of the chief members of the bridge for the commission.

Mr. Cooper, consulting engineer of the Bridge Co., apparently shares Mr. Hoare's opinion as to the primary cause of the disaster, though he will only be examined when the commissioners reach New York the week after next.

Interviews Before the Collapse.

Mr. McLure, who went to New York the day before the collapse to consult Mr. Cooper as to the defect in chord No. 9, told on Saturday of his interviews with him both before and after the accident. When he asked Mr. Cooper if he thought it safe to add any more material to the structure, the engineer showed him a telegram he was sending to Phoenixville, telling them to add no more at present. While at Phoenixville that day he heard of the collapse.

It Was That Chord.

Returning via New York, he saw Mr. Cooper again. The latter was not in as communicative a mood, but said: "Well, it is that chord"—meaning No. 9. Witness said he had not considered there was any danger in moving the small traveler farther out. What he feared was not the collapse of the structure but the difficulty of making repairs if necessary, after the stress was increased. No one had any idea of danger to the bridge, and no drastic measure were resorted to. Mr. Morse himself was out on the bridge only a few hours before the collapse.

It is proposed to erect a unique monument over the common grave of several of the victims of the disaster in St. Romuald cemetery. It is to be composed of a mass of the steel wreckage of the bridge, plans for the arrangement of which have been made by a member of the Hardy family, which furnished four of the victims.

Peterborough Boy Won Five Mile Race at Lindsay

W. J. Bennett of the National Beat a Good Field in The Long Distant Event at Lindsay Fair in Fast Time

IN REMARKABLE FORM

W. J. Bennett of the National Hotel, known to his friends here as "Longboat," won the five-mile race at the Lindsay Fair on Saturday in handy fashion from a field of seven runners. The race started at the Fair grounds, and the course led through the town and back to the grounds. Bennett will be an entrant in the Examiner road race on Thanksgiving Day.

The Lindsay Post, in speaking of the race, says:

Bennett, an English lad, showed remarkable form; a light and easy runner, he sprinted again and again. The last lap he had a big lead, but Geo. Thornbury, who is a husky runner, galloped after him and finished some 50 feet behind, a good and fast second. W. J. Bennett is a new Peterborough discovery. Time, 33 minutes—remarkably fast for the track's condition.

The runners: Bennet, of Peterborough; Reilly, Lindsay; Elliott, Lindsay; Nesbitt, Lindsay; Coad, Oakwood; Geo. Thornbury, Glenarm; H. Thornbury, Glenarm.

Wm. Scattergood, an Oshawa Pedestrian Will Attempt Feat

Oshawa, September 21. — William Scattergood of this town, will on Tuesday and Wednesday next, undertake to walk the trip of 128 miles from Port Hope to Toronto and return in 38 hours.

He will start from Oshawa at 2 a.m., on Tuesday, Sept. 24, arriving at Port Hope at 9.30 a.m. He expects to arrive back at Oshawa at 6 p.m., and to reach Toronto at 4 a. m., Wednesday morning. After lunch at the King Edward he will return to Oshawa hoping to reach home at 3 o'clock p.m.

This is the journey undertaken by Jimmy Reynolds, of Port Hope, in June last, in which the latter failed by a few miles. Mr. Scattergood recently walked from Oshawa to Toronto and return in 16 hours and 22 minutes, a distance of 64 miles.

THE DOINGS IN JUNIOR RUGBY

Game is Promised For Next Saturday on The Oval. First of the Season

The first rugby game to bbe played in the city this year will be that betwsen the Karnots and the Cresents at the Oval next Saturday. Both these teams have good material signed, but it is necessary to get into a matched game for the best practice, and if possible these two teams will meet on Saturday. It will be for the most part a practice game and will test the strength of both the teams and also try out the men in their various positions.

The line-up will be given in a few days and also the time for the game. All the players on both teams are requested to make an effort to be out for the afternoon after three o'clock.

THE RUGBY TEAM'S LIVE PRACTICE

Over Thirty Players Were Out in Uniform Saturday

The rugby team had a good practice on Saturday afternoon when over 30 players were out in uniform and chased the pigskin with a vigour that caused the eyes of the officers present to sparkle. Manager Crowley was among those out and put the squad through a hard practice. Sides were chosen and an hour's game played, in which the players were able to unloosen the kinks and the workout was of great benefit.

Several new men were in the bunch among them Tom Colledge, formerly of the Trinity College School team, who was tried on the half line and showed every sign of making good. He is fast and heavy, catches and passes well and in addition showed considerable punting ability. Dick Evans of the Quakers' Association team, was also on the half line and showed up well, giving signs of developing into a valuable man, being a good tackler and fast on his feet.

Among those out were, Crowley, Hurtubise, Quinlan, Dickson, O'Connor, Beaumard, Vic. McWilliams, Colledge, Evans, Dorris, Walker, Clarke, Canniff, Boyle, Hall, Hickey, Fitzgerald, Hamilton, Crough, Barber, Conway and Turner. Geo. McDonald, Ernie Ford and Ed. Dillon watched the practice from the sidelines.

MANY ENTRIES FOR THE BOYS' RACE

Five Mile Examiner Event Promises to Be a Great Success

The announcement made on Saturday that the Examiner intends to hold a five mile race for boys in connection with the Thanksgiving Day road race, has caused considerable interest and excitement among the younger members of the city, and there will without doubt, be a large field of starters in the event. A number of the boys have already signified their intention o running and will go into training at once. Some of them have been running already for the fun of the thing, and now with the prospect of a race ahead of them they will stick at their training with renewed vigour. The Lakefield road is the favourite course for the runners, and every evening a long string of them may be seen between the city and Nassau.

TEN PIN BOWLERS TO MEET

They Will Draw up Schedule and Elect Officers

The ten pin bowlers of the city are reminded of the annual meeting of the league, to be held to-morrow night at the Majestic Alleys. It is important that there should be a representative attendance, as officers for the season will be elected, and, if possible, the schedule arranged. It is desired to open the league season about October 1.

RUGBY

The first rugby game of the season will be played here a week from Saturday, when the Toronto Argos will appear here in a senior O.R.F.U. fixture. All the local players are requested to attend as many practices as possible from now on, as there is not much time left to whip the team into shape. The Argos will be as strong as they were last year and will be in good condition, so that it behooves the locals to get busy at once. The lights at Riverside Park will likely be ready by to-morrow night, and after that practices will be held every night.

• • • •

The lights at Riverside Park will be ready in time for the team to practice to-morrow night, and every player is expected to be out in uniform.

THE HARDSHIPS ARE DESCRIBED

Rev. Dr. Jesse Gibson Gives Interesting Address on Work of Bible Society

Rev. Dr. Jesse Gibson, who is well known in Peterborough, where he has visited frequently, and where he has many friends, recently delivered an address in Calgary, Alta., referring to which the Daily News of that city says:—

Before an audience that completely filled the school room of Central Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. Jesse Gibson, secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society, delivered his lecture on "The oWrk of the British and Foreign Bible Society."

Dr. Gibson, who illustrated his lecture with stereopticon views, held the interest of those assembled from the beginning of his talk until the end. After briefly sketching the history of the society and its scope, he elaborated on certain phases of the way in which the Scriptures were circulated among different nationalities. He told many laughable incidents encountered by the officers of the society in propagating their work.

The lecturer brought home to his listeners very forcibly the dangers which were encountered by the missionaries who acted in behalf of the Bible Society. He also demonstrated the inordinate amount of work which was required to keep the society in perfect running order. The plans of translating, of native printing, of tactfulness in preparing for the circulation of the Bible—all were vividly illustrated by views of the stereopticon views. Among the views shown by Dr. Gibson last night were slides of England, India, Africa, China, Japan, South America and Burmah.

THE MARKET PRICES ARE NOT MISQUOTED

Market Clerk Says the Examiner Publishes Them Correctly

To substantiate the reports on the price of hay published at various intervals in the Examiner within the past month, the authenticity of which seems to have been doubted by some unbelieving correspondent of the back-door contemporary, there are published a few facts from the market clerk's diary. The market clerk to-day stated that the Examiner had not yet published the highest price. Mr. Cann of the 2nd line of Smith, he states, sold a load last week for $20 and that Mr. Manly, of Otonabee and several other farmers had obtained $19. These prices, the market clerk states are absolutely correct.

The Examiner does not wish to put up the price of hay and has no desire to do so, but it invariably publishes the facts in market reports.

Hay sold on Saturday at $18 per ton.

NARROW ESCAPE OF EXCURSIONIST

Young Man on Auburn Employee Trip to Cobourg Fell off Train

About 250 persons joined the annual excursion to Cobourg on Saturday, under the auspices of the Auburn Woollen Mills Company's employees, and an enjoyable outing is reported. The special train made excellent time, arriving in Cobourg early in the forenoon, giving the excursionists a long and, as it developed, a delightful day in the pretty lake town.

During the afternoon an interesting game of baseball was played between a team representing the Auburn Mills and one made up of employees of the Cobourg Woollen Mills, the score, at the end of the ten innings necessary to decide the winners being 10—9 in favour of the visitors.

A serious accident, on the trip to Cobourg was narrowly averted. As the train was about to start from the Port Hope station, a young man lost his hat, and in jumping off the platform to recover it he fell under the moving train. With rare presence of mind he rolled himself free of the wheels, otherwise the pleasure of the day would undoubtedly have been marred by a serious, if not fatal accident.

The visitors speak highly of the hospitality of the Cobourg people, and report that the outing was in every respect a pleasant one. The special train returned about nine o'clock.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Caryle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. FIRST BROTHERHOOD TEA OF THE PRESENT CHURCH YEAR

The first Brotherhood (St. Andrew's) tea of the church year, was very successful, and was given at St. John's school house last evening. About a hundred persons, the majority of them strangers and new comers to the city were the guests of a former and present member of St. John's who kindly provided the means by which Messrs. Coleman Bros., Confectioners, furnished a very nice little, or, rather elaborate, tea. The occasion was marked by a systematic device for making the guests not only feel at home, but acquainted with each other. Strips of paper were placed at each plate, and each guest wrote the name, street address and church affiliation and then the cards were exchanged. Brief addresses of welcome by the recor and Brotherhood and Church officials were made after the tea, and many of theh guests made brief remarks concerning their length of residence, their positions and condition in the city and their impressions of eterborough. The affair was quite informal and there is little doubt that the guests were made to feel thoroughlyy at home. The idea of these occasions is to develop brotherhood and fellowship and be of assistance to those in need of help or companionship, many of the guests being new arrivals—strangers in a strange land. No pressure whatever is made in the direction of inducing attendance at the service which immediately follows the tea, but to all who chose to attend a welcome as warm as that given at the tea will be extended. It was clearly stated taht all members of other denominations were quite free to attend their own churches and a considerable number accepted the suggestion and left at the conclusion of the tea.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Hicks, the Weather Man Predicts Grey Frosts For This Month and October

What the St. Louis Weather Prognosticator Has to Say of The Coming Month

HE GIVES WARNINGS TO ALL

Readers are Asked to Prepare For Frosts—Open Weather, Though During Last Half of October and November

Early frosts are predicted by Irl Hicks in his weather forecasts for the month of October this year. He states his belief however that the latter half of October will bring open weather and that these conditions will be continued during the greater part of November. His forecast for the coming month, as outblined in Words and Works for October, is as follows:

As we are compelled to go to press early in September with these October forecast pages, we again express the fear, mentioned on page 5 of September Word and Works, that an early spell of unseasonable cold and frost will visit this country, central and northward, in September, or at the latest during the early half of October, until after the close of the Venus period, shown by the storm diagram to extend up to near the middle of October. We believe that the last half of October and all of November, will bring a spell of open weather, more favourable, perhaps for outdoors work, and bringing as little general exposure to orchards, gardens and fields, as the reactions to cold and frost during much of September and early October. With this general hint, we prove our faith in our forecasts for October printed a year ago in our 1907 almanac.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th. The storm diagram indicates that the combined force of Earth and Venus continues to near the middle of this month. The Jupiter and Saturn lines are also reminders that the whole year is covered by these great perturbing equinoxes. On and touching Wednesday, the 2nd to Friday, the 4th, return to storm conditions will be noted, in falling barometer, change to warmer, bringing cloudiness and autumnal rains progressively over the country. Only moderate change of barometer and temperature will follow this period.

A regular storm period is central on the 8th, covering the 7th to the 11th. The new moon falls on the celestial equator on the 7th. This fact will precipitate storm conditions at the beginning of this period. Low barometer, very warm for the season and general storms of thunder, wind and rain will set in about the 7th in the west, and during the 8th, 9th and 10th these storms will take wide paths in their eastward sweep across the continent. People along the Gulf and Atlantic Coast, also along the Pacific, should not forget that equinoctial storms are very probable about this time. There will be wisdom in keeping storm and weather-eye open on and about the great lakes at the wind up of this period. High barometer in the Northwest will push severe to dangerous gales over the lake regions, all to be followed by marked change to colder, bringing frost to much of the country, central and northward, from about the 9th to the 13th.

A reactionary storm period will culminate on and touching the 14th, and 15th. In fact the causes are such that threatening conditions, with autumnal rains, may continue from the preceding period, the 7th to the 11th, ending in a secondary culmination or crisis on the 14th and 15th. Much of the country will experience very cool days and frosty nights not far from the 15th to the 18th. Watch and see.

A regular storm period embraces the full moon very close to the celestial equator. This matter of the moon being on the equator at new and full appertains to the equinoctial periods, and they correspond this month so closely as to suggest equinoctial phenomena not far from the 7th as well as the period 18th to 22nd. Seismic distrubances will be quite natural at both periods. This fourth storm period covers the 18th to 22nd, and promises to bring very decided autumnal storms. Early in the period, in western extremes, falling barometer will announce approaching storm conditions. By the 20th cloudiness and rain will appear, and from Sunday the 20th to Tuesday the 22nd, storm areas will make their transit eastwardly across the country. The crisis of the period will fall on the 20th and 21st in all the central parts of the country. Rain and wind, with lightning and thunder, will attend the first stage of these storms, but change to cool, autumnal rain, with snow possible in north and west, will result on the north and west flanks of storm areas, all followed by very cool nights and frosts, reaching well to the southward.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 25th, 26th and 27th and falls within the brace of the Mercury disturbance. It will bring a period of moistness, and thick, prolonged cloudiness that will hardly break away during the remainder of the month. As all who have studied our forecasts know the Mercury influence, especially in the autumn, is promotive of cloudiness with lowering, drizzling weather, often resulting in sleet and heavy frost work. Some early sleet to the northward will be reported before the close of this Mercury period, which, as the storm diagram shows, is central the 31st and extends into November.

A regular storm period begins on the 29th, is central on the 31st, extending to November 3rd. As October comes to its close the barometer will indicate the approach of positive and general storm conditions from western sections. From about the 31st, to November 3rd, autumnal rains will take up their march from west to east, touching most parts of the country, and being followed from the west and north by rising barometer, change to cool, westerly winds, with early snow and sleet over large areas to the northward. We warn all concerned of the probability of severe northwesterly gales and storms on and about the great lakes during this period. Shippers and navigators who disregard storm indications and warnings about this time will risk paying penalties in human lives and wrecked shipping. The indications are that general autumnal storms and weather will be ushered in about this time, and much inconvenience and loss may be averted, especially to agriculturalists and dealers in perishable goods, by a prompt and vigilant roundup of the autumn's work. All the opportunities in October should be wisely and industriously used preparatory against storm and weather in November. We speak from experience in giving this advice and warning. We have "been there."

Every reader who has paid attention to current telegraphic news knows that violent and destructive storms have occurred in many states since the beginning of the Venus disturbance, that is, during the last ten days of August and up to the date of this writing, September 6th. During this time a number of tornadoes have been reported, and "waterspouts" and "cloudbursts" have visited many localities, entailing loss of life and great destruction of property. Earthquakes of great force and long duration have been reported from different extremes of the globe, all proving to prove that our globe feels the perturbing influence of another cycle, caused by the Venus equinox and the autumnal equinox of the earth, all combining with the conturbances of the Jupiter and Saturn period. Marked indications of volcanic outbreaks are also noted at Vesuvius and other volcanic centres. While these coincident convulsions in our earth and atmosphere, it is hoped may not portend destructive phenomena, they do show conclusively that cosmic forces which lie behind all these outbursts of nature are, for some reason, undergoing another periodic strain. We believe that the disturbing power of the planet Venus, coming as it does coincident with earth's autumnal equinox, all combining with the Saturn and Jupiter periods, are the direct causes, and that a serious crisis will be passed during the remainder of September and early October. We may say, also, that very decided solar disturbances are passing over the face of the sun in the midst of all the existing storm, volcanic and seismic disturbances mentioned above.

TIME EXTENDED

At a meeting of the Building Committee of the Park street Baptist church held on Friday night, it was decided to extend the time for receiving tenders for the new Baptist church, until Wednesday, the 25th inst., at one o'clock. All interested will govern themselves accordingly.

Sec. of Committee.

BIG MIDWAY AT THE FAIR

Many Amusement Features to be Seen at the Big Exhibition This Year

The Midway at the Peterborough Fair will be a feature this year, and from present indications it seems likely that in this respect, at least, the Fair of 1907 will surpass that of any previous year. A number of the amusement attractions from the Ottawa Fair have arrived in the city or will come in to-morrow and Wednesday, and will be seen at the Peterborough Exhibition. The space allotted for the Midway has all been taken up.

WARM PRAISE FOR A LOCAL DIVINE

What the Oshawa Reformer Says of Rev. Dr. Langfeldt Who Preached in That Church Sunday

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt was in Oshawa on Sunday preaching in the Church of England there, in the absence of the rector. Referring to his visit, the Oshawa Reformer, on Saturday, said:—Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's Church, Peterborough, who will preach in the Church of England on Sunday at both the morning and evening services, has, since his late visit to Oshawa, been honoured by his German alma mater, the degree of Doctor of Philosophy having been conferred upon him. He is one of the most interesting and eloquent preachers in the Church in Canada, and his services are in demand not only in Canada, but he has also been invited to occupy pulpits in the United States. He is, however, a thorough British subject, and, although he has been offered churches on the other side, prefers to remain in Canada. He is a product of the military system of Germany, and is a splendid specimen of a man, as well as a good preacher.

THE PARK STREET VIEW IS TO BE REMOVED

Street Railway Curve at Sherbrooke Street Will be Straightened

The sharp curve that the street railway makes just at Sherbrooke street, on the C. G. E. line will be removed in a short time, according to the reports that were heard today. The men, under Mr. John Thimback, who are engaged in laying cement sidewalks on Park street, have made one walk which will mark the new line of that street. It is well known that at present the cars come up on Reid street and turn sharply over into Park street. When the cement walk was laid on Reid street, between Sherbrooke and Dalhousie streets, on the west side, instead of displacing the old board walk continuing up Reid street, it has been turned toward Park street, thus cutting off the northeastern corner of the lot, which caused the sharp turn in the railway. When Park street is extended, making a junction with Reid street, the tracks will be laid in a straight line and the sharp bend thus removed. This will, at least, be one improvement in the Red line, as this bend was always the cause of a certain amount of trouble.

THE VALUE OF MILK TESTING

Mr. T. H. Binnie Explains the Milk Testing Associations and the Good Results Following

Editor of the Examiner —

Sir, — I am very pleased indeed to see that you take such an interest in the work of the Cow Testing Associations around Peterborough, and that the summaries are read by a great many farmers. Now, there are a number who do not understand the reports as sent out. Of course, every one understands that the herd average gives the average of the milk-yield, the fat-yield, and the test of each cow in the herd. In the other two columns headed respectively highest and lowest individual milk-yields, is where the trouble lies. Notice that these columns are entitled milk yield, and it is the highest individual milk-yield that is given. With this is given the test of the cow that gave the amount of milk, and not the highest test of the herd as many suppose. Similarly, it is the test of the lowest amount of milk given by one cow, and not the lowest test of the herd.

It is a matter of some surprise to me that some persons do not value the work which is being done by the Government for their own good. Some have gone to the trouble of purchasing a testing outfit and, after having it, will "doctor" their samples by putting in strippings to make the test appear big. If the object of the test is to ascertain the true value of each cow how can this be done if the samples are tampered with? Not many weeks ago I tested a herd which tested all the way from 6.1 to 9.2 per cent., for butterfat. And with what result? The time and supplies used in weighing, sampling, testing, washing the sample bottles, figuring the report, etc., were wasted, and the data obtained were of no use to myself, the farmer who took the samples, nor to anybody else. Many people rail at the Government because they get none of the money which is spent for the good of the country; yet when the Government does try to do something for their good, they will not take advantage of it. Men of this stamp do not deserve any assistance. Let the sampling and weighing be done fairly and squarely and the farmer doing this will be repaid by depend.

T. H. BINNIE.

The English Orphans

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Lena Rivers," "The Homestead on the Hill," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

—rius name is Bender, and he came from Chicopee," answered George.

"Bender from Chicopee," repeated Ida. "Why, I wonder if it isn't the Billy Bender about whom Jenny Lincoln has gone almost mad."

"I think not," returned her cousin, "for Mrs. Lincoln would hardly suffer her daughter to mention a poor boy's name, much less to go mad about him."

"But," answered Ida, "he worked on Mr. Lincoln's farm when Jenny was a little girl; and now that she is older she talks of him nearly all the time, and Rose says it would not surprise her if she should some day run off with him."

"Possibly it is the same," returned George. "Anyway he is very fine-looking, and a fine fellow too, besides being an excellent scholar."

The next day, when Billy chanced to be alone, George approached him, and after making some casual remarks about the books he had borrowed, etc., he said, "Did you ever see Jenny Lincoln in Chicopee?"

"Oh, yes, answered Billy, brightening up, for Jenny had always been and still was a great favorite with him; "Oh, yes, I know Jenny very well. I worked for her father some years ago, and became greatly interested in her."

"Indeed? Then you must know Henry Lincoln?"

"Yes, I know him," said Billy; while George continued:

"And think but little of him, of course?"

On this subject Billy was non-committal. He had no cause for liking Henry, but would not say so to a comparative stranger, and at last he succeeded in changing the conversation. George was about moving away, when observing a little old-fashioned-looking book lying upon one of the boxes, he took it up and turning to the fly-leaf read the name of "Frank Howard."

"Frank Howard! Frank Howard!" he repeated; "where have I heard that name? Who is he, Bender?"

"He was a little English boy I once loved very much; but he is dead now," answered Billy; and George, with a suddenly awakened curiosity, said:

"Tell me about him and his family, will you?"

Without dreaming that George had ever seen them, Billy told the story of Frank's sickness and death—of the noble conduct of his little sister, who, when there was no other alternative, went cheerfully to the poorhouse, winning by her gentle ways the love of those unused to love, and taming the wild mood of a maniac until she was harmless as a child. As he proceeded with his story George became each moment more and more interested, and when at last there was a pause, he asked, "And is Mary in the poorhouse now?"

"I have not mentioned her name, and pray how came you to know it?" said Billy in some surprise.

In a few words George related the particulars of his acquaintance with the Howards, and then again asked where both Mary and Ella were.

Billy replied that for a few years back Mary had lived with a Mrs. Mason, while Ella, at the time of her mother's death, had been adopted by Mrs. Compbell. "But," said he, "I never think of Ella in conection with Mary, they are so unlike; Ella is proud and vain and silly and treats her sister with the utmost rudeness, though Mary is far more agreeable and intelligent, and as I think the best looking."

"She must have have changed very much," answered George, "for if I remember rightly, she was not remarkable for personal beauty."

"She hasn't a silly dollbaby's face, but there isn't a finer-looking girl in Chicopee, no, nor in Boston either," returned Billy, with so much warmth and earnestness that George laughed aloud, saying, "Why, really, Bender, you are more eloquent on the subject of female beauty than I supposed you to be; but go on; tell me more of her. Is she at all refined or polished?"

"I dare say she would not meet with your ideas of a lady," answered Billy; "but she does mine exactly, for she possesses more natural refinement and delicacy than two-thirds of the city belles."

"Really, I am getting quite interested in her," said George, "How is her education?"

"Good, very good," returned Billy, adding that she was now teaching in Rice Corner, hoping to earn money enough to attend some seminary in the fall.

"Teaching!" repeated George; "why, she can't be over sixteen."

He was going to say more, when some one slapped him rudely on the shoulder, calling out, "How are you, old feller, and what is there in Boston to interest such a scapegrace as I

Looking up, Billy saw before him Henry Lincoln, exquisitely dressed, but bearing in his appearance evident marks of dissipation.

"Why, Henry," exclaimed George, "how came you here? I supposed you were drawing lampblack caricatures of some one of the tutors in old Yale. What's the matter? What have you been doing?"

"Why, you see," answered Henry, drawing his cigar from his mouth and squirting, by accident, of course, a quantity of spittle over Billy's nicely blacked shoes, "Why, you see, one of the sophs got his arm broken in a row, and as I am so tender-hearted and couldn't bear to hear him groan, to say nothing of his swearing, the faculty kindly advised me to leave, and sent on before me a recommendation to the old man. But, egad! I fixed 'em. I told 'em he was in Boston, whereas he's in Chicopee, so I just took the letter from the office myself. It reads beautifully. Do you understand?"

All this time, in spite of the tobacco juice, Henry had apparently taken no notice of Billy, whom George now introduced, saying, he believed they were old acquaintances. With the coolest effrontery Henry took from his pocket a quizzing-glass, and applying it to his eye, said, "I've absolutely studied until I'm near-sighted, but I don't think I ever met this chap before."

"Perhaps, sir," said Billy haughtily, "it may refresh your memory a little to know that I was once the owner of Tasso!"

"Blast the brute!" muttered Henry, meaning Billy quite as much as the dog; then turning to George, he asked, "How long the old folks had been in Chicopee."

"Several weeks, I think," answered George; and then, either because he wanted to hear what Henry would say, or because of a re-awakened interest in Mary Howard, he continued, "By the way, Henry, when you came so unceremoniously upon us, we were speaking of a young girl in Chicopee whom you have perhaps ferreted out ere this, as Bender says she is fine-looking."

Henry stroked his whiskers, which had received far more cultivation than his brains, stuck his hat on one side and answered, "Why, yes, I suppose that in my way I was something of a b'hoy with the fair sex, but really I do not now think of more than one handsome girl in Chicopee, and that is Ella Campbell, but she is young yet, not as old as Jenny—altogether too small fry for Henry Lincoln, Esq. But who is the girl?"

Billy frowned, for he held Mary's name as too sacred to be breathed by a young man of Henry Lincoln's character, while George replied, "Her name is Mary Howard."

"What, the pauper?" asked Henry, looking significantly at Billy who replied:

"The same, sir."

"Whew-w!" whistled Henry, prolonging the diphthong to an unusual length. "Why, she's got two teeth at least a foot long, and her face looks as though she had just been in the vinegar barrel, and didn't like the taste of it."

"But without joking, though, how does she look?" asked George; while Billy made a movement as if he would help the insolent puppy to find his level.

"Well, now, old boy," returned Henry, "I'll tell you honestly that the last time I saw her I was surprised to find how much she was improved. She has swallowed those abominable teeth, or done something with them, and is really quite decent looking. In short," he continued with a malicious leer at Billy, which made the blood tingle to his fingers' end, "In short, she'll do very well for a city buck like me to play the mischief with for a summer or so, and then cast off like an old coat."

There was a look in Billy's eye as Henry finished this speech which decided that young man to make no further remarks concerning Mary, and swaggering toward the door he added: "Well, Moreland, when will you come round and take a horn of brandy? Let me know, and I'll have in some of the bloods."

"Thank you," said George, "I never use the article."

"I beg your pardon," returned Henry, in a tone of mock humility. "I remember now that you've taken to carrying a prayer book as big as an old woman's molding board, and manage to come out behind in the service about three or four lines so as to be distinctly heard; but I suppose you think it pleases the old gent, your uncle, and that furthers your cause with the daughter. By the way, present my compliments to Miss Selden, and ask her if she has any word to send to Chicopee, for I'll have to go there by and by, though I hate to mightily, for it'll be just like the old man to put me through in the hayfield; and if there's anything I abominate, it's work."

So saying he took his leave. Just then there was a call for Mr. Moreland, who also departed, leaving Billy alone. "It is very strange that she never told me she knew him," thought he; and then taking from his pocket a neatly-folded letter, he again read it through. But there was nothing in it about George, except the simple words, "I am glad you have found a friend in Mr. Moreland. I am sure I should like him, just because he is kind to you."

"Yes, she's forgotten him," said Billy, and that belief gave him secret satisfaction. He had known Mary long, and the interest he had felt in her when a homely, neglected child, had not in the least decreased as the lapse of time gradually ripened her into a fine, intelligent-looking girl. He was to her a brother still, but she to him was dearer far than a sister; and though in his letters he always addressed her as such, in his heart he claimed her as something nearer, and yet he had never breathed in her ear a word of love or hinted that it was for her sake he toiled both early and late, hoarding up his earnings with almost a miser's care that she might be educated.

Regularly each week she wrote to him, and it was the receipt of these letters and the thoughts of her that kept his heart so brave and cheerful, as, alone and unappreciated except by George, he worked on, dreaming of a bright future when the one great object of his life should be realized.

CHAPTER XVI.

In the old brown schoolhouse, overshadowed by apple trees, and sheltered, on the west by a long steep hill, where the acorns and wild grapes grew, Mary Howard taught her little flock of twenty-five, coaxing some, urging others, and teaching them all by her kind words and winsome ways to love her as they had never before loved an instructor.

When first she was proposed as a teacher in Rice Corner Widow Perkins, and a few others who had no children to send, held up their hands in amazement, wondering "what the world was comin' to," and if the committeeman, Mr. Knight, s'posed they was goin' to be rid over roughshod by a town pauper; but she couldn't get a 'stiffcut,' for the Orthodox minister wouldn't give her one; and if he did, the Unitarian minister wouldn't."

Accordingly, when it was known that the ordeal had been passed and that Mary had in her possession a piece of paper about three inches square, authorizing her to teach a common district school, this worthy conclave concluded that "either everybody had lost their senses or else Miss Mason, who was present at the examination, had sat by and whispered in her ear the answers to all hard questions."

"In all my born days I never seen anything like it," said the widow, as she distributed her green tea sweetened with brown sugar to a party of ladies, which she was entertaining. "But you'll see, she won't keep her time more'n half out—Sally Ann, pass them nutcakes. Nobody's goin' to send their children to a pauper. There's Miss Bradley says she'll take her'n out the first time they get licked. Have some more sass, Miss Dodge. I want it eat up, for I believe it's a-workin'—but I telled her that warn't the trouble, Mary's too softly to hurt a miskeeter. And so young, too. It's government she'll lack in. If anybody'll have a piece of this dried apple pie, I'll cut it."

Of course nobody wanted a piece, and one of the ladies continuing the conversation, said she supposed Mary would of course board with Mrs. Mason. The teapot lid, which chanced to be off, went on with a jerk, and with the air of a much-injured woman the widow replied: "Wall, I can tell her this much, it's no desirable job to board the schoolmarm, though anybody can see that's all made her so anxious for Mary to have the school. She's short on't and wants a little money. Do any on you know how much she charges?"

Nobody knew, but a good many "guessed she didn't charge anything," and the widow, rising from the table and telling Sally Ann to "rense the sass dishes, and pour it in the vinegar bottle," led her guests back to the best room, saying "a dollar and ninepence (her usual price) was next to nothing, but she'd warrant Miss Mason had more'n that."

Fortunately, Mary knew nothing of Mrs. Perkins' displeasure, and never dreamed that any feeling existed toward her save that of perfect friendship. Since we last saw her, she had grown into a fine, healthy-looking girl. Her face and figure were round and full, and her complexion, though still rather pale, was clear as marble contrasting well with her dark-brown hair and eyes, which no longer seemed unnaturally large. Still, she was not beautiful, it is true, and yet Billy was not far from right when he called her the finest-looking girl in Chicopee; and it was for this reason, perhaps, that Mrs. Campbell watched her with so much jealousy.

Every possible pains had been taken with Ella's education. The best teachers had been hired to instruct her, and she was now at a fashionable seminary, but still she did not possess one-half the ease and gracefulness of manner which seemed natural to her sister. Since the day of that memorable visit the two girls had seen but little of each other. Ella would not forgive Mrs. Mason for praising Mary, nor forgive Mary for being praised; and as Mrs. Campbell, too, pretended to feel insulted, the intercourse between the families gradually ceased; and often times when Ella met her sister she merely acknowledged her presence by a nod, or a simple "how d'ye do?"

When she heard that Mary was to be a teacher she said, "she was glad, for it was more respectable than going into a factory or working out." Mrs. Campbell, too, felt in duty bound to express her pleasure, adding that "she hoped Mary would give satisfaction, but 'twas extremely doubtful, she was so young, and possessed of so little dignity!"

Unfortunately Widow Perkins' red cottage stood directly opposite the schoolhouse; and as the widow belonged to that stirring few who always "wash the breakfast dishes, and make the beds before any one is up in the house," she had ample leisure to watch and report the proceedings of the new teacher. Now, Mrs. Perkins' clock was like its mistress, always start an hour in advance of the true time, and Mary had scarcely taught a week ere Mr. Knight, "the committeeman," was duly hailed in the street, and told that the "schoolmarm wanted lookin' to, for she didn't begin no mornin' till half-past nine, nor no afternoon till half-past one! Besides that," she added, "I think she gives 'em too long a play spell. Anyways, seem's ef some o' 'em was out o' doors the hull time."

Mr. Knight had too much good sense to heed the widow's complaints, and he merely replied, "I'm glad on't. Five hours is enough to keep little shavers cramped up in the house—glad on't."

The widow, thus foiled in her attempts at making disturbance, finally gave up the strife, contenting herself with quizzing the older girls, and asking them if Mary could do all the hard sums in arithmetic, or whether she took them home for Mrs. Mason to solve! Old leathern-bound Daboll, too, was brought to light, and its most difficult problems selected and sent to Mary, who, being an excellent mathematician, worked them all out, to the widow's astonishment. But when it was known that quill pens had been discarded, and steel ones substituted in their place, Mrs. Perkins again looked askance, declaring that Mary couldn't make a quill pen, and by way of testing the matter, Sally Ann was sent across the road with a huge bunch of goose quills, which "Miss Howard" was politely requested "to fix, as ma wanted to write some letters."

Mary candidly confessed her ignorance, saying she had never made a pen in her life; and the next Sabbath the widow's leghorn was missed from its accustomed pew in the Unitarian church, and upon inquiry, it was ascertained that "she couldn't in conscience hear a man preach who would give a 'stiffcut' to a girl that didn't know how to make a pen!"

In spite, however, of these little annoyances, Mary was contented and happy. She knew that her pupils loved her and that the greater part of the district were satisfied, so she greeted the widow with her pleasantest smile, and by always being particularly polite to Sally Ann, finally overcame their prejudices to a considerable extent.

One afternoon about the middle of July, as Mrs. Perkins was seated by her front window engaged in "stitching shoes" a very common employment in some parts of New England, her attention was suddenly diverted by a tall, stylish-looking young man, who, driving his handsome horse and buggy under the shadow of the apple trees, alighted and entered into conversation with a group of little girls who were taking their usual recess. Mrs. Perkins' curiosity was roused, and Sally Ann was called to see who the stranger was. But for a wonder Sally Ann didn't know, though she "guessed the hoss was one of the East Chicopee livery."

"He's talkin' to Liddy Knight," said she, at the same time holding back the curtain, and stepping aside so as not to be visible herself.

"Try if you can hear what he's sayin'," whispered Mrs. Perkins: but a cross of boys in the schoolhouse just then struck into the multiplication table, thus effectually drowning anything which Sally Ann might otherwise have heard.

"I know them children will split their throats. Can't they hold up a minute," exclaimed Mrs. Perkins, greatly annoyed at being thus prevented from overhearing a conversation, the nature of which she could not even guess.

But as some other Widow Perkins may read this story, we will for her benefit repeat what the young man was saying to Lydia Knight, who being nearest to him was the first one addressed.

"You have a nice place for your schoolhouse and playgrounds."

"Yes, sir," answered Lydia, taking her sunbonnet and taking up a small, round stone between her polished toes.

"Do you like to go to school?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you a good teacher?"

"Yes, sir."

"What is her name?"

"Miss Howard—Mary Howard, and she lives with Miss Mason."

"Mary Howard—that's a pretty name—is she pretty too?"

"Not so dreadful," chimed in Susan Bradley. "She licked brother Tim, today, and I don't think she's much pretty."

This speech quickly called out the opinion of the other girls as follows:

"He ought to be licked, for he stole a knife and then lied about it; and Miss Howard is real pretty and you needn't say she ain't, Susan Bradley."

"Yes, indeed, she's pretty, rejoined a second. Such handsome eyes, and little white hands."

"What color are her eyes?" asked the stranger, to which two replied, "blue," and three more said "black;" while Lydia Knight, who was the oldest of the group, finally settled the question by saying that "they sometimes looked blue; but if she was real pleased, or sorry either, they turned black!"

The stranger smiled and said, "Tell me more about her. Does she ever scold, or has she too pretty a mouth for that?"

"No, she never scolds," said Della Frost, "and she's got the nicest white teeth, and I guess she knows it, too, for she shows them a great deal."

"She's real white, too," rejoined Lydia Knight, "though pa says she used to be yaller as saffron."

Here there was a gentle rap upon the window, and the girls starting off, exclaimed, "There, we must go in."

"May I go, too?" asked the stranger, following them to the door.

The girls looked at each other, then at him, then at each other again, and at last Lydia said, "I don't care, but I guess Miss Howard will be ashamed, for 'twas Sake Bradley's turn to sweep the schoolhouse this noon time, and she wouldn't do it, 'cause Tim got licked."

"Never mind the schoolhouse," returned the stranger, "but introduce me as Mr. Stuart."

Lydia had never introduced anybody in her life, and following her companions, who had, she left Mr. Stuart standing in the doorway. With her usual politeness, Mary came forward and received the stranger, who gave his name as Mr. Stuart, saying "he felt much interested in common schools, and therefore had ventured to call."

Offering the seat of honor, viz., the splint-bottomed chair, Mary resumed her usual duties, occasionally casting a look of curiosity at the stranger, whose eyes seemed constantly upon her. It was rather warm that day, and when Mary returned from her dinner Widow Perkins was greatly shocked at seeing her attired in a light pink muslin dress, the short sleeves of which showed to good advantage her round white arms. A narrow velvet ribbon confined by a small brooch, and a black silk apron, completed her toilet, with the exception of a tiny locket, which was suspended from her neck by a slender gold chain. This last ornament immediately riveted Mr. Stuart's attention, and from some strange cause sent the color quickly to his face. After a time, as if to ascertain whether it were really a locket, or a watch, he asked "if Miss Howard could tell him the hour?"

"Certainly, sir," said she, and stepping to the desk and consulting a silver time-piece about the size of a dining-plate, she told him that it was half-past three.

He nodded, and seemed very much interested in two little boys who sat near him, engaged in the laudable employment of seeing which could snap spittle the farthest and the best.

Just then there was a movement at the door, and a new visitor appeared in the person of Mrs. Perkins, who with her large feather fan and flounced gingham dress, entered smiling and bowing, and saying, "she had been trying all summer to visit the school."

Mr. Stuart immediately arose and offered his chair, but there was something in his manner which led Mary to suppose that an introduction was not at all desired, so she omitted it, greatly to the chagrin of the widow, who declining the proffered seat, squeezed herself between Lydia Knight and another girl, upsetting the inkstand of the one, and causing the other to make a curious character out of the letter "X" she chanced to be writing.

"Liddy, Liddy," she whispered, "who is that man?"

But Lydia was too much engrossed with her spoiled apron to answer this question, and she replied with, "Marm, may I g'wout? I've spilled the ink all over my apron."

Permission, of course, was granted, and as the girl who sat next knew nothing of the stranger, Mrs. Perkins began to think she might just as well have stayed at home and finished her shoes, "But," thought she, "maybe I shall find out after school."

Fortune, however, was against the widow, for scarcely was her feather fan in full play, when Sally Ann came under the window, and punching her back with a long stick, told her in a loud whisper that "she must come right home, for Uncle Jim and Aunt Dolly had just come from the cars."

Accordingly, Mrs. Perkins, smoothing down her gingham flounces, and drawing on her cotton gloves, arose to go, asking Mary as she passed, "if that was an acquaintance of hers."

Mary shook her head, and the widow, more puzzled than ever, took her leave.

When school was out Mr. Stuart who seemed in no haste whatever, entered into a lively discussion with Mary concerning schools and books, adroitly managing to draw her out upon all the leading topics of the day. At last the conversation turned upon flowers; and when Mary chanced to mention Mrs. Mason's beautiful garden he instantly expressed a great desire to see it, and finally offered to accompany Mary home, provided she had no objections. She could not, of course, say no, and the Widow Perkins, who, besides attending to "Uncle Jim" and "Aunt Dolly," still found time to watch the schoolhouse, came very near letting her buttermilk biscuit burn to a cinder, when she saw the young man walking down the road with Mary. Arrived at Mrs. Mason's, the stranger managed to make himself so agreeable that Mrs. Mason invited him to stay to tea— an invitation which he readily accepted. Whoever, he was, he seemed to understand exactly how to find out whatever he wished to know; and before tea was over he had learned of Mary's intention to attend the academy in Wilbraham, the next autumn.

"Excuse me for making a suggestion," said he, "but why not go to Mount Holyoke? Do you not think the system of education there a most excellent one?"

Mary glanced at Mrs. Mason, who replied that "she believed they did not care to take a pupil at South Hadley for a less period than a year, and as Mary was entirely dependent upon herself, she could not at present afford that length of time."

"That does make a difference," returned Mr. Stuart, "but I hope she will not give up Mount Holyoke entirely, as I should prefer it to Wilbraham."

Tea being over, Mr. Stuart arose to go; and Mary, as she accompanied him to the door, could not forbear asking how he liked Mrs. Mason's garden, which he had forgotten even to look at.

Blushing deeply, he replied, "I suppose Miss Howard has learned ere this that there are in the world things fairer and more attractive than flowers, but I will look at them when I come again;" then politely bidding her good-night he walked away, leaving Mary and Mrs. Mason to wonder—the one what he came there for, and the other whether he would ever come again. The widow too, wondered and fidgeted as the sun went down behind the long hill, and still under the apple trees the gray pony stood.

"It beats all nater what's kept him so long," said she, when he at last appeared, and unfastening his horse, drove off at a furious rate: "but if I live I'll know all about it to-morrow;" and with this consolatory remark, she returned to the best room and for the remainder of the evening devoted herself to the entertainment of Uncle Jim and his wife, Aunt Dolly.

That evening, Mr. Knight, who had been to the post office, called at Mrs. Mason's, bringing with him a letter which bore the Boston postmark. Passing it to Mary, he winked at Mrs. Mason, saying, "I kinder guess how all this writin' works will end; but hain't there been a young chap to see the school-

GOOD ADVICE TO INVESTORS

Put some of your money into the new gold fields of Larder Lake, Northern Ontario.

It is going to make more money for investors than any gold district ever before known in the history of gold mining.

Don't wait or put it off another day, DO IT NOW. Every dollar you invest at the present time will return to you a hundredfold, buy and hold, follow our advice, buy shares of the HIGHLAND MARY GOLD MINES, LIMITED, of Larder Lake, at the present price, 10c per share. If you buy now at this price you can never be called upon to pay anything more, as the shares are fully paid and are forever non-assessable. The shares of Highland Mary will never sell for less than the present price, but every share you buy now will, we believe, eventually be worth a hundred times more.

Our previous advertisements have stated that the Highland Mary Gold Mines were situated at Larder Lake, the new gold fields of Northern Ontario, and consist of thirty well-located, forty-acre gold claims, 1,200 acres in all, located on the north-east arm of the Lake, in the same locality as the Dr. Reddick properties—The Proprietaries Gold Fields Company, the Lucky Boys and the Blue Bell Companies—and that there were no indebtedness or encumbrances: that many great gold-bearing veins were found on the property; that engineers and miners estimated that there were many thousands of tons of ore that would produce millions of dollars in gold available, and only waiting for the installation of the stamp mills that are to be installed.

We have also stated that when we advise investments in Highland Mary, and make the statements regarding that Company and the Larder Lake district, that we know what we are doing. We have been all Summer with our engineers and assayers in the Larder Lake Gold Fields, making thorough examinations; we have spent thousands of dollars in the last three months in this manner for the purpose of satisfying ourselves, beyond any doubt or question, that the Larder Lake district is what is claimed for it; and, further, we have spent this money and satisfied ourselves in order that we might not mislead our clients, who rely upon us and make investments through our advice.

We have done everything in the way of ascertaining facts that could be done or that could be desired of us by our clients. Our business is to select good, profitable investments that we can recommend without reservation. Thousands of letters from satisfied clients testify that our efforts are successful. That has been the principle and policy of the house of Law and Company for the past seventeen years. "Be sure you are right, then go ahead," has been our motto, and the results from the investments made by thousands of clients is a standing recommendation as to whether having followed this policy and motto has proven profitable to the investors.

We have heretofore made this statement, and we now make it again: Any investor who has invested money through Law and Company, since their house was established in 1890, through any misrepresentations or misstatements, can, by making such fact known to us, receive the return of the amount invested, together with interest thereon. We have never been called upon to return a single dollar, and have never had such a claim made, and we do not believe there will be regarding any representation or statement made by us up to the present time. We know that we have always adhered to the truth and proclaimed the facts as we have found them.

We probably do as large a business as any financial brokerage house in Canada. It is growing rapidly. Our responsibility and integrity in the business world is beyond reproach. Investors who have done business with us in the past have learned to rely absolutely upon our advice regarding investments in mining shares.

We were the first to offer shares in companies owning properties of established values in the Larder Lake district. At the very outset we placed our engineers and assayers in the field. We obtained exhaustive and reliable reports. We then came out boldly over our signatures and told the world what was there. Our advertisements told the world of the golden north, and predicted the great stampede which followed. World-famed mining engineers and mining experts of Europe and America have since visited the Larder Lake camp, and have not only confirmed the reports sent out by our own trustworthy engineers, but have endorsed all that we have claimed for Larder Lake, as to its present and future.

Take our advice and act quickly. Place all the money you can in shares of the Highland Mary. It is the best stock at the present time to buy. Do you ever consider that one hundred, five hundred, or one thousand dollars placed in a bank, at three to four per cent. interest per annum, must stay there something like twenty years to double itself, and even then would you have had any pleasure, enjoyment or luxury from it, or through its benefits? Certainly not, but perhaps someone else would. It might be invested over and over again by someone who would make many thousands of dollars through investing it in profitable undertakings. You certainly understand that no concern could afford to pay you interest unless they have the legitimate privilege of using it in order to make a profit over and above what would have to be paid to you for the use of it. If you have not thought of this, you should understand it now, and you should understand further that you could take your own money and make investments with it, in this the greatest of countries for profitable investments, and make as much money with it as anyone else could, and receive the pleasures, enjoyments and luxuries from the great profits therefrom, instead of the other fellow.

Put some money in the Highland Mary. You won't lose, you will make big money, and you won't be long doing it. One eminent engineer from London, who ought to know what he is talking about, says that Larder Lake mining shares will advance to a higher level than did the shares of gold companies in the Rand of South Africa, where some of them advanced to over $500.00 per share.

It has been estimated by engineers and mining experts who have visited Larder Lake, and have made conservative calculations that there is already ore that can be counted upon as available in the Larder Lake District, containing more value than the total capitalization of all the Larder Lake companies.

We say again, buy HIGHLAND MARY, and buy it quick, before the big advance that is sure to come.

-ter; how did you know it?" returned Mrs. Mason, while Mary blushed more deeply than she did when Billy's letter was handed her.

"Why, you see," answered Mr. Knight, "I was about at the foot of the Blanchard hill, when I see a buggy coming like John. Just as it got agin me it kinder slackened, and the fore wheel ran off smack and scissers."

"Was he hurt?" quickly asked Mary.

"Not a bit on't," said Mr. Knight, "but he was scared some, I guess. I got out and helped him, and when he heard I's from Rice Corner, he said he'd been into school. Then he asked forty-leven questions about you, and jest as I was settin' you up high, who should come a canterin' up with their long-tailed gowns, and hats like men, but Ella Campbell and a great white-eyed pucker that came home with her from school. Either Ella's horse was scary or she did it a purpose, for the minit she got near it began to rare, and she would have fell off if that man hadn't catched it by the bit, and held her on with t'other hand. I allus was the most sanguinary of men" (Mr. Knight was never so far wrong in his life, "and I was building castles about him and our little schoolmarm, when Ella came along, and I gin it up, for I see that he was took, and she did look handsome with her curls a flyin'. Well, as I wasn't of no more use, I whipped up old Charlotte and come on."

"When did Ella return?" asked Mary, who had not before heard of her sister's arrival.

"I don't know," said Mr. Knight, "The first I see of her was cuttin' through the streets on the dead run; but I mustn't stay here gabbin', so good-night, Miss Mason—good night, Mary—hope you've got good news in that ar letter."

The moment he was gone Mary ran up to her room to read her letter, from which we give the following extract: "You must have forgotten George Moreland, or you would have mentioned him to me. I like him very much indeed, and yet I could not help feeling a little jealous when he manifested so much interest in you. Sometimes, Mary, I think that for a brother I am getting too selfish, and do not wish any one to like you except myself, but I surely need not feel so toward George, the best friend I have in Boston. He is very kind, lending me books, and has even offered to use his influence in getting me a situation in one of the best law offices in the city."

After reading this letter Mary sat for a long time thinking of George Moreland—of the time when she first knew him—of all that William Bender had been to her since—and wondering, as girls sometimes will, which she liked the best. Billy unquestionably had the strongest claim to her love, but could he have known how much satisfaction she felt in thinking that George still remembered and felt interested in her, he would have had some reason for fearing, as he occasionally did, that she would never be to him aught save a sister.

CHAPTER XVII.

The day following Mr. Stuart's visit was Saturday, and as there was no school Mary decided to call upon her sister, whom she had not seen for some months. Mrs. Mason, who had some shopping to do in the village, offered to accompany her, and about two in the afternoon they set forward in Mr. Knight's covered buggy. The roads were smooth and dry, and in a short time they reached the bridge near the depot. A train of cars, bound for Boston was just going out, and from one of the windows Mr. Stuart was looking, and waving his hand toward Mary, who bowed in token of recognition.

The sight and sound of the cars made "old Charlotte," whom Mrs. Mason was driving, prick up her ears and feet, too, and in a few moments she carried her load to the village. Leaving Mrs. Mason at the store, Mary proceeded at once to Mrs. Campbell's. She rang the door bell a little timidly, for the last time she saw her sister she had been treated with so much coldness that she now felt some anxiety with regard to the reception she was likely to meet.

"Is Miss Campbell at home?" she asked of the girl who answered her ring.

"Yes, she's at home," replied the girl, "but is busy dressing for company."

"Tell her her sister is here, if you please. I won't detain her long," said Mary, trying hard to shake off the tremor which always came upon her when she found herself in Mrs. Campbell's richly-furnished house.

Conducting Mary into the parlor, the girl departed with her message to Ella, who, together with the young lady whom Mr. Knight had styled a "white-eyed pucker," but whose real name was Elisa Porter, was dressing in the chamber above. The door of the room was open, and from her position Mary could hear distinctly every word which was uttered.

"Miss Ella," said the girl, "your sister is in the parlor, and wants to see you."

"My sister," repeated Ella, "oh, forlorn! What brought her here to-day? Why didn't you tell her I wasn't at home?"

"I never told a lie in my life," answered the honest servant girl, while Miss Porter in unfeigned surprise said, "Your sister! I didn't know you had one. Why doesn't she live at home?"

Concealment was no longer possible, and in a half-vexed, half-laughing tone, Ella replied, "Why, I thought you knew that I was an orphan whom Mrs. Campbell adopted years ago."

"You an orphan!" returned Miss Porter. "Well, if I ever! Who adopted your sister?"

"A poor woman in the country," was Ella's answer.

Miss Porter, who was a notorious flatterer, replied, "I must see her, for if she is anything like you I shall love her instantly."

"Oh, she isn't like me," said Ella, with a curl of her lip. "She's smart enough, I suppose, but she hasn't a bit of polish or refinement. She doesn't come here often, and when she does I am always in a fidget, for fear some of the city girls will call, and she'll do something outre."

"I guess, then, I won't go down, at least not till I'm dressed," answered Miss Porter; and Ella, throwing on a dressing gown descended to the parlor, where she met her sister with the ends of her fingers, and a simple, "Ah, Mary, how do ye do? Are you well?"

After several commonplace remarks Ella at last asked, "How did you know I was at home?"

"Mr. Knight told me," said Mary.

"Mr. Knight," repeated Ella; "and pray, who is he? I don't believe he's on my list of acquaintances."

"Do you remember the man who married me to the poorhouse?" asked Mary.

"Hush—sh!" said Ella, glancing nervously toward the door. "There is a young lady upstairs, and it isn't necessary for her to know you've been a pauper."

By this time Miss Porter was dressed. She was very fond of display, and wishing to astonish the "country girl" with her silks and satins, came rustling into the parlor.

"My sister," said Ella carelessly.

Miss Porter nodded, and then throwing herself languidly upon the sofa, looked down the street, as if expecting some one. At last, supporting herself on her elbow she lisped out, "I don't believe that he'th coming, for here 'tith after four!"

"'Tisn't likely he'll stay in the graveyard all night," returned Ella. "I wish we'd asked him whose graves he was going to visit, don't you?" Then, by way of saying something more to Mary she continued: "Oh, you ought to know what an adventure I had yesterday. It was a most miraculous escape, for I should certainly have been killed, if the most magnificent-looking gentleman you ever saw hadn't caught me just in time to keep Beauty from throwing me. You ought to see his eyes; they were perfectly splendid!"

Mary replied that she herself thought he had rather handsome eyes.

"You! where did you ever see him?" asked Ella.

"He visited my school yesterday afternoon."

"Oh, no, that can't be the one," returned Ella, while Miss Porter too, said:

The Making of a Successful Wife

By CASPER S. YOST.

MANAGEMENT OF A MAN.—Feed Him Well and Make Him Comfortable at Home—The Average Man Isn't Hard to Satisfy—And Don't Forget the Little Evidences of Love.

[Copyright, 1906, by Casper S. Yost.]

MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL—I got your letter just as I was starting to make a bee line for the train, and as I had to make a long jump this trip I've had no opportunity to reply until this very minute. I read it through as soon as I got on board, and then I laid back on my seat and laughed all to myself. Now, don't get excited, my dear. I wasn't laughing at you. Not a bit of it. But the serious problems which you imagine are just about to overwhelm you right at the beginning of your married life remind me so much of the same worries that encompassed your mother "all round about" like the little old woman's petticoat. And the cause of it all was me—me, your respected and revered and much beloved old dad. You wouldn't hardly believe it, now, would you? But it's a fact, my little sweetheart, and, gee whillikens, what a load she did think she had. Why, I'd be willing to bet a bushel of Ben Davis apples against a peck of railroad doughnuts that she'd have traded me off for a counterfeit half dollar with a hole in it three months after we were married. She never would admit it, of course. She was too sweet and gentle and good hearted. And then she really thought a heap of me, even when I was furthest below par in her estimation.

But it's that way nearly all the time, my little girl. The trouble with you women is that you pick out a man and then, before you're married to him, you build a high pedestal of marble or onyx or something equally fine, and you carve pictures in bold relief all around the sides illustrating his transcendent virtues, just like the monuments you see in the parks to the heroes who "fit," bled and plundered for their country. Then you put the man on top of this beautiful pile, and you look up at him with your hands clasped and your eyes moonin' like a calf with the colic, and you say, "My, ain't he beautiful," or, "Oh, ain't he awful nice," or some such emphatic and forcible expression of feminine adoration. You don't have a chance to get a real, genuine assay of him, and you think he's all gold and studded around with dinmonds like a birthday ring. Then you get married and you climb up beside him and you make the terrible discovery that his feet are clay; also his hands and likewise his head. In other words, you find that he's just plain garden mud. And then you proceed to have a fit. You don't say, "Woe is me!" nor beat your breast, nor raise the neighborhood with your cries, like they used to do in the three volume novels. Such crudities are no longer fashionable. You do things differently nowadays, but your methods are just as effective.

On a pedestal.

When the Man is Miffed.

And all this time the man is standing around on one foot with a face as long and as solemn as the president's message, wondering what in the dickens is the matter. Sometimes, by way of diversion, he goes in the other room and kicks over a chair or sneaks out into the back yard and throws rocks at the chickens. I have a kind of a recollection that I did something of that sort myself. You see, my dear, the man doesn't know that he has been set up on a pedestal; he has just been going along attending to his own business same as usual, thinking himself a pretty fair average of a man and letting it go at that. That's the way it's been with Bill. I had a pretty good chance to size him up while I was loafing around home waiting for the wedding to come off, and it was my judgment then, and my opinion hasn't changed, that he's all right. He's a man, and that's all any woman can reasonably expect. I don't want any cherubims or seraphims in my family, and you'd find life pretty uncomfortable if you had one of them for a husband.

Compared with a good woman a good man is mighty small potatoes, but when it comes to getting married there isn't anything better available, and so you women are just obliged to take them and do the best you can with them. And that, little girl, is the point I want to get at. That's just what you want to do with Bill—or William, if you prefer it. A man is just a piece of soft clay in a woman's hands, and whether he ranks A1 or double naught as a husband depends a good deal on how she handles him. Yes, that places a pretty considerable responsibility on the woman, but you needn't blame me. I didn't have anything to do with laying out this arrangement. It's that way, and I reckon the Lord knows what he's about. Of course some men are too soft and some too tough to do anything with, but the most of them are plastic enough for practical purposes, and I'm satisfied your William's one of the majority.

"Your Material is Mud."

It's up to you, sweetheart, to take the material you have and make a good husband out of it. Don't expect nor try to do more than that. Don't attempt to mold him into a figure of Gabriel tooting a trombone. Don't try to put too many fine lines in your model. If you do, the whole blamed thing will come to pieces, and then, little girl, you can never, never put it together again. Just remember that your material is mud, and mud, even in the hands of an expert modeler, has its limitations. Restrain your ambition to the point of making a good husband, and when you have accomplished that be satisfied with keeping him so.

How? Oh, my dear little girl, you have a better counselor than I right at home. I'm not saying that your mother did a very good job with me, but, bless her heart, it wasn't because she didn't know how. The trouble was with the material. She can tell you much more and much better than I can what and how to do. And yet there are some pointers I can give you that may be of value to you, mainly because they will enable you to get a view of things from a man's standpoint. I have intimated that a man is pretty generally what women make him. His mother gives him his start in character building, and his wife puts on the finishing touches, but it isn't good policy to let him know that you are working on him. A good deal has been said about the contrariness of woman, but she isn't really in the same class with a man if he thinks somebody is trying to improve him. So whatever you make up your mind to do with William, don't, for heaven's sake, give him a hint of your designs, and, as I said before, don't try to do too much.

Fill him up and he'll lean back and beam at you.

The Most Important Point.

In the first place, my dear, you'd better get the fact buried in the middle of your gray matter and keep it there that the most important point in the making of a good husband is the making of a good wife. That takes time and experience, but two processes can go along side by side, for you needn't expect Billy to be ready for the last coat of varnish by day after tomorrow. No, indeedy, little girl, you can't turn out finished husbands like you can hot waffles, and speaking of waffles brings me right back to the starting point in the home industry I'm talking about. That's a little matter of feed. It's a fact so old that even Eve got a hint of it that the first principle in the management of a man is the satisfaction of his stomach. Whatever else he may be, no matter how full of brains his head, he's an animal and he wants to be fed. Why, I've seen the greatest apostles of the doctrines of sweetness and light sit down to the table and eat like a blue ribbon porker with his feet in the trough. Yet comparatively few women appreciate the importance of this fact, and many a home is ruined by the theory that anything that happens to be handiest will do for dinner. It won't. Give him the best his income will afford and see to it yourself that it is properly cooked. The average man isn't hard to satisfy. He doesn't hanker after the strange and weird dishes you'll find in the cook books. He doesn't care for airy waiters and delicate ices. He only wants something plain and substantial and filling, like roast beef or bacon or ham and eggs or something equally gross and just as bully. Fill him up with such truck and then he'll lean back and beam at you like the father of a first baby—that is, if it's cooked right. If the steak comes to the breakfast table fried hard, if the eggs are swimming in grease or the biscuits heavy enough to use as weights on the cuckoo clock, he's got a kick coming. And it will come. It may not be just then. He may keep it to himself until he collects an assortment and then let out all at once. But sooner or later the kick will come, and the longer he holds it in the harder it will come out. So, my dear, I say to you solemnly and prayerfully, see to it personally that William is well fed. Maybe that's what's the matter with him now. Maybe he's already got the grouch of the underfed or the badly fed. Better figure on that a little, my dear.

And then, little girl, make home so comfortable and so pleasant that he won't want to leave it, except to go downtown and hustle like a good fellow for the woman who presides over it. When I see a man jump for his hat when the quitting bell rings and make a bee line for the first car that will get him home I say to myself: "That fellow doesn't have to go chasin' around nights lookin' for amusement. He's got all he wants at home." And when a man has that he's bound to be contented, and, being contented, he's bound to be happy, and, being happy, he's bound to be good natured, and, being good natured, he's bound to be a good husband if he's rightly managed on the intellectual side. I'll have a word to say on that side presently. It's the purely physical side you want to look after first. After he's been fed let him have his easy chair, his slippers and his cigar. Don't keep everything so spick and span and shiny and straight up and down that he's afraid to sit down anywhere because he might disarrange a piece of battenberg or a sofa pillow. What women call a good housekeeper isn't always a good wife, not by a long shot. If a man has to sit up in a spindle back new art chair as stiff as a re-enforced billiard cue he's going to sigh for something different, and the first thing you know he'll be sneaking out on business about three nights in the week. No, my dear, let Bill feel that right at home he can get more solid comfort than he can have anywhere else on earth, and you've got him anchored for keeps.

He Married a Companion.

And yet that isn't everything. For instance, if you were to fall into the habit of strolling over to a neighbor's every evening while he reads the papers he'd have good cause to grumble and probably would. He married to get a companion, not just a housekeeper, and he wants you with him, not all of the time, but most of the time, when he's at home. He wants you to sit on the other side of the table by the fireside; he wants to read to you or have you read to him; he wants to gossip with you just like pals; he wants to tell you of his hopes and ambitions; he wants you to help him in his struggle with the world by your sympathy, your encouragement and your advice; he wants to hear your troubles—not the endless repetition of the daily string of annoyances which come to every wife, but the real troubles, the problems which you find it hard to solve for yourself. And, over and above all, little girl, he wants to feel the gentle caress in touch and speech; the little evidences of the love that does not die with the honeymoon, but lives on and grows stronger and stronger with each passing year.

Soggy rolls and weak coffee.

That's the intellectual side, sweetheart. That's the side that gives married life its sweetness and beauty and makes home a home of happiness, but it will peter out mighty fast under a diet of soggy rolls and weak coffee. Just remember that, little girl; just remember that. Your affectionate dad, JOHN SNEED.

Hubby (returning from his club at 3 a. m. and finding his wife, dressed in widow's weeds, awaiting him)—What on earth are you in mourning for?

"My late husband," came the tearful reply.

Humor and Philosophy

THE RIDE FOR THE MASSES.

The auto is my trolley car,
It nicely fits my pile,
My chauffeur is the motorman
Who takes me round in style.
I hand my nickel to the man
Who comes to take the fare,
And off we whiz for miles and miles
Without a thought of care.

Sometimes he hurries me along
Down through the busy street
Where all is bustle, life and stir
And hurrying of feet.
At other times our path is where
The country stretches wide,
Where fields of grain and pasture lands
Lie fair on either side.

We never with a sudden stop
Lie dead along the way
And have to patch a punctured tire
And think of things to say.
We never have to crawl below
An acting up machine,
Nor worry over our supply
Of precious gasoline.

Of course I do not occupy
All by myself a car,
For others come and others go—
There is no social bar.
And that's the beauty of the thing,
The ride to all is free
Who have the very modest price
And want to go with me.

Wouldn't Have Taken Chances.

"Gerald is quite a poet."

"A poet! Why didn't you tell me before?"

"I supposed you knew it."

"Not much I didn't! Why, I have just loaned him some money."

Laughable Forgetfulness.

As Sheridan Knowles, the dramatist, was walking down the Strand one day with a friend he stopped to greet a gentleman, who, however, received him very coldly. "Do you know," said he to Knowles, "that you owe me an apology?"

"An apology! What for?" asked the dramatist.

"For not keeping that dinner engagement you had with me last Thursday. I had a number of people to meet you, and you never came or even sent an explanation of your absence."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" exclaimed Knowles. "I've such a memory that I forgot all about the affair; forgive me and invite me to another dinner."

It was then arranged that he should dine with the gentleman on the following Wednesday, and in order to secure against the engagement being again forgotten he there and then recorded it in his diary. On rejoining his friend he told him the story of his lapse of memory.

"Who is the gentleman?" asked the friend.

"Well, I'm blessed!" cried Sheridan Knowles. "I have forgotten his name."

"That's funny," said the friend, "but you can easily find it out by referring to the directory. You know his address, of course."

"No, not even that!" roared the unhappy dramatist.

Right Breathing Cures Catarrh
Simple Way to Kill Catarrhal Germs in Nose, Throat and Lungs

The only natural and common sense method known for the cure of catarrhal troubles is Hy-o-mei. It is breathed through an ingenious pocket inhaler, so that it medicated air reaches the most remote air-cells of the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, soothing the irritated mucous membrane, and restoring a healthy condition.

Hy-o-mei goes right to the spot where the catarrh germs are present in the nose, throat and lungs and destroys the germs so that perfect health is soon restored.

A complete Hy-o-mei outfit with inhaler costs but $1.00 and is sold by Wm. Madill under guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy gives satisfaction.

Wanted the "Man."

The following story is told of the Bishop of Sodor and Man's visit to Melton Mowbray some months ago, says The Philadelphia Inquirer. A brougham awaited him at the station, and he stepped into it, expecting to be taken at once to his destination. To his surprise, however, the coachman sat motionless on the box, without the least intention, apparently, of leaving the station.

At last the bishop inquired why he was waiting.

"Well, sir," said the coachman, "I was told to wait for the Bishop of Sodor and Man. You've arrived, sir, and now I'm waiting for the man."

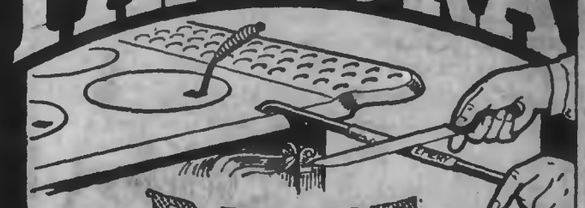
PANDORA



RANGE

A convenience much appreciated by every owner of a Pandora is the towel rod attached to the range.

As one-third of the rod is made of emery, it makes a splendid knife sharpener, too.

It's always there handy for you. You need waste no time hunting around for the easily misplaced "steel." Bright idea, eh?

An accurate thermometer is a reliable guide to successful baking, while an inaccurate one is a "cheat" of the worst kind.

Every Pandora thermometer is carefully adjusted and undergoes a practical test by heat—is proven correct before being sent out.

The figures, which show the required degree of heat necessary for the successful baking of bread, cakes, pies, etc., are plainly inscribed in black on a white enamel surface, so that they are easily readable, even when the day is dull.

If your local dealer does not sell the Pandora, write direct for free booklet.

"PICTON" FIRE INQUEST.

Blaze Resulted From Trimming Torch Can While Lighted.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—A sensation was sprung last night at Coroner Wilson's inquest into the death of George Kleskie, who died on the burning steamer Picton last Saturday, when James Kane, a laborer, residing at 86 Sherbourne street, who had been hired as a wiper at noon on Saturday by Petit, the second engineer, told in the box how he accidentally set the boat on fire.

The R. & O. Navigation .Co. officials have been in Toronto since Sunday afternoon investigating the cause of the fire, and late yesterday afternoon, after close examination, Kane admitted what he knew.

He said: "I tried to fill my lamp lighted from the oil. Somehow I dropped about a half pint of oil. The oil caught fire and a sudden blaze went up. I called to the engineer to bring a pail of water. I went there as a green hand and was not employed in this boat before."

The jury found a verdict in accordance with this evidence and added, "We find the company negligent in not enforcing discipline in the handling of the fire-fighting appliances."

ADRIFT FOR FOUR DAYS.

Fishermen on Verge of Madness When Picked Up.

North Sydney, Sept. 24—The schooner Muriel M. Young, arrived yesterday morning from the Banks, having on board Benjamin Gerrier and Patrick Nolan, two of the crew of the schooner Judique, who strayed from their vessel. For four days and nights the men were buffeted by fierce seas. When picked up they were exhausted and on the verge of madness.

The tale of hardship told by Nolan was one of the most trying heard for many days. "From Wednesday until Saturday," says Nolan, "we had no food or water. On the second day, during an awful rain, thunder and lightning storm, Gerrier ate rotten squid which he found in the bottom of the dory. Immediately he took sick and that night become delirious. The sail was carried away. Believing all hope was gone we lay down, not knowing what our end might be.

"This continued until Saturday noon when we were picked up and taken helpless from the bottom of the dory and put on board the schooner."

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Farmer Charged With Shooting His Wife In Brock Township.

Whitby, Sept. 24.—The autumn Assizes opened before Justice McMahon with a murder trial, and the further investigation of the C. P. R. collision at Myrtle last March, when two employes were killed.

The court room was crowded and the gallery filled with ladies.

Adam Ludwig, a Brock Township farmer, is to be tried for shooting the top of his wife's head off with a shotgun on July 29 last. From evidence recapitulated by the court in presenting the case to the grand jury the man must have been insane.

In the Myrtle railway case, James P. Cook, conductor of train, whose failure to cross freight special 1488 at Myrtle caused the catastrophe, is charged with manslaughter. Kyle, the engine driver, and the train despatcher, who failed to repeat the order to the operator at Myrtle, are also likely to be indicted.

CHINESE PAY POLL-TAX.

One Hundred Put Up $500 Each at Vancouver.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—A telegram has been received from Vancouver by the Department of Trade and Commerce, stating that the Empress of India has landed 500 Chinese at that port.

Of these 100 paid the poll-tax of $500 each, and 100 were Chinese returning to Canada, these being exempt from the tax.

The remaining 300 are en route to the United States or other countries.

Another Camp Victim.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—A special from Pembroke to Ottawa yesterday says: "The death of Pte. Fred Leth, a young Englishman, on Saturday evening here from typhoid fever, contracted at Petewawa camp, has again started considerable gossip. He is the third victim and at present there are seven other soldiers suffering with the same disease in the Pembroke Hospital." Complaints will be made to the Minister of Militia.

Keewatin Reported.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—The C. P. R. steamer Keewatin, bound for the lakes, where she will in future navigate, is reported in the gulf, and will proceed to Quebec to go through the process of being cut in two for the trip up the river to go through the canals.

The Assiniboia, a sister ship, has about completed that process at Quebec, and will start west in a few days.

Switchman Snuick Acquitted.

Brantford, Sept. 24.—George Snuick, G. T. R. switchman, charged with criminal negligence, causing the death of a trainman here, was honorably acquitted by Judge Hardy.

It was shown that the wreck was due to misinterpretation of the lantern signal which was given by the crew of another train in the yards.

Barge Mills on Fire.

Port Hope, Sept. 24.—The barge Mills had a narrow escape while up the lake recovering the spreads and dipper of the dredge Sir Wilfrid. Fire started around the boiler, and spread rapidly. The tug Diver was near at hand, and the fire was extinguished.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 23.—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Sept. 21 were 2879 cattle, 2525 sheep and lambs, 3289 hogs and 747 calves, while the supply offered on the market for the local trade to-day consisted of 1550 cattle, 1600 sheep and lambs, 700 hogs and 300 calves.

The offerings of cattle this month showed an increase of 300 head, as compared with a year ago, on account of the fact that pasturing thruout the country is poor, and, with feedstuffs and hay ruling at such high prices as they are at present, farmers have evidently decided not to fatten their stock, and are marketing them freely, therefore considerable half-finished cattle are coming forward and really choice beeves continue to be scarce.

There was also considerable demand from canners, and all the poor stock met with a ready sale at 1¼c to 1½c per lb. There was no demand from exporters, as calves on Saturday from Liverpool were weaker, and noted a further decline in prices of ¼c to ½c per lb., and, as they had ample stock on hand to fill their freight contracts, they were not forced to operate. Choice beeves sold at 5c to 5¼c; good at 4¾c to 4⅞c; fair at 4c to 4¼c, and lower grades at 2½c to 3½c per lb.

Lambs sold at 5½c to 5¼c, and sheep at 4c to 4¼c per lb. Receipts of calves continue fairly good for this time of year, for which the demand is good, and prices are maintained at $2 to $12 each, with a few very choice ones selling up to $15.

There have been no new developments in the hog situation since this day week, prices having ruled steady on account of smaller arrivals, and the fact that foreign advices on Canadian bacon have been somewhat firmer. There was a good demand from packers and jobbers this morning, and a fairly active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $6.25 to $6.30 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Sept. 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 6000 head; steady on good; 10c to 15c lower on common. Prime steers, $5.10 to $5.50; shipping, $5.40 to $5; butchers', $4.50 to $5.30; heifers, $3.60 to $5.50; cows, $3 to $4.60; bulls, $2.75 to $4.50; stockers and feeders, $2.75 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3.50; fresh cows and springers, steady on best; $3 lower on others; $30 to $56.

Veals—Receipts, 1000; active and 25c higher; $5 to $6.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 17,000 head; active and 5c to 10c higher; heavy, $6.25 to $6.45; mixed and yorkers, $6.30 to $6.50; pigs, $6.25 to $6.40; roughs, $5.35 to $5.75; stags, $4.25 to $4.75; dairies, $3 to $6.25.

MARCONI PLANT READY.

Wireless Messages From Canada Now on Commercial Basis.

Sydney, N.S., Sept. 24.—Signor Marconi reached Sydney yesterday morning and at once proceeded to Glace Bay to inspect his wireless telegraph station.

He said he intended remaining in Cape Breton till the station is opened, which would be in about three weeks. There was some testing to do and then they would get down to work.

"We shall have just a few friends present at the opening," he said. "We shall have some gentlemen of the press, but outside of these men we shall have no prominent men. We sent cables to the King of England and the King of Italy some time ago, when we first started, and when we begin commercial work we shall do by sending two or three messages to some of the more influential newspapers. We shall make no show about it, but go along quietly. The press people have been good to us and we shall now be good to them."

"Have you overcome all obstacles, and are you now sure of success?"

"Yes, we have surmounted all the difficulties and we are sure of success."

The inventor said the continental Morse system would be used, but if the ordinary Morse code suited better that would be used. About twenty words a minute would be the speed.

The Canadian Pacific and Western Union have connections with the station, Signor Marconi said, and he hoped to do business with both companies. Asked if the cable companies would reduce their rates, he said he would not be surprised. If they did, it would be a good thing for the public.

"The wireless messages will be received at Clifden, Ireland, with the Cornwall station as a second string, to help out Clifden.

"Bad weather will have no effect on our system, provided it does not damage our masts and poles. Lightning storms will do us no harm," said Marconi.

After the messages reach Clifden the Government lines will take hold of them. The company has a contract with the British Government and the latter will look after the company's messages. The company has also a contract with the Canadian Government, and can use the I. C. R. wires.

PROVINCE PROTESTS.

Water Cut Off at Ottawa Because Rates Are Not Paid.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—The Ontario Government has made a protest against paying the regular water rates here. The auditor for the Ontario Government Educational Department was in the city yesterday, and will consult with the chairman of the waterworks committee.

The matter came to a head when the city solicitor shut off the water ten days ago, because the rates for this year had not been paid. On the understanding that there would be some arrangement made right away, and in view of the hardships which would be caused in the schools by lack of water, the collector and city engineer agreed to have the water turned on almost immediately.

One claim made by the Government is that it should be exempt from water rates on Government property. The city's reply to this was that only Dominion Government property is exempt, and that by a special agreement with the city.

100 MILES FROM POLE.

Dr. Cook Will Make Determined Effort to Reach It.

North Sydney, Sept. 24.—The Gloucester yacht, John R. Bradley, which left here in July with Dr. Cook of New York and J. R. Bradley, the famous hunter, on an exploring trip in Greenland, is on the way here, and is expected this week.

The yacht left Dr. Cook and a Norwegian steward at Etah, 190 miles from the north pole, together with provisions. Both will take Esquimaux and dogs and make a dash for the pole.

Dr. Cook accompanied Peary on a previous trip north, and is confident of making good where Peary failed. Mrs. Cook and family are at Margaree, C. B.

NEW YORKER STABBED TO DEATH

New York Proprietor Struck Down by Unknown Hand.

FINGER PRINTS ONLY CLUE

Italian Skirt Maker Mysteriously Murdered In His Factory—Victim Received Nineteen Stiletto Wounds—Body Mutilated In Revolting Manner — Two Employes Arrested—Motive of the Crime.

New York, Sept. 24.—Eppisonio Arcara, proprietor of an East Side ladies' skirt factory, whose love affairs had been the gossip of his thirty men and women employes, was done to death in his factory on Sunday, and the body subjected to revolting treatment. His enemy, not satisfied after inflicting 18 stiletto wounds, any one or two of which would have caused death, slashed the lower limbs and removed vital organs. The police clue is two clearly defined prints of a thumb and forefinger on the jamb of the factory door. It is possible also that missing organs, as well as the stiletto with which the job was clearly done, may be discovered, but no trace of those have been found. Arcara's bookkeeper and his foreman have been detained by the police. From these and other employes some information as to the man's life may show a motive, it is expected.

Arcara was in the habit of going alone to his factory on East 107th street Sundays to plan the week's work. An employe, dropping into the place on Sunday last, found him dead on the floor of his office. There were 19 stab wounds in the breast, seven near the heart, while the subsequent mutilation was frightful, according to the coroner's physician.

When Arcara's wife died a year ago she left three children. Soon afterwards Arcara went to Palermo and married his wife's sister. Of the many stories told the police one was to the effect that the skirt man was engaged to a girl here, but was induced by his family to marry the woman in Italy. They also learned that a woman known only as "Vita," who had been Arcara's forelady for years, suddenly left his employ after the second marriage. Arcara's bookkeeper is one Castagne, and his foreman, Francesco Stilotina. The police say that the direct motive was unquestionably revenge.

Telegraphers Want Funds.

New York, Sept. 24.—The striking telegraphers have appealed to the Central Federated Union for funds. An appeal for the same cause was made by Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and met with the hearty endorsement of the meeting. For weeks there has been a strong movement in one union to donate $100,000 to the men now out.

Man Swept Overboard.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—Struck by a terrific wave, and swept overboard to death, was the fate of William Roberts, a seaman of the steamship Dominion of the Dominion Line, which arrived in port yesterday, after a stormy passage.

T. J. Rowlands, another of the crew, was hurled by the wave against the side of the ship and had two ribs broken.

PEACE IS IN SIGHT IN MOROCCO

Satisfactory Termination of Overtures by Tribesmen.

MUST SURRENDER ALL ARMS

Nineteen Kaids Appear Before Gen. Drude to Discuss New Terms—Hostilities Now at an End—Moorish Camp Was Destroyed and Tribesmen Dispersed Prior to the Settlement.

Casablanca, Sept. 24—The destruction yesterday of the Moorish camp at Sidi Brahim, south of Casablanca, and the dispersal of the tribesmen have resulted in new overtures for peace. Nineteen Kaids, representing the Oulcseeyan, Senate and Zyaida tribes, presented themselves at Gen. Drude's headquarters during the afternoon and lengthily discussed the conditions which the French commander proposed for their submission. His terms include the unconditional surrender of the Moors with all their guns, against which the Kaids are holding out, but upon which the French authorities insist.

Paris, Sept. 24.—An official despatch received here from Gen. Drude confirms the unofficial advices from Casablanca that fresh overtures for peace had been made by the Moors, but the French Government announced that it was improbable, after the previous experiences with the hostile natives, that hostilities could be suspended, pending the result of the negotiations.

Peace In Morocco.

Paris, Sept. 24.—(Later.)—Peace has been declared in Morocco.

The delegates of three important tribes have accepted the French peace overtures inaugurated yesterday, and will see that the terms of the agreements are carried out.

Hostilities are now at an end.

QUEBEC BRIDGE ENQUIRY.

Eye-Witness Says Structure Collapsed In Few Seconds.

Quebec, Sept. 24—Five to 15 seconds was the time occupied in the collapse of the Quebec Bridge, according to the evidence of witnesses of the catastrophe heard yesterday by the Royal Commission.

F. E. Cudworth, engineer in charge of the field instruments, being asked to describe the occurrence, said that at the time he was in the little house at the approach, a thousand feet away from the collapsed section. Hearing a peculiar rumbling noise, he turned about and looked over, his notice being then first attracted to the movement of the tops of the main posts and of the main post peaks.

He did not happen or have time to notice the anchor arm at the moment. The main posts assumed a succession of distinct motions. They moved sideways and then out towards the river. Then the peaks followed towards Quebec, and the posts seemed to sink straight down. The peaks apparently kept the same distance apart as they went down.

VESSEL BREAKS UP NEAR SAULT STE. MARIE

The Steamer Nimick Completely Wrecked in Lake Superior.

SIX OF THE CREW DROWNED

Boat Went Ashore at Vermillion Point In Strong Northwest Gale—Pounded to Pieces by Heavy Seas—Sudden Breakdown of Machinery — Life-Savers Rescued Eleven—Three Bodies Found.

Sault St. Marie, Sept. 24.—One of the most disastrous wrecks on the lakes this season occurred Saturday night at 11 o'clock, when the steamer Alexandra Nimick went ashore at Vermillion Point and Capt. Randall and five of the crew were drowned.

A heavy northwest gale was blowing at the time and when off the point, 13 miles above White Fish, the Nimick's machinery suddenly broke down. The steamer was driven about helpless in the waves and finally beached on the point, where the heavy pounding of the waves soon broke her to pieces.

Life-saving station No. 9 is located on the point and through the heroic efforts of the life-savers 11 of the crew were saved. They were unable to save Capt. Randall and five of the crew, who were washed ashore by the heavy seas. Early Sunday morning three bodies were washed ashore by the waves. A searching party, headed by Mate Gordon, is looking for the remaining three.

Bodies at the Soo.

The first news of the wreck was received at Grand Marais by 'phone from the scene of the wreck, and the tug Boynton of the Great Lakes Co. went to the rescue. She arrived at the Soo yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, carrying the three bodies washed ashore and 11 survivors.

The remains of the drowned sailors were taken to Ryan's undertaking rooms, where they will remain until arrangements for disposal have been made. The survivors were a bedraggled group as they got off the boat yesterday morning and reported fully the awful experience they had gone through. The story as told by the survivors differs somewhat from that received in the Soo by telegraph.

Struck and Went to Pieces.

The sailors say the steamer grounded about 7.30 o'clock Saturday evening and before being beached waves were continually washing completely over her and the ship began taking water. She was filling so rapidly that the captain deemed it best to run her ashore. This was done, but immediately upon striking the bow went to pieces, casting the men who were lost into the waves. Only those who were in the stern escaped.

A yawl boat was launched and ten men made way in her. The sailors say the chief engineer threw himself into the water and swam ashore. The drowned men were:

Capt. Randall, Algonac.
John Johnston, Glasgow, Mich.
Louis Rubey, Detroit.
Thomas Parent, Port Huron.
A fireman and a watchman, from Chicago, unknown.

Of these men Johnston and the unknown firemen were brought to the Soo yesterday morning.

The Canadians Among Survivors.

The survivors are: Gordon Tobin, mate, Amherstburg; Charles Gray, Buffalo; John Smith, Detroit; Fred Brenner, Detroit; B. B. Ewing, Doyletown, Ohio; Harry Hutton, Detroit; William Kock, Detroit; Austin McDougall, Goderich, Ont.; James Hurley, Buffalo; Frank Shaw, New Orleans; James Walwin, Detroit.

The Nimick, a wooden steamer, built in 1890, was 318 feet long, 40 feet wide, with a gross tonnage of 1,968.

Drove Over His Son.

Brantford, Sept. 24.—Lewis Williams, aged 12, son of William Williams, Indian reserve, was killed on Saturday night. He was in the field. Feeling a fit coming on he started to run to the house, but fell by the way. His father with a heavy load of grain drove over the body, the wheels fracturing the neck. The lad was subject to fits.

Strayed Away and Died.

Davidson, Sask., Sept. 24.—The body of Vernon, the two and a half year old son of W. A. Kirkwood, who strayed from the residence of Sherman Code last Tuesday, was found yesterday about six miles from the place where he was last seen. It is thought he had been dead about three days.

Son Dead; No Joy In Life.

New York, Sept. 24.—Maurice Reni, a retired merchant, aged 52 years, and his wife, yesterday were found dead in their apartments in the Bronx. A letter left by them explained that after their son Victor, 19 years old, died at Liberty, N. Y., in August a year ago, they found no joy in life.

Explorer Bruce Safe.

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 24.—William Bruce, the explorer, for whose safety much anxiety has been entertained, has arrived here.

Bruce, and his companion, H. Jalmar Johanson, established a station on the west coast of Prince Charles Island.

KILLED BY ENRAGED BULL.

President of Bee Growers' Association Meets Tragic End.

West Selkirk, Sept. 24.—A fatal accident happened at Gonor, Saturday afternoon, by which J. J. Gunn lost his life, being gored to death by an enraged bull.

Upon entering the stable to attend to the stock he found the bull loose. It immediately attacked and killed him instantly.

Mrs. Gunn came along a few minutes later, and noticing what had happened, fought the bull off with the pitchfolk and dragged Mr. Gunn out.

Mr. Gunn is widely known, especially in connection with the apiary he kept and his brand of honey. He was president of the Manitoba Bee Growers' Association.

STRIKE MAY BE AVERTED.

Leader of British Railway Men Counsels Peaceful Solution.

London, Sept. 24.—The indication yesterday rather favored the idea that a strike of the railway employes will be averted, M. Bell, M. P., the leader of the strike movement, addressing a large body of railway men at Cardiff on Sunday, adopted a very moderate tone. He explained that, even if a ballot of the workingmen favored a strike, the men would not be called out immediately, but renewed efforts would be made to induce the railway directors to reconsider their decision not to grant the demands of the men. He realized, he said, that a strike would be a terrible calamity and declared that he intended to exhaust every means to arrive at a peaceful solution of the trouble. Large meetings of railway men were held throughout the country on Sunday to discuss the situation.

OUR IMMIGRATION POLICY.

Birmingham Post Praises Work of Department at Ottawa.

London, Sept. 24.—(C. A. P.)—The Birmingham Daily Post, referring to the 91,000 emigrants to Canada this year, says the number does credit to the Immigration Department at Ottawa. Through its agencies it has brought the business of attracting population to a high degree of perfection. The Post is glad to see the tendency of its policy has been to stimulate English emigrants, rather than those from southeastern Europe. In conclusion, The Post says: "The honest serving-maid, who carries her trunk into the steerage of the Atlantic liner has a good sporting chance of driving her own carriage in Montreal or Winnipeg before she has lost the beauty of youth."

Death Thrugh Exposure.

Hamilton, Sept. 24.—The inquest on the body of the infant found in Mrs. Simpson's shed on North James street was concluded last evening without throwing any light on the identity of the mother. The verdict was that it came to its death through exposure.

Detective Huckle, one of the jurymen, wanted his colleagues to censure the police for neglecting the case.

Drowned at Driftwood.

Tobermoray, Sept. 24.—Capt. Fitzgerald, mate of the steamer Alaska, was accidentally drowned at Driftwood Cove yesterday.

A boat in which he and four others were going ashore in capsized. Fitzgerald sank in 70 feet of water.

Locomotive Explodes.

Orrville, Ohio, Sept. 24.—The boiler of a locomotive pulling a westbound Pennsylvania freight train, while running 20 miles an hour, blew up at Burton City on Sunday.

Conductor Rockhill, Brakeman Crum and Engineer Bray were killed, and Fireman Frank Biffle was probably fatally hurt.

Sir Lauder Brunton Improving.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—Sir Lauder Brunton, the distinguished English physician who was taken ill in Montreal last Thursday while on his way home to England from a tour through Canada, has successfully undergone an operation at the Montreal General Sanitarium.

FOUND DEAD ON THE RAILWAY TRACK WITH A FRACTURED SKULL

Startling Discovery is Made by Section Foreman Between Birdsalls and Hastings This Morning

HARRY KELLEY IS KILLED

One Foot Hangs Over the Rail—Jury Empanelled and Inquest Will be Held

Special Staff Correspondent.

Birdsalls, Sept. 24.—With one foot over the rail of the Grand Trunk track and his head lying towards the ditch at the side, Harry Kelly, a recent arrival from Scotland, was this morning found dead a quarter of a mile east of this station. Kelly was working as a section man on the G.T.R. only for the past month, under the foremanship of Mr. Robt. N. Ridpath, who was the first this morning to see the dead man stretched across the track.

From all appearances the unfortunate man who was just 33 years of age, was struck by train No. 11 which arrives in Peterborough each evening ing at 8.30 o'clock.

Kelly, accompanied by another sectionman named Wm. Thompson, who resides one mile east of here, walked to Hastings last night a distance of about six miles, and on the return trip he is supposed to have been struck by the train. Thompson states that he could not get Kelly to come back with him and the latter probably began the walk later.

Did Not Return

Last night he did not return to Geo. Puffer's residence, where he boarded, but not until this morning was it known that he lay dead on the tracks, when found by the section foreman.

Mr. Ridpath noticed that the wheel of the engine had passed over him and injured one foot. He must also have been struck with it, as his skull was fractured when found. Kelly has only been out here about a month.

This afternoon Coroner Gray arrived and empanelled a jury to investigate the circumstances of his death.

SNEED'S ADVICE ON MANAGEMENT OF MEN; WIFE REAL MANAGER

The "Management of a Man"—for John Sneed, in his letters on "The Making of a Successful Wife," assumes that the woman in reality is to be the manager—forms the subject of his letter, third in the series, published in the Examiner to-day. Since these letters commenced, a number of readers have spoken of them and have said they enjoyed their perusal. John Sneed carries his "little girl" — his daughter — through the course of her courtship and marraige into her home, and gives her some helpful pointers on the proper way of handling a man to get the most pleasure and greatest amount of happiness, both for herself and her husband, out of life. Read the letter to-day on page four.

WOMAN MURDERS HER THREE CHILDREN

Strangles Them to Death and Then Tells Her Husband

Examiner Special.

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 24. — Mrs. Bertha Mund, 37 years old, wife of Fred Mund, murdered her three children about 8 o'clock this morn by strangling. The slaughtered children were, Christian, 8 years old; Helen, 2 years old, and Fred A., 8 months old. The children were all sleeping when their mother destroyed them. After killing the children Mrs. Mund went to the Pennsylvania Round House, where her husband works and told him she had killed the children. She was taken to police headquarters. She is believed to be insane.

PETERBOROUGH'S PROSPERITY IS NOT ON THE WANE, SAYS A BUSINESS MAN

"All this talk about Peterborough's era of prosperity being about to end is all rot," said a business man to the Examiner to-day. He went on to point out that there were apparently a number of faint-hearted persons in this city who, somehow, the did not know how, had gotten the idea that there was a period of depression in store for this city. So far as he could see, there was abundant reason to believe that the prosperity which had characterized the past few years in Peterborough would be continued—increased, in fact—in the future.

ENVELOPED BY STEAM FROM AN ENGINE; GIRL STUMBLED AND FELL

A young lady working at the C. G. E. Works had a narrow escape from death at noon to-day, when crossing the C.P.R. tracks just east of Park street. A freight train was standing over the street, and passed the sidewalk, which necessitated the people walking around the engine. In doing so they had to walk between the engine and a row of cars on a siding. A number of people passed around in safety, and two girls were passing between the cars and the engine, which had just started. At every movement of the piston a great volume of steam is forced out from each side of the engine, sometimes when it is starting. Just as the girls were passing, a cloud of steam suddenly enveloped them, and, becoming frightened, they began to run, but the second, being too eager, fell to the ground. The space between the stationary and moving cars was only three or four feet, and the cloud of steam did not lift for nearly a minute. The first young lady was all right,, but the second, with presence of mind that must have come to her when she fell, remained still until she could see her surroundings. She was badly frightened and had to be assisted by her friend.

This should be a lesson to those who try to save a second or two in their hurry and thereby imperil their lives by their dangerous proximity to the tram.

B.Y.P.U. HOLD MEETING ON THE SIDEWALK

Church is That Far Across the Street—Address by Rev. J. R. Webb

The B.Y.P.U. met last night at the Park street Baptist church under unique circumstances. The church was on the sidewalk, and Rev. J. R. Webb gave an interesting address on "Omniscience," under the glare of lamps and the church in transit. It is expected that for the Wednesday night service it will be firmly located on the west side of the street.

PETERBOROUGH MEN IN OKLAHOMA

The new district which is being opened in Oklahoma will have among its principal officials two men who have relatives in Peterborough, and who are well known here. Mr. Geo. H. Laing, a brother-in-law of Mrs. R. S. Davidson, Dalhousie street, has been appointed Clerk of the District Court, Kingfisher County, Oklahoma, and Mr. Eugene Watrous, another brother-in-law of Mrs. Davidson has been elected a member of the first Legislature of the State of Oklahoma.

DUCKS ARE REPORTED PLENTIFUL IN THE REGION OF PIGEON RIVER

Ducks are reported by a gentleman who recently took a fishing trip to the Pigeon River, to be very plentiful in that vicinity, and he states that had he been armed with a gun he could have brought home a wagon load of the duck . It was fish, however, that was engaging his immediate attention on this trip, but he was so much impressed with the prospects for hunting there that he is planning tot ake a trip again in the near future when he will provide himself with the proper firearms to enable him to produce evidence of the truth of his statements as to the number of ducks to be secured in that section, one which has, apparently escaped the notice of the sportsmen up to the present time, this season.

FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH LAUNDRY AND DYE WORKS CAUSING A LARGE LOSS

Supposed to Have Caught From Live Wire—Hundreds of Dollars Worth of Clothing Destroyed

MACHINERY IS DAMAGED

Forty Persons Out of Work—No Insurance on Dye Works Contents, But $300 on Laundry

Fire played havoc last night with the interior of the dyeing, cleaning, and laundry departments of Parker's Laundry and Dye Works, on Charlotte street, leaving it a mass of charred ruins, and causing damages to the extent of some thousands of dollars. It broke out, so far as can be learned, on the second floor of the part where the laundry work is done, but before the firefighters had it under control, it had spread throughout the entire rear of the building, leaving scarcely anything but the blackened walls and broken down partitions.

The first indication that a fire was in progress was noticed by a gentleman at the rear of the White House, next door. He observed the flames about ten minutes past eight, in their infancy, and sounded an alarm, but before the firemen arrived on the scene and had the water turned on, the blaze had made rapid headway. The result was that the whole rear end of the building was entirely gutted by the fire, and this morning very little was left but the charred remains of hundreds of dollars worth of clothing, including, shirts, collars and goods, to be cleaned and dyed.

Machines Destroyed

The various machines throughout the building are apparently utterly ruined. The large ironing machines in the ironing department are marked by fire and water and the rollers appear completely destroyed. The vats and various machines in the dyeing department were badly burned and unfit for further use.

On the lower floor of the building, the damage was just as great as above. The flames worked their way rapidly down the stairway into the washing department of the laundry and caught the big water vat that feeds the boiler. This was left in a charred state, and will have to be entirely replaced. The firemen were afraid at one time of the boiler bursting, but the flames did not live long enough around it before all inflammable material was consumed.

Loss Unknown

No estimate has yet been made of the loss, as the insurance inspectors have not arrived to look over the scene. But with the loss to the building and machinery, and to the clothing, it will be a heavy one. Mr. Parker, the owner of the building, was in Hamilton this morning, so that nothing could be obtained as to the amount of insurance on it, but it is understood that the amount will be considerable.

Mr. Percy Hetherington the proprietor of the laundry, has the contents of that department insured for $300 in the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company. All, however, were destroyed with the exception of a number of shirts and collars that happened to be in the presses.

In the Dye Works department operated by Mr. R. M. Beach ,who resides over the office, the loss at this time of the year is very great. It was Mr. Beach's busy season, and the quantity of clothing, both women's and men's, was possibly more than would be in the building at any other time of the year. The contents of this department were not insured so that the whole is a total loss to Mr. Beach. He had $200 on the contents of the house, but the damages there were not great.

Mr. A. Parker is expected home to-day when the inspectors will probably look over the situation to form an idea of the loss.

The Supposed Cause

The origin of the disastrous blaze is supposed by some who have looked over the situation, to be from a live wire. Mr. Beach passed through the works at a few minutes to eight o'clock when all was well. He turned on the lights which were observed to go out as the fire started a short time later.

The flames could be seen at a long distance away but luckily the air was calm and they were not fanned by any breeze. Before ten o'clock their progress was stopped by three streams of water but the work of destruction was then over.

This morning about 5 o'clock fire again broke out among some feathers in the attic above the ironing room and had attained considerable headway before noticed. The alarm was sounded and inside of a minute the firemen were on the scene and promptly extinguished it.

Mr. Beach's house was in danger on several occasions but by diligent work the flames were diverted from it . Water and smoke soiled a quantity of the furniture, however.

Mr. Hetherington has already begun the work of repairs, and within the course of a few days will again be doing business as before.

MR. J. FRASER'S DOGS POISONED

Strychnine is Being Laid For Innocent Dogs

The despicable dog poisoner has apparently returned from his summer vacations to pursue his fatal work among the dogs in the city. On Saturday afternoon Mr. Jack Fraser lost two pet terriers, their deaths proving that they had been given strychnine. Surely the dog owners are not to be terrorized again after the depredations of last spring! Mr. Fraser prized his two pets very highly and like others who have lost their dogs by poison he is much incensed. The great difficulty is that the guilty party cannot be caught in the act. If he should ever be apprehended he will stand a poor show for his existence, in this city, and it has been often said that all those who have suffered at his hands will unite to punish him, as he deserves.

THE WEATHER.

MEAT UP!

The Butchers Believe That The Price Must Soar

Feed High in Price and Farmers Will Not Fatten Cattle This Year —A Consumer's Opinion

"With fat beef selling at from two and a half to three cents a pound live weight—the farmers being willing to sell them at that price rather than feed them through the winetr at the present high price of feed—how is it that we still have to pay our butcher the same price for our roast beef and lamb?" This question was propounded this morning to the Examiner by a gentleman who was of the opinion that the prices of meat were too nigh.

He had evidently studied the matter a little, and was able to give some technical details of the meat business. From 48 to 60 per cent. of the live weight of a beef animal, he said, was meat which could be sold, and in view of this fact, it looked to him as if with cattle selling at the prices mentioned, live weight, there should be nearly due a reduction in the price of meat to the consumer.

The butchers, however, tell a different story, and their expectations are that instead of a drop in the price of meat it will go higher. They point to the fact that there is a scarcity of feed, almost an alarming scarcity, in fact, and the result of this is that many farmers who in former years have fed cattle for fattening, this winter will be unable to spare the feed necessary to carry out this course, and it is anticipated that it will be difficult to get good beef during the coming winter.

"Of course," said one meat dealer, "there's no use looking too much for trouble, but from the present indications, it seems to me that meat will be scarce and, as a consequence, dear".

Other meat men spoken to express practically the same opinion.

They point out that while it is true that cattle are selling at a low figure at present, it is the stockers that are being sold cheap, the cattle that the farmers have not enough feed to winter, and that they want to get rid of before the winter comes on.

The man who pays the butcher bills and the butcher look at the matter, of course, from different standpoints, but in the end it's the butcher who holds the whip hand, because the consumer has to pay the price or go without the meat.

On Monday evening, Sept. 30th, tea will be served in the hall from 5 to 8 after which a brief programme will be rendered consisting of music and speeches. Rev. Mr. Harrison, of Keene, Rev. C. H. Marsh, of Lindsay and Rev. Wm. Burns, of Hastings, are expected to give addresses.

BIG ATTRACTIONS ON THEATRE LINES

Mr. Charles Haystead, representative of the Small Circuit, made an announcement at the Grand Opera House last night, that was listened to with great pleasure by the large audience present, and which will be received with equal delight by all the theatre-goers of the city. It was in connection with the attractions that will appear at the Grand this season, and among them, as announced last night, will be the following: The eminent comedian, De Wolfe Hopper, the man who made "Casey at the Bat," famous, in the principal musical success of last season, "Happy-land," with music by Reginald de Koven, at his best, and story by the late Frederick Rankin; Marie Cahill, of "Nancy Brown" fame, in the celebrated musical satire on the divorce question, "Marrying Mary;" Charles Grapewin, the well-known comedian, in that intensely funny play,"The Awakening of Mr. Pipp;" David Belasco's stirring, romantic play "The Girl from the Golden West," in which Blanche Bates added to her laurels, "The Shepherd King," and others of equal merit, in the eyes of the theatrical world. With so many treats in store, patrons of the Grand may look forward to a delightful season.

Immigrant Train

Last night a special immigrant train of six coaches passed through the city on the C.P.R., with a number of immigrants destined for the west. The majority of them were English people.

AMERICAN CAPITALISTS COMING TO THIS CITY TO LOOK FOR FACTORY SITE

Local Gentlemen Interests Prosperous American Concern In Peterborough—Would Employ 200 to 400 Hands

IS ALREADY INCORPORATED

A New Industry for Canada—Already in Successful Operation in The United States

Another prospective industry —one with the promoters of which the council as yet has had no negotiations —is looking for a location for a Canadian factory, and it is expected that two representatives of the Company will be in Peterborough this week to look over the situation here, with a view of locating an industry here which would employ at the commencement 200 hands, and if the plans of the company, which is a growing concern and last year had a business of half a million dollars, materialize this number will be rapidly increased.

Company Incorporated

A gentleman, who is at the present time associated with one of the most prosperous of the city's industrial establishments informed the Examiner to-day that he had been in communication with the Company referred to, and which has recently been granted a Dominion Charter with an authorized capital of $250,000, of which $100,000 has already been paid up, and that from the information which he has been able to give them they were favourably impressed with Peterborough as a probable location for the industry.

The company has already a large factory in operation in the United States and is selling goods in the Canadian market, even though there is a duty of 27 1-2 per cent. on the goods brought into this country. At present all the goods sold in Canada are manufactured in the United States, no establishment of this kind having yet been established in Canada . In view of this fact he considers it advisable to make an effort to secure the factory.

Peterborough Must Fight

Other cities, however, he informed the Examiner, had been on the look-out, and were already after the two men who will be here this week, according to the present expectations, and if Peterborough secures the works it will be in competition with other cities which are just as anxious for it as Peterborough is, and, in some cases, with the advantage of having gotten in ahead of this city in the proposals made.

The gentleman who referred to the matter stated that it was probable that the company would be looking for some considerations from the municipality. For his part he thought that, other things being equal, if the Jl were offered a free site and fixed assessment at a reasonable sum, there should be no trouble about securing the industry for Peterborough. If established here it is estimated that its output the first year of operations will be about a quarter million.

Would Need Power

Considerable power would be required, and this, he understood could be secured at $15 per horse power per year, a price which he considered reasonable.

As to the probable location, he believed that some considerable tract of land would be required because of the provision which would be made for the expected growth of the business, and for this reason he did not anticipate that a location outside the city limits would be objected to, though it would have to be in a place where railway facilities could be provided, since a great amount of shipping would be done.

To the Council

The matter will in all probability be brought to the attention of the Mayor and Aldermen in the near future and they will be prepared for the proposition which will be submitted to them when the representatives of the company arrive in the city.

As to the nature of the industry the Examiner's informant would not state, beyond the fact that there was now none like it in Canada, and that it was for the manufacture of goods which are used extensively in this country and for which there is a constantly growing market.

AND THIS, WHEN COAL PRICES ARE SOARING

The "longrange weather forecaster now operating in St. Louis, Missouri," ventures the warning that the Venus period, extending from near the middle of December to near the close of January next, will bring some of the hardest winter storms, and some of the lowest dips of the mercury many of us have experienced for several years. There are many ways in which many interests may be safeguarded against such probabilities, if time and circumstance and opportunity are all "taken by the forelock." Now cast about your own situation, and see what you would do if you knew some of the coldest nights of a decade were going to hit you at the time named.—Words and Work.

VOCAL SOCIETY FOR CITY AN EARLY POSSIBILITY

Rumour Supports the Statement—A Toronto Conductor in View

There is a well-defined rumour that there is a movement on foot for the formation of a Vocal Society in Peterborough, of which some prominent Toronto musician will be conductor. A vocal society should be an easy possibility in Peterborough, where there is such an abundance of good musical material, either crude or cultured, natural or developed. All that is required for a successful vocal society is that it should be brought into harmonious co-operation. This has been found to be difficult in the past. Many, or most, of our best vocal musicians are members of the choirs of the city churches, and are, naturally, loyal to their several choir leaders, and to select a conductor from among these would be to court defeat. There would almost sure to be sectional jealousies, which would be fatal to anything like musical co-operation, such as would be demanded as the condition of success of a vocal society. To remove the possibility of these jealousies supervening, it is proposed by the gentlemen spoken of, to procure a Toronto musician of capability, and the city is, it is stated, being canvassed to secure the services of an expert conductor. We shall probably soon hear something more definite of the proposed laudable enterprise.

REPORTED PURCHASE FOR CAR FACTORY

C. P. R. Is Said to be Negotiating With The Houdrey Brothers

There is a persistent rumour about the city that the Canadian Pacific Railway is negotiating for the purchase of the old bridge works, now occupied by the Houdrey Bros, east of George street and north of Dalhousie street. It is stated that the company is seeking to purchase it for the purpose of changing it into a car manufacturing establishment for truning out cars for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The report also states that if the negotiations are completed another spur line from the station will be constructed to these buildings.

UNDERWRITERS HELD A MEETING

Committees Appointed and Other Business Transacted

A regular meeting of the Central Ontario Life Underwriters' Association was held last night in the Mutual Life offices, with a large attendance of the principal agents of Peterborough present. Considerable business was transacted, including the consideration and passing upon of the constitution, the selection of social, membership, and other committees, and a general discussion of life insurance affairs. A more extended report of the meeting will be given in to-morrow's issue of the Examiner.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

THE PENALTY OF PUBLICITY

A proposal is made in Toronto that a separate police court be provided for female offenders. Deputy Chief Stark takes the ground that publicity operates as a deterrent of petty offences. In this he is largely justified. There is reason to believe that fear of publicity, after the event, is a much more serious matter to many minor offenders than the fine usually imposed. In many cases the fine is paid, without much grumbling, but a determined effort is made to have the names of offenders kept out of the police court reports in the newspapers. This indicates that the publicity is more feared than the fine and operates more strongly as a deterrent. Persons who get into petty police court troubles, see that the only way to escape undesirable notoriety, and being blacklisted as vulgar offenders, is to so behave as not to come before a police court. The respectability and good character of thousands depend upon their not being found out. The desire on the part of even a low class of offenders, to escape publicity, is a good sign, showing that there are some shreddy elements of self-respect remaining, for it is true that loss of shame co-exists only with loss of virtue.

This is not only true in police court circles, but in every station of society. A man may lead a double life—guilty in private, and in the circle of home of ineffable little meannesses, and petty tyranny, and, subject to the detection of his hypocrisy, be regarded as a saint in public, be an estimable pillar of the church, and, generally, pass, and be accepted, as a moral Admirable Crichton. But he can only play his double role on the condition that his real life does not become known. Dread of publicity operates to make such a man good, at least in appearance, something better in effect, than outbroken wickedness, though it argues hypocricy and deception. If we all wore our hearts on our sleeves, if some Asmodeus could transfer to the world his gift of lifting the roofs of our lives, and looking down into the households of our bosoms, a great many of us would stand revealed, as much less worthy of respect than we think we are, and long to make others believe. The fear of publicity is held over many of us as a whip; but, unless the heart is right, it only brings the fruit of outward seemliness of good, which becomes an apple of Sodom, with a fair outside, but containing within only the ashes of good principles burned to dust in the fires of indulged passions, the blaze concealed from the world by a flimsy screen of hypocrisy. There is only one way in which we can destroy the fear of publicity — do right, and live honest, honourable and unselfish lives in our homes, and elsewhere, as well; so live that we shall be at peace with our conscience. Thus we shall be worthy of our self-respect, worthy, in a double sense, of the respect of the world, and assured of the approval of the great Judge of human acts and motives. Be just, and fear not, is the secret of the defiance of criticism that can harm.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's letter to the Trades Congress, in reply to its demand for abrogation of the treaty with Japan, is, says the Toronto News, a prudent, sober, and statesmanlike document.

Hon. A. G. McKay, the new Liberal leader, is in luck. He has received the highest honour, next to becoming Premier, that can be bestowed upon a member of a political party. But he does not have to run the gauntlet of an appeal to his constituents and the possible annoyance and worry of a bye-election.

The Montreal Gazette is indignant at Mr. Aylesworth for suggesting that Mr. Borden may be a bold, bad man himself. Well, remarks the Montreal Herald, Mr. Borden isn't particular what he says about other people, Mr. Fielding for instance, and he needn't think he is privileged.

Mr. Borden is a political child—he must have his medicine sugar-coated before he will take it gracefully. His admirers are just at present very angry (with Mr. Pugsley and Mr. Aylesworth for hunting pretty broadly that, in the matter of electoral purity, Mr. Borden isn't such a lot better than other men, and that his party, which professes to sustain his demand for electoral purity, has a deal to do about clearing itself before looking after other people. Mr. Borden could charge Hon. Mr. Fielding with personal corruption, but when any one hints that Mr. Borden has knowledge of corruption funds sent by $5,000 lots "in the same way," there is loud protest.

"The labourious efforts of the leader of the Opposition to construct a platform for his party once more reveals," says Goldwin Smith in the Farmer's Sun, "the fundamental absurdity of the party system. Why go about to construct an artificial antagonism of principles when no natural antagonism presents itself? What would you put in the place of party?—the defenders of the system ask. Let each constituency elect the representative whom it trusts most, and let every member of Parliament vote upon each question as he thinks right. Let Parliament elect the executive, as practically it does now, only not upon party lines. That surely is the natural course. To what this artificial system of parties struggling for place and pelf has led, and is more and more leading, one has only to take up an organ of either party to know."

The sage of the Grange talks beautifully. The theory of perpetual motion maniacs is also beautiful, but it won't work.

Sometimes we have delightful instances of the relaxation of the hostility of party political relations. We have an example in the home reception of Hon. A. G. McKay, the newly chosen leader of the Liberal party in the Legislature and in the Province. He was met at Owen Sound by crowds of citizens, with a band of music and of pipers. Addresses of congratulation were delivered. Among these was an address from a former Conservative candidate in Dominion elections, who warmly congratulated Mr. McKay and expressed his pleasure at the honour conferred upon Owen Sound in the honour bestowed upon one of its worthy citizens, and generally showed himself to be a good citizen, who could, for the moment, forget his party bitterness and welcome and greet a fellow citizen, though a political opponent, as a citizen should be greeted and welcomed. Mr. McLaughlin's loyalty to his party, shown by having been twice a candidate in his party's interest, will suffer nothing by his doing a generous and manly action toward a political opponent.

ARMY BAND LENT THEIR BIG DRUM

An Incident Showing the General Good Feeling in the West

A young man, who lately returned to Peterborough from High River, Alta., tells of a little incident which he casually noticed one night, that shows that the best of feeling exists there between the town band and that of the Salvation Army. One night the Army band was playing on a street corner, and was nearly finished, when the town band, which was going to play in the park nearby, found that it was without its big drum. The drummer had left it behind at the hall, and one of the men suggested that they ask the Army bandsmen for their drum. The latter generously gave them the drum for the time being, and the town band began its concert. This is the general feeling that is noticeable in the West, and is what should be found everywhere.

A HARD YEAR FOR SUFFERERS

An Authority Gives Advice to Prevent Catarrh of all Kinds

A SIMPLE HOME RECEIPE

The coming months will be a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers, unless great care is taken to keep the feet, dry, also dress warmly.

This is the advice of a well-known authority and should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription which any one can mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoondoses after each meal and again at bedtime.

These are mostly vegetable ingredients and can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the the blood the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses, and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses, and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable, though simple, recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.—1,

ROD SHOULD NOT BE SPARED

So Believes "Citizen" in Writing to The Examiner on The Subject

ITS APPLICATION IS NEEDED

The reference in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, to the recent objectionable practices of some of the boys of the city, and the belief, based upon the reports received from time to time, of the operations carried on by the youths of Peterborough, and upon observations of the conduct of boys in other places, that those here were more viciously inclined than in some, or in fact the majority of other places, of a corresponding size, have attracted some attention, at least, in the city, and formed the subject of conversation for two gentlemen, who have discussed the matter since. Singularly enough these two men have widely diverging views, on the matter; one claiming that the boys of Peterborough are not vicious, and stating his belief that allegations to this effect are a slander upon the youth of the city, while the other commended the Examiner for having called attention to a condition which he described as "intolerable."

It is only a matter of a few months ago, that, in an interview with the press the police magistrate stated his opinion that the growth of crime among the juveniles of this city was rapid, and that criminal practices among the youth had reached a stage which was, he considered, dangerous. He laid considerable of the blame for the conditions described, to the parents, alleging that there was not sufficient parental control exercised over the children in this age, and that as a consequence the youngsters are getting their education on the streets—the worst possible place for them.

The gentleman who uttered the words of commendation upon the reference to the conduct of the boys, justified his statement that their conduct was such as to warrant the inference that they were, in a great many cases, lacking in the characteristics which combine to make the right class of young men, by referring to the fact, which he said, every business man in the city would verify that it was becoming increasingly difficult to secure a good reliable boy to enter a business establishment. They were either disinclined to work, or they were lacking in the principles of honesty, two qualities which were bound to seriously affect the success of any boy possessing them.

Further proof that the matter referred to yesterday, has created some little interest, is furnished by the following letter, which was received this morning:

Editor of Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I was glad to see that you are taking up a discussion on the misconduct of the boys of Peterborough. I hope that it will not end in mere discussion, though. A more general application of the principle that to "spare the rod" is to "spoil the child," would, it seems to me, effect a solution of the problem, which is becoming a serious one. Why does not our police magistrate try this remedy for some of the youthful offenders he frequently has before him on charges of misconduct? Its application would, I believe, effect wonders. Keep up the good work.

Yours, etc.,
CITIZEN.
